EDUCATIONAL NOTICES.

Gilchrist Scholarships.

AMENDED RULES FOR THE SCHOLARSHIPS INSTITUTED BY THE GILCHRIST EDUCATIONAL TRUST.

These Rules will take effect at and from the Examination to be held in January 1884.

ONE scholarship, of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, to be extended to 5 years if the scholar should prove himself worthy, will be annually awarded to candidates born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical Study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law or Medicine in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1.—Of the parents of each candidate, one at least shall belong to one of the Native Races.

2.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed 22 years.

3.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4.—Every candidate is required by the Regulations of the University to pay a Matriculation Fee of £2.

5.—Candidates approved by the Local Authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three Presidential Capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January. Those who pass the Examination will thereby become Members of the London University; and having once passed, they cannot again present themselves for Matriculation; and consequently such of them as pass on one occasion without gaining a scholarship, cannot compete for one again at any future Matriculation Examination.

6.—The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded through the India Office to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the Local Authorities in the Presidential Capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

7.—The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest; provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division.* Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in the University College, London.

8.—The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with free passage to England, and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment.

* The full marks obtainable at the matriculation examination are 2,800. Of these, 1,800 qualifies for Honours and 1,400 for the First Division.

The following note was inserted in the Rules by direction of the Gilchrist Trustees in 1881, at which time the value of the scholarships was £100 a year only:—

Every scholar in order to take full advantage of the opportunities afforded him by the scholarship ought to have at least £50 per annum in addition from private means, and an allowance of £25 per annum is absolutely indispensable.

9.—The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and will be paid in quarterly instalments, on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

10.—The scholar shall attend in every Session at least three Courses of Lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary to the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

11.—The scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second Academical year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first Examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies, with the view of presenting at the Second Examination, within two (Academical) years.

12.—A grant of £50 will be made by the Trustees for the Return-passage of the scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his Degree in the University of London. If he fails to obtain his Degree, a Return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

13.—The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time; the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarship, or of altogether withdrawing it, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

The Matriculation Standard of the London University, in which canditates will be examined, includes the following subjects:—

(1) Latin.
(2) Any two of the following languages: Greek, French, German, and either Sanskrit or Arabic.
(3) The English Language, English History, and Modern Geography.
(4) Mathematics.
(5) Natural Philosophy.
(6) Chemistry.

The following are the particulars of the foregoing subjects of examination:—

LANGUAGES.

LATIN.

One Latin subject, to be selected by the Senate one year and a half previously, from the works of the undermentioned authors†:—

Virgil.—One book of the Georgies, and one book of the Æneid.

W. D. HORSLEY, Collector.

Dacca Municipality.

LOAN OF Rs. 1,00,000.

THE Commissioners have obtained the sanction of the Government of India, under section 7 of Act XI of 1879, "the Public Works Loan Act," to raise a loan of the above sum in the open market on the security of the rates and taxes levied by them under Act V of 1876 (B.C.) in order to enable them to extend the supply of drinking water in the town of Dacca.

Tenders are hereby invited, and will be received up to Thursday, the 25th January 1883, for the whole or any part of the above named sum.

Debentures (which will not be negotiable) will be issued for sums of Rs. 500 or over, and the loan will be repayable by 25 equal half-yearly instalments commencing from 1st April 1884. The balance from time to time remaining owing upon each debenture will bear interest at six (6) per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly with instalments of principal.

Parties tendering are required to pay into the Branch Bank of Bengal at Dacca to the credit of the Commissioners two per cent. of the amount tendered by way of security.

Tenders to be made in the prescribed form given below at the Municipal Commissioners' office and to be enclosed in sealed covers marked "Dacca Municipality Water-supply Loan."

The amount of the accepted tender or tenders to be paid in four equal instalments on the following dates, viz. 7th February 1883, 7th May 1883, 7th August 1883, and 7th November 1883.

Tenders will be opened in the Northbrook Hall on Saturday, the 27th January 1883, at 9 A.M.

Form of Tender.

I do hereby tender for Rs. of the loan advertised for in the Calcutta Gazette of 3rd and 10th January 1883, and agree to pay for the same subject to the conditions specified at the rate of Rs. for every hundred allowed to me.

2. I enclose a deposit receipt of the Bank of Bengal for Rs. by way of security and do hereby bind myself, if my tender be accepted, to pay to the credit of the Commissioners at that Bank the whole sum tendered for by me in four instalments on the dates specified in the said advertisement.

By order,
S. J SARKIES, Secretary.

LIBERALITY OF SYUD ABDUS SUBHAN CHAUDHURI.

No. 589, dated Calcutta, the 29th December 1882.

From—C. S. BAYLEY, Esq., Officiating Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal,

To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahye and Cooch Behar Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 297Mct, dated the 9th November 1882, with enclosures, regarding the offer made by Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri, of Bogra, to invest the sum of Rs. 6,000 in Government securities, in order to found certain scholarships and rewards in commemoration of the Lieutenant-Governor's visit to Bogra.

2. It is proposed that two scholarships, of the value of Rs. 8 a month each, should be awarded every alternate year to the boy who stands highest at the Entrance examination from the Bogra zilla school, but fails to win a Government scholarship. The scholarships will be tenable for two years at some institution affiliated to the Calcutta University, and will be designated respectively "The Zubedatu-n-nissa Scholarship" and "The Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship." Three prizes of Rs. 20, 16, and 12 respectively, designated "The Thompson Prizes," will be given annually to the three girls who most creditably pass an examination to be held at Bogra under the rules framed by the District Committee of Public Instruction; and two medals, of the value of Rs. 48 each, called "The Thompson Medals," will be presented (one in 1883 and the other in 1884) to the Mahomedan candidate who stands first at the B.A. examination of each of the two years.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in accepting the offer, and desires that an expression of his cordial thanks may be conveyed to Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri for his liberality. The money assigned for the scholarships and prizes should be invested in Government securities, which, under section 1, chapter II of the Civil Account Code, should be endorsed to the Comptroller-General.

4. The correspondence on this subject will be published in the next issue of the Calcutta Gazette.

No. 297Mct., dated Camp Rungpore, the 9th November 1882.

From—LORD H. ULICK BROWNE, Commissioner of the Rajshahye and Cooch Behar Division,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Political Department.

I HAVE the honour to enclose a copy of a letter dated 12th September 1882, from Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri, of Bogra, requesting permission to found scholarships and prizes in commemoration of the Lieutenant-Governor's visit to Bogra, and offering to lodge Rs. 6,000 of Government 4 per cents for the purpose.

2. For the better comprehension of the Syud's scheme, I enclose a statement showing the distribution of the interest on the Rs. 6,000 of Government securities in scholarships and prizes during the first five years, which has been obtained from the Syud by the Magistrate at my request, as also a sketch in further illustration of the scheme.

3. I recommend that the Syud's offer be accepted, and the correspondence published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Dated Bogra, the 12th September 1882.

From—SYUD ABDUS SUBHAN, Zemindar,

To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

I BEG most respectfully to request the favour of your forwarding this letter through the Commissioner of the Division to Government for their favourable consideration and orders.

The town of Bogra was never before visited by any Lieutenant-Governor or Governor. It is therefore a matter of great pleasure to us all that our present Lieutenant-Governor has come to visit Bogra at so much personal inconvenience to himself so soon after his accession to office. With a view to give a suitable expression to the joy I felt on this occasion, I propose to place at the disposal of Government Rs. 6,000 for being invested in 4 per cent. Government security for the purpose of founding scholarships and prizes as detailed below:—

1. Two scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 8 each, tenable for two years, at some institution affiliated to the Calcutta University, to be given every other year to the highest boy among those students of the Bogra zilla school who successfully pass the Calcutta University Entrance Examination, but fail to win a Government scholarship. One of these scholarships to be called after the name of Syudani Zabedatu-n-nissa, the deceased sister of my wife Tahura-n-nissa. "The Zabedatu-n-nissa Scholarship," and the other, "The Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship," in memory of my wife's late grandmother Latifu-n-nissa Bibi.

2. Three prizes of the value of Rs. 20, 16, and 12 respectively, to be called after the name of our present Lieutenant-Governor "The Thompson prizes," to be given annually to the three girls who stand highest at an examination to be held annually at Bogra under the rules framed by the District School Committee for the purpose.

As the Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship is not to be awarded till one year after the institution of the Zabedatu-n-nissa Scholarship, I propose that the saving thus effected be laid out in granting medals to be called "The Thompson medals" to the Mahomedan candidate who stands highest in the B. A. examination of 1883-84.

If in any year there be no eligible candidate for the scholarships proposed above, I propose that the amount of the scholarship be given away at the direction of the Committee in prizes or scholarships to be called "The Thompson prizes or scholarships" to the pupils of primary and vernacular schools in this district, who successfully pass the primary and vernacular scholarships, but fail to win any Government scholarship.

In conclusion, I beg to say that I will place the sum of Rs. 6,000 as soon as this humble offer of mine is accepted by Government.

Statement showing the distribution of the interest of Rs. 240 on Rs. 6,000 year by year during the next five years.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* The falling off in the tollage as compared with the corresponding period of last year is due to the linseed market in Calcutta being very slack, and also in consequence of a failure in the til crop this year.

C. W. Odling,
Asst. Secy. to the Government of Bengal,
P. W. Dept.

Calcutta,
The 29th December 1882.

Report of fluctuation of traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the month of November 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of November 1882 aggregated maunds 3,35,137 as compared with maunds 2,27,318 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 2,64,815 carried during the previous month, showing an increase of maunds 1,07,819 and maunds 70,322 respectively.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 18,765

This increase is due to a continued demand for local requirements.

Gunny-bags ... ... Mds. 1,087

The traffic under this head fluctuates with the trade in bagged staples, but the present low price of gunnies in the Calcutta market has no doubt something to do with the increased weight carried.

Hides ... ... Mds. 1,118

A brisk demand at the port has stimulated collection and despatches from this district.

Iron ... ... Mds. 2,737

Previous month's remarks regarding this traffic apply here.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 11,797

A reference to the statement given below will show that nearly double the weight has been carried under this head during the month under review as compared with the corresponding month of last year. The short despatches of previous month will partly account for the increase now shewn.

Railway materials ... ... Mds. 43,620

The extensions are rapidly nearing completion, and material for the purpose is being rapidly pushed forward.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 52,534

Despatchers are anxious to take advantage of the present favourable market, and are consequently pushing this staple down as quickly as possible.

Tobacco ... ... Mds. 3,414

The crop of tobacco in this district is about the average both in quality and quantity, and a much heavier traffic under this head may be looked for this season.

DECREASE.

Indigo ... ... Mds. 5,404

The despatches under this head appear to be late this year, especially from the Western districts. The decrease will most probably be followed by a corresponding increase later on.

Lime and kunker ... ... Mds. 2,434

A decrease under this head must be anticipated, as the contractors have fulfilled their contract with the Engineering Departments of Durbhanga sub-division.

Salt ... ... Mds. 16,356

This heavy falling off is mainly due to the advance in price in the Calcutta market. This decrease will probably be met by an increase, when the stocks in the district run short.

Statement showing Increases and Decreases in Maundage of principal Staples carried over the Line during the month of November 1882 as compared with the corresponding period of 1881.

G. M. DRURY, Traffic Superintendent.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Patna-Gya State Railway for the month of November 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of November 1882 aggregated maunds 1,09,794 as compared with maunds 1,59,759 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 1,02,407 carried during the previous month, showing a decrease of maunds 49,965 in one case, and an increase of maunds 7,387 in the other.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones, and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Coal ... ... Mds. 6,327

As anticipated in last month's report, the traffic in this staple has improved.

Gunny-bags, empty ... ... Mds. 1,104

Despatches of food-grains and seeds are no doubt taking advantage of the present favourable rates for bags in Calcutta to lay in a stock for future use.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 1,765

A brisk trade for all descriptions of Manchester goods has sprung up in the district in consequence of cold weather requirements.

Stones and stone-ballast ... ... Mds. 13,062

This increase was explained in last month's report.

Decrease.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 9,061

Rice is the principal staple exported from this district, and the abundant crops all over the country, and the enormous stock held in Calcutt, has caused quite a stagnation in this traffic.

Jaggree ... ... Mds. 35,213

From enquiries made on the spot, it was ascertained that this very serious decrease is caused by the season being an unusually late one, and that the manufacture is really not in full swing yet.

Salt ... ... Mds. 14,770

The very large quantity imported over the average last month is probably the cause of this decrease.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 2,461

The market is unfavourable to despatchers, and they are holding off in the hope of getting better prices.

F. B. PEACOCK,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 27th December 1882.—In continuation of the notification dated the 2nd August 1881, published at page 781, part I, of the Calcutta Gazette dated the 10th idem, the Lieutenant-Governor appoints the Surgeon attached to the Campbell Hospital to be certifying Surgeon under the provisions of section 5 of Act XV of 1881 (the Indian Factories Act) for Sealdah, in the district of the 24-Pergunnahs.

F. B. PEACOCK,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 30th December 1882.—The Lieutenant-Governor hereby sanctions the plan specified below for lighting the Bishop's College Road with gas, which has been submitted by the Commissioners for the town of Howrah and notified in the Calcutta Gazette of the 25th October last, and to which no objection has been raised since its publication in the town in the vernacular:—

1. The portion of the town to which it is proposed to extend the lighting is the Bishop's College Road. The total length of the road is 3,060 feet, and the number of lamps proposed to be erected is 15.

2. The total valuation of buildings and lands situated in the road is Rs. 28,533, and a rate of 3 per cent. would yield a net income, after making allowance for vacancies and collection charges, of Rs. 786 per annum, which gives an average of Rs. 52-6 per lamp, for defraying the cost of lighting. An arrangement has been made with the Gas Company by which they have agreed to accept that sum for the present in payment for supplying gas.

3. The cost of purchasing and erecting the lamps is estimated at Rs. 825, and this sum the Commissioners propose to provide for, in their budget for the ensuing year, from the general funds.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 2nd January 1883.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 284, Act V (B.C.) of 1876, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, on the recommendation of the Commissioners of the Goverdanga Municipality, in the district of the 24-Pergunnahs, made at a meeting, to order that the provisions of sections 235 to 255, 273 to 285, and 292 to 294 of the said Act, shall be in force in that municipality.

COLMAN MACAULAY,

The 9th January 1883.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to issue the following revised rule 4 of the rules regarding salt on which duty has not been paid conveyed under bond from Chittagong to Naraingunge:—

Revised Rule 4.

Salt on which duty has not been paid can only be removed from Chittagong under a bond executed by the bonder prior to the departure of the vessel or vessels conveying such salt. The bond shall be in the form appended to these rules, and shall state that the salt will arrive at Naraingunge within twenty-one days from the granting of the port clearance during the north-east monsoon (i.e., from the 16th September to the 30th April), or within fifteen days from the date of the granting of port clearance during the south-west monsoon (i.e., from the 1st May to the 15th September). Port clearance shall not be granted till after the due execution of the bond and after the quantities entered in the tally books have been found to agree with those entered in the manifest (or cargo books) of such vessel or vessels. Single bonds may be accepted for any quantity of salt not exceeding 20,000 maunds, and shall cover all the vessels being loaded with the quantity of salt for which the bond, in each case, is given; and such vessels must, in each case, be named in the bond. The number and date of the bond is to be noted in the pass which accompanies each vessel and in the copies of the pass retained by the Collector of Customs, Chittagong, and forwarded to the Collector of Customs, Naraingunge, respectively.

G. BELLETT,
Registrar.

Gilchrist Scholarships.

AMENDED RULES FOR THE SCHOLARSHIPS INSTITUTED BY THE GILCHRIST EDUCATIONAL TRUST.

These Rules will take effect at and from the Examination to be held in January 1884.

ONE scholarship, of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, to be extended to 5 years if the scholar should prove himself worthy, will be annually awarded to candidates born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical Study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law or Medicine in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1.—Of the parents of each candidate, one at least shall belong to one of the Native Races.

2.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed 22 years.

3.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4.—Every candidate is required by the Regulations of the University to pay a Matriculation Fee of £2.

5.—Candidates approved by the Local Authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three Presidential Capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January. Those who pass the Examination will thereby become Members of the London University; and having once passed, they cannot again present themselves for Matriculation; and consequently such of them as pass on one occasion without gaining a scholarship, cannot compete for one again at any future Matriculation Examination.

6.—The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded through the India Office to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the Local Authorities in the Presidential Capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

7.—The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest; provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division.* Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in the University College, London.

8.—The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with free passage to England, and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment.

* The full marks obtainable at the matriculation examination are 2,800. Of these, 1,800 qualifies for Honours and 1,400 for the First Division.

The following note was inserted in the Rules by direction of the Gilchrist Trustees in 1881, at which time the value of the scholarships was £100 a year only:—

Every scholar in order to take full advantage of the opportunities afforded him by the scholarship ought to have at least £50 per annum in addition from private means, and an allowance of £25 per annum is absolutely indispensable.

9.—The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and will be paid in quarterly instalments, on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

10.—The scholar shall attend in every Session at least three Courses of Lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary to the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

11.—The scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second Academical year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first Examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies, with the view of presenting at the Second Examination, within two (Academical) years.

12.—A grant of £50 will be made by the Trustees for the Return-passage of the scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his Degree in the University of London. If he fails to obtain his Degree, a Return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

13.—The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time; the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarship, or of altogether withdrawing it, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

The Matriculation Standard of the London University, in which canditates will be examined, includes the following subjects:—

(1) Latin.
(2) Any two of the following languages: Greek, French, German, and either Sanskrit or Arabic.
(3) The English Language, English History, and Modern Geography.
(4) Mathematics.
(5) Natural Philosophy.
(6) Chemistry.

The following are the particulars of the foregoing subjects of examination:—

LANGUAGES.

LATIN.

One Latin subject, to be selected by the Senate one year and a half previously, from the works of the undermentioned authors†:—

Virgil.—One book of the Georgies, and one book of the Æneid.
Horace.—Two books of the Odes.
Sallust.—The conspiracy of Catiline, or the war with Jugurtha.
Cæsar.—Two books of the Gallic war.
Livy.—One book.
Cicero—De Senectute or De Amicitiâ, with one of the following Orations: Pro Lege Maniliâ, one of the four Catilinarian Orations, Pro Archia, Pro M. Marcello.
Ovid.—One book of the Metamorphoses, and one book of the Epistles or Heroides.

The paper in Latin shall contain passages to be translated into English, with questions in History and Geography arising out of the subjects of the book selected. Short and easy passages shall also be set for translation from other books not so selected A separate paper shall be set containing questions in Latin Grammar, with simple and easy sentences of English to be translated into Latin.

GREEK.‡

One Greek subject, to be selected by the Senate one year and a half previously, from the works of the undermentioned authors:—

Homer.—One book.
Xenophon.—One book.

The paper in Greek shall contain passages to be translated into English, with questions in Grammar, and with questions in History and Geography arising out of the subjects of the book selected. Short and easy passages shall also be set for translation from other books not so selected.

* Thus a candidate whose scholarship commences on the 1st of July 1868 would be considered as having fulfilled the condition if he pass the First LL. B. Examination in January 1870 or the First B. A., the First B. Sc., or the Preliminary Scientific M. B Examination in the following July.

† The Latin Subject for January 1883 is:—Cæsar, Gallic War, Books I and II.
Ditto ditto 1884:—Sallust, Catiline.

‡ The Greek Subject for January 1883 is:—Xenophon, Anabasis, Book IV.
Ditto ditto 1884:—Homer, Odyssey, Book VII.

FRENCH.

The paper in French shall contain passages for translation into English, and questions in Grammar, limited to the Accidence.

GERMAN.

The paper in German shall contain passages for translation into English, and question, in Grammar, limited (except when German is taken as an alternative for Greek) to the Accidence.

SANSKRIT; ARABIC.

The paper in Sanskrit and the paper in Arabic shall contain passages for translation into English, and questions in Grammar.

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, ENGLISH HISTORY, AND MODERN GEOGRAPHY.

Orthography; Writing from Dictation the Grammatical Structure of the Language, History of England to the end of the Seventeenth Century, with questions in Modern Geography.

MATHEMATICS.

ARITHMETIC.

The ordinary Rules of Arithmetic.
Vulgar and Decimal Fractions.
Extraction of the Square Root.

ALGEBRA.

Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication and Division of Algebraical Quantities.
Proportion.
Arithmetical and Geometrical Progression.
Simple Equations.

GEOMETRY.

The First Four Books of Euclid, or the subjects thereof.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.*

MECHANICS.

Composition and Resolution of Statical Forces.
Simple Machines (Mechanical Powers). Ratio of the Power to the Weight in each.
Centre of Gravity.
General Laws of Motion, with the chief experiments by which they may be illustrated.
Law of the Motion of falling Bodies.

HYDROSTATICS, HYDRAULICS, AND PNEUMATICS.

Pressure of Liquids and Gases, its equal diffusion and variation with the depth.
Specific Gravity and modes of determining it.
The Barometer, the Syphon, the Common Pump and Forcing-Pump, and the Air Pump.

OPTICS.

Laws of Reflextion and Refraction.
Formation of images by Mirrors and Simple Lenses.

HEAT.

Its sources. Expansion. Thermometers—relations between different Scales in common use. Difference between Temperature and Quantity of Heat. Specific and Latent Heat. Calorimeters. Liquifaction. Ebullition. Evaporation. Conduction. Convection. Radiation.

CHEMISTRY.

Chemistry of the Non-Metallic elements, including their compounds as enumerated below, their chief physical and chemical characters, their preparation, and their characteristic tests :—

Oxygen, Hydrogen, Carbon, Nitrogen, Chlorine, Bromine, Iodine, Fluorines Sulphur, Phosphorus, Silicon.

Combining Proportions by weight and by volume. General nature of Acids, Bases and Salts. Symbols and Nomenclature.

The Atmosphere—its constitution; effects of Animal and Vegetable life upon its composition.

Combustion. Structure and properties of Flame. Nature and composition of ordinary Fuel.

Water. Chemical peculiarities of Natural Waters, such as rain-water, river-water, spring-water, sea-water.

Carbonic Acid. Carbonic Oxide. Oxides and Acids of Nitrogen. Ammonia. Olefient Gas. Marsh Gas. Sulphurous and Sulphuric Acids. Sulphuretted Hydrogen.

Hydrochloric Acid. Phosphoric Acid and Phosphuretted Hydrogen. Silica.

* The questions in Natural Philosophy will be of a strictly elementary character.

Financial Resolution No. 3299, dated 4th October 1872, and Notification of the same date.
Financial Notification No. 1909, dated 29th March 1877.
Financial Resolution No. 3356, dated 1st November 1880.
Financial Notification No. 2849, dated 25th November 1882.

IN exercise of the powers conferred by section 16 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, and in supersession of the orders noted on the margin, the Governor General in Council is pleased to authorise the undermentioned officers to cut or break coin under that section :—

1. Every officer in charge of a District Treasury.
2. Every Assistant Collector, Deputy Collector, Assistant Commissioner, or Extra Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-Treasury.

3. Every Commissioner, Deputy or Assistant Commissioner of the Department of Paper Currency.
4. The Mint Masters, Calcutta and Bombay.
5. The Secretary and Treasurer of each of the Presidency Banks, and every Agent in charge of a branch of any of the said Banks.
6. The Secretary, Manager, or other principal officer of the several offices and agencies in India of each of the following Banks:—

   Agra Bank, Limited; Chartered Mercantile Bank; Chartered Bank of India; Comptoir D'Escompte de Paris; Delhi and London Bank, Limited; National Bank of India, Limited; Oriental Bank Corporation; Alliance Bank of Simla, Limited; Simla Bank Corporation, Limited.
7. The Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or the Secretary of the Calcutta Port Improvement Commissioners, Bombay Port Trustees, Rangoon Port Commissioners.
8. The Chairman, Vice-Chairman, President, Vice-President, or Secretary of the Presidency Municipalities.
9. And any officer of any other Municipality authorised by the Local Government or Administration.

And in exercise of the powers conferred by section 28 of the same Act, the Governor General in Council is pleased to prescribe the following rules:—

1. When any silver coin purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any of the officers authorised by this Notification to act under section 16* of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, who has reason to believe it to be counterfeit, or to have been reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wearing, he shall cut or break such coin, and, under section 16 of the said Act, return the pieces to the person tendering the coin. In cutting or breaking coins, officers should avoid completely dividing them, as it is often convenient to identify the parts of a particular coin. Such identification becomes impossible if the pieces are wholly separated. Care should, however, be taken that the destruction is complete.

Extract from Act No. XXIII of 1870—India.

*16. When any silver coin purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any officer authorised by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government to act under this section, who has reason to believe it to have lost, by reasonable wearing, more than two per cent. in weight, or to be counterfeit, or to have been reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wearing, or to be called in by any proclamation,
he may, by himself or another,
(subject to the rules which the Governor General in Council prescribes in this behalf), cut or break such coin.

Cutting certain silver coin.

2. When any rupee or half-rupee purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any such officer, who has reason to believe it to have lost by reasonable wearing more than two per cent. in weight, he shall cut or break such coin, and, at the option of the person tendering the coin, return to him the pieces, or retain them and give credit for them at the rate of one rupee for one hundred and eighty grains troy weight.

3. A quarter-rupee or an eighth of a rupee tendered to such an officer must, under section 13† of the Act, be accepted as legal tender for a fraction of a rupee, even though it have lost, by reasonable wearing, more than two per cent. in weight.

Extract from Act No. XXIII of 1870—India.

† 13. The said rupee and half-rupee shall be a legal tender in payment or on account:
Provided that the coin has not lost more than two per cent. in weight:
Provided also that it has not been clipped or filed, or defaced or diminished, otherwise than by use.
The quarter-rupee and eighth of a rupee shall be legal tender only for the fractions of a rupee, subject to the second proviso contained in this section.

Rupees and half-rupees a legal tender.

Four-anna and two-anna pieces.

4. If, by reason of the obliteration of the device upon it, or for any other cause, any quarter-rupee or eighth of a rupee coined and issued after the 1st September 1835 that shall come into the possession of such an officer, shall appear to him to be unfit for further circulation, it shall not be cut or broken, but shall, whatever be its weight, be withdrawn from circulation and dealt with in the manner prescribed in Rules 5 and 6. But quarter-rupees and eighths of a rupee shall not be withdrawn from circulation, if they appear to be otherwise fit to circulate, only because they have lost by reasonable wearing more than two per cent. in weight. Such coins, if coined and issued before 1st September 1835, must, however, be dealt with under section 16 of the Act.

5. In the case of coin tendered to officers of Government, the pieces of coin cut or broken and received under Rule 2, and the coin withdrawn from circulation under Rule 4, shall be sent, by the first convenient opportunity, to the Master of the Mint at Bombay or Calcutta or any principal treasury appointed by the local Accountant General to receive them for remittance to the Mint. Meanwhile, the actual amount at which the cut or broken pieces have been received and the nominal value of the coin withdrawn shall be entered in the statement of the cash balance of the officer who has received them as "uncurrent coin." Upon their receipt at the Mint, the Master of the Mint shall give credit for them at the rate mentioned in Rule 2, in the case of coin cut or broken, and at the nominal value in the case of coin withdrawn under Rule 4, and any loss incurred in their re-coinage shall be a charge of the Mint.

6. If the coin be cut or broken and received under these rules by any of the officers enumerated under headings 5 to 9 above, the pieces should be sent to the nearest Government Treasury (and in Presidency Towns to the Reserve Treasury) where the actual sum paid for them and the nominal value of the coin withdrawn shall be paid, and thereafter the pieces will be dealt with in the manner prescribed in Rule 5.

These rules apply to all silver coin of the same weight and value as British Indian Currency, coined by the Government of India on behalf of the Government of Portuguese India, or coined under the Native Coinage Act, IX of 1876, on behalf of Native States. They do not affect the orders contained in the Resolution of the Government of India in the Financial Department, No. 2432, dated 17th August 1881, under which, for the present, all genuine coin which has not been diminished by fraudulent means or has been diminished only by what are ordinarily known as shroff marks, shall be received at its nominal value; accordingly, in so far as regards such coin, the second rule of those now prescribed is suspended, except that coin which has been reduced more than two per cent. in weight by reasonable wearing shall be cut or broken as heretofore, although it be received at full value.

For testing rupees and half rupees under these rules, minimum weights, 176·4 and 88·2 grains troy respectively, shall be obtainable on application through the Comptroller General or the Accountant General, Bombay, as the case may be, to the Mint Masters at Calcutta and Bombay. These weights being already two per cent. below the standard weight for rupees and half rupees respectively show the exact weight below which the coin has to be destroyed. The weights will be supplied in all cases at Government expense, but as the scales ordinarily used by native jewellers are sufficient for these tests, scales will not be supplied by the Mint Masters.

ORDERED, that this Notification be published in the Gazette of India for general information, and that it be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations and the Comptroller General for information.

OBSERVATIONS.—In consequence of an application having been received from the Bombay Steam Soap and Candle Works Company, praying for the remission of the duty on the salt used by it in the manufacture of soap, the question of issuing salt, free of duty, for the manufacture of soap and alkali has recently engaged the attention of the Government of India. In the circular letter of the 23rd February 1882, read in the preamble, the Government of India expressed its opinion that the remission of duty on salt used for industrial and agricultural purposes was desirable in itself if it could be allowed without danger to the revenue, and observed that various methods of denaturalising salt had from time to time been suggested, but that hitherto no satisfactory process which exactly met the requirements of the case had been discovered. It was accordingly proposed in view to the issue of duty-free salt to soap manufactories, that a preventive establishment should be placed at the works to see that the free salt is actually mixed with the prepared lye, the cost of the establishment being borne by the manufacturers. It was at the same time suggested that it should be first ascertained, by actual experiment, whether the salt after being mixed with the lye could be separated from it and again rendered fit for human consumption, as, in that case, it would not be a sufficient safeguard to provide an establishment merely to see that the salt was actually mixed with the lye.

2. From the reports received from the Local Governments consulted it appears that salt is used at two stages in the manufacture of soap; first, for supplying the soda which contributes to the formation of the soapy matter, and, secondly, for separating the soap from the lye. In the former case, decomposition takes place, and it would therefore seem to be feasible to arrange for the issue of duty-free salt by simply ensuring the mixture of the salt with the lye in the course of manufacture. In the case of salt used in the process of separation, the Chemical Examiners consulted are unanimously of opinion that it would always be possible to recover the salt from the 'spent lye' remaining after the separation of the soap, but it also appears that the process of extraction would be neither easy nor cheap. As a precaution against such extraction, the Collector of Salt Revenue, Bombay, recommends that all spent lye, or salt charged liquor, leaving the soap-works should be run to waste, and the Chemical Examiner, Madras, suggests that manufacturers may be required to discharge the spent lye into the sea or a large river or other suitable channel.

3. In Bombay, the Collector of Salt Revenue does not recommend the grant of free salt to the Bombay Steam Soap and Candle Works Company for the manufacture of soap, except on condition that the Company should agree to allow the spent lye to run to waste, that its premises should be open at all times to the Preventive Officers of the Salt Department, that notice of each boiling should be duly given to those officers, that the Company should use fully taxed salt in the first instance, and that after ascertaining the actual quantity of salt required in the preparation of a given quantity of soap, a refund of the duty should be made to the Company, proportionate to the amount of soap sold as shown by its books and vouchers. The Government of Bombay, however, considers it inexpedient to grant the concession, as in its opinion it would be difficult to prevent loss of revenue from the subsequent illicit use of the salt, unless a preventive establishment is maintained at a strength and cost which would counterbalance any pecuniary gain to be derived by the Company from the use of free salt.

4. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the only factory using salt in the manufacture of soap is the North-West Soap Company at Meerut. In order to avail itself of the privilege of using duty-free salt for soap-making, this Company is willing to give a pecuniary guarantee, to conform to all reasonable requirements of the Salt Department as to the safe custody and issue of the salt, and to allow inspection of its books, &c., but hopes that no expensive preventive establishment will be insisted upon. The Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue, on the other hand, considers that a preventive establishment cannot be safely dispensed with. He does not apprehend any danger to the revenue from the separation of salt from the spent lye, but considers that the real risk of loss lies in the fact that a portion of the free salt may never be added to the lye at all, and to guard against this contingency, the location at the works of a preventive establishment is necessary in order to supervise the use of the salt and the disposal of the refuse. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh thinks that a preventive establishment should not be insisted upon, as the grant of free salt would probably be neutralised by the cost of such establishment and the inconvenience which it would cause to the manufacturers. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor accordingly suggests that the Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue should draw up rules for the safe custody and issue of the salt and for keeping up registers by the manufacturers which should be open at all times for inspection, showing how the salt is disposed of. He also suggests that the Company might further be required to execute a bond in a reasonable amount pledging itself to abide by these rules and to guarantee that all duty-free salt supplied to it should be used bonâ fide in the manufacture of soap and for no other purpose, and power might be reserved in the bond to impose a preventive establishment if there be reason to suppose that the concession is being abused.

5. The Chemical Examiner to the Bengal Government is of opinion that the salt mixed with the lye in the manufacture of soap can afterwards be separated from the lye by repeated re-crystallizations, but that the process would be an expensive one, and could only be profitably carried out on a large scale. The Government of Bengal therefore believes that there would be no danger to the revenue from this source, and that the abuse of the privilege of using duty-free salt might be sufficiently guarded against by the deputation of an officer to the soap-works, whenever required, in order to supervise the mixing of the salt with the lye. It adds that under such an arrangement it would not be necessary to require the manufacturers to pay the cost of a fixed preventive establishment. The Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, suggests an alternative proposal, viz., that if it can be ascertained approximately what minimum quantity of salt must be used for the manufacture of a certain quantity of soap, an officer might be sent from time to time to examine the outturn of soap manufactured and to note the quantity of salt expended for the purpose, and then a refund of the duty on the recorded quantity of salt might be granted. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor considers that this procedure might be introduced with advantage if the conditions of soap manufacture admit of a calculation of this nature.

6. The Commissioner of Salt Revenue, Madras, is of opinion that if duty-free salt for the manufacture of soap be issued only to firms of respectability and under adequate guarantees, there should not be any such danger to the revenue as to render it advisable to withhold a concession which might encourage a useful industry. The Board of Revenue, Madras, considers that the difficulties attending the supply of free salt for the purpose of soap-making are not of such a nature as to be insurmountable, and it proposes that, as a tentative measure, the concession may at first be limited to well-known firms, a preventive establishment being maintained to check illicit practices. The Madras Government approves of this proposal subject to the precaution suggested by the Chemical Examiner, viz, that the manufacturers should be required to discharge the refuse salted lye into the sea, or a river, or other suitable channel, and observes that as the manufacturers must bear the cost of the necessary preventive establishment, the arrangement would be practicable only where the works are conducted on a scale sufficiently large to earn a profit after defraying all incidental charges. It also forwards a letter from Messrs. Arbuthnot & Co., of Madras, applying for the supply of duty-free salt for the manufacture of alkali and suggesting two alternative courses in which the concession might safely be granted, viz., (1) that salt at usual selling rates, minus the charge for duty, may be issued to the firm and a trustworthy official retained at the alkali works to see that the salt is not used for any other purpose than that of manufacture, or (2) that the firm may at first buy salt at the ordinary rates inclusive of duty, and afterwards receive a refund or drawback of the duty, on production of a certificate from some Government official retained at the works in order to watch that the specified quantity of salt has been actually employed in the manufacture.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that the question of the issue of salt, free of duty, to be used in the manufacture of soap and alkali is becoming one of some importance, and on a consideration of the views and proposals set forth in the preceding paragraphs, His Excellency in Council is strongly in favour of an attempt being made to issue duty-free salt for these purposes under proper restrictions and with suitable precautions. His Excellency in Council believes that precautions which will sufficiently protect the revenue can be taken at a moderate cost. Each Local Government is accordingly empowered to make such arrangements as it may deem necessary for the purpose indicated. The arrangements should be made subject to the final decision of the Government of India, to whom they should be reported. In all provinces to which the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue extends, the arrangements should be made by the Local Government in communication with the Commissioner. It must be understood that the manufacturer is to bear any extra cost for preventive establishments, &c., which the grant of the concession may necessitate, and that the privilege is liable to be withdrawn if experience shows that it is being abused or that the revenue is suffering.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and to the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority of the Governor-General in Council.

THE Reports appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Parts of each series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set.

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

PART IV.

Bill of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 6th January 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 10th of February 1883:—

A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to Municipalities.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Municipalities within the territories subject to the Government of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal: It is enacted as follows:—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title and commencement.

1. This Act may be called the "Bengal Municipal Act, 1883;" and it shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may direct, not being more than three months after the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of the Governor-General.

Enactments repealed.

2. On the commencement of this Act the enactments specified in the fourth schedule shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

But this repeal shall not revive any office, authority, or thing abolished by any such enactment, or affect the validity of anything done or suffered, or any right, title, obligation, or liability accrued before the commencement of this Act.

And all rules and bye-laws prescribed; assessments, valuations, measurements, divisions, and appointments made; powers conferred, and notifications published under any such enactment; and all other rules (if any) now in force and relating to the matters hereinafter dealt with, shall (so far as they are consistent with this Act) be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, made, conferred, and published hereunder.

And all references to any such enactment shall (so far as may be practicable) be deemed to be made to this Act.

And all proceedings now pending, which may have been commenced under any such enactment, shall be deemed to be commenced under this Act.

In respect of all the matters aforesaid the Commissioners under this Act shall be substituted for the Commissioners elected or appointed under the Bengal Municipal Act, 1876.

Existing Municipalities and unions.

3. Unless and until the Local Government shall otherwise direct by a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, every place which, under the provisions of Bengal Act V of 1876, has been constituted a Municipality, shall, from the time when this Act shall come into force, be deemed to be constituted a Municipality under the provisions of this Act. It shall be competent to the Local Government, by a notification published as aforesaid, to declare that any place which has been constituted an union under the said Bengal Municipal Act, 1876, shall be constituted a Municipality under the provisions of this Act.

All property of late Commissioners vested in Commissioners under this Act.

4. All property, moveable and immoveable, and all interest of any kind whatsoever, derived under any of the enactments specified in the fifth schedule, or otherwise, and vested in or held in trust for the late Commissioners under the said Bengal Municipal Act, 1876, shall become vested in the Commissioners and their successors, and all rights of whatsoever description used, enjoyed or possessed by the late Commissioners under any such enactment shall become vested in the Commissioners for the purposes of this Act.

Act not to be extended to cantonments without consent of Governor-General.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in section three, this Act shall not take effect in any cantonment without the consent of the Governor-General in Council previously obtained, nor shall the Local Government extend this Act, or any part thereof, to any cantonment without such consent.

PART I.

OF THE CREATION OF MUNICIPALITIES.

Tax on holdings and persons in Municipalities.

7. In every place which, in accordance with the provisions of section three, becomes a Municipality under this Part, every person who has been appointed or elected to be a Commissioner for such place under the said Bengal Municipal Act, 1876, and who is holding office as such Commissioner at the commencement of this Act, shall be deemed to be a Commissioner duly appointed for such Municipality until such time as the Commissioners to be elected or appointed in respect of such Municipalities shall, under the provisions of this Act, be so elected or appointed.

And in every such place in which a rate on the annual value of holdings, or a tax upon persons, or a tax upon carriages and animals, or a fee upon the registration of carts, or tolls on roads, or on ferries, or a fee under Bengal Act VI of 1878, may have been levied by the Municipal Commissioners before the commencement of this Act, it shall be deemed that the said rate, tax, fee or tolls have been duly imposed under this Act, and such rate, tax, fee or tolls shall continue to be levied accordingly until the Commissioners at a meeting, with the sanction of the Local Government, shall otherwise direct.

Local Government may extend Act.

8. Except as is hereinafter otherwise expressly provided, this Act may be extended by the Local Government by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in the manner prescribed by section three hundred and fifty-three, to any town or village not being within the limits of the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court at Fort William in Bengal, from such date as may be specified in such notification, and save as is hereinafter otherwise provided, this Act shall take effect in such town or village on the date so specified, and the said town or village, within the limits mentioned in such notification shall be deemed to be created a Municipality for the purposes of this Act:

Provided that at least six weeks before publishing any notification as aforesaid, the Local Government shall cause to be published in the town or village concerned a notice of its intention to declare the said town or village to be a Municipality, unless good reason to the contrary be shewn within one month.

Any objections which may be made to the proposed measure shall be duly considered by the Local Government before it causes to be issued the notification declaring the town or village to be a Municipality under this Act.

Transfer of class and variation of limits.

9. The Local Government may, on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, or of its own motion, by a like notification, at any time vary the limits of any Municipality or subdivide any Municipality into two or more Municipalities, or withdraw any town or village from the operation of this Act.

Conditions on which Municipality may be created.

10. This Act shall not be extended to any town or village, unless the Magistrate shall have certified to the Local Government that three-fourths of the adult male population of such town or village are chiefly employed in pursuits other than agricultural; and that such town or village contains a number of inhabitants not being less than three thousand, and an average number of not less than one thousand inhabitants to the square mile of the area of such town or village.

Local Government may unite places to a Municipality.

11. The Local Government may from time to time by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, declare that any place in which three-fourths of the adult male population are chiefly employed in pursuits other than agricultural, shall be united with any town or village as aforesaid for the purposes of forming a Municipality, provided that no such place shall be so united unless some part of such place be situated within the distance of one mile from some part of such town or village.

Every such declaration shall specify the boundaries of every place so to be united.

Every town or village with which any such place is united, and all places so declared to be united with any such town or village, shall be deemed, for purposes of taxation, and for all other purposes, to form part of one and the same Municipality.

Land between Municipality and place united to form part of Municipality.

12. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, whenever the Local Government shall declare any place or places as aforesaid to be united with any town or village for the purpose of forming one Municipality, the Local Government may similarly declare that any land by which any such place is separated from the town or village with which it is united, and any land by which any such place is separated from any other such place which is united with the said town or village, shall be deemed to form part of the Municipality for all purposes other than those of taxation.

And such declaration shall specify the exterior boundaries of the entire Municipality as constituted under this and the last preceding section.

PART II.

OF THE MUNICIPAL AUTHORITIES.

Of the Constitution of the Municipality.

Number of Commissioners.

13. The Commissioners of each Municipality shall consist of such number as the Local Government, by a notification in the Calcutta Gazette, may from time to time direct.

Constitution of body of Commissioners.

14. Two-thirds of the number of the Commissioners of each Municipality, fixed by such order, shall be elected as hereinafter provided by male persons, resident within the limits of such Municipality, who shall have attained the age of twenty-one years.

The remaining one-third of such Commissioners shall be appointed by the Local Government immediately after the result of the election hereinbefore mentioned shall have been notified to the Local Government, and such appointment shall take effect from the date on which such election takes place:

Provided that not more than one-fourth of the whole number of Commissioners shall be persons holding salaried offices in the service of the Government, unless such persons are elected Commissioners under the first clause of this section:

Provided also that in cases where the whole number of Commissioners is not evenly divisible by three or by four, the one-third or one-fourth shall be ascertained by taking the number next below the whole number, which is evenly divisible by three or by four, as the number to be divided.

Government to lay down rules for election.

15. For the purposes of the aforesaid election of Commissioners, the Local Government, with respect to each Municipality, shall lay down such rules, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as it shall think fit, in respect of the division, where necessary, of each Municipality into wards, and the number of Commissioners to be elected for each of such wards, the qualifications required to entitle any person to stand as a candidate for such election, and to entitle any person to vote for such candidate, and in respect of the mode of election. And the Local Government may at any time cancel any rule made by it under this section.

On failure of election, Commissioners to be appointed by Government.

16. If the persons entitled to elect Commissioners for any Municipality fail to elect the whole number of Commissioners allotted for election to such Municipality, the Local Government shall appoint one or more Commissioners to complete the number so allotted as aforesaid.

Government may exclude Municipality from elective system.

17. It shall be competent to the Local Government, by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette, to exclude any Municipality from the operation of the three last preceding sections: and, in any Municipality so excluded, the whole number of the Commissioners shall be appointed by the Local Government, subject, however, to the proviso contained in the third clause of section fourteen.

Ad-interim Vice-Chairman and Commissioners.

18. The Local Government may appoint any persons to be ad-interim Vice-Chairman and Commissioners pending the election of Commissioners.

Resignation of Commissioner.

19. The Local Government may from time to time accept the resignation of any Commissioner appointed or elected under this Act.

Removal of Commissioner

20. The Local Government may, on the recommendation of the Commissioners, remove any Commissioner appointed or elected under this Act, if such Commissioner shall have been guilty of misconduct in the discharge of his duties, or of any disgraceful conduct.

Commissioner who neglects to attend meetings, or is sentenced to imprisonment, to cease to be Commissioner.

21. Any Commissioner who, without having obtained permission from the Commissioners, at a meeting, shall have omitted to attend six consecutive meetings of the Commissioners, and any Commissioner who shall have been sentenced to imprisonment, shall cease to be a Commissioner.

Tenure of office of Commissioners.

22. Every Commissioner shall vacate his office at the end of three years from the first day of the year next following the date of his appointment or election as such Commissioner.

When Commissioner may be re-appointed or re-elected.

23. Any person who has resigned the office of Commissioner, under section nineteen, or who has ceased to be a Commissioner in consequence of his failure to attend meetings as provided in section twenty-one, may be at any time re-appointed or re-elected a Commissioner; but no person removed by the Local Government from his office under section twenty, or who has ceased to be a Commissioner in consequence of being sentenced to imprisonment, may be elected or re-elected a Commissioner without the sanction of the Local Government.

Appointment of Chairman.

24. The Local Government may either appoint the Chairman of the Commissioners of any Municipality, or may at any time authorise such Commissioners at a meeting to elect their own Chairman.

His status and tenure of office.

25. The Chairman from the date of his appointment or election shall, during the term of his office, enjoy all the rights and privileges of a Commissioner of the Municipality to which such appointment or election relates. He shall hold office for three years from the beginning of the year next following his appointment or election.

Every elected Chairman shall be eligible for re-election and may at any time be removed from the office of Chairman by a resolution of the Commissioners in favour of which not less than two-thirds of the Commissioners have given their votes either personally or in writing.

All resolutions passed by the Commissioners under this and the section immediately preceding shall be subject to the approval of the Local Government.

Election of Vice-Chairman.

26. The Commissioners at a meeting shall elect their own Vice-Chairman, subject to the approval of the Local Government; he shall hold office for three years from the beginning of the year next following his election, and shall be eligible for re-election on the expiration of his term of office.

The Vice-Chairman, on election or re-election, shall be held to be appointed a Commissioner under this Act during his term of office.

The Vice-Chairman may at any time be removed from the office of Vice-Chairman by a resolution of the Commissioners, in favour of which not less than two-thirds of the Commissioners shall have given their votes either personally or in writing.

Appointment or election of Commissioner, Chairman or Vice-Chairman for unexpired term of office.

27. If any Commissioner, Chairman, or Vice-Chairman shall be unable to complete his full term of office, the vacancy caused by his resignation, or removal or death shall be filled by the appointment or election, as the case may be, of another person, and the person so appointed or elected shall fill such vacancy for the unexpired remainder of the term for which such Commissioner, Chairman or Vice-Chairman would otherwise have continued in office.

Allowances of Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

28. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman of any Municipality may, should the Commissioners think fit, receive such allowances out of the Municipal Fund as shall from time to time be fixed at a meeting by the Commissioners.

Every resolution passed by the Commissioners under this section shall be subject to the approval of the Local Government.

Commissioners incorporated.

29. The Commissioners shall, in the name of their Chairman, by the description of "The Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of ," be a body corporate, and have perpetual succession, and a common seal, and in such name shall sue and be sued.

Such common seal shall have the name of the Municipality engraved thereon in legible characters in the English language, and also in the vernacular of the district.

Of the property of the Commissioners.

Public roads, &c., vested in the Commissioners.

30. All roads, bridges, embankments, tanks, ghats, wharves, jetties, wells, channels, and drains in any Municipality (not being private property), and not being maintained by Government or at the public expense, now existing, or which shall hereafter be made, and the pavements, stones, and other materials thereof, and all erections, materials, implements, and other things provided therefor, shall vest in and belong to the Commissioners.

But the Local Government may from time to time, by notification, exclude any road, bridge, embankment, or drain from the operation of this Act, and may cancel such notification wholly or in part; provided that if the cost of the construction of the work shall have been paid from the Municipal Fund, such work shall not be excluded from the operation of this Act, without the consent of the Commissioners.

Commissioners may, with consent of owners, take over and repair roads, &c.

31. The Commissioners at a meeting may agree with the person in whom the property in any road, bridge, embankment, tank, ghat, wharf, jetty, well, channel or drain is vested to take over the property therein, and after such agreement may declare, by notice in writing put up thereon or near thereto, that such road, bridge, embankment, tank, ghat, wharf, jetty, well, channel or drain has been transferred to the Commissioners;

Thereupon the property therein shall vest in the Commissioners, and such road, bridge, embankment, tank, ghat, wharf, jetty, well, channel or drain shall thenceforth be repaired and maintained out of the Municipal Fund.

Existing hospitals, schools, rest houses, &c., may be vested in the Commissioners.

32. Every hospital, dispensary, school, rest-house, ghat, and market, not being private property, or the property of a religious institution or society, and all medicines, furniture, and other articles appurtenant thereto, not being such property which at and after the commencement of this Act shall be found within any Municipality may, by order of the Local Government, duly published on the spot, be vested in the Commissioners of such Municipality, and thereupon all endowments or funds belonging thereto shall be transferred to, and vested in, such Commissioners as trustees for the purposes to which such endowments and funds were lawfully applicable at the time of such transfer:

Provided that no such order shall be published until one month after notice of the intention to transfer such property shall have been published in the Calcutta Gazette, and within the Municipality in the vernacular language of the district.

Transfer to be conditional in certain cases.

33. If the Commissioners at a meeting shall, after publication of a notice, as is mentioned in the last preceding section, object to the transfer to themselves of any hospital, dispensary, school, rest-house, ghat or market, on the ground that their funds cannot bear the charge, then such transfer shall not be made save under such conditions as the Commissioners at a meeting may agree to accept.

Power to purchase, lease, and sell lands.

34. The Commissioners at a meeting may purchase or take on lease any land for the purposes of this Act, and may sell, let, or otherwise dispose of any land not required for such purposes.

Land may be taken up under Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

35. The Local Government on the application of the Commissioners that any land be acquired for the purposes of this Act, may, on being satisfied that the Commissioners are in a position to pay for such land either at once or in such instalments as the Local Government may think proper, notify under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, or any similar Act for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes, that such land is required for a public purpose, and may cause such land to be acquired under the provisions of such Act; and on payment by the Commissioners of the compensation awarded under such Act, the land shall vest in them for the purposes of this Act.

Commissioners to pay cost of such land.

36. The Commissioners shall be bound to pay to the Government the cost of any land which may be acquired for them on their application under the provisions of the last preceding section.

Mode of executing contracts.

37. The Commissioners may enter into and perform any contract necessary for the purposes of this Act.

Every contract made on behalf of the Commissioners of a Municipality in respect of any sum exceeding five hundred rupees, or which shall involve a value exceeding five hundred rupees, shall be sanctioned by the Commissioners at a meeting, and shall be in writing, and signed by at least two of the Commissioners, one of whom shall be the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, and shall be sealed with the common seal of the Commissioners.

Unless so executed, such contract shall not be binding on the Commissioners.

Of the Mode of transacting the Business of the Municipality.

Commissioners to meet ordinarily once a month.

38. The Commissioners shall meet for the transaction of business (if there be any business to be transacted) at their office, or at some other convenient place, at least once in every month, and as often as a meeting shall be called by the Chairman, or, in his absence, by the Vice-Chairman.

If there shall be no business to be laid before the meeting at any monthly meeting, the Chairman shall, instead of calling the meeting, give notice of the same to each Commissioner three days before the date which is appointed for the monthly meeting.

And at other times on special requisition.

39. The Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, shall call a special meeting on a requisition signed by not less than three of the Commissioners.

Who to preside at meetings of the Commissioners.

40. The Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman shall preside at every meeting, and, in the absence of both the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, the Commissioners shall choose some one of their number to preside.

Questions to be decided by majority.

41. All questions which may come before the Commissioners at a meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes.

Casting vote.

In case of equality of votes, the President shall have a second or casting vote.

Quorum.

42. No business shall be transacted at any meeting of the Commissioners unless such meeting has been called by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, nor unless a quorum shall be present.

A quorum shall be, in any Municipality in which the Commissioners are more than fifteen, five;

in any other Municipality a number being not less than one-third of the entire number of Commissioners:

Provided that it shall require two members at least to form a quorum.

Minutes of proceedings.

43. Minutes of the proceedings of all meetings of the Commissioners shall be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose, and shall be signed by the President of the meeting, and such book shall be open to the inspection of the tax payers. A copy of such minutes shall be forwarded to the Magistrate of the district.

Powers of Chairman.

44. The Chairman shall, for the the transaction of the business connected with this Act, or for the purpose of making any order authorized thereby, exercise all the powers vested by this Act in the Commissioners:

Provided that the Chairman shall not act in opposition to, or in contravention of, any order of the Commissioners at a meeting, or exercise any power which is directed to be exercised by the Commissioners at a meeting.

Chairman may delegate his duties to Vice-Chairman.

45. The Chairman may, by a written order, delegate to the Vice-Chairman all or any of the duties or powers of a Chairman as defined in this Act, subject to such restrictions as may seem fit to him, and may at any time by a written order withdraw or modify the same:

Provided that nothing done by the Vice-Chairman, which might have been done under the authority of a written order from the Chairman, shall be invalid for want of or defect of such written order, if it be done with the express or implied consent of the Chairman.

Appointment of overseers, clerks, and subordinate officers

46. The Commissioners at a meeting shall from time to time decide whether a paid Secretary, Engineer, or Health Officer is required or not, and what number of assessors, overseers, clerks, registrars, subordinate officers, servants, and collectors of taxes or tolls may be necessary for the Municipality, and shall from time to time fix the salaries to be paid to such persons respectively out of the Municipal Fund, and the allowances to be granted to such persons during absence on leave.

Subject to the scale of establishment decided upon by the Commissioners under this section, the Chairman shall have power to appoint such persons as he may think fit, and from time to time to remove such persons and appoint others in their places:

Provided that no person shall be appointed to an office the salary of which is more than two hundred rupees per mensem without the sanction of the Commissioners at a meeting subject to the approval of the Local Government, and provided also that no officer whose salary is more than fifty rupees per mensem shall be dismissed without the sanction of the Commissioners at a meeting.

Security from officers or servants.

47. The Commissioners may take such security as they may think proper from any officer or servant in their employ, and may give such rate of interest thereon as they may determine.

Of Ward Committees.

Power to appoint Ward Committees.

48. The Commissioners at a meeting may divide any Municipality into wards, and thereupon appoint, or cause to be elected, for each ward, not less than three proper persons, whether such persons be or be not Commissioners for the time being, to be members of the Ward Committee, and the Commissioners at a meeting may define the limits of the ward for which any Ward Committee may be appointed or elected.

Commissioners may lay down rules for election.

49. The Commissioners at a meeting may lay down rules, not being inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, in respect of the qualifications required to entitle any person who is not a Commissioner to stand as a candidate for such election, and to entitle any person to vote for any candidate, and in respect of the mode of election; and the Commissioners may at any time cancel any rule made by them under this section for such election.

Election of Chairman and Vice-Chairman of Ward Committee.

50. Each Ward Committee may, for each year if they see fit, elect their own Chairman and Vice-Chairman (if necessary) from among their own number; provided that if one or more Commissioners are members of the Ward Committee, the Chairman of the Ward Committee shall be a Commissioner.

Commissioners may delegate powers to Ward Committee.

51. The Commissioners at a meeting may delegate to a Ward Committee such of the powers of Commissioners under this Act as to them may seem fit; and such Ward Committee, within the limits of their ward, as defined by the Commissioners at a meeting, may exercise all or any of such powers, and shall be liable to all the obligations imposed by this Act on Commissioners in respect of such powers.

All acts done, orders issued, and assessments made by Ward Committees shall be subject to the control and revision of the Commissioners at a meeting, who may at any time withdraw all or any of such powers.

Certain sections applicable to transaction of business by Ward Committees.

52. The provisions of sections thirty-eight to forty-five (both inclusive) shall, as far as possible, be applicable to the transaction of business by Ward Committees, and the Commissioners shall sanction the establishments of Ward Committees in accordance with the provisions of section forty-six.

53. All questions regarding the removal, resignation, and appointment of members of Ward Committees shall be settled by the Commissioners at a meeting.

Removal, resignation, and appointment of members.

Liability of Commissioners and Ward Committees.

54. No Commissioner or member of a Ward Committee shall be personally liable for any contract made, or expense incurred, by or on behalf of the Commissioners Personal liability of Commissioner or member of Ward Committees.

Every Commissioner or member of a Ward Committee shall be personally liable for any wilful misapplication of money entrusted to the Commissioners to which he shall knowingly have been a party, and he shall be liable to be sued for the same.

55. No Commissioner or member of a Ward Committee shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract made with the Commissioners, or shall receive any pecuniary gratification for any services rendered to them; and if any Commissioner shall be so interested, or shall receive such gratification, he shall thereby become disqualified to continue in office as a Commissioner, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees:

Penalty on Commissioners and others interested in contract.

Provided that no person shall, by reason of being a shareholder in, or a member of, any incorporated or registered company, be deemed interested in any contract entered into between such company and the Commissioners.

But no such shareholder or member shall act as a Commissioner or member of a Ward Committee in a matter relating to any contract entered into between such company and the Commissioners.

56. No Commissioner or member of a Ward Committee shall vote on any question which regards exclusively the assessment of himself, or the valuation of his property, or his liability to any tax.

Commissioners disqualified from voting on certain questions.

PART III.

OF THE MUNICIPAL FUND.

57. All sums received by the Commissioners, and all fines paid or levied in any Municipality under this Act, and all other sums which, under the sanction of Government, may be transferred to the Commissioners, shall constitute a fund which shall be called the Municipal Fund, and shall, together with all property of every nature or kind whatsoever, which may become vested in the Commissioners, be under their control, and shall be held by them in trust for the purposes of this Act.

What shall constitute the Municipal Fund.

58. The Commissioners shall set apart and apply annually out of the Municipal Fund—

Payment on account of interest on loans and establishment.

first, such sum as may be required for the payment of the interest which may fall due on any loan contracted by the Commissioners;

secondly, such sum as they are by this Act required to provide for payment of their own establishment and the expenses of their office and for payment of the Municipal establishments entertained in the office of the controlling authority under section .

59. After the said sums have been set apart under the last preceding section, the Commissioners at a meeting shall, as far as the Municipal Fund permits, from time to time cause roads, bridges, embankments, tanks, ghats, wharves, jetties, wells, channels, drains, privies, latrines, and urinals, being the property of the Commissioners, to be maintained and repaired, and the Municipality to be cleansed;

Purposes to which Fund may be applied.

and may, subject to such rules and restrictions as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe, apply the Municipal Fund to any of the following purposes within the Municipality, that is to say—

(1) the construction and improvement of roads, bridges, embankments, squares, gardens, tanks, ghats, wharves, jetties, wells, channels, drains, privies, latrines, and urinals;

(2) the supply of water, and the lighting and watering of roads;

(3) the erection and maintenance of offices, and other buildings required for municipal purposes;

(4) other works of public utility calculated to promote the health, comfort or convenience of the inhabitants;

(5) the construction and repair of school-houses, and the establishment and maintenance of schools either wholly or by means of grants-in-aid;

(6) the establishment and maintenance of hospitals and dispensaries;

(7) the promotion of vaccination;

(8) and generally to carrying out the purposes of this Act:

Provided that no portion of the Municipal Fund shall be applied to the establishment and maintenance of any school, hospital or dispensary, or to the promotion of vaccination, unless such application be sanctioned by the consent of a majority of the Commissioners present at a meeting specially convened for considering such application, or held after special notice has been given that such application will be considered at such meeting.

The Commissioners may do all things, not being inconsistent with this Act, which may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section

60. With the consent of two-thirds of the Commissioners obtained in writing, and with the sanction of the Local Government, the Commissioners may contribute a portion of the Municipal Fund towards the expenses incurred in any other Municipality, or elsewhere, for any of the purposes mentioned in the last preceding section, and also towards the expenses of making, maintaining, and repairing any work for the improvement of a river or harbour (by whomsoever such work may be done).

Contribution to other Municipalities.

But no contribution shall be made under this section to any work unless the same is calculated to benefit the inhabitants of the contributing Municipality.

Account books to be kept open and quarterly statement published.

61. The account books of the Municipality shall be open to the inspection of any tax-payer at the office of the Commissioners on a day to be fixed in each month.

An account shewing the receipts and expenditure during the quarter, arranged under the proper heads and duly balanced, shall be prepared immediately after the close of each quarter, and shall, with the account books, be open to the inspection of any tax-payer.

A similar account shall be prepared for each year as soon as possible after its close, and shall be open to inspection as aforesaid.

Annual estimates of expenditure to be prepared.

62. The Commissioners, at a meeting held at least three months before the close of the year, shall prepare in detail estimates shewing the probable receipts and expenditure during the ensuing year and the objects in respect of which it is proposed to incur such expenditure.

Estimates to be published.

63. Copies of the estimates and translations thereof in the vernacular of the district shall be lodged in the Municipal office or offices.

During fourteen days after the estimates shall have been so lodged in the said offices, of which due notice shall be locally published, the estimates and translations in the vernacular of the district shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times by any tax-payer of such Municipality who may desire to inspect the same.

Any written suggestion which may be deposited in the office of the Commissioners shall be recorded and laid before them for consideration at the next meeting.

Estimate to be transmitted to controlling authority.

64. After the expiration of the said fourteen days, and after such revision as may appear requisite, the Chairman shall transmit the estimates to such controlling authority as the Local Government may direct with any remarks or objections thereupon which may have been recorded by himself or by the Commissioners at a meeting.

Power of controlling authority and Local Government as to estimates.

65. The controlling authority may either sanction the estimate or may submit it for the consideration of the Local Government. The Local Government may either sanction the estimate as it stands, or sanction it after making such alterations therein as may seem to it fit, or may cause it to be returned to the Commissioners for such modifications as it may think necessary; and when such modifications have been made the estimate shall be re-submitted for ratification to the controlling authority.

Estimate of expenditure may be revised.

66. The Commissioners at a meeting may from time to time revise any estimate of expenditure with the view of providing for any modifications which they may deem it advisable to make in the appropriation of the amount at their disposal, and such revised estimate shall be published and forwarded for sanction to the controlling authority in the manner prescribed by section sixty-four; and the controlling authority may deal with such revised estimate in the manner provided by the last preceding section.

Disbursement of expenditure sanctioned in estimate.

67. After the estimates of the Municipality for the year shall have been sanctioned by the controlling authority, the Commissioners at a meeting may, from time to time, by a general or a special resolution, authorize the expenditure of any sum provided in such estimates, or any part of such sum, for the purpose to which it has been assigned in such estimate.

Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the Local Government may lay down such rules as it may think fit limiting or regulating the powers of any Municipality in respect to the expenditure of money for purposes which are provided for in the budget estimates of the year.

Power of Local Government if work estimated to cost more than Rs. 3,000.

68. If any work is estimated to cost above three thousand rupees, the Local Government may require the plans and estimates of such work to be submitted for its approval, or for the approval of any officer of Government, before such work is commenced; and may require statements of the progress and completion of such work, with accounts of the expenditure on the same, to be submitted from time to time, in such form as it may prescribe, for its approval, or for the approval of such officer of Government.

Disbursement of excess expenditure.

69. It shall not be lawful for the Commissioners to authorize the expenditure on any object during the year of a sum in excess of that which has been sanctioned in the estimate of the year, or in a revised estimate, for such object; but if it be found necessary in the course of the year, the Commissioners may recommend to the controlling authority that the allotments which have been made to the different heads of the estimate shall be modified by transfer of any amount from one head to another, and the controlling authority may sanction such transfers of allotment.

An annual report of proceedings, &c., to be submitted.

70. The Commissioners shall, at such time and in such form as the Local Government shall direct, furnish annually a report of their proceedings and statements of the works executed by them, and of all sums received and expended by them.

The report and any orders which may be passed thereon by Government shall be open to the inspection of the tax-payers at the office of the Commissioners with the account books and the quarterly and the annual accounts; and the Local Government may, if it think fit, cause any such report to be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Audit of accounts.

71. The municipal accounts shall be audited each year under the orders of the controlling authority, and the Local Government may direct that the cost of maintaining clerks or other establishments in the office of the controlling authority or of the Accountant-General for the audit of accounts and the requisite correspondence connected with the purposes of this Act, shall be paid in rateable proportion from the funds of the several Municipalities which under this Act may be placed under the supervision of the said controlling authority.

And the Commissioners of every Municipality shall pay to such controlling authority the sum which they may be required to pay for the purposes of this section.

Custody of the Municipal Fund.

72. Unless the Local Government shall otherwise direct, all sums received on account of the Municipal Fund shall be paid into a Government treasury, or into any bank or branch bank used as a Government treasury in or near to the Municipality, and shall be credited to an account to be called the account of the Municipality to which they belong:

Provided that the Commissioners may invest any moneys not required for immediate use either in Government securities, or in any other form of security which may be approved of by the Local Government.

Orders for payment of money.

73. Unless the Local Government shall expressly extend (as it is hereby empowered to do, on the recommendation of the Commissioners) the limit of the powers of the Chairman or Vice-Chairman in this behalf, all orders for the payment of money from the Municipal Fund, if for a sum not above five hundred rupees shall be signed by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman; and all orders for larger sums by both of the said officers, or by one of the said officers and another Commissioner.

No such orders shall be issued otherwise than for the payment of money of which the expenditure has been authorized by the Commissioners at a meeting, as provided in section sixty-seven.

PART IV.

OF MUNICIPAL TAXATION.

Alternative tax upon persons or holdings.

74. The Commissioners may, from time to time, at a meeting convened expressly for the purpose, of which due notice shall have been given, and with the sanction of the Local Government, impose within the limits of the Municipality one or other, but not both, of the following taxes:—

(a) a tax upon persons occupying holdings within the Municipality according to their circumstances and property within the Municipality:

provided that the total sum to be raised by such tax in any year shall not exceed the sum which would be produced by an average rate of two rupees and four annas per annum for each holding, and that the amount assessed in respect of the occupation of any one holding shall not be more than eighty-four rupees per annum; or

(b) a rate on the annual value of all holdings situated within the Municipality:

provided that such rate shall not exceed seven and a half per centum on the annual value of such holdings except within the Municipality of Dacca, in which it shall not exceed ten per centum on such annual value; and provided also that no rate shall be imposed on any holding of which the annual value is less than twelve rupees.

Additional taxes.

75. The Commissioners may, from time to time, at a meeting convened as aforesaid, and with the sanction of the Local Government, order that the following tax, fee, tolls, and rates or any of them be levied within the limits of the Municipality in addition to either of the taxes mentioned in the last preceding section:—

(a) a tax on carriages, horses, and other animals named in the third schedule;

(b) a fee on the registration of carts;

(c) tolls on ferries and (subject to the provisions of sections one hundred and forty-seven and one hundred and forty-eight) tolls upon bridges and metalled roads;

(d) a water-rate not exceeding six per centum on the annual value of holdings when the houses and lands are situated in streets supplied with filtered water and not exceeding five per cent. when the houses and lands are situated in streets not so supplied;

(e) a lighting rate not exceeding three per centum on such annual value;

(f) a fee for the cleansing of latrines:

provided that the taxes mentioned in clauses (d), (e), and (f) shall not be levied in any Municipality unless the provisions of Part VII in respect of clause (d), or of Part VIII in respect of clause (e), or of Part IX in respect of clause (f), shall have been extended to such Municipality in the manner hereinafter provided.

Of the Tax on Persons.

Assessment list to be prepared.

76. When it has been determined that a tax shall be imposed on persons occupying holdings within the Municipality, according to their circumstances and property, the Commissioners, after making such enquiries as may be necessary, shall cause to be prepared an assessment list which shall contain the following particulars, and any others which the Commissioners may think proper to include:—

(a) name of the street or road in which the holding is situated;

(b) number of the holding on the register;

(c) name of the person occupying the holding, whether such person be assessed or exempted from assessment;

(d) description of the holding, and of the property within the Municipality, with profession or business of the person assessed;

(e) amount of annual assessment;

(f) amount of quarterly instalment;

(g) if the occupier of the holding is exempted from assessment, a note to that effect.

The tax upon persons shall be payable in quarterly instalments by persons occupying holdings.

Such tax shall not be assessed or levied on any person in respect of the occupation of arable lands or of any building which is used exclusively as a place of worship.

Duration of assessment.

77. Save as is herein otherwise provided, every assessment of the tax upon persons shall take effect from the beginning of the year next following that in which the notice required by section one hundred and one is published, and shall be valid for three years and until the beginning of the year next after the date on which a new assessment or valuation may be published, or until the assessment and valuation be revised and amended:

Provided that when this Act is extended to any place, the first assessment may take effect from the beginning of the quarter next following that in which the said notice shall be published.

Assessment of public buildings.

78. In any Municipality in which the tax on persons is imposed, no tax shall be assessed on any person in respect of his occupation of any holding which is the property of Government and used for the purposes of a public building, but a rate of seven and a half per centum shall be assessed on the annual value of every such holding, to be ascertained in the manner prescribed by section and such rate shall be payable by the Government Procedure if aggregate amount of rates assessed on any person exceeds Rs. 84 per annum.

79. Whenever any tax shall have been assessed on any person, in respect of his occupation of two or more holdings, and the aggregate of the amount so assessed upon him shall exceed eighty-four rupees per annum, such person may, within fifteen days of the publication of the notice required by section one hundred and one, apply to the Commissioners to cancel such assessment, and to substitute for the total amount of tax so assessed upon him, in respect of the said holdings, a rate to be calculated at seven and a half per centum on the annual value of such holdings; and the Commissioners shall thereupon substitute such rate; and for the purpose of calculating the amount of such rate, shall determine the annual value of the said holdings in the manner prescribed by section.

Every rate imposed under this section shall be payable by the occupier of the holdings so rated.

Power of exemption.

80. The Commissioners may exempt from assessment any person who may by them be deemed too poor to pay the tax; but the name of the occupier of every holding shall be included in the assessment list, whether he be assessed or exempted from assessment.

Power to apply for reduction of assessment in altered circumstances.

81. Any person mentioned in the assessment list, who shall at any time after the publication thereof have ceased to occupy any holding, in respect of the occupation of which he has been assessed, or whose means and property in respect of which he has been so assessed shall have been reduced, may apply to the Commissioners to exempt him from his assessment or to revise the same.

Power to alter assessment.

82. The Commissioners may, at any time after the publication of the notice required by section one hundred and one, assess any person who was without authority omitted from the assessment list, or whose liability to assessment has accrued thereafter, and may enhance any assessment which appears to them to be inadequate, and to have been so made owing to mistake or fraud.

Any assessment or enhancement made under this section shall take effect from the beginning of the quarter next following that in which such assessment or enhancement is made.

Procedure on change of occupation.

83 The Commissioners may at any time substitute for any name mentioned in the assessment list the name of any new occupier of a holding, and may assess the tax on such person, and such person shall be liable to pay such assessment from the date on which his occupation of the holding commenced.

Assessment on vacant holdings when to cease.

84 If any holding shall become vacant in the course of the year, the assessment on account of the occupation of such holding shall cease to have effect from the first day of the quarter next following that in which it became vacant.

Of the Rate on the value of Holdings.

Commissioners to determine the valuation of holdings.

85. When it has been determined that a rate shall be imposed on the annual value of holdings, the Commissioners, after making such enquiries as may be necessary, shall determine the valuation of all holdings within the Municipality as hereinafter provided.

Duration of assessment.

86. Save as is herein otherwise provided, such valuation shall be valid for three years from the date on which it first takes effect in the Municipality, and until the beginning of the year next after the date on which a new valuation may be made, or until the valuation be revised and amended.

Buildings exempted from tax.

87. The rate on the value of holdings shall not be assessed or levied on any holding which is used exclusively as a place of public worship, or which is duly registered as a burial or burning ground under section two hundred and sixty-five.

What returns may be required for ascertaining annual value.

88. The Commissioners, in order to prepare the valuation list, may, whenever they think fit, by notice, require the owners or occupiers of all holdings to furnish them with returns of the rent or annual value thereof, and the Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, at any time between sunrise and sunset, may enter, inspect, and measure any such holding after having given forty-eight hours' previous notice of their intention to the occupier thereof.

Penalty for default in furnishing return.

89. Whoever refuses or fails to furnish any such return for the space of one week from the day on which he shall have been required to do so, or knowingly makes a false or incorrect return, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees, and a further daily fine not exceeding five rupees for each day during which he shall omit to furnish a true and correct return; and whoever hinders, obstructs, or prevents any Commissioner or any person appointed by the Commissioners as aforesaid, from entering or inspecting or measuring any such holding, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Annual value of holding how to be ascertained.

90. The gross annual rent at which any holding may be reasonably expected to let, shall be deemed to be the annual value thereof, and such value shall accordingly be determined by the Commissioners, and entered in the valuation list.

Determination of rate of tax on holdings.

91. Subject to the provisions of section seventy-four, the Commissioners, at a meeting to be held before the close of the year next preceding the year to which the rate will apply, shall determine the percentage on the valuation of holdings at which the rate shall be levied, and the percentage so fixed shall remain in force until the order of the Commissioners determining such percentage shall be rescinded, and until the Commissioners at a meeting shall determine some other percentage on the valuation of holdings at which the rate will be levied from the beginning of the next year:

Provided that when this Act is first extended to any place, the first rate may be levied from the beginning of the quarter next after that in which the percentage has been fixed by the Commissioners at a meeting.

Preparation of valuation and rating list.

92. As soon as possible after the percentage at which the rate is to be levied on the next year shall have been determined under the last preceding section, the Commissioners shall cause to be prepared a valuation and rating list, which shall contain the following particulars, and any others which the Commissioners may think proper to include:—

(a) name of the street or road in which the holding is situated;

(b) number of the holding on the register;

(c) description of the holding;

(d) annual value of the holding;

(e) name of owner;

(f) amount of rate payable for the year;

(g) amount of quarterly instalment;

(h) if the holding is exempted from assessment, a note to that effect.

The rate upon holdings shall be payable in quarterly instalments by the owner of the holding.

Power to assess upon a house consolidated tax for house and land on which it stands.

93. If any house belongs to one owner, and the land on which it stands and the adjacent land which is usually occupied therewith, belongs to another, the Commissioners may value such house and land together and may impose thereon one consolidated rate.

The total amount of the rates shall be payable by the owner of the house, who shall thereafter be entitled to deduct from the rent which he pays for the land such proportion of the rate so paid by him as is equal to the proportion which such rent bears to the annual value of the holding.

If the owner of the house and the owner of the land do not agree in respect of the proportion of the rate so deducted by the owner of the house, the Commissioners shall, on the application of either party, make an award declaring the amount payable by each, and such award shall be final.

Tax due from non-resident owner may be recovered from occupier and deducted by him from his rent.

94 If the sum due from the owner of any holding remains unpaid after the notice of demand has been duly served, and such owner be not resident within the Municipality, or the place of abode of such owner be unknown, the same may be recovered from the occupier for the time being of such holding, who may deduct, from the next and following payments of his rent, the amount which may be so paid by or recovered from him:

Provided that no arrear of rate, which has remained due from the owner of any holding for more than one year, shall be so recovered from the occupier thereof.

Power of Commissioners in cases of excessive hardship.

95. Whenever, from the circumstances of the case, the levy of the rate on any holding in the Municipality would be productive of excessive hardship to the person liable to pay the same, the Commissioners at a meeting may reduce the amount payable on account of such holding, or may remit the same.

Application for reduction of assessment.

96. If the value of any holding shall be diminished from any cause beyond the control of the owner thereof, the owner thereof may apply for reduction of the valuation of the same.

Power to revise valuation and assessment.

97. The Commissioners may, at any time after the publication of the notice required by section one hundred and one, value and rate any holding which was without authority omitted from the valuation and rating list, or which has become liable to valuation and rating after the publication thereof, and may enhance the valuation and rating of any holding which may appear to have been insufficiently valued or rated through mistake or fraud; and may re-value and re-assess that rate on any holding the value of which has been increased by additions or alterations to any building thereon.

Any rate imposed or enhancement made under this section shall take effect from the beginning of the quarter next following that in which the rate shall be imposed or enhancement made.

Power to revise assessment list.

98. The Commissioners may at any time substitute for any name mentioned in the valuation and rating list the name of any person to whom any holding mentioned therein shall have been transferred.

Such person shall be liable to pay the rate payable on such holding from the first day of the quarter next after the date of the transfer.

Remission or refund on account of vacant holdings.

99. When any holding has been vacant for sixty or more consecutive days during any year, the Commissioners shall remit, and, if the rate has been paid, shall refund, one-half of so much of the rate of that year as may be proportionate to the number of days the said holding has remained unoccupied;

Provided that the owner of such holding, or his agent, has given to the Commissioners notice in writing of the vacancy thereof.

The amount of tax to be remitted or refunded shall be calculated from the date of the delivery of such notice.

Penalty.

100. Whoever, being the owner of any holding for which a remission or refund of the rate has been made under the last preceding section, fails to give notice of the re-occupation of such holding within ten days of such re-occupation, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount of rate payable quarterly on such holding

Of general provisions relating to the tax on persons and the rate on holdings and to the recovery of the same.

Publication of notice of assessments.

101. When the assessment list of the tax upon persons or the valuation and rating list of the rate on the annual value of holdings shall have been prepared or revised, the Chairman shall sign the same, and shall cause it to be deposited in the office of the Commissioners, and shall cause the notice in form (A) or the notice in form (B) of the first schedule (as the case may be) to be published in the manner prescribed by section three hundred and fifty-three.

Application for review.

102 Any person who is dissatisfied with the amount assessed upon him, or with the valuation or rating of any holding, or who disputes his occupation of any holding, or his liability to be assessed, or rated, may apply to the Commissioners to review the amount of assessment, valuation, or rating, or to exempt him from the assessment or rate.

Procedure upon review.

103. Every application presented under the last preceding section shall be heard and determined by not less than three Commissioners, who shall be appointed on that behalf by the Chairman. The Commissioners so appointed, after making such inquiries as they may deem necessary, may pass such order as they shall think fit in respect of such application.

The decision of such Commissioners, or of a majority thereof, in such cases shall be final.

Limitation of time for application of review.

104. Unless good cause shall be shewn to the satisfaction of such Commissioners for extending the time allowed, and save as is otherwise expressly provided in this Act, no such application shall be received after the expiration of one month from the date of publication of the notice required by section one hundred and one relating to the list containing the assessment, valuation, or rating in respect of which the application is made, or after the expiration of fifteen days from the date of service of the first notice of demand for payment at the rate in respect of which the application is made, whichever period shall last expire

Assessment to be questioned only under Act.

105. No objection shall be taken to any assessment or rating, nor shall the liability of any person to be assessed or rated be questioned in any other manner or by any other authority than in this Act is provided.

Office hours for payment of taxes.

106. By notification to be posted up in their office, the Commissioners shall declare at what hours of each day (not being a Sunday or other recognized holiday) the office shall be open for the receipt of money.

Tax payable in advance.

107. The amount due by any person on account of the tax on persons, or the rate on holdings, shall be deemed to be the amount entered in the lists the notice relating to which is published under section one hundred and one, unless the amount entered in such lists is subsequently altered by the Commissioners as provided in this Act, in which case the amount to which the assessment or rating is so altered shall be deemed to be the amount due.

Every instalment of such tax or rate shall be deemed to be due on the first day of the quarter in respect of which such instalment is payable.

Receipts to be given.

108. For all sums paid on account of any tax or rate under this Act a receipt stating the amount and the tax or rate on account of which it is paid shall be given, signed by the tax-collector or by some other officer authorized by the Commissioners to grant such receipts.

Bill and notice of demand to be presented.

109. At any time within six months after any sum has become due on account of any tax or rate the Commissioners shall cause to be presented to the person liable to the payment thereof a bill for the said sum, which shall contain a statement of the period and of the tax or rate on account of which the charge is made.

If the amount mentioned in such bill be not paid on presentation thereof, a notice of demand in the form marked (A) in the second schedule, with copy of the bill appended thereto, shall be served on the person liable to pay the same, and such notice of demand may be served at any subsequent time:

Provided that no charge shall be made in respect of the service of such notice.

Such notice shall be signed by the Chairman or an officer authorized in that behalf, and shall be served by a person authorized to receive payment.

If not paid in fifteen days, process of distress may issue.

110. If any person, after service upon him of such bill and notice, shall not, within fifteen days of the service of such notice, or from the date of any order made on an application for review under section one hundred and three, pay the sum due, either to the Commissioners at their office, or to some person authorized by them to receive the money, or shew to the Commissioners sufficient cause for not paying the same, the amount of the arrear due, with costs on the scale shewn in the table of fees marked (B) in the second schedule, may at any time within three months after the date of service of the said notice, or of the order made on an application for review as aforesaid, be levied by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the defaulter, except ploughs, plough-cattle, tools, or implements of trade or agriculture, wherever found, or of any such moveable property, subject to the same exceptions, which may be found within the holding in respect of which such defaulter is liable to such tax or rate.

If the said property or any part thereof belong to any person other than the defaulter, the defaulter shall be liable to indemnify the owner thereof for any damage he may sustain by reason of such distress, or by reason of any payment he may make to avoid such distress or any sale under the same.

Distress how to be made.

111. Every warrant of distress and sale under the last preceding section shall be issued by the Commissioners, and shall be in the form marked (C) in the second schedule.

Distress shall be made by actual seizure of moveable property, and the officer charged with the execution of the warrant shall be responsible for the due custody thereof.

Such officer shall make an inventory of all moveable property seized under the warrant, and shall give not less than ten days' previous notice of the sale, and of the time and place thereof, by beat of drum, in the Municipality or Ward in which the property is situated, and by serving on the defaulter a notice in the form marked (D) in the second schedule:

Provided that if the property is of a perishable nature, it may be sold at once with the consent of the defaulter, or without such consent at any time after the expiry of six hours from the seizure.

Officer may break open door.

112. The officer charged with the execution of the warrant may, under the special order of the Commissioners, between sunrise and sunset, break open any outer or inner door or window of a house, in order to make the distress, if he has reasonable ground for believing that such house contains any moveable property belonging to the defaulter, and if, after notification of his authority and purpose and demand of admittance duly made, he cannot otherwise obtain admittance:

Provided that he shall not enter or break open the door of any room appropriated for the zánaná, or residence of women, which, by the usage of the country is considered private, except after three hours' notice and opportunity given for the retirement of the women.

Sale how to be conducted.

113. If the sum due be not paid with costs before the time fixed for the sale, or the warrant be not discharged or suspended by the Commissioners, the moveable property seized shall be sold by auction, at the time and place specified, in the most public manner possible, and the proceeds shall be applied in discharge of the arrears and costs; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned on demand to the person in possession of the moveable property at the time of the seizure; or if unclaimed for a period of twelve months, shall be transferred to the Municipal Fund.

Return of sales.

The tax-collector or other officer authorized in that behalf shall make a return of all such sales to the Commissioners in the form marked (E) in the second schedule.

Certain persons prohibited from purchasing at sales.

114. All officers and servants of the Commissioners, and all chaukidars, constables, and other officers of Police, are prohibited from purchasing any property at any such sale.

Commissioners to keep account of distresses and sales.

115. The Commissioners shall cause a regular account to be kept of all distresses levied and sales made for the recovery of taxes under this Act.

Sale of property beyond limits of Municipality.

116. If no sufficient goods or chattels belonging to a defaulter, or being upon the premises in respect of which he is assessed or rated, can be found within the Municipality, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, issue his warrant to any officer of his Court for the distress and sale of any personal property or effects belonging to the defaulter within any other part of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, or for the distress and sale of any personal property belonging to the defaulter within the jurisdiction of any other Magistrate whatsoever, and such other Magistrate shall endorse the warrant so issued, and cause it to be executed, and the amount, if levied, to be remitted to the Magistrate issuing the warrant, who shall remit the same to the Commissioners.

Distress or sale not unlawful for want of form.

117. No distress or sale made under this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser on account of any error, defect, or want of form in the bill, notice, summons, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto.

Commissioners may bring suit instead of distraining or on failure of distress.

118. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize thereby the whole or any part of any tax, the Commissioners may sue the person liable to pay the same in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Irrecoverable taxes.

119. The Commissioners may order to be struck off the books the amount of any tax or rate which may appear to them to be irrecoverable.

Of the Tax on Carriages, Horses, and other Animals.

Tax on carriages, horses, and other animals.

120. When it has been determined that a tax on carriages, horses, and other animals specified in the third schedule shall be imposed, the Commissioners at a meeting shall make an order that every carriage, horse, and every other animal of the kind specified in the said schedule which is kept or habitually used within, or which is let for hire within or without the Municipality, and habitually used within it, shall pay the tax, and shall cause such orders to be published in the manner prescribed by section three hundred and fifty-three.

Such order shall be published at least one month before the beginning of the half-year in which such tax shall first take effect; and shall specify at what rates, not exceeding the rates given in the said schedule, such tax shall be levied.

But such tax shall not be imposed on—

(a) horses or ponies belonging to officers doing regimental duty, at the rate of one animal for each officer;

(b) animals exempt from any Municipal tax under section 25 of the Indian Volunteers' Act, 1869;

(c) carriages or animals belonging to Government, or to the Municipality, or for keeping which for the execution of their duty an allowance is made by the Government or by the Commissioners to any of their officers;

(d) animals used by, or exclusively for the purposes of any regiment;

(e) horses or ponies used by police officers at the rate of not more than one for each officer;

(f) carriages, the wheels of which do not exceed twenty-four inches in diameter;

(g) animals under eleven hands in height;

(h) carriages or animals kept for sale by any bona fide dealer in such carriages or animals, and not used for any other purpose.

Tax so fixed to continue in force until altered.

121. Any order of the Commissioners imposing a tax under the last preceding section shall continue in force until rescinded, and the tax shall be levied at the rates specified in the order published as aforesaid, unless and until the Commissioners at a meeting, held not less than fifteen days before the end of the year, make and publish an order specifying any different rates at which the tax shall be payable for the ensuing year.

Licenses how to be obtained.

122. In any Municipality in which a tax has been imposed under the last preceding section, the owner of every carriage, horse, and other animal specified in the said schedule shall, within the first month of each half-year, forward to the Commissioners a statement in writing, signed by him, containing a description of the carriages, horses, and other animals liable to the tax for which he is bound to take out a license.

Such owner shall at the same time pay to the Commissioners such sum as shall be payable by him for the current half-year for the carriages, horses, and other animals specified in such statement, according to the rates specified in any order for the time being in force under the two last preceding sections.

Proportionate tax on carriages, &c., acquired during half-year.

123. If any person acquires possession at any time after the commencement of any half-year, of any carriage, horse, or other animal specified in the schedule in respect of which no license has been given for such half-year, he shall forward a statement as above required within one month of the date on which he may have acquired possession thereof, and shall pay such amount of the tax as shall bear the same proportion to the whole tax for the half-year as the unexpired portion of the half-year bears to the half-year; and such amount shall be calculated from the date on which such person may have acquired possession as aforesaid

On payment of tax Commissioners to give a license.

124. On receiving the amount of the tax due as aforesaid, the Commissioners, or some person authorised by them in that behalf, shall give to the person paying the same a license for the several carriages, horses, and other animals for the period in respect of which the amount is received.

Such license shall be for the current half-year and no longer.

Carriage, &c., liable to the tax although the owner be absent.

125. Whenever the owner of any carriage, horse, or other animal liable to pay the said tax is not resident within the limits of the Municipality to the Commissioners of which the tax is due, the person in whose immediate possession the carriage, horse, or other animal is for the time being kept shall take out a license for the same.

Penalty.

126. Whoever keeps or is in possession of any carriage, horse, or other animal without the license required by the three last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount payable by him in respect of such license, exclusive of the amount so payable.

Commissioners may compound with livery stable-keepers.

127. The Commissioners at their discretion may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with livery stable-keepers and other persons keeping carriages or animals for hire, for a certain sum to be paid for the carriages or animals so kept by such person, in lieu of the tax at the rates specified in any order made by the Commissioners under sections one hundred and twenty and one hundred and twenty-one.

List of persons licensed to be prepared.

128. The Commissioners shall from time to time cause to be prepared and entered in a book, to be kept by them, and to be open to the inspection of any person interested therein, a list of the persons to whom, during the then current half-year, a license has been given, and of the carriages, horses, and other animals in respect of which they have paid the tax

Power to inspect stable, &c., and to summon persons liable to the payment of the tax.

129. The Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may at any time between sunrise and sunset enter and inspect any stable or coach-house, or any place wherein they may have reason to believe that there is any carriage, horse, or other animal liable to the tax for which a license has not been duly taken out.

And the Commissioners may summon any person whom they have reason to believe to be liable to the payment of any such tax, or any servant of such person, and may examine such person or servant as to the number and description of the carriages, horses, and other animals in respect of which such person is liable to be taxed.

Refund of tax in certain cases.

130. On proof being given to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that a carriage, horse, or other animal for which a license has been taken out for any half-year has ceased to be kept or to be used within the Municipality during the course of such half-year, the Commissioners shall order a refund of so much of the tax for the half-year as shall bear the same proportion to the whole tax for the half-year as the period during which such carriage, horse, or other animal has not been kept or used in the Municipality bears to the half-year; but no such refund shall be allowed unless notice be given to the Commissioners within one month of the time when such use of such carriage, horse, or other animal ceased, and the Commissioners shall pass no order for refund until after the close of the half-year in respect of which the refund is claimed.

Of the Registration of Carts.

Registration and number of carts.

131. The Commissioners at a meeting may make and publish an order that every cart, which is kept or habitually used within, or which is let for hire within or without the Municipality and habitually used within it, shall be registered by the Commissioners with the name and residence of the owner, and shall bear the number of registration in such manner as the said Commissioners shall direct:

Provided always that such order shall be published at least one month before the beginning of the half-year in which such order for registration shall be enforced.

This section shall not apply to carts—

(a) which are the property of the Government or of the Municipality;

(b) which are kept without the limits of the Municipality, and are only temporarily and casually used within such limits;

(c) which are kept in Howrah or within the Suburbs of Calcutta.

Fee for registration.

132. The registration of carts under the last preceding section shall be made, and the numbers assigned yearly or half-yearly, upon such days as the Commissioners shall notify, and such fee as they shall from time to time fix and notify, not exceeding four rupees if the registration has effect for a year, and not exceeding two rupees if the registration has effect for half a year, shall be paid for each registration.

Proportionate payment of fee.

133. Any person becoming possessed of any cart which has not been registered for the then current period of registration, shall register the same within one month of the date on which he may have become possessed thereof, and the Commissioners shall grant registration in any such case on payment of such amount of the fee as shall bear the same proportion to the whole fee for the current period of registration as the unexpired portion of the current period of registration bears to the whole of such period; and such fee shall be calculated from the date on which such person may have become possessed as aforesaid.

Transfer of ownership.

134. When the ownership of any registered cart is transferred within any period of registration, it shall be registered anew within one month of the transfer in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred, and a fee not exceeding four annas shall be paid for every such last-mentioned registration.

Penalty.

135. Whoever keeps or is in possession of a cart not duly registered as required by the three last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount payable be him in respect of such registration, exclusive of the amount so payable; and whoever being thy owner or driver of any cart, shall fail to affix thereto the registration number as required by section one hundred and thirty-one shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five rupees.

Seizure and sale of unregistered cart.

136. If any person owns or keeps any cart hereinbefore required to be registered without having caused the same to be registered, the Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may seize and detain such cart (provided the same be not employed at the time of seizure in the conveyance of any passengers or goods) together with the animals drawing the same, and all police officers are required, on the application of the Commissioners, or of any servant of the Commissioners duly authorized in that behalf, to assist in the said seizure.

After such seizure the Commissioners shall forthwith issue a notice in writing that after the expiration of ten days they will sell such vehicle and animals by auction at such place as they may state in the notice; and if any registration fee, together with the cost arising from such seizure and custody, remains unpaid for ten days after the issue of such notice, the Commissioners may sell the property seized for payment of the said fee, and of all expenses occasioned by such non-payment, seizure, custody, and sale.

Any balance that may remain out of the proceeds of the sale shall be returned, on demand, if made within twelve months, to the owner of the property, and if unclaimed after such period, shall be credited to the Municipal Fund:

Provided that if at any time before the sale is concluded the person whose cart has been seized shall tender to the Commissioners, or the person authorized by them to sell the cart, the amount of all the expenses incurred, and the registration fee payable by him, the Commissioners shall forthwith release the cart so seized.

Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the surplus of the sale proceeds of a cart seized under this section may be devoted to the payment of any fine imposed under the last preceding section; and any cart which has been seized under this section may be sold for the realization of any such fine.

Of Tolls on Ferries.

Existing public ferries.

137. The Local Government may, with the consent of the Commissioners, make over to the Commissioners any existing public ferry within or adjacent to the limits of the Municipality, to be administered by such Municipality until the Local Government shall otherwise direct.

Every ferry while so administered shall be deemed to be a Municipal ferry, and the profits derivable therefrom, or such part of the profits as shall be agreed upon between the Local Government and the Commissioners, shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Other ferries may be declared to be Municipal.

138. The Commissioners may also, with the sanction of the Local Government, declare that any other ferry within or adjacent to the limits of the Municipality is a Municipal ferry, and the profits derivable therefrom shall thenceforward be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund:

Provided that due compensation shall be made by the Municipality to any person for the loss which he may have sustained in consequence of such ferry being declared to be a Municipal ferry.

The amount of compensation due in such cases shall be ascertained and awarded by the Magistrate under the provisions of section four of Bengal Act I of 1866 (to amend certain provisions of Regulation VI of 1819), or any similar law for the time being in force.

Duties of Commissioners in regard to such ferries.

139. Every Municipal ferry shall be maintained by the Commissioners, and they shall do all things necessary to provide for the safety and convenience of travellers, and the safety of property to be conveyed on such ferry.

Rate of tolls to be established and published.

140. When it has been determined to impose tolls on Municipal ferries, the Commissioners at a meeting shall make and publish an order specifying the ferries, and, with the sanction of the Local Government, the rates at which such tolls shall be levied.

Such rates may from time to time be varied with the like sanction.

When persons crossing river not liable to toll.

141. No person shall be liable to pay any toll for crossing any river or stream at or near a Municipal ferry unless he avails himself of the means provided by the Commissioners for crossing such river or stream.

Cancellation of ferry lease, &c.

142. Every lease of a ferry given by the Commissioners as hereinafter provided shall be liable to be cancelled at once, if it shall appear to the Commissioners at a meeting that the lessee has failed to make due provision for the convenience or safety of the public within fifteen days after being required to do so by a notice in writing from the Commissioners.

On the cancelment of a lease, the Commissioners may take possession of all boats and other appliances which have been used by the lessee in the working of the ferry; and may either retain the same permanently on payment of a fair price to the proprietor, or may retain them for such time as may be necessary, not exceeding three months, until they can make arrangements for such other boats and appliances as may be necessary, in which case the Commissioners shall pay a fair price to the owners for the use of the said boats and appliances:

Provided that within a week of taking such possession the Commissioners shall be bound to give notice to the said lessee of their intention to retain the said boats and appliances permanently, or of the period during which they intend to retain them, as the case may be.

Toll must be prepaid.

143. Any collector or lessee of tolls, or his agent, may refuse to convey any person or goods across a Municipal ferry until the proper toll has been paid, and may require any person who refuses to pay the toll to leave the boat and to remove his goods from it.

Penalty.

Any person who refuses to leave a Municipal ferry-boat or to remove his goods therefrom when required to do so under this section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees.

Keeping of unauthorised ferry.

144. No person shall keep a ferry-boat for the purpose of plying for hire within a distance of two miles above or below any Municipal ferry without the previous sanction, of the Commissioners, if he plies within the limits of the Municipality, of the Magistrate of the district, if without such limits, or of the Magistrate of the district and the Commissioners if one of the two banks between which he plies is within, and the other bank is without, such limits.

This section shall not apply to any private ferry which may be in existence at the commencement of this Act.

Penalty.

145. Whoever keeps a ferry-boat contrary to the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been required by a notice in writing to desist from such offence.

Of Tolls on Bridges and Roads.

Existing toll-bars.

146. The Local Government may, with the consent of the Commissioners, make over to the Commissioners any existing toll-bar within the limits of the Municipality, to be administered by the Municipality until the Local Government shall otherwise direct; every toll-bar while so administered shall be deemed to be a Municipal toll-bar, and the profits derivable from it, or such part thereof as shall be agreed upon between the Local Government and the Commissioners, shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Commissioners may establish toll-bar.

147. The Commissioners at a meeting, with the sanction of the Local Government, may establish a toll-bar and levy tolls on any bridge or metalled road which they may have constructed after the commencement of this Act, or at any place within the Municipality adjacent to such bridge or metalled road at which tolls may conveniently be levied on vehicles and animals passing over such bridge or road; and the profits derived therefrom shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund:

Provided that no such toll-bar shall be established, or tolls levied, otherwise than for the purpose of recovering the expenses incurred in constructing such bridge or road, and in maintaining such bridge or road in repair for the five years next after the construction thereof, together with interest on such expenses as hereinafter provided.

Commissioners to publish expenses, &c., of toll-bars.

148. Whenever a toll-bar shall have been established, and tolls shall be levied as provided in the last preceding section, the Commissioners shall at the end of each year publish, by causing it to be posted up at their office, an abstract account shewing—

(1) the amount of expenses incurred in the construction of such bridge or road, and in the maintenance of the same;

(2) the amount of interest which has accrued due thereon, at the annual rate of six per centum; and

(3) the amount which has been received from the profits of the said toll-bars since its establishment; and as soon as such expenses and interest shall have been recovered as aforesaid, such toll-bars shall be removed, and tolls shall no longer be levied on such bridge or road.

Rates of tolls to be established and published.

149. When it has been determined that tolls shall be levied on any such bridge or road, the Commissioners at a meeting shall make and publish an order with the sanction of the Local Government specifying the rates at which such tolls shall be levied.

Such rates may from time to time be varied with the like sanction.

Power of collector or lessee in case of refusal to pay toll.

150. Any collector or lessee of tolls may refuse to allow any person to pass through any Municipal toll-bar until the proper toll has been paid.

Penalty for refusing to pay or avoiding payment of toll.

151. Whoever having driven any vehicle or animal (not exempted from toll) through a toll-gate, refuses to pay the toll, or with intent to evade payment of the toll, fraudulently avoids passing through such toll gate, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

In case of non-payment of toll, vehicle, &c., may be seized and sold.

152. If the toll due on any vehicle or animal is not paid on demand, the person authorized to collect the same may seize such vehicle or animal, or any part of its burden, of sufficient value to defray the toll, and shall give immediate notice of such seizure to the Commissioners.

After such seizure the Commissioners shall forthwith issue a notice in writing that after the expiration of ten days they will sell the property seized by auction at such place as they may state in the notice; and if any toll, together with the cost arising from such seizure and custody remain undischarged for ten days after the issue of such notice, the Commissioners may sell the property seized for discharge of the toll, and of all expenses occasioned by such non-payment, seizure, custody, and sale.

Any balance that may remain out of the proceeds of the sale shall be returned, on demand, if made within twelve months, to the owner of the property, and if unclaimed after such period shall be credited to the Municipal Fund:

Provided that if, at any time before the sale has been concluded, the person whose property has been seized shall tender to the Commissioners, or the officer appointed by them to sell the property, the amount of all the expenses incurred and of the toll payable by him, the Commissioners shall forthwith release the property seized.

Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the surplus of the sale proceeds of any property seized under this section may be devoted to the payment of any fine imposed under the last preceding section; and any property which has been seized under this section may be sold for the realization of any such fine.

Of general provisions relating to Tolls on Ferries and Roads.

Lease of ferry or toll-bar.

153. The Commissioners may grant a lease of any Municipal ferry or toll-bar for any period not exceeding three years.

Table of tolls to be hung up.

154. A table of tolls legibly written in the vernacular of the district shall be hung up in some conspicuous position at each end of every Municipal ferry, and in some conspicuous position near every Municipal toll-bar, so as to be easily read by all persons required to pay the toll.

Penalty.

155. Whoever, being a toll-collector or lessee of a Municipal ferry or toll-bar, neglects to hang up a table of tolls as required by the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been required by a notice in writing to desist from such offence.

Composition in respect of toll.

156. The Commissioners, or the lessee of any Municipal ferry or toll-bar, may compound with any person for a certain sum to be paid by such person for himself, or for any vehicles or animals kept by him, in lieu of the ordinary toll payable.

Exemptions.

157. No tolls shall be paid for the passage of troops on the march, or of animals or vehicles employed in the transport of such troops, or of military or Government stores, or the persons in charge of them, or of military or police officers, or of any public or Municipal officer on duty, or of any person in their custody, or of any property belonging to them or in their custody, or of any vehicle or animal employed by such persons for the transport of such property, or of conservancy carts or other vehicles, or animals belonging to the Commissioners, or of the persons in charge of them, or of any animals, whether belonging to Government or otherwise, which are attached to a regiment or a Military Department, and which pass through a toll-bar, provided that tolls shall be leviable for conveying such animals over a ferry; and the Commissioners or their lessees shall not be bound to allow any person or thing not specified above to cross a ferry or to pass a toll-gate without payment of the prescribed toll.

But the Commissioners at a meeting may exempt any other class of persons or things from payment of the said toll; and in granting a lease of any ferry or toll-bar may stipulate that any Municipal servants and property and any other persons or things shall be allowed to pass without payment of the toll.

Police officers to assist.

158. In all cases of resistance to the person authorized to collect tolls, police officers shall assist when required, and for that purpose shall have the same powers as they have in the exercise of their ordinary police duties.

Penalty for taking unauthorized tolls.

159. Whoever, being authorized under this Act to collect tolls, demands or takes any higher tolls than the tolls authorized under this Act, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and in default of payment to one month's imprisonment.

Commissioners may be appointed to collect tolls in a navigable channel.

160. If the Local Government has declared that the provisions of the Canals' Act, 1864, or any other similar law for the time being in force, are applicable to any navigable channel which passes through the limits of a Municipality, it may, with the consent of the Commissioners, appoint the Commissioners to collect tolls as provided in section eight of the said Act until the Local Government shall otherwise direct, and the profits derivable therefrom, or such part thereof as shall be agreed upon between the Local Government and the Commissioners, shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

In such case the Commissioners shall exercise all the powers vested by such Act in the collector.

Local Government may order Commissioners to cease levying tolls.

161. The Local Government may at any time order that the Commissioners, or any person authorized by them, shall cease to levy any tolls under the last preceding section, and may at any time withdraw such order:

Provided that reasonable compensation shall be paid by the Commissioners to any farmer or other person who has entered into a legal contract with the Commissioners for the collection of such tolls, and whose profits under such contract are diminished by an order of the Local Government passed under this section.

PART V.

MUNICIPAL REGULATIONS WHICH SHALL BE GENERALLY IN FORCE IN ALL MUNICIPALITIES.

General.

Operation of this Part.

162. The provisions of this Part shall be in force in every Municipality, unless and until the Local Government shall otherwise direct.

Local Government may order provisions of this Part to be not in force in a Municipality.

163. The Local Government may at any time make an order directing that all or any of the said provisions shall not be in force in any Municipality, or in any part thereof; and the provisions mentioned in such order shall cease to be in force in such Municipality or part thereof from the date specified in such order.

The Local Government may at any time cancel or modify any order made under this section.

Procedure, when owners or occupiers required to execute works by Commissioners.

164. Whenever it is provided in this Part or in Part VI that the Commissioners or the Commissioners at a meeting may require the owners or the occupiers, or may require the owners and the occupiers, of any land to execute any work or to do anything within a specified time, such requisition shall be made, as far as possible, by a notice to be served as provided in sections three hundred and fifty-five and three hundred and fifty-six, on every owner or occupier who is required to execute such work or to do such thing; but if there be any doubt as to the persons who are owners or occupiers, such requisition may be made by a notification to be posted up, on, or near the spot at which the work is required to be executed or the thing done, requiring the owners or the occupiers, or requiring the owners and occupiers to execute such work or to do such thing within a specified time; and in such notification it shall not be necessary to name the owners or occupiers.

Every requisition as aforesaid shall give notice to the persons to whom it is addressed that, if they fail to comply with the requisition, or to prefer an objection against such requisition as provided in the next succeeding section, the Commissioners will enter upon the land and cause the required work to be executed, or the required thing to be done, and that in such case the expenses incurred thereby will be recovered from the persons who are required in such requisition to execute such work or do such thing.

Person required to execute any work may prefer objection to the Commissioners.

165. Any person who is required by a requisition as aforesaid to execute any work or to do anything, may, instead of executing the work or doing the thing required, prefer an objection in writing to the Commissioners against such requisition within five days of the service of the notice or posting up of the notification containing the requisition; or if the time within which he is required to comply with the requisition be less than five days, then within such less time.

Except as provided in the next succeeding section, such objection shall be heard and disposed of by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman.

Procedure if person objecting alleges that work will cost more than Rs. 300.

166. If the objection shall allege that the cost of executing the work or of doing the thing required will exceed three hundred rupees, such objection shall be heard and disposed of by the Commissioners at a meeting, unless the Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall certify that such cost will not exceed three hundred rupees, in which case the objection shall be heard and disposed of by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman:

Provided that in any case in which the Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall have certified his opinion as aforesaid, and the objection shall in consequence thereof have been heard and disposed of by the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, the person making the objection may, if the requisition made upon him is not withdrawn on the hearing of his objection, pay in the said sum of three hundred rupees to the Commissioners as the cost of executing the work or the thing required; whereupon such person shall be relieved of all further liability and obligation, in respect of executing the work or doing the thing required, and in respect of paying the expenses thereof; and the Commissioners themselves shall execute such work, or do such thing, and shall exercise all powers necessary therefor.

Chairman, &c., may make order after hearing objection.

167. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or the Commissioners at a meeting, as the case may be, shall, after hearing the objection and making any inquiry which they may deem necessary, record an order withdrawing, modifying, or making absolute the requisition against which the objection is preferred, and if such order does not withdraw the requisition, it shall specify the time within which the requisition shall be carried out, which shall not be less than the shortest time which might have been mentioned under this Act in the original requisition.

Order to be explained orally.

168. If the person making such objection be present at the office of the Commissioners, the said order shall be explained to him orally; and if such order cannot be so explained, notice of such order shall be served as provided in section three hundred and fifty-five on the person making the objection; and such explanation of, or service of, the notice of the said order shall be deemed a requisition duly made under this Act to execute the work or do the thing required.

Power of Commissioners on failure of person to execute work.

169. If the person or persons require to execute the work or to do the thing fail, within the time specified in any requisition as aforesaid, to begin to execute such work or to do such thing, and thereafter diligently to continue the same to the satisfaction of the Commissioners until it is completed, the Commissioners or any person authorized by them in that behalf may, after giving forty-eight hours' notice of their intention by a notification to be posted up on or near the spot, enter upon the land and perform all necessary acts for the execution of the work or doing of the thing required; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners or by the occupiers, if such requisition was addressed to the owners or to the occupiers respectively, and by the owners and the occupiers, if such requisition was addressed to the owners and the occupiers.

Commissioners may apportion expenses among owners.

170. Whenever any expenses incurred by the Commissioners are to be paid by the owners of any land as provided in the last preceding section, the Commissioners may, if there be more than one owner, apportion the said expenses among such owners in such manner as to the Commissioners may seem fit.

And whenever any such expenses are to be paid by the occupiers of any land, as provided in the last preceding section, the Commissioners may, if there be more than one occupier, apportion the said expenses among such occupiers in such manner as to the Commissioners may seem fit.

Apportionment among owners and occupiers.

171. Whenever any expenses incurred by the Commissioners are to be paid by the owners and occupiers of any land, as provided in section one hundred and sixty-nine, the Commissioners may apportion the said expenses among the said owners and occupiers in such manner as to the Commissioners may seem fit

Recovery of expenses incurred or fee chargeable.

172. Any expenses incurred, or fee chargeable, by the Commissioners under this Part or Part VI, may be recovered from the person liable to pay the same as an arrear of tax under sections one hundred and nine to one hundred and eighteen (both inclusive).

The demand for such expenses or fee shall be made by notice at any time within three months from the date on which the amount thereof shall have been ascertained.

Occupier may recover cost of works executed at his expense from owner.

173. Whenever any works or any alterations and improvements of which the Commissioners are authorized by this Part or Part VI to require the execution, are executed by the occupier on the requisition of the Commissioners, or are executed by the Commissioners, and the cost thereof is recovered from the occupier, the cost thereof may, if the Commissioners shall certify that such cost ought to be borne by the owner, be deducted by such occupier from the next and following payments of his rent due or becoming due to such owner, or may be recovered by him in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Liability to pay expenses or fees may be contested in Civil Court.

174. Any owner or occupier of land may contest his liability to pay any expenses or fees under this Part or Part VI, or may contest the amount which he has been called upon to pay, in a Civil Court of competent jurisdiction;

Provided that the fact of such action having been instituted shall be no bar to the recovery of the said amount in the manner provided by section one hundred and seventy-two.

Damages and compensation how to be determined.

175. Where any damages or compensation are by this Chapter directed to be paid by the Commissioners, the amount and if necessary, the apportionment of the same, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by a Civil Court of competent jurisdiction.

Method of proceeding before the Court.

176. In any such case which is to be determined by such Court, such Court may on the application of either party, summon the other party to appear at a time and place to be named in such summons.

Upon the appearance of the parties, or, in the absence of any of them, upon proof of due service of the summons, such Court may hear and determine such question, and for that purpose may examine such parties or any of them, and their witnesses, on oath or affirmation, and the cost of every such inquiry shall be in the discretion of such Court, which shall determine the amount thereof.

Recovery of damages by distress.

177. If the amount of damages or compensation ascertained in the manner above described be not paid by the party liable to pay the same within seven days after demand, such amount may be recovered under a warrant of such Court by distress and sale of the moveable property of such party; and the surplus arising from the sale thereof, after satisfying such amount and the costs of the distress and sale, shall be returned on demand to the party whose property shall have been distrained.

Of Offensive Matter, Rubbish, Privies, and Drains.

Establishments for removal of offensive matter and rubbish.

178. The Commissioners shall provide all establishments, cattle, carts, and implements required for the removal of offensive matter and rubbish.

Hours and mode of removal of offensive matter and rubbish.

179. The Commissioners at a meeting may, from time to time, by an order published as prescribed in section three hundred and fifty-three, appoint the hours within which it shall be lawful to remove offensive matter and the manner in which the same shall be removed, and may provide places convenient for the deposit thereof, and may require the occupiers of houses to cause the same to be deposited daily, or at other stated intervals, in such places, and may remove the same at the expense of the occupier from any house if the occupier thereof fails to do so in accordance with this Act.

Mehters must give one month's notice if they leave the service of the Commissioners.

180. Whenever such order shall have been published, no mehter, nightman, or other servant of the Commissioners employed to remove or deal with offensive matter or rubbish, shall withdraw from his duties without the permission of the Commissioners, unless he has given notice in writing not less than one month previously of his intention so to withdraw.

Any mehter, nightman, or other such person who after the said publication withdraws from his duties without giving such notice as aforesaid, shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, and shall forfeit all salary which may be due to him.

Commissioners may appoint hours for placing rubbish on public road.

181. The Commissioners at a meeting may, from time to time, by an order published as prescribed in section three hundred and fifty-three, appoint the hours within which only every occupier of any house or land may place rubbish on the public road adjacent to his house or land in order that such rubbish may be removed by the Commissioners, and the Commissioners may charge such fees as they may think fit in respect of the removal of such rubbish, with the consent of the occupier of any house or land, from such house or land, or in respect of the removal from such public road of any rubbish which has accumulated in the exercise of a trade or business.

Penalty.

182. Whenever any order, as provided in the last preceding section, shall have been published in a Municipality, every occupier of any house or land who shall place or who shall allow his servants to place rubbish on a public road at other than the appointed times, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Penalty on occupier of a house not removing filth.

183. Whoever, being the occupier of a house in or near any public road, keeps or allows to be kept for more than twenty-four hours, otherwise than in some proper receptacle, any dirt, dung, bones, ashes, night-soil or filth, or any noxious or offensive matter, in or upon such house, or in any out-house, yard, or ground attached to and occupied with such house, or suffers such receptacle to be in a filthy or noxious state, or neglects to employ proper means to cleanse the same, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Drains, privies, &c., under control of Commissioners.

184. All drains, privies, and cesspools shall be under the survey and control of the Commissioners.

Inspection of drains, privies, and cesspools.

185. The Commissioners or any officer authorized by them in that behalf, may inspect all privies, drains, and cesspools at any time between sunrise and sunset, after six hours' notice in writing to the occupier of any premises in which such privies, drains, or cesspools are situated, and may, if necessary, cause the ground to be opened where they or he may think fit for the purpose of preventing or removing any nuisance arising from such privies, drains, or cesspools; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner or occupier of such premises.

Commissioners may direct the use of disinfectants or deodorants for such drains, privies, &c. as are in a noxious state.

186. Whenever the Commissioners are satisfied that the existence of such privy, drain, or cesspool is attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, they may direct the use of such disinfectants or deodorants as they shall specify in such privy, drain, or cesspool in such quantities, or for such time as they shall think fit. The Commissioners shall, if necessary, themselves supply such disinfectants or deodorants for such use at cost price, and the expense thereby incurred shall be considered as a debt due, and be recoverable from the owner of such privy, drain, or cesspool.

Common privies.

187. The Commissioners may provide and maintain, in sufficient numbers and in proper situations, common privies and urinals for the separate use of each sex, and shall cause the same to be kept in proper order and to be properly cleansed.

Licensing of public necessaries.

188. The Commissioners may license such necessaries for public accommodation as they from time to time may think proper; and whoever shall keep any public necessary without such license, or having a license for a public necessary shall suffer the same to be in a filthy or noxious state, or shall neglect to employ proper means for cleansing the same, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and such license may be withdrawn.

Penalty for not keeping drain, &c., in proper state.

189. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any private drain, privy, or cesspool, shall neglect or refuse, after warning from the Commissioners, to keep the same in a proper state, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Power to require owners to clear noxious vegetation and to improve bad drainage.

190. Whenever any land being private property, or within any private enclosure, appears to the Commissioners, by reason of thick or noxious vegetation or jungle, to afford facilities for the commission of a nuisance, or by want of drainage to be in a state injurious to health, or offensive to the neighbourhood, the Commissioners may require the owners or occupiers, or the owners and occupiers of such land, within fifteen days, to clear and remove such vegetation or drain such land:

Provided that if, for the purpose of effecting any drainage under this section, it shall be necessary to acquire any land not being the property of the person who is required to drain his land, or to pay compensation to any other person, the Commissioners shall provide such land and pay such compensation.

Penalty.

191. Whoever, being an owner or occupier of land, fails to comply with the requisition mentioned in the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and to a further fine not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

All rubbish collected to be the property of Municipal Commissioners.

192 All rubbish and offensive matter collected by the Commissioners from roads, privies, sewers, cesspools, and other places, shall be the property of the Commissioners, who shall have power to sell or otherwise dispose of the same; and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Sewers, drains, &c., under control of the Commissioners.

193. All existing public sewers, drains, and other conservancy works, shall be under the direction and control of the Commissioners, who shall have power to construct any further works of that nature which they may consider necessary.

Of Bathing and Washing Places and Tanks.

All public streams, &c., to be under direction and control of the Commissioners.

194. All streams, channels, water-courses, tanks, reservoirs, springs, and wells, not being private property, shall for the purposes of this Act be under the direction and control of the Commissioners.

Bathing places, &c.

195. The Commissioners may, by order published at such places as they may think fit, set apart convenient tanks, or parts of rivers, streams, or channels, not being private property, for the supply of water for drinking and for culinary purposes, and may prohibit therein all bathing, washing of clothes and animals, or other acts calculated to pollute the water set apart for the purposes aforesaid; and may similarly set apart a sufficient number of the same for the purposes of bathing; and a sufficient number for washing animals and clothes, or for any other purpose connected with the health, cleanliness, or comfort of the inhabitants.

Penalty.

196. Whoever disobeys an order passed by the Commissioners under the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Power to require unwholesome tanks on private premises to be cleansed or drained.

197. The Commissioners may require the owners or occupiers, or the owners and occupiers of any land, within eight days, or such longer period as the Commissioners may fix, to cleanse any water-course, private tank, or pool therein, and to drain off and remove any waste or stagnant water which may appear to be injurious to health or offensive to the neighbourhood:

Provided that if, for the purpose of effecting any drainage under this section, it shall be necessary to acquire any land not being the property of the person who is required to drain his land or to pay compensation to any other person, the Commissioners shall provide such land and pay such compensation.

Penalty.

198. Whoever, being an owner of land, fails to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Of Obstructions and Encroachments of Roads.

Power to close a road or part of a road for repairs, or other public purpose.

199. The Commissioners may close temporarily any road or part of a road for the purpose of repairing such road, or for the purpose of constructing any sewer, drain, culvert, or bridge, or for any other public purpose.

Whenever, owing to such repairs or constructions, or from any other cause, any road or part of a road shall be in a state which is dangerous to passengers, the Commissioners shall cause sufficient barriers or fences to be erected for the security of life and property, and shall cause such barriers or fences to be sufficiently lighted from sunset to sunrise.

Penalty for erecting obstruction on road, drain, &c.

200. Whoever, without the permission of the Commissioners, by making any excavation or erecting any wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction, encroaches upon any road drain, sewer, aqueduct, or water-course shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Removal of future obstructions or encroachments in road.

201. The Commissioners may issue a notice requiring any person to remove any wall which he may have built, or any fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment, which he may have erected in, or on any road or open drain, sewer, or aqueduct, after the date on which the Bengal Municipal Act, 1876, took effect in the Municipality; or in case the said Act was not in force in the Municipality before the commencement of this Act, then after the date on which this Act may have been extended thereto; and if such person shall fail to comply with such requisition within eight days of the receipt of the same, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, order that such obstruction or encroachment be removed; and thereupon the Commissioners may remove any such obstruction or encroachment; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person who erected the same.

No person shall be entitled to compensation in respect of the removal of any wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction under this section,

Penalty.

202. Whoever fails to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section, within the period specified in such requisition, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day after the expiration of eight days from the issue of such requisition until the wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment is removed.

Procedure when person who erected obstruction cannot be found.

203. If the person who built or erected the said wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment is not known or cannot be found, the Commissioners may cause a notice to be posted up in the neighbourhood of the said wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment, requiring any person interested in the same to remove it, and it shall not be necessary to name any person in such requisition; and if the said wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment be not removed in compliance with the requisition contained in such notice within eight days of the posting up of the same, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, order that such obstruction or encroachment be removed; and thereupon the Commissioners may remove any such obstruction or encroachment and may recover the cost of such removal by sale of the materials so removed.

Any surplus of such sale proceeds shall on demand be restored to the owners of such materials, and, if unclaimed, shall, after the lapse of one year, be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Projections from houses erected in future to be removed.

204. The Commissioners may give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of any house requiring him to remove or alter any projection, encroachment, or obstruction erected or placed against or in front of such house which may have been so erected or placed after the date on which the Bengal Municipal Act, 1876, took effect in the Municipality, or in case the said Act was not in force in the Municipality before the commencement of this Act, then after the date on which this Act may have been extended thereto, if the same overhangs the road, or juts into, or in any way projects or encroaches upon, or is an obstruction to the safe and convenient passage along any road; or obstructs or projects or encroaches into or upon any aqueduct, drain, or sewer in such road;

and if such owner or occupier shall fail to comply with such requisition within eight days of the receipt of the same, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, order that such projection, encroachment, or obstruction be removed or altered, and thereupon the Commissioners may remove or alter such projection, encroachment or obstruction, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner or occupier so making default.

No person shall be entitled to compensation in respect of the removal of any projection, obstruction, or encroachment under this section.

Penalties.

205. Whoever fails to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section, within the period specified in such requisition, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine not exceeding ten rupees, for each day after the expiration of eight days from the issue of such requisition until the projection, encroachment or obstruction is removed.

Effect of order made under sections 201, 203, 204.

206. Every order made by the Magistrate under section two hundred and one, section two hundred and three, or section two hundred and four shall be deemed to be an order made by him in the discharge of his judicial duty, and the Commissioners shall be deemed to be persons bound to execute such orders of a Magistrate within the meaning of Act XVIII of 1850 (for the protection of Judicial Officers).

Houses projecting beyond line of road when taken down to be set back.

207. Whenever any house, part of which projects beyond the regular line of a road, or drain or beyond the front of the house on either side thereof, shall be burnt down or otherwise destroyed, or shall be taken down in order to be rebuilt or repaired, the Commissioners may require the same to be set back to, or beyond the line of the road, or the line of the adjoining house, and shall make reasonable compensation to the owner of such house for any damage he may thereby sustain.

Fallen house, &c., obstructing road or drain, to be removed by owner.

208. Whenever any private house, wall, or other erection or any tree, shall fall down and obstruct any public drain or encumber any public highway, the Commissioners shall direct the owner of such obstruction or incumbrance to remove the same within such time as to the Commissioners shall seem fit.

Power to trim hedges and trees bordering roads.

209. The Commissioners may require the owner or occupier of any land within three days to trim or prune the hedges bordering on any road, and to cut and trim any trees overhanging any road and obstructing the same or causing damage thereto.

Penalty.

210. Whoever fails to comply with a requisition under either of the three last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine not exceeding ten rupees for each day during which he fails to obey such order after he has been required to obey the same.

Of General Conservancy and Improvement.

Wells, tanks, &c., to be secured.

211. If any well, tank or other excavation, whether on public or private ground, be, for want of sufficient repairs or protection, dangerous to passengers, the Commissioners shall forthwith, if it appears to them to be necessary, cause a temporary hoard or fence to be put up for the protection of passengers, and may require the owners or occupiers or the owners and occupiers of the land on which such tank, well or other excavation is situated, forthwith properly to secure or protect such well, tank or other excavation.

Penalty.

212. Whoever fails to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Houses, &c., in a ruinous or dangerous state.

213. If any house, wall, structure or anything affixed thereto, be deemed by the Commissioners to be in a ruinous state, or in any way dangerous, they shall forthwith, if it appears to them to be necessary, cause a proper hoard or fence to be put up for the protection of passengers, and may require the owners or occupiers, or the owners and occupiers of the land to which such house, wall or structure is affixed, forthwith to cause such repairs to be made to such house, wall or structure as they may consider necessary for the public safety, or to remove such house, wall, structure or thing affixed thereto.

Penalty.

214. Whoever fails to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day after the expiration of eight days from the issue of the requisition until the said house, wall or structure is secured or taken down.

Power to enter upon possession of houses so repaired.

215. If the Commissioners shall have caused any repairs to be made to any house or other structure, and if such house or other structure be unoccupied, the Commissioners may enter upon possession of the same, and may retain possession thereof until the sum expended by them on the repairs be paid to them.

Sale of materials of houses, &c., pulled down.

216. The materials of anything which shall have been pulled down or removed under the provisions of section two hundred and thirteen may be sold by the Commissioners, and the proceeds of such sale may be applied, so far as the same will extend, to the payment of the expenses incurred.

Any surplus of such sale proceeds shall on demand be restored to the owner of such materials, and if unclaimed, shall, after the lapse of three years, be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Stray dogs to be killed at certain appointed periods.

217. The Commissioners may by published order appoint from time to time certain periods within which any dogs without collars, or other marks distinguishing them as private property, found straying in the roads or beyond the enclosures of the houses of the owners of such dogs, may be destroyed; and such dogs may be destroyed in accordance with such order.

Commissioners may offer rewards for destruction of wild animals.

218. The Commissioners at a meeting may offer rewards for the destruction of wild animals within the limits of a Municipality.

Names of roads and numbers of houses.

219. The Commissioners at a meeting may cause a name to be given to any road and to be affixed in such place as they may think fit, and may also cause a number to be affixed to every house; and in like manner may from time to time cause such names and numbers to be altered.

Penalty.

Whoever destroys, pulls down or defaces any such name, or puts up any name different from that put up by order of the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

PART VI.

Of Special Regulations.

Operation of Parts VI, VII, VIII, IX or X.

220. No provision contained in this Part, or in Parts VII, VIII, IX or X, shall apply to any Municipality, unless and until it has been expressly extended thereto by the Local Government in the manner provided by the next succeeding section.

Local Government may order the provisions of these Parts to be in force.

221. The Commissioners may apply, in pursuance of a resolution passed at a meeting specially convened to consider the question, to the Local Government, to extend to the Municipality all or any of the provisions of this Part, or of Parts VII, VIII, IX or X; or to exclude from the operation of the said provisions, or any of them, any place within the Municipality.

And the Local Government may thereupon order that such provisions shall be in force in the said Municipality.

Publication of order.

222. Every such order shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and the Commissioners shall, within fifteen days of such publication, cause a copy of the same, with a translation thereof into the vernacular of the district, to be posted up at their office, with a notice of the date on which such order shall take effect, and shall cause the same to be published as prescribed in section three hundred and fifty-three.

And the said provisions shall come into force in the Municipality from the date so fixed:

Provided that the date so fixed shall not be less than fifteen days after the publication under the said section, or more than three months after the publication of the order of the Local Government as aforesaid in the Calcutta Gazette.

Local Government may cancel or modify order.

223. The Local Government on a similar application made by the Commissioners may at any time cancel or modify an order made under section two hundred and twenty-one, and such cancellation or modification shall be published, and shall take effect in the manner prescribed by the last preceding section.

Of Privies, Drains, and Excavations.

Commissioners may require owner or occupier to repair drain, &c.

224. The Commissioners may require the owners or occupiers or the owners and occupiers of any land, within fifteen days, to repair and make efficient any drain, privy or cess-pool, or to close any cess-pool which is situated on such land.

Penalty for throwing rubbish into sewers.

225. Whoever, without the permission of the Commissioners, throws or puts or permits his servants to throw or put any offensive matter or the dead body of any animal on to any road, or who throws or puts or permits his servants to throw or put any earth, rubbish, offensive matter or dead bodies of animals into any sewer or drain belonging to the Commissioners, or into any drain communicating therewith, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees for every such offence.

226. Whoever causes or allows the water of any sink, sewer or cess-pool or any other offensive matter belonging to him or being on his land to run, drain or be thrown or put upon any road, or causes or allows any offensive matter to run, drain or be thrown into a surface drain near any road, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees for every such offence.

Penalty for allowing water of any sink, &c., or offensive matter to run or drain on any road.

227. Every person constructing a privy shall have such privy shut out by a sufficient roof and wall or fence from the view of persons passing by or residing in the neighbourhood: and the Commissioners may require any owner or occupier of land on which a privy stands to cause the same to be shut out from view as aforesaid within fifteen days.

Privies must be properly enclosed.

228. Any person constructing a privy and failing to have it shut out from view as aforesaid shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees, and any person failing to comply with a requisition under the last preceding section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees and to a futher fine, not exceeding five rupees, for every day during which the offence is continued after the expiration of the time specified in the said notice.

Penalties.

229. If any person, without the written consent of the Commissioners first obtained, makes or causes to be made, or alters or causes to be altered, any drain leading into any of the sewers or drains vested in the Commissioners, the Commissioners may cause such branch drain to be demolished, altered, re-made, or otherwise dealt with as they shall think fit; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person making or altering such branch drain.

Unauthorized drains leading into public sewers may be demolished.

230. If any person, in order to provide for the passage of water, or for any other purpose, shall, without the consent of the Commissioners, dig or cut up any public road or thoroughfare, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees and shall in addition be bound to pay the expenses incurred in filling up any excavation made by him or on his behalf in such public road or thoroughfare.

Penalty for cutting up road for passage of water without authority of Commissioners.

231. Whoever, without the written consent of the Commissioners previously obtained, makes or causes to be made, or alters or causes to be altered, any drain leading into any of the sewers or drains vested in the Commissioners by this Act, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Penalty for altering or making unauthorized drains leading into public sewers.

232. If any land, being within one hundred feet of a sewer, drain or other outlet into which such land may, in the opinion of the Commissioners, be drained, is not drained to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, the Commissioners may require the owner, within one month, to drain the said land into such sewer, drain or outlet.

Commissioners may require owner to drain land.

233. If it appear to the Commissioners that a group or block of houses may be drained or improved more economically or advantageously in combination than separately, and a sewer, drain or other outlet already exists within one hundred feet of any part of such group or block of houses, the Commissioners may cause such group or block of houses to be drained and improved by a combined operation; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be recovered from the owners of such houses in such proportions as shall to the Commissioners seem fit.

Group or block of houses, &c., may be drained by a combined operation.

234. If any branch drain, privy or cess-pool be constructed contrary to the directions and regulations of the Commissioners, or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or if any person, without the consent of the Commissioners, constructs, rebuilds or unstops any branch drain, privy or cess-pool which has been ordered by them to be demolished or stopped up, or not to be made, the Commissioners may cause such amendment or alteration to be made in any such drain, privy or cess pool as they think fit, or may cause the same to be removed;

and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person by whom such drain, privy or cess-pool was improperly constructed, re-built or unstopped.

Commissioners may alter any drain, &c., made contrary to their orders.

235. Whoever constructs any such drain, privy or cess-pool contrary to the directions and regulations of the Commissioners, or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or without the consent of the Commissioners, constructs re-builds or unstops any drain, privy or cess-pool which has been ordered by them to be demolished or stopped up, or not to be made, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Penalty for persons making or altering drains contrary to the orders of the Commissioners.

236. No person shall, without the written permission of the Commissioners, construct or keep any latrine, urinal, cess-pool, house-drain or other receptacle for filth, sewage, house-drainage or other offensive matter, within fifty feet of any public tank, or a tank which the inhabitants of any locality use.

The Commissioners may require any owner and occupier upon whose land any latrine, urinal, cess-pool, house-drain or other receptacle so situated exists, or may hereafter be constructed, to remove the same within eight days.

No latrine to be constructed within fifty feet of a tank.

237. No person shall, without the written permission of the Commissioners, construct a privy with a door or trap-door opening on to any road or drain. The Commissioners may require any owner or occupier upon whose land any such privy exists to remove the same within eight days

Construction of privy.

238. Any person constructing a latrine, urinal, cess-pool, house-drain or privy in contravention of the provisions of either of the two last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees; and any person failing to comply with any requisition under the said sections shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding five rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been required by a notice in writing to desist from the offence.

Penalties.

239. The Commissioners at a meeting may by a general order prohibit the making of excavations for the purpose of taking earth therefrom, or for the purpose of storing rubbish or filth therein, and the digging of cess-pools, tanks or pits without special permission previously obtained from them.

Power to prohibit excavations.

If any such excavation, cess-pool, tank or pit is made after the issue and publication of such order without such special permission, the Commissioners may require the owners and occupiers of the land on which such excavation, cess-pool, tank or pit is made, within eight days, to fill up such excavation.

Penalty.

240. Whoever shall dig or make, or cause or suffer to be dug or made therein, any such excavation, cess-pool, tank or pit without the written permission of the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty-five rupees for every such offence.

Of Obstructions and Encroachments on Roads.

Removal of existing projection from houses.

241. The Commissioners at a meeting may determine on the removal or alteration, as they shall think fit, of any projection, encroachment or obstruction which may have been erected or placed against, or in front of any house or any road within the limits of the Municipality, before the date on which the Bengal Municipal Act 1876, came into force in the Municipality.

Notice in writing shall be given to the owner or occupier of such house requiring him to remove or alter the said projection, encroachment or obstruction, or to shew cause before the Commissioners why he should not be required so to do; and if such owner or occupier shall fail to comply with such requisition within thirty days of the receipt of the same, or if after such owner or occupier shall have shewn cause against being required to remove or alter the said projection, encroachment or obstruction the Commissioners shall make an absolute order directing such removal or alteration, and if such owner or occupier shall fail to comply with such order within fifteen days of the date of the same, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, order such projection, encroachment or obstruction to be removed or altered; and thereupon the Commissioners may remove or alter such projection, encroachment or obstruction.

The Commissioners shall make reasonable compensation to every person who suffers damage by any removal or alteration under this section.

In determining the amount of compensation, the value of the land shall not be taken into consideration.

Effect of order made under the last preceding section.

242. Every order made by the Magistrate under the last preceding section shall be deemed to be an order made by him in the discharge of his judicial duty, and the Commissioners shall be deemed to be persons bound to execute such orders of a Magistrate within the meaning of Act XVIII of 1850 (for the protection of Judicial Officers).

Leave to deposit materials on, or to excavate or cross a road.

243. The Commissioners may grant permission to any person to deposit any moveable property on any road, or to make an excavation in any road, or to enclose the whole or any part of any road, and may charge such fees as they may fix for such permission:

Provided that such person undertakes to erect sufficient fences to protect the public from injury, danger or annoyance, and to light such fences from sunset to sunrise sufficiently for such purpose.

Hoards to be set up during repairs.

244. Every person intending to build or take down any house, or to alter or repair the outward part of any house, shall, if any public road will be obstructed or rendered inconvenient by means of such work, before beginning the same, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up in order to separate the house where such works are being carried on from the road, and shall keep such hoard or fence standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night:

Provided that no person shall put up a hoard or fence without the written permission of the Commissioners, and shall not keep up the said hoard or fence for a time longer than allowed in the said written permission.

Penalty.

245. Every person who begins to build or to take down or alter or repair any house contrary to the provisions of the last preceding section, or who, without license, erects or sets up any hoard, scaffolding or fence whatsoever, or who being licensed fails to put up such fence or hoard, or to continue the same standing, or to maintain the same in good condition, or who does not, while such hoard or fence is standing, keep the same sufficiently lighted during the night, or who does not remove the same within eight days, when directed by the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every such offence, and a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Of Building Regulations.

Roofs and external walls not to be made of inflammable materials.

246. The Commissioners at a meeting may direct that within certain limits, to be fixed by them, the external roofs and walls of huts or other buildings which are about to be erected, or the roofs or walls of which are about to be renewed or repaired, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or other inflammable materials.

Notice of new buildings to be given to the Commissioners.

247. Before beginning, within the limits of any Municipality, to build or re-build any house, the person intending to build or re-build such house shall give to the Commissioners notice thereof in writing, and shall accompany such notice with a plan, shewing the levels and width at which the foundation and lowest floor of such house are proposed to be laid, by reference to some level ascertained under the direction of the Commissioners.

Commissioners to signify disapproval within fourteen days.

248. Within fourteen days after receiving such notice as is mentioned in the last preceding section, the Commissioners shall signify their approval of the proposed levels and width of foundation, or if they disapprove thereof, they shall fix other levels and width of foundation in lieu thereof within the same time.

Houses built without notice, or contrary to provisions of this Act, may be altered by the Commissioners.

249. If such building as is mentioned in section two hundred and forty-seven be begun or made without sending such notice and plan as are mentioned in the said section, or at any levels different from those fixed by the Commissioners, within the said fourteen days, or in any other respect contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Commissioners may require the owner or occupier to cause such building to be altered or demolished, as the case may require.

If Commissioners fail to signify approval, &c., within fourteen days, parties may proceed without.

250. If the Commissioners fail to signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the levels and width of foundation shewn on such plan as is mentioned in the last preceding section, and to fix other levels and width of foundation within fourteen days after receiving such notice and plan as aforesaid, the person giving such notice may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, proceed to build or re-build the house therein referred to, according to the levels and width of foundation shewn on such plan:

Provided that such building or re-building be otherwise in accordance with this Act.

The word "house" in this and the three last preceding sections does not include a hut.

Erection of new huts to be under the control of the Commissioners.

251. It shall not be lawful for any person to erect a hut, or any range or block of huts or sheds, or to add any hut or shed to any range or block already existing or to enlarge any existing hut, without previous notice to the Commissioners, and the Commissioners may require such huts or sheds to be built so that they may stand in regular lines, with a free passage or way in front of and between each line of such width as they may think proper for ventilation and to facilitate scavengering and with such number of privies and with such means of drainage as to them may seem necessary, and at such a level as will admit of such drainage, and with a plinth at least two feet above the level of the nearest street.

Power to direct removal of huts built without notice.

252. If any such huts or sheds be built without giving such notice to the Commissioners or otherwise than as required by the Commissioners, the Commissioners may require the owners of the land on which such huts and sheds are built, and the occupiers of such huts and sheds, to take down and remove the same within one month, or to effect such alterations as they may deem necessary.

Penalty.

253. Whoever erects a hut or any range or block of huts or shed, or adds to any hut or shed, or to any range or block already existing, contrary to the provisions of section two hundred and sixty-one, and whoever fails to remove such hut, block of huts or shed, when required by the Commissioners to do so, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for every such offence, and to a further fine, not exceeding five rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Of Sanitary Measures with regard to Blocks of Huts.

Power of Commissioners as to inspection of huts.

254. Whenever the Commissioners at a meeting are satisfied, from inspection, or by report of competent persons, that any existing block of huts within the Municipality is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are constructed or crowded together, or of the want of drainage and the impracticability of scavengering, attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood, they may cause the locality to be inspected by two Medical Officers who shall make a report in writing on the sanitary condition of the said block of huts, and shall specify, if necessary, in the said report the huts which should be removed, the roads, drains, and sewers which should be constructed, and the low lands, which should be filled up, with a view to the removal of the said risk of disease.

On receipt of report Commissioners may cause notice to be served.

255. On receipt of the said report the Commissioners at a meeting may require the owners or occupiers of the huts, or at the option of the Commissioners, the owner of the land on which such huts are built, to carry out and execute, within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Commissioners for such purpose, all or any of the works specified in the aforesaid report or any portion thereof respectively, and if such owner, owners, or occupiers shall fail to comply with such requisition, the Commissioners themselves may execute all or any of such works.

Expenses may be recovered by instalments or remitted in case of poverty.

256. The Commissioners at a meeting may order that any expenses payable in respect of any work done by them in consequence of the failure of the owners or occupiers to execute such work when required to do so under the last preceding section, shall be recovered by instalments from the person liable to pay the same; or if it should appear to them that the said person is unable by reason of poverty to pay the same, may order the same, or any portion thereof, to be paid out of the Municipal Fund.

Sale of huts.

257. If any of the said huts be pulled down, the Commissioner shall cause the materials of each hut to be sold separately, if such sale can be effected and the proceeds shall be paid to the owner of the hut, or if the owner be unknown, or the title disputed, shall be held in deposit by the Commissioners, until the person interested therein shall obtain the order of a Civil Court of competent jurisdiction for the payment of the same.

Of the Regulation of the Sale of Food, Drink, and Drugs.

Markets, slaughter houses, &c., to be properly drained.

258. Every owner, or occupier, or farmer, of any place for the sale of meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or of any slaughter-house, within the limits of a Municipality, shall cause such drains to be made therein as shall be considered sufficient by the Commissioners, and (if required so to do by the Commissioners) shall cause all the floors and drains to be paved with stone or burnt brick, and shall also cause a supply of water to be provided, sufficient for keeping such place or slaughter-house in a clean and wholesome state.

Penalty.

259. If such owner, occupier, or farmer, after notice in writing given to him by the Commissioners that such place or slaughter-house is defective in any of the said particulars, and requiring him to remedy the defect specified within not less than thirty days, makes default therein, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for every day during which such default is continued after issue of the said notice.

Sale of unwholesome food or drink.

260. Any Magistrate, on the application of the Commissioners or any of their officers, setting forth that there is just cause to believe that any article which has been rendered, or has become noxious of unfit for use as food or drink for man, is in the possession of any person for the purpose of being sold or offered, or exposed for sale, within the limits of a Municipality, as food or drink for man, may grant a warrant to enter upon the premises of such person, and to search for and seize such article; and if it appear to the said Magistrate that the same is noxious or unfit for such use, he shall order it to be forfeited and disposed of in such way as to him shall seem proper.

Power to Commissioners to enter and inspect markets, shops, &c., and to seize unwholesome articles exposed for sale.

261. The Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may at all reasonable times, enter into and inspect any market, buildings, shop, stall, or place used for the sale of meat, poultry, fish, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, wine, spirits, butter, ghee, or other food or drink, or as a slaughter-house, and may examine any of the aforesaid articles of food or drink which may be therein; and in case any of the aforesaid articles of food or drink appear to be intended for the food or drink of man, and to be unfit for such food or drink, may seize the same;

and if it appear to a Magistrate that any of the aforesaid articles of food or drink is unfit for the food or drink of man, he shall order the same to be destroyed, or to be so disposed of as to prevent its being exposed for sale or used for such food.

Registry of shops for sale of European drugs.

262. No shop or place shall be kept for the retail sale of drugs recognized by the British Pharmacopœia, not being also articles of ordinary domestic consumption, unless the same shall have been registered in the Office of the Commissioners. Any keeper of such shop or place failing to register the same within two months after this section shall come into force, or within two months from the date of the establishment of such place, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees. The Commissioners shall, upon registration, grant the keeper of such shop or place a license which he shall be bound to display in some conspicuous part of his premises.

Certificated dispensers.

(2). No person shall compound, mix, prepare, dispense, or sell any drug in any such registered shop or place unless he be duly certified as a fit person to be entrusted with such duties under rules to be hereafter made for that purpose by the Local Government.

Penalty for uncertificated persons dispensing.

(3.) Any person not being a holder of such certificate who shall compound, mix, prepare, or sell any drugs in any such registered shop or place, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence, and any owner, occupier, or keeper of any such shop or place, who shall employ any such uncertified person to perform any one or more of such duties, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and shall be further liable, at the discretion of such Magistrate, to forfeit his license:

Provided that the provisions contained in clauses (2) and (3) of this section shall not come into operation until after the expiration of a period of six months from the publication of a notification to that effect in the Calcutta Gazette by the Local Government.

Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to apply to the sale of drugs used by practitioners of indigenous medicines, whether these are recognized by the British Pharmacœpia or not, when such drugs are not sold in a shop or place where medicines recognized by such Pharmacœpia are dispensed upon prescription.

Penalty.

263. Whoever uses any such place as is mentioned in the last preceding section without the same being registered, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and to a further fine not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Inspection of drugs.

264. The Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may, at all reasonable times, enter into and inspect any place kept for the sale of drugs, or in which drugs are sold, and if they have reason to suspect that any drug in the said place is adulterated, or by reason of age or the effect of climate has become inert or unwholesome, or has otherwise become deteriorated in such a manner as to lessen its efficacy, to change its operation, or to render it noxious, may remove the same on giving a receipt therefor, specifying the nature and quantity of the drug removed, and its approximate value; and if it appear to a Magistrate that the said drug removed as aforesaid is adulterated or has become inert, unwholesome, or deteriorated as aforesaid, he may order the same to be destroyed, or to be so disposed of as to him may seem fit.

Compensation if drug be not adulterated.

If it shall appear to the said Magistrate that the drug so removed is not adulterated or has become inert, unwholesome, or deteriorated as aforesaid, the person from whose shop or place it has been taken shall be entitled to have it restored to him, and it shall be in the discretion of the said Magistrate to award him such compensation as he may think proper, not exceeding the actual loss which has been sustained.

If the drug removed as aforesaid is not brought before a Magistrate, it shall be restored to the person from whose shop or place it was taken, and such person shall be entitled to compensation for any actual loss which he may have sustained by the removal of the said drug.

Of Burial and Burning-Grounds.

Registration of existing burial and burning-grounds.

265. Within three months from the date on which this and the six next succeeding sections may come into force as provided in section two hundred and twenty-two every place which is used as a burial or burning-ground for corpses shall be registered as such by the owner thereof in the Office of the Commissioners, but no fee shall be charged for such registry.

No burial or burning-place henceforth to be formed without leave of Government or of Commissioners.

266. No burial or burning-ground, whether public or private, shall be made or formed, or having lapsed into disuse, shall be again used as such, otherwise than with the permission of the Commissioners, or under the authority of the Local Government.

Commissioners may order certain burial or burning-grounds to be closed.

267. If it shall appear to the Commissioners at a meeting that any public or private burial or burning ground is dangerous to health or offensive to the tax-payers, or to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, and also that a suitable place for interment or burning, as the case may be, exists within a convenient distance, and is open and available to the inhabitants of the Municipality, the Commissioners shall give public notice of their intention to close such burial or burning-ground, and shall consider any objections which may be preferred within fifteen days of the publication of such notice; after considering such objections they may, by notification to be affixed on some conspicuous part of the ground, appoint a time, not being less than two months, for the closing of such burial or burning-ground.

If any building is attached to, and used in connection with, a burning-ground closed under this section, the Commissioners shall, if the owner of such building make an application to them in that behalf, take over the same on payment of a fair price therefor.

Prohibition to bury or burn in unregistered ground.

268. After the expiration of the three months, as mentioned in section two hundred and sixty-five, no corpse shall be buried or burnt otherwise than in a place which is borne on the register of the Commissioners as an open burial or burning-ground; but the Commissioners may grant special permission for a corpse to be buried or burnt elsewhere.

Penalty.

269. Whoever, after the expiration of the period mentioned in the last preceding section, knowingly buries or burns, or causes, procures, or suffers to be buried or burned any corpse in, or on any ground not registered as a burial or burning-ground, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Power to burn or bury corpse after a certain time an expense of estate of deceased.

270. If the corpse of any deceased person shall for a peroid of not less than twelve hours remain unburnt or unburied, the Commissioners shall cause such corpse to be burnt, buried, or otherwise disposed of, and the expense incurred for and incidental to the burning, burial, or disposal of such corpse shall be recoverable as a debt due from the estate (if any) of such deceased person. In every such case the corpse shall be disposed of so far as may be possible, in a manner consistent with the religious tenets of the deceased.

Commissioners may provide places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

271. The Commissioners at a meeting may, from time to time, out of the Municipal Fund, with the sanction of the Local Government, provide fitting places to be used as burial or burning grounds, and may impose a fee not exceeding two rupees upon every corspe buried or burnt within such burial or burning grounds.

Commissioners may provide for burial of paupers free of charge.

272. The Commissioners at a meeting may, from time to time, out of the Municipal Fund, provide for the burial and burning of paupers free of charge, within the limits of the municipality.

Of certain Offensive and Dangerous Trades or Occupations.

Certain offensive and dangerous trades not to be established within limits to be fixed by the Commissioners without license.

273. Within such local limits as may be fixed by the Commissioners at a meeting, no place shall be used without a license from the Commissioners, which shall be renewable annually, for any of the following purposes, namely—melting tallow;

boiling offal or blood;

skinning or disembowelling animals;

as a soap-house, oil-boiling house, dyeing-house;

as a tannery, slaughter-house, or kiln for making bricks, pottery, tiles, or lime;

as a manufactory or place of business from which offensive or unwholesome smells may arise;

as a yard or depôt for trade in hay, straw, wood, thatching-grass, jute, or other dangerously inflammable material;

as a store-house for kerosine, petroleum, naphtha, or any inflammable oil, spirit, or explosive substance;

as a shop for the sale of meat; or as a serai.

Such license shall not be withheld unless the Commissioners have reason to believe that the business which it is intended to establish or maintain would be offensive or dangerous to persons residing in or frequenting the immediate neighbourhood.

The Commissioners may levy a fee in respect of such license and may impose such conditions upon the license as they may think necessary.

This section shall not be applicable, until the expiration of one year from the date on which it may come into force as provided in section two hundred and twenty-two, to any land which may have been used for any such purpose before such date.

Penalty.

274. Whoever, without a license, uses any place for any of the aforesaid purposes within the limits of a municipality, after the expiration of the said time, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every such offence, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Commissioners may, in certain cases, order the use of slaughter-houses and the carrying on of dangerous and offensive trades, to be discontinued.

275. If it be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners at a meeting that any place licensed under section two hundred and seventy-three, or that any place in respect of which the period of one year as mentioned in the said section has not expired, is a nuisance to the neighbourhood, they may, notwithstanding anything contained in the said section, give notice to the occupier to discontinue the use of such place within one month after the date of such notice.

Penalty.

276. Whoever, after the expiration of such time, uses such place, or permits it to be used, in such a manner as to be a nuisance to the neighbourhood, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding forty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Milkman, &c., not to keep animals or cattle without license.

277. Within such limits as the Commissioners at a meeting may determine, no milkman, cartman, livery stable-keeper, or keeper of hackney carriages shall keep any horses, ponies, or cattle, exceeding ten heads for the purposes of trade, or of business, except in a place licensed by the Commissioners.

Such license shall be taken out half-yearly, in the first and seventh month in every year.

It shall be in the discretion of the Commissioners in meeting to grant any such license subject to such conditions as they may think fit.

Penalty.

278. Whoever being a milkman, cartman, livery stable-keeper, or keeper of hackney carriages keeps any horses, ponies, or cattle within such limits, without such license, and contrary to the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding twenty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Penalty.

279. Whoever, being the holder of a license under section two hundred and seventy-seven, breaks the conditions of such license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

Conditions for keeping pig-stye.

280. Within such limits as the Commissioners may direct, no person shall keep any pig-stye not being shut out from a road by a sufficient wall or fence, and in no place within such limits shall more than ten pigs or more than twenty sheep or goats be kept without the written permission of the Commissioners.

The Commissioners may charge an annual fee not exceeding two rupees for such permission, and may impose such conditions in respect of such permission as they may think necessary.

Penalty.

281. Whoever keeps any pig-stye, pigs, sheep, or goats, contrary to the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and to a further fine, not exceeding ten rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued after he has been convicted of such offence.

License for processions, &c.

282. The Commissioners at a meeting may declare that no processions shall be permitted to pass through any street in the municipality, and that no fireworks shall be let off in or near any public place, without the written permission of the Commissioners in that behalf.

Such permission may be granted subject to the payment of such fee as the Commissioners at a meeting, subject to the approval of the Local Government may impose, and subject to the observance of such conditions as the Commissioners shall think fit.

Provided that it shall be in the discretion of the Commissioners to grant or refuse such permission in any case.

Penalty.

283. In any municipality in which such declaration shall have been made, and published as provided by section three hundred and fifty-three, any person forming part of an unlicensed procession, or of a licensed procession, which shall in any way contravene the conditions imposed by the Commissioners, or letting off fireworks in or near any public place, without such permission as aforesaid, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Suspension or revocation of license, &c.

284. Any Magistrate before whom any person is convicted of an offence contrary to the provisions of this Act relating to the use of any place for a purpose for which a license is required, or of the non-observance of any of the bye-laws relating thereto made under this Act, in addition to the fine which may be imposed on such person under this Act, may suspend, for any period not exceeding two months, any such license, and the Commissioners, upon the conviction of any person for a second or other subsequent like offence, may cancel his license.

PART VII.

Of a Water-supply.

The Commissioners to provide water-supply.

285. In any municipality to which the provisions of this Part shall be extended, the Commissioners shall provide a supply of water within the limits of the municipality; and for this purpose it shall be lawful for them to cause such mains and pipes to be laid, and such tanks, reservoirs, or other works to be made and constructed, as shall be necessary for the supply of filtered water in the chief public streets: and they may also erect in all such streets sufficient and convenient stand pipes or pumps for the use of the inhabitants of the municipality for domestic purposes.

What are not domestic purposes.

286 A supply of water for domestic purposes shall not include a supply of water for animals or for washing carriages, where such animals or carriages are kept for sale or hire, or a supply for any trade, manufacture, or business, or for watering gardens or roads, or for any ornamental or mechanical purpose.

Pressure at which water must be kept.

287. The Commissioners at a meeting shall determine what pressure of water shall be maintained in their service pipes and mains, and during what hours such pressure shall be continued: and any rule made under this section shall be published in such manner as the Commissioners may direct, and shall not be altered except with the sanction of the Commissioners at a meeting.

Supply for business.

288. The Commissioners may supply water through a meter for purposes other than domestic purposes, and may, subject to such charges and rates as may have been fixed by the Commissioners at a meeting, lay down, or allow to be laid down, the necessary pipes and works of such dimensions and character as may be approved by them.

Householder entitled to certain supply of water for domestic use.

289. The Commissioners at a meeting may determine what quantity of filtered water shall be supplied to the occupier of every house, free of further charge, for every rupee paid to the Commissioners as water-rate on account of such house.

If the Commissioners have reason to believe that the occupier of any house consumes more filtered water than he is entitled to as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for them to provide a water meter at their own expense, and to attach the same to the water-pipes of the said house: and any water which may be used over and above the quantity to which the occupier is entitled as aforesaid, shall be paid for by him at such rate as the Commissioners at a meeting may determine.

Commissioners may provide filtered or unfiltered water for latrines.

290. It shall be at the option of the Commissioners to provide filtered or unfiltered water for all latrines and water-closets, and it shall be lawful for them to require that all latrines and water-closets supplied with water, filtered or unfiltered, shall be provided with a cistern of such size and description as the Commissioners shall direct, and all such cisterns shall be put up at the cost of the owner of the house or land so supplied with water.

Communication pipes, &c., to be made of required dimensions, and at expense of householder.

291. Every person paying the water-rate hereinbefore mentioned shall be entitled to lay down communication-pipes from the service-pipes of the Commissioners for bringing into his house or land a reasonable supply of water for domestic use:

Provided that the Commissioners shall be at liberty to cut off the supply of water to any house or land during the time the said house or land is unoccupied.

Such communication-pipes and the pipes and works within the house connected therewith, shall be of such character, dimensions and materials as the Commissioners shall fix and approve: and shall be made and constructed at the expense of the person requiring the same.

Communication-pipes, &c., must be made to satisfaction of officers of the Commissioners.

292. The communication-pipes and all fittings thereon leading water from the service-pipes of the Commissioners into any house or land, and the pipes, works and fittings inside the house or land, must in all cases be executed subject to the inspection and satisfaction of the Commissioners.

Such communication-pipes, works and fittings may be made by the servants and workmen of the Commissioners upon such terms as may be agreed upon between the Commissioners and the person requiring the supply, or subject to such charges as may be fixed by the Commissioners; and the Commissioners may require the amount necessary for the execution of such works to be paid or deposited before such works are executed:

and such charges and expenses shall be recoverable in the same manner as the water rate.

Power to enter premises.

293. Any officer authorized in that behalf by the Commissioners may, between the hours of seven in the forenoon and five in the afternoon, enter into or on any house or land supplied with water as aforesaid in order to examine all pipes, works and fittings connected with the supply of water, and to ascertain whether there be any waste or misuse of such water:

and if such officer at any such time be refused admittance into such house or land for the purposes aforesaid, or be prevented from making such examination, the Commissioners may forthwith cut off the supply of water from such house or land:

Provided that nothing herein before contained shall authorize an entry into any room appropriated for the zenana or residence of women, which, by the custom of the country, is considered private, unless a notice in writing of not less than four hours be given.

When pipes are out of repair, Commissioners may turn off water.

294. In the event of any pipes, works or fittings connected with the supply of water to any house or land being at any time found on examination by any officer of the Commissioners authorized in that behalf to be out of repair to such an extent as to cause waste of water, the Commissioners may cause the water to be turned off from such house or land, after giving notice in writing of not less than twenty-four hours, and may recover from the occupier of such house or land the expense incurred for turning off the water.

Water may be cut off on neglect to pay the rate.

295. If any person supplied with water shall neglect to pay the water-rate herein before mentioned at the times of payment thereof, or the charge made for the said water, when supplied for other than domestic purposes, the Commissioners may turn off the water from the house or land in respect of which such rate or charge is payable, and may recover the expense of turning off the water from such person:

Provided that the stopping or cutting off the supply of water shall not relieve any person from any penalties or liabilities which he may have incurred.

Occupier in whose house water is wasted liable to penalty.

296. The occupier of any house or land in which water supplied by the Commissioners under this Part is, from negligence or other circumstances under the control of the said occupier, wasted, or in whose house or land the pipes, works or fittings for the supply of water shall be found to be out of repair to such an extent as to cause waste of water, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Person causing waste of water liable to penalty.

297. Any person otherwise causing waste of water supplied by the Commissioners shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five rupees.

Commissioners at their discretion may allow person outside the town to take water.

298. It shall be within the discretion of the Commissioners to allow any person not residing within the limits of the Municipality to take or be supplied with water for domestic use on such terms as the Commissioners in meeting may from time to time prescribe; and any person taking or causing to be taken for use, outside the limits of the Municipality, water supplied by the Commissioners, without the permission of the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Penalty.

299. Before a connection for the supply of water from the service pipes of the Commissioners to any house or land is sanctioned, the Commissioners may cause all the works, pipes, and fittings within the said house or land to be inspected by an officer appointed by them in that behalf;

Before connection an officer of the Commissioners to cause all works and pipes to be inspected.

and the cost of such inspection shall be payable in advance by the person applying for such connection at such rates as the Commissioners in meeting shall from time to time direct; and until such officer shall have certified to the Commissioners that the works, pipes, and fittings have been executed and put up in a satisfactory manner, a connection with the Commissioners' service pipes shall not be permitted.

300. The connection with the service pipes of the Commissioners, as also the laying of supply pipes under any public road or thoroughfare, shall be executed by an officer of the Commissioners authorized in that behalf and by no other person; and the expense of making such connection shall be payable in advance by the person applying for the same at such rates as the Commissioners in meeting shall from time to time direct.

Connection with service pipes to be executed only by an officer of the Commissioners.

301. Any person who shall unlawfully flush, draw-off, divert or take water from any water-works belonging to, or under the control of, the Commissioners, or for any water or streams by which such water-works are supplied, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Obstructing or diverting water.

302. No works for introducing a supply of water to any house shall be commenced by the owner without sending a specification and estimate of the cost thereof to the occupier nor by the occupier without sending such specification and estimate to the owner.

Estimate and specification of works to be sent.

303. Except in the case of a special agreement to the contrary, the owner of any house or land shall bear the expense of keeping all works connected with the supply of water to such house or land in substantial repair:

Owner to keeps works in repair.

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the liabilities of parties under leases executed previous to the extension of this part to the Municipality in which the said house or land is situated.

304. All public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps and other water-works, whether made, laid or erected at the cost of the Commissioners or otherwise, and all bridges, buildings, engines, works, materials, and things connected therewith, or appertaining thereto, and also any adjacent land (not being private property) appertaining to any public tank, shall become vested in the Commissioners.

Tanks, &c., vested in the Commissioners.

305. The water-rate and all moneys collected, received or recovered for, or in respect of the supply of water or the execution of works, and all fines connected therewith, or in any respect relating to the water-supply, shall be applied by the Commissioners in defraying the expense of making extending or maintaining the water-works, in paying the interest of money borrowed for the water-works;

Application of rates and moneys received from the supply of water.

and in the liquidation of debts incurred in connection therewith, or for some other purpose connected with the supply of water.

PART VIII.

OF LIGHTING WITH GAS.

306. In any Municipality in which this Part shall have been introduced in the manner provided in section two hundred and twenty-two it shall be lawful for the Commissioners from time to time to submit to the Local Government, for its sanction, a plan for lighting with gas any portion of any area situate within the municipal limits, whether so lighted already or not, such portion of the said area having been previously defined by the Commissioners at a meeting held for that purpose. The Local Government shall cause the plan to be published for one month in the Calcutta Gazette, and the Commissioners shall publish it in the vernacular within the limits of the Municipality; and after such publication, and after consideration of any objections which may be raised to it, or alterations suggested in it, the Local Government may, if satisfied that the lighting proposed in the plan is proper and sufficient, sanction such plan, or may refuse its sanction thereto, or may return it to the Commissioners for alteration in certain particulars to be specified by it, and when altered may sanction it as altered. The Local Government shall cause its sanction to any plan to be notified in the Calcutta Gazette, and shall at the same time cause the plan sanctioned to be published in the said Gazette.

Municipal Commissioners may submit to the local Government a plan for lighting.

307. After notification by the Local Government in the last preceding section mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to impose an annual rate not exceeding three per centum of their annual value upon all holdings situated within such portion of the said area for the purpose of defraying the whole expense of lighting

Lighting-rate not exceeding three per centum may, after sanction of plan, be imposed on holdings.

Provided that, as regards any portion of the said area already lighted with gas, for the future lighting of which a plan shall have been sanctioned by the Local Government under the provision of the last preceding section, if it shall appear that the estimated proceeds of the said rate at three per centum will not be sufficient to defray the whole expense of such lighting, it shall be lawful for the Municipal Commissioners to impose a rate sufficient to defray the whole expense of lighting such portion.

Proviso as to portions already lighted.

308. The rate imposed under the last preceding section upon holdings shall be paid by the occupiers thereof by quarterly instalments in advance; but no rate shall be leviable until the lamps in the portion of the area to be lighted shall have been lighted; nor shall any rate be leviable for any quarter or portion of a quarter antecedent to such lighting. Arable lands and lands

Rate payable by occupiers quarterly in advance.

Arable lands, &c., exempted from rate.

used for pasturage, and buildings used exclusively as places of public worship, or applied solely to charitable purposes, shall not be liable to the rate.

Annual valuation how to be made.

309. The annual value of the said holdings shall be the value fixed by the Municipal Commissioners year by year under the provisions of this Act. And all the provisions in this Act contained, relating to the assessment and collection of the rate on houses, buildings, and lands, shall, except so far as they are modified by the provisions of this part, be applicable to the assessment and collection of the lighting rate.

Assessment and collection.

Commissioners may impose lighting-rate upon all persons assessed to the tax under section seventy-six.

310. If no rate upon holdings shall have been imposed under section ninety-one, but a tax upon persons shall have been imposed under section seventy-six, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners in lieu of the annual lighting-rate referred to in section three hundred and seven to impose a lighting-rate upon all persons assessed to the tax under section seventy-six. Such tax shall not exceed one-half of the amount payable under section seventy-six, and all the provisions relating to the assessment and collection of the tax payable on persons shall be applicable to such lighting-tax.

Power to assess owners in certain cases.

311. If any holding shall be occupied by more than one tenant holding severally, or shall be of less annual value than one hundred rupees, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to recover the rate from the owner of such holding.

Owner to recover from the occupier rates paid by owner.

312. Whenever any rate shall be recovered from any owner of any holding under the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be lawful for such owner, if there shall be but one occupying tenant of such entire holding, to recover from such tenant the entire amount of the rate which shall have been so paid by such owner; and if there shall be one occupying tenant of a part of such holding or more than one occupying tenant of such holding, then to recover from such tenant or each of such tenants such sum as shall bear to the entire amount of rate which may have been so recovered from such owner, the same proportion as the value of the portion of such holding in the occupation of such tenant bears to the entire value of such holding, subject, however, to the provisions of section three hundred and thirteen.

Owner may recover rate so paid as rent.

313. Every owner who, under the provisions of the last preceding section, may be entitled to recover any sum from any occupying tenant of any holding or of any portion thereof, shall have for the recovery of such sum all such and the same remedies, powers, rights, and authorities as if such sum were rent payable to such owner by such tenant in respect of so much of such holding as may be in the occupation of such tenant.

Occupier liable to the rate for time of occupation only.

314. Every occupier shall be liable to the lighting-rate for the time of his occupation. When any person shall have been an occupier for a part only of any quarter, he shall be liable only for so much of the rate for that quarter as may be proportionate to the number of days during which he shall have been an occupier. If he shall have paid the rate in advance, the amount paid in excess of the sum due under this section shall be refunded.

Excess paid in advance to be refunded.

No rate to be charged during vacancy.

No such rate shall be chargeable to any person on account of any unoccupied holding for the time during which it may remain unoccupied:

Notice of cession of occupancy to be given within seven days.

Provided always that when any person ceases to be the occupier of any holding upon which the rate has been assessed, he shall give the Commissioners notice to that effect within seven days from the date of the cessation of his occupancy. If the occupier fail to give such notice within such period, he shall be liable to the rate assessed on such holding for the whole quarter, although he may have occupied for a part only of such quarter; and in cases to which the provisions of section three hundred and nine apply, the rate assessed on such holding for the whole quarter shall be recoverable from the owner, if such owner has failed to give notice that such holding is unoccupied, within seven days from the date on which it ceased to be occupied.

Unknown owner or occupier how to be designated.

315. When the name of the owner or occupier of any holding is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice served, or proceeding held under this Act, as the owner or the occupier of the holding on which the rate is assessed, and without further description.

Situation of gas-pipe or other gas-work to be altered at the expense of the Commissioners.

316. If the Commissioners deem it necessary for the purposes of this Part to raise, sink or otherwise alter the situation of any gas pipe or other gas-work laid in any portion of the said area, they may from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipe or work to be raised, sunk or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Commissioners may direct:

Provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such pipe or work, or to prevent the gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Commissioners out of the Municipal Fund as well to the person to whom such pipe or work belongs as to all other persons.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Commissioners may cause the same to be made.

317. If the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk or altered in such manner as the Commissioners require, the Commissioners may themselves cause such pipe or work to be raised, sunk or altered as they may think fit:

Provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby, or the gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

PART IX.

OF THE CONSTRUCTION AND CLEANSING OF LATRINES.

Notice to be issued by the Commissioners.

318. In any Municipality to which the provisions of this Part shall have been extended in the manner prescribed by section two hundred and twenty-two, the Commissioners may issue a notice declaring that, from a date to be specified in such notice, they will maintain an establishment for the cleansing of public and private latrines within the limits of the Municipality, or any part thereof; and the Commissioners shall make suitable provision accordingly.

Commissioners may levy fees.

319. When such provision has been made, the Commissioners may levy fees, to be fixed on such scale, with reference to the annual value of holdings within the limits of the Municipality, or such part thereof as aforesaid, as the Commissioners at a meeting may from time to time direct;

but the fee shall not exceed three rupees per annum where the valuation of the holding amounts to, or is less than, twenty-five rupees; and the fee on any one holding shall not exceed four hundred and eighty rupees:

Provided that if, on the commencement of this Act, the owners or occupiers of any holding are already under engagement to pay to the Commissioners an annual sum exceeding four hundred and eighty rupees for the cleansing of their premises, such sum, or such other sum as may from time to time be agreed upon between them and the Commissioners, may be levied from them in accordance with the provisions of this Part.

Recovery of fees.

320. The said fee shall be payable by the occupier for the time being of the holding, or by the owner thereof under section three hundred and twenty-one, in quarterly instalments, and shall be recoverable in the manner prescribed for the recovery of the rate on the value of holdings in this Act.

Every instalment of the said fee shall be deemed to be due on the first day of the quarter in respect of which such instalment is payable.

The proceeds of the said fees shall be applied to the maintenance of the said establishment, and to the providing of public latrines, and generally to carrying out the provisions of this part.

A list of the said fees, and of the persons liable to pay the same, shall be published once in every year as prescribed in section three hundred and fifty-three

In certain cases fee may be levied from owner, who may recover from occupier.

321. If any holding is occupied in severalty by more than one person, the Commissioners may levy the said fee from the owner of such holding, who may recover from each occupier such sum as shall bear to the entire amount of the fee so levied the same proportion as the value of the part of the holding in the occupation of such person bears to the entire value of such holding.

Owner may recover fees from occupier as rent.

322. Every owner who, under the provisions of the last preceding section, is entitled to recover any sum from the occupier of any part of a holding, shall have for the recovery of the said sum all such and the same remedies, powers, rights, and authorities as if such sum were rent payable to him by the occupier in respect of such portion of the holding as may be in his occupation.

Commissioners may compound with occupier or owner of certain premises for fee.

323. The Commissioners, at their discretion, may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with any occupier or owner as aforesaid of any railway premises or of any premises used as a factory, dockyard, workshop, cooly depôt, school, hospital, market, court-house, or other similar place, for a certain sum to be paid by such occupier or owner in lieu of such fee.

Commissioners may levy a rate per head.

324. The Commissioners may, in lieu of the aforesaid fee, levy a rate per head, to be fixed by the said Commissioners at a meeting, on the number of persons living within or habitually resorting to, any such railway premises, factory, dockyard, workshop, cooly depôt, school, hospital, market, court-house or other similar place.

Commissioners may reduce or remit fee.

325. The Commissioners may reduce the amount of a fee payable under this Part, or may remit the fee if in their opinion the levy of it would be productive of excessive hardship to the person liable to pay the same.

Penalty.

326. Whoever refuses to pay any fee or rate due under this Part, or having compounded for the payment of a certain sum under section three hundred and twenty-three refuses to pay such sum, shall be liable, on conviction, to fine not exceeding three times the amount payable by him exclusive of the amount so payable.

Exemption from prosecution under section 189.

327. No person liable to pay a fee or rate under the provisions of this Part shall be punished with fine for neglecting or refusing to keep his privy in a proper state under section one hundred and eighty-nine.

Powers of servants of Commissioners.

328. All servants of the Commissioners employed for the purposes of this Part may, within such hours as may be fixed by the Commissioners, enter on any premises of which the occupier or owner is liable to pay a fee or rate as aforesaid and do all things necessary for the performance of their duties under this Part.

Commissioners may require nightmen to take out licenses.

329. The Commissioners at a meeting may make an order requiring all nightmen within the limits of the municipality, or any part thereof, to take out licenses, and to be servants of the Commissioners for purpose of removing offensive matter from premises within the said limits.

The Commissioners at a meeting may grant such licenses subject to such conditions as they may think fit, and may impose fees in respect of the same.

Subject to the approval of the Local Government, the Commissioners may make rules to define the duties of such nightmen, and from time to time may alter, add to, or repeal such rules; and any breach of such rules shall subjcte the offender to a forfeiture of license, and to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Commissioners may require latrine to be constructed, and in default may construct themselves.

330. If the Commissioners think that any latrine or additional or common latrine should be provided for any house or land within the limits of the Municipality, the owners of such house or land shall, within fourteen days after notice in that behalf by the Commissioners, or within such longer time as the Commissioners may for special reasons allow, cause such latrine to be constructed in accordance with the requisition of such notice; and if such latrine is not constructed to the satisfaction of the Commissioners within such period, the Commissioners may cause the same to be constructed, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners, and shall be recoverable as provided in section three hundred and twenty.

Commissioners may require list of persons in a holding.

331. The Commissioners may for the purposes of this Part, by a notice in writing, require the owner or occupier of any holding to furnish, within a time to be specified in the notice, a list of the number of persons residing in, or habitually resorting to, such holding.

Penalty.

332. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any holding, fails to furnish such list within the time specified in such notice, after being required in that behalf by the Commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

PART X.

REGULATION OF MARKETS.

Power to construct markets.

333. In any Municipality to which this Part shall have been extended in the manner prescribed by section two hundred and twenty-two, the Commissioners at a meeting may provide land for the purpose of being used as Municipal markets; and may defray the cost of providing such land and of all expenses necessary for the establishment of such markets from the Municipal Fund, and may take a lease of any market; and may charge rent, tolls, and fees for the right to expose goods for sale in such markets and for the use of shops, stalls, and standings therein.

All such rents, tolls, and fees may be recovered as arrears of tax under the provisions of sections one hundred and nine to one hundred and eighteen, both inclusive.

Definition of "Municipal market."

334. No place shall be deemed to be a Municipal market within the meaning of the last preceding section, and no place shall be deemed to be a market to which the following sections of this Part apply, unless at least thirty shops, stalls or standings are erected therein for the sale of goods.

Commissioners may prohibit use of unlicensed markets.

335. The Commissioners at a meeting may order that, within such limits as they may fix, no land shall be used as a market for the sale of meat, fish, butter, ghee, fruits, vegetables, and similar provisions otherwise than under a license to be granted by the Commissioners.

Power to grant licenses for markets.

336. When the Commissioners at a meeting shall have issued an order under the last preceding section, they may at a meeting grant a license for the use of any land as a market for the sale of provisions as aforesaid within the Municipality.

Duration of licenses and terms on which granted.

337. Every license granted under this Part shall be liable to the payment of a fee not exceeding twenty-five rupees, and shall be in force until the end of the year, and the Commissioners may grant such license, year by year, on the certificate in writing under the hand of the Chairman, annually renewed, that the land is fit to be used as a market for the sale of provisions as aforesaid.

Chairman bound to certify fit places.

338. The Chairman, upon the application in writing of the owner of any land, shall grant such certificate unless the land be defective for the purposes of a market in drainage, ventilation, water-supply or proper width of paths and ways.

Existing markets.

The owners or lessees of all land used as markets for the sale of provisions as aforesaid at the time of the extension of this Part to the Municipality, shall be entitled to receive a license for the current year without the certificate required by section three hundred and thirty-seven, but in subsequent years the license shall not be renewed without such certificate.

Licenses to be registered.

339. Every license under this Part shall be registered in a book to be kept for that purpose by the Commissioners in their office, in which shall be stated—

(a) the name and address of the owner of the land and market;

(b) the name and address of the lessee thereof, if any;

(c) the extent and boundary of the market;

(d) the description of articles sold therein, and (e) the days on which the market will be held.

Transfers to be registered.

340. Every transfer of interest in any such market shall be registered within two months after the date of transfer.

Unregistered markets to be deemed unlicensed.

341. Any market, the license of which, or the transfer of interest in which, shall not have been duly registered under the two last preceding sections, shall be deemed to be land used as a market without a license.

Penalty for using unlicensed market.

342. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any land wilfully or negligently permits the same to be used as a market for the sale of meat, fish, butter, ghee, fruits, vegetables or similar provisions without license under section three hundred and thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every such offence, and to a further fine, not exceeding forty rupees, for each day during which the offence is continued, after conviction for such offence.

Power to close unlicensed places.

343. The Magistrate, on the application of the Commissioners, may order any land, in respect of which a conviction shall have been obtained under the last preceding section, to be closed as a market place, and thereupon may appoint persons, or otherwise take order to prevent such land being so used; and every person who shall sell or expose for sale, meat, fish, butter, ghee, fruits, vegetables or similar provisions, on any land which shall have been so closed, shall be liable, for every such offence, to a fine not exceeding ten rupees.

PART XI.

OF THE REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

Registration of births and deaths.

344. Every Municipality, when required by the Local Government to do so, shall provide for the registration of births and deaths within the limits of its jurisdiction in accordance with the provisions of Bengal Act IV of 1873 (for registering births and deaths) or any other similar Act for the time being in force.

On requisition of Government, Commissioners to appoint Sub-Registrars at burning-ghats and burial-grounds.

345. The Local Government may require the Commissioners of any Municipality to appoint and maintain at each burning ghat and burial-ground for natives a Sub-Registrar for the registration of all corpses brought to such burning-ghat or burial-ground for cremation or interment.

Information required by Bengal Act IV of 1873, to be given to such Sub-Registrar.

346. Whenever a Sub-Registrar shall have been appointed for any burning ghat or burial-ground under the last preceding section, information of the particulars required by section eight of Bengal Act IV of 1873, to be known and registered may be given in respect of the death of any person whose body is brought to such burning-ghat or burial-ground for cremation or interment to such Sub-Registrar, and information so given shall be deemed to be information given to the Registrar of the district as required by the said section.

Section nine of Bengal Act IV of 1873 shall be applicable to all Sub-Registrars appointed under this Act.

Information of deaths in hospitals.

347. Whenever a death shall occur in any hospital within the limits of any Municipality in respect of which the Local Government has directed that all deaths shall be registered under Bengal Act IV of 1873, it shall be the duty of the Medical Officer in charge of such hospital forthwith to send a notice in writing of the occurrence of such death to the Commissioners in such form as the Local Government may prescribe; and in such case no other person shall be required to give information of such death to a Registrar under Bengal Act IV of 1873, or to a Sub-Registrar under this Act.

PART XII.

OF BYE-LAWS AND MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

Bye-laws in a Municipality

348. The Commissioners of any Municipality may from time to time, at a meeting which has been convened expressly for the purpose, and of which due notice shall have been given, make bye-laws not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act for—

(a) regulating the conduct of business at their meetings;

(b) regulating the time and mode of collecting the taxes mentioned in this chapter;

(c) regulating the conduct of persons employed by them;

(d) the prevention of the construction or opening of cess-pools;

(e) regulating the disposal of offensive matter, rubbish, and dead bodies of animals;

(f) the regulation and management of privies:

(g) regulating traffic in the streets;

(h) regulating or prohibiting the use of fire-balloons, fire-works, fire-arms or other missiles in the vicinity of public roads;

(i) for the regulation of burial-grounds and burning-grounds;

(j) for preventing the contamination of the sources of water-supply for domestic purposes;

(k) the registration of births and deaths;

(l) and generally for the purposes of this Act.

And the Commissioners of any Municipality to which Part X may have been extended may similarly make bye-laws for the regulation of markets.

The Commissioners may from time to time, at a meeting as aforesaid, repeal, alter or add to such bye-laws:

Provided that no fee or toll which is not expressly sanctioned by this Act shall be levied under any such bye-laws.

Confirmation of bye-laws.

349. No bye-law, and no repeal, alteration of or addition to any bye-law shall have effect until the same has been confirmed by the Local Government, and until the expiration of one month after the same has been published as provided by section three hundred and fifty-three, and no bye-law, and no alteration of, or addition to, any bye-law shall be sanctioned by the Local Government otherwise than on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting.

Penalties for breach of bye-laws.

350. The Commissioners at a meeting may, with the sanction of the Local Government, declare the penalties which shall be incurred by the breach of any bye-law, and any person committing a breach of any bye-law shall be liable to the penalty so declared:

Provided that no higher penalty shall be incurred by the breach of any bye-law than a fine of fifty rupees for every offence specified thereby, and a further fine of ten rupees for each day during which the offence is continued after the offender has been required by a notice in writing to desist from such offence.

Commissioners may direct prosecution for public nuisance.

351. The Commissioners may direct any prosecution for any public nuisance, and may order proceedings to be taken for the recovery of any penalties under this Act, and for the punishment of any persons offending against the same, and may order the expenses of such prosecution or other proceedings to be paid out of the Municipal Fund.

No prosecution for an offence under this Act to be instituted without consent of Commissioners.

352. No prosecution for an offence under this Act or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof shall be instituted without the order or consent of the Commissioners, and no such prosecution shall be instituted except within three months next after the commission of such offence, unless the offence is continuous in its nature, in which case a prosecution may be instituted within three months of the date on which the commission or existence of the offence was first brought to the notice of the Chairman of the Commissioners:

Provided that the failure to take out any license under this Act shall be deemed to be a continuing offence until the expiration of the period for which such license is required to be taken out.

Publication of order.

353. Every bye-law, order, notice or other document directed to be published under this Act shall be written in, or translated into, the vernacular of the district, and deposited in the office of the Commissioners, and a copy shall be posted up in a conspicuous position at such office, and in such other public places, as the Commissioners may direct; and a public proclamation shall be made throughout such Municipality by beat of drum, notifying that such copy has been so posted up, and that the original is open to inspection in the office of the Commissioners.

Levy of fines.

354. Fines under this Act may be imposed by a Magistrate on any person who is convicted of the office to which the fine attaches, and may be levied under the provisions of section of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

How notice, &c., may be served.

355 Every notice, bill, form, summons, or notice of demand under this Act may be served personally on, or presented to, the person to whom the same is addressed, or be left at his usual place of abode, with some adult male member or servant of his family; or if it cannot be so served, presented, or delivered, may be put on some conspicuous part of his place of abode; or of the land, building, or other thing in respect of which the notice, bill, form, summons, or notice of demand is intended to be served.

Service of notice on owner or occupier of land.

356. Where any notice is required to be given to the owner or to the occupier of any land, such notice, addressed to the owner or occupier, as the case may require, may be served on the occupier of such land, or otherwise in the manner in the last preceding section mentioned.

Provided that when the owner and his place of abode are known to the Commissioners or other authorities issuing the notice, they shall, if such place of abode be within the limits of their authority, cause every notice required to be given to the owner of any land to be served on such owner, or left with some adult male member or servant of his family; and if the place abode of the owner be not within such limits, they shall send every such notice by post in a registered cover addressed to his place of abode, and such service shall be deemed to be good service of the notice.

When the name of the owner or occupier is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him as "the owner" or "the occupier" of the land in respect of which the notice is served.

Tax not invalid for want of form.

357. No assessment or rating of tax on property shall be invalid for error or defect of form, and it shall be enough in any assessment, valuation or rating for the purpose of making such tax, if the property so assessed or valued is so described as to be generally known, and it shall not be necessary to name the owner or occupier thereof.

Holder of license to produce it when required.

358. Every person to whom a license has been granted under this Act shall at all reasonable times, while such license shall remain in force, if thereunto required by the authorities which granted the license or by any person authorized by them in that behalf, produce such license to the said authorities or to the person so authorized.

Penalty.

Whoever fails to produce his license when required to produce the same by any person authorized under this section to demand the production thereof, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Recovery of moneys due to the Commissioners.

359. All costs or other moneys which are due under this Act to the Commissioners of any municipality, may be recovered in the manner provided in sections one hundred and nine to one hundred and eighteen, both inclusive.

Power to sell unclaimed holdings for money due.

360. If money be due under this Act in respect of any holding from the owner thereof, on account of any tax, expenses, or charges, recoverable under this Act, and if the owner of such holding is unknown or the ownership thereof is disputed, the Commissioners may publish twice, at an interval of three months, a notification of sale of such holding, and after the expiry of not less than three months from the date of the last publication, unless the amount recoverable be paid, may sell such holding to the highest bidder, who shall, at the time of sale, deposit the full amount of the purchase money.

Any person may pay the amount due at any time before the completion of the sale, and may recover such amount by a suit in a court of competent jurisdiction from any person beneficially interested in such property.

After payment of the amount due to the Commissioners as aforesaid, the surplus, if any, shall be paid on demand to any person who establishes his right to the satisfaction of such Commissioners or in a Court of competent jurisdiction, or, if unclaimed for a period of three years, shall be transferred to the Municipal Fund.

Compensation for damages.

361. The Commissioners may make compensation out of the Municipal Fund to any person sustaining any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers conferred by this Act.

No action to be brought against the Commissioners or their Officers until after one month's notice of cause of action.

362. No suit shall be brought against the Commissioners of any Municipality, or any of their Officers, or any person acting under their direction, for anything done under this Act, until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing has been delivered or left at the office of such Commissioners and also (if the suit is intended to be brought against any Officers of the said Commissioners or any persons acting under their directions) at the place of abode of the person against whom such suit is threatened to be brought, stating the cause of suit and the name and place of abode of the person who intends to bring the suit; and unless such notice be proved, the Court shall find for the defendant.

Every such action shall be commenced within three months next after the accrual of the cause of action, and not afterwards.

If any such person to whom any such notice is given shall before suit is brought, tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover.

Chaukidari chakran lands.

363. Notwithstanding anything contained in, Section three of Bengal Act VI of 1870, (an Act to provide for the appointment, dismissal, and maintenance of village chaukidars) the provisions of Part II of the said Act, relating to chaukidari chakran lands, shall be applicable to all such lands which have been assigned before the commencement of the said Act for the benefit of any part of a Municipality, and all duties and functions which the panchait of a village or any member thereof is required to discharge under the provisions of the said Part, shall be discharged, and all powers which the panchait of a village or any member thereof is authorized to exercise under the said Part, shall be exercised by the Commissioners of such municipality, and the proceeds of the assessment on such lands made under the said Part shall be paid into the Municipal Fund, and shall be available for the purposes of such fund.

Police officers to report offences and to arrest unknown offenders.

364. All Police Officers shall give immediate information to the Commissioners of the Municipality of any offence committed against this Act.

Any Police Officer may arrest any person committing in his view any offence against this Act if the name and address of such person be unknown to him, or if such person decline to give his name and address, or if the Police Officer shall have reason to doubt the accuracy of such name and address, if given, and such person may be detained until his name and address shall be correctly ascertained, or until he shall be brought up at once before a Magistrate.

Penalty on Officers, &c., taking unauthorized fees.

365. If any person employed under this Act (not being a public servant within the meaning of section twenty-one of the Indian Penal Code) shall accept or obtain, or agree to accept or attempt to obtain, from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever, other than legal remuneration, as a reward for doing, or forbearing to do any official act, or for showing or forbearing to show in the excise of his official functions, favour or disfavour to any person, or for rendering or attempting to render any service or disservice to any person with the Commissioners or with any public servant or with the Government as such, he shall be punished with imprisonment, either simple or rigorous as provided in Section fifty-three of the Indian Penal Code, for a term which may extended to three years, or with a fine not exceeding five thousand rupees, or with both.

Saving Clause.

366. Nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to

(a) render lawful any act or omission on the part of any person, which, but for this Act, would by law be deemed to be a nuisance:

(b) exempt any person guilty of nuisance from a suit in respect thereof:

(c) affect any enactment not hereby expressly repealed.

Acts of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

NUMBER AND YEAR.	Subject.	EXTENT OF REPEAL.
V of 1873 ...	To provide for the levy of a lighting rate in Howrah.	The whole Act.
V of 1876 ...	To amend and consolidate the law relating to municipalities.	Ditto.
VI of 1878	To provide for the cleansing and construction of latrines in first class municipalities.	Ditto.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to modify and extend the present Act relating to Municipalities in Bengal in such a manner as to give the people a larger share in the management of their own affairs. As the changes introduced are considerable, it has been thought more convenient to repeal the existing law, and to pass a revised and consolidated measure, than to introduce a merely amending Bill.

The present Act V of 1876 relates to institutions of four different kinds—Municipalities of the first class, Municipalities of the second class, Unions, and Stations. It seems unnecessary to retain these distinctions. There is practically very little difference between the two classes of Municipalities: and there are only two stations under the Act, both of which can without difficulty be raised to the rank of Municipalities. Unions are more numerous, and it will perhaps be found that some of these are not sufficiently advanced to be entrusted with Municipal responsibilities. Such Unions will be placed under the Local Boards which it is intended to establish by a separate Act of the Legislature, while the more fully developed unions will be treated as Municipalities.

Some important changes have been introduced into the constitution of the Municipalities. It is intended that the Commissioners shall as a rule be elected by the rate-payers, the Government reserving only a power to nominate one-third of the whole number of Commissioners. No ex-officio Commissioners will be appointed, and the existing limitation of the number of salaried officers of Government will be retained. The provisions of the present Act. for the retirement of Commissioners by rotation, have been omitted; and it is proposed that the whole body of Commissioners, as well as the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, shall remain in office for three years. The Chairman will either be appointed by Government, or will be elected by the Commissioners: the Vice-Chairman will, as at present, be elected by the Commissioners.

For the control now exercised over municipal proceedings by District Officers and Commissioners of Divisions, will be substituted a system of supervision and regulation by some central authority, the constitution and functions of which are not yet precisely defined. In the Bill as at present drafted, this authority is referred to simply as "the Controlling authority." Opportunity will be taken, when the Bill is in Select Committee, to introduce a more exact wording into the sections relating to this part of the question.

As regards the rest of the Bill, it may be said generally that the principle has been adopted that the Commissioners of an elective Municipality may be expected to exercise their powers in accordance with the wishes, and in the furtherance of the interests, of the general body of rate-payers: and that consequently such powers as they may desire to exercise should be freely conceded to them. Those sections of the Bill which apply to all Municipalities alike do not materially differ from the provisions of the present law. But the Bill greatly enlarges the powers of those Municipalities which may wish to adopt more advanced schemes of town conservancy and improvement. These powers are given in Parts VI to X of the Bill, and it is expressly declared that no provisions in any of these Parts shall be extended to any Municipality, except at the request of the Commissioners at a meeting specially convened for the purpose. Part VI is drawn upon the lines of Part VII of the existing Act. Part VII authorizes the Commissioners to establish a water-supply and to levy a water-rate. Part VIII contains analogous provisions for lighting with gas, and for the levy of a lighting rate. Part IX is based upon the existing Act VI (B.C.) of 1878, and deals with the construction and cleansing of latrines. Part X is substantially the same as Part IX of the present Act, and gives power to establish and regulate markets.

There are, of course, many of the above provisions which are inapplicable to the circumstances of an average mofussil Municipality. But it may be anticipated that the Commissioners will recognize this fact, and will apply to be invested only with those powers which the rate-payers may desire them to exercise, and which are suited to the stage of development which the Municipality may have reached, or may be capable of attaining.

Part V of the present Act, relating to Municipal Police, has been omitted from the Bill. Howrah and the Suburbs of Calcutta are the only Municipalities which have not already been relieved from the charge of maintaining the police force required for their watch and ward, and a separate Bill to meet the cases of these two Municipalities will be introduced hereafter. As the Bill does not recognize Unions and Stations, Chapters III and IV of the present Act have also been omitted.

H. J. REYNOLDS.

The 2nd January 1883.

C. H. REILY,
Offg. Asst. Secy. to the Govt of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 6th January 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon in six weeks:—

A Bill to authorize the making and to regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of road tramways within the territories subject to the Government of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal:

It is enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement of Act.

1. This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Bengal Tramways Act, 1883." It shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

Interpretation.

2. For the purposes of this Act, the terms hereinafter mentioned shall, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, have the meanings hereinafter assigned to them.

"Local authority."

The term "Local authority" shall mean (1) bodies of persons for the time being appointed or elected to conduct the affairs of any municipality under Bengal Act V of 1876, or other law for the time being in force for the purpose of regulating municipalities in Bengal; (2) any Board, Committee, Council, Department or other body or person in whom a road as defined by this Act is vested, or who have the power to maintain or repair such road.

"Area."

The term "Area" in relation to a local authority shall mean the area within the jurisdiction of such local authority.

"Municipality."

The term "Municipality" shall mean any place in which Bengal Act V of 1876, or any other law for the time being in respect of Bengal municipalities, is in force.

"Road."

The term "Road" shall mean any carriage way, being a public thoroughfare, and the carriage way of any bridge forming part of or leading to the same.

"Tramway."

The term "Tramway" shall mean a tramway constructed under this Act.

PART I.

Orders by the Local Government authorizing the construction of Tramways.

By whom orders authorising the construction of tramways may be obtained.

3. An order made by the Local Government authorising the construction of any tramways in any municipality or area may be obtained by—

1st.—The local authority of such municipality or area.

2nd.—Any person, persons, corporation or company with the consent of such local authority.

And any such local authority, person, persons, corporation or company shall be deemed to be "promoters" of a tramway, and are in this Act referred to as "the promoters."

When applications for authority to construct tramways may be made.

No application shall be made to the Local Government for the purpose of authorising the construction of tramways in a municipality or area until a resolution, approving of the intention to make such application, shall be passed at a special meeting of the members constituting the local authority in such municipality or area.

Such special meeting shall not be held unless a month's previous notice of the same and of the purpose thereof has been given in a manner in which notices of meetings of such local authority are usually given, and such notice shall require that all objections to the proposed tramways shall be submitted for the consideration of the local authority before the date fixed for the special meeting.

Such resolution shall not be passed unless two-thirds of the members constituting such local authority are present and vote at such special meeting and a majority of those present and voting concur in the resolution.

Local Government may in certain cases dispense with consent of local authority.

4. Where it is proposed to lay down a tramway in two or more areas, and any local authority having jurisdiction in any of such areas does not consent thereto, the Local Government may nevertheless make an order authorising the construction of such tramway if it is satisfied after enquiry that two-thirds of the length of such tramway is proposed to be laid in an area or areas, the local authority of which area or areas do consent thereto.

Documents to be forwarded with application.

5. At the time of making an application for such order, the promoters shall also forward to the Local Government—

1st.—A memorial signed by the promoters descriptive of the undertaking.

2nd.—A copy of the proceedings and resolution of the special meeting held under the provisions of section three.

3rd.—A copy of the provisional agreement made between the promoters and local authority, where the promoters are not themselves the local authority.

4th.—An estimate of the proposed works, if any, signed by the persons making the same.

5th.—All necessary maps, plans, sections, and drawings of the proposed work.

Local Government to determine on application and objection.

6. The Local Government shall consider the application and may, if it think fit, direct an enquiry as to the propriety of proceeding upon such application, and it shall consider any objection thereto that may be filed on or before such day as it may from time to time appoint, and shall determine whether or not the promoters may proceed with the application.

Where it appears to the Local Government expedient and proper that the application should be granted with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, the Local Government may settle and make an order accordingly, and such order shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Local Government may make and publish order.

Every such order shall empower the promoters therein specified to make the tramway upon the gauge and in manner therein described, and shall contain such provisions and prescribe such penalties for default as (subject to the provisions of this Act) the Local Government according to the nature of the application and the facts and circumstances of each case thinks fit.

Form and contents of order.

Where the promoters are not the local authority, the order shall set forth the agreement made between the promoters and the local authority or authorities.

7. The Local Government on the application of any promoters empowered by an order to construct a tramway may from time to time revoke, amend or vary such order by a further order:

Power to revoke, amend or vary order.

Provided that whenever the promoters are not the local authority, the Local Government shall, before passing such order, call upon the local authority to state any objection they may have to such application.

8. Subject to and in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, on a joint application, or on two or more separate applications, settle and make an order empowering two or more local authorities, respectively, jointly to construct the whole, or separately to construct parts, of a tramway, and jointly or separately to own the whole or parts thereof; and all the provisions of this Act, which relate to the construction of tramways, shall extend and apply to the construction of the whole, and the separate parts of such tramway as last aforesaid; and the form of the order may be adapted according to the circumstances of the case.

Power to authorise joint work.

9. If the promoters empowered by any order under this Act to make a tramway do not, within the period prescribed in such order, complete the tramway and open it for public traffic; or,

Promoters' powers to cease at expiration of prescribed time.

if the works are not substantially commenced within the latest date prescribed in such order for their commencement; or, if the works, having been commenced, are suspended without a reason sufficient in the opinion of the Local Government to warrant such suspension; the powers given by the order to the promoters for constructing such tramway, executing such works, or otherwise in relation thereto, shall cease to be exercised to the extent and in the manner specified in such order.

A notice in the Calcutta Gazette to the effect that a tramway has not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the works have not been substantially commenced, or that they have been suspended without sufficient reason, shall be conclusive evidence for the purpose of this section of such non-completion, non commencement or suspension

10. When the local authority of any area are the promoters of any tramway, the expenses incurred by them in constructing and working such tramway under the provisions of this Act, or the expenses preparatory thereto, may be paid out of the funds under the control of such local authority, and the payment thereof shall be deemed to be an object to which such funds shall be applicable.

Payment of expenses when local authority are promoters.

When the local authority are not the promoters, they may fix and demand from the promoters such rent for the use of roads as may be agreed upon.

Rent for use of road when local authority are not promoters.

11. Any moneys received by any local authority by way of rent or tolls in respect of any tramway constructed and worked under the provisions of this Act may be applied by them to the purposes for which other funds under the control of such local authority may be applied.

Application of rent or tolls.

12. The Local Government may from time to time make, and when made, may rescind, annul or add to any rules it may be expedient to make for the purpose of carrying this Act into execution.

Power to make rules.

PART II.

Construction of tramways.

13. Every tramway shall be constructed and maintained on such gauge and in such manner as may be specified in the order of the Local Government empowering the construction of such tramway, and before the work of construction is begun, the maps, drawings, and specification shewing the proposed construction of such tramway shall be submitted to the local authority and be approved by it, and the cars and carriages intended to run on the tramways shall also be of such construction and furnished with such brakes and other appliances as shall have been approved by such local authority.

Form in which tramways are to be constructed and maintained.

14. The promoters may from time to time, for the purpose of constructing and maintaining any tramways under this Act, open and break up the soil and pavement of any of the roads upon which the construction and maintenance of such tramway has been authorized by the order of the Local Government in that behalf, and therein lay sleepers and rails, and repair, alter or remove the same; and may, for the purposes aforesaid, do in and on such roads all other acts which shall from time to time be necessary for constructing and maintaining their tramways:

Power to break up streets.

Provided that when the powers granted under this section shall be exercised by the promoters, who are not the local authority, such powers shall be exercised subject to the following regulations:—

1st.—They shall give to the local authority notice in writing of their intention to open or break up any such road, specifying the time at which they will begin to do so, and the portion of the road proposed to be opened or broken up. Such notice to be given at least seven days before the commencement of the work.

2nd.—They shall not open or break up or alter the level of any such road, except under the superintendence and to the reasonable satisfaction of the local authority, for which superintendence the promoters shall pay all reasonable expenses, unless the local authority neglect to give such superintendence at the time specified in the notice, or discontinue the same during the work.

3rd.—They shall not, without the consent of the local authority, open or break up at any one time a greater length than a quarter of a mile in any one length and shall leave an interval of at least a quarter of a mile between any two such places at which they may open or break up such road.

4th.—They shall, with all convenient speed, and in all cases within two calendar months at the most, unless the local authority otherwise consent in writing, complete the work for which the said road shall be broken up, and fill in the ground, and make good the surface, and, to the satisfaction of the local authority, restore the road to as good a condition as that in which it was before it was opened or broken up, and clear away all surplus materials or rubbish occasioned thereby.

5th.—They shall, in the meantime, when such road is opened or broken up, cause it to be fenced and watched, and to be properly lighted at night.

6th.—They shall make good all damage done to the gas and water-pipes, sewers, drains, culverts, bridges, and fences whether belonging to the local authority or to private individuals, by the disturbance thereof, and shall not cause any interruption in the supply of gas in or through any main or pipe, or the flow of water through any pipe, drain, culvert, bridge, or other waterway; if they fail to make such damage good, or to remove such interruption within reasonable time, the local authority may, without prejudice to the penalties payable under section twenty-nine, cause the same to to made good at the promoters' expense.

Promoters to keep the tramway roads in proper repair.

15. The promoters shall, at their own expense at all times, maintain and keep in good condition and repair, in such manner as the local authority shall direct, the rails of which any of their tramways shall for the time being consist, and so much of any road as lies between the rails of any tramway; and in the case of double lines or turnouts or sidings, the portion of the road between the tramways, and in every case so much of the road as extends eighteen inches beyond the rails of and on each side of any such tramway; and in the course of carrying out repairs, it shall not be necessary to give notice thereof to the local authority.

Promoters not to obstruct ordinary traffic.

16. In exercising the powers given to them by the last two preceding sections, the promoters shall arrange their work so as to afford the least possible obstruction to the ordinary traffic of the roads or to the ordinary means of approach to houses situated on either side of the roads, and so as to admit of as free and unrestricted entry at all times into the sewers, drains, culverts, and bridges for the time being in use, as is possible under the circumstances, and also so as to enable proper repairs to be made to water or gas pipes by the direction of the local authority.

Reservation of right of public to use roads.

17. Nothing in this Act, or in any bye-law made under this Act, shall take away or abridge the right of the public to pass along or across every or any part of any road along or across which any tramway is laid, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange wheels or wheels suitable to run on rails. But the right of the public shall not include the use of any new roadway, embankment or earthwork constructed or acquired for the special and exclusive use of the tramway.

Right of user only.

18. Notwithstanding anything in this Act contained the promoters shall not acquire, or be deemed to acquire, any right other than that of user of any road along or across which they lay any tramway.

PART III.

Working of Tramways.

No tramway to be opened without certificate from Engineer.

19. No tramway shall be opened for public traffic until the same has been inspected and certified by an Engineer, or other officer appointed in that behalf by the Local Government, to be fit for such traffic.

Local authority may lease or take tolls.

20. When a tramway has been completed under the provisions of this Act and certified to be fit to be opened for public traffic under the last preceding section, the local authority or other promoters may, subject to the provisions of this Act, place and run carriages on such tramway and demand and take tolls and charges in respect of the use of such carriages; or may, by lease, to be approved of by the Local Government, demise to any person, persons, corporation or company the right of user by such person, persons, corporation or company of the tramway, and of demanding and taking in respect of the same the tolls and charges authorised; or such authority may leave such tramway open to the public, and may in respect of such user demand and take the tolls and charges authorised.

Carriages how to be worked.

21. The cars and carriages of the promoters on the lines of the tramways shall be worked with such power, animal, mechanical or otherwise, as may be specified in the order issued by the Local Government under section six.

Promoters may use tramway carriages with flange wheels.

22. The promoters may use on their tramways carriages with flange wheels or wheels suitable for running on the prescribed form of rail, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, they shall have the exclusive use of their tramways for carriages with flange wheels, or other wheels suitable for the said form of rail.

Promoters may fix and demand fares.

23. The promoters shall have power from time to time to fix the rates of fares for carrying passengers and goods in the said cars or carriages, and may demand and take the same for every passenger travelling upon any of their tramways, or for the carriage of goods by their tramways:

provided that the rate of fare for each person or parcel shall, for any distance not exceeding three miles, not exceed three annas, and for any greater distance shall not exceed the same proportion.

Printed list of fares, &c., to be placed in carriages.

24. A printed list in English, Bengali, and Urdu of all the fares and charges authorised by this Act to be taken, and a printed copy in the same languages of all bye-laws in force as hereinafter mentioned, shall be exhibited in a conspicuous place inside each of the cars or carriages used by the promoters upon any of their tramways.

Such list and printed copy as aforesaid shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette at the expense of the promoters.

Fares how to be paid.

25. The fares and charges by this Act authorised shall be paid to such persons at such places, upon or near to the tramways, and in such manner and under such regulations as the promoters may, by notice to be annexed to the list of fares, from time to time appoint.

Bye-laws by local authority.

26. The members constituting the local authority in a municipality or area in special general meeting may, subject to confirmation thereof by the Local Government, from time to time, make such bye-laws as to the rate of speed, number of passengers, and mode of use of the tramways as the convenience and safety of the public may require, and as are not inconsistent with this Act or any rules framed under section twelve.

The promoters may make certain bye-laws.

27. The promoters may, subject to confirmation as aforesaid, from time to time, make such bye-laws—for preventing disturbances, or the entry of persons suffering from infectious diseases, or the commission of any nuisance in or upon any carriage, or in or against any premises belonging to them; and for regulating the travelling in or upon any carriage belonging to them, as are not inconsistent with this Act or any rules or bye-laws framed under sections twelve and twenty-six.

Publication of bye-laws.

28. Notice of the making of any rules or bye-laws under sections twelve, twenty-six, and twenty-seven shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and such rules and bye-laws when so published shall, until repealed or altered, be of the same effect as if they had been inserted in this Act.

PART IV.

Offences.

Penalty for failure of promoters to comply with provisions of this Act.

29. If the promoters fail in any respect to comply with the provisions of sections thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, nineteen, and twenty-one of this Act, they shall for every such offence (without prejudice to the enforcement of specific performance of the requirements of this Act, or to any other remedy against them), upon complaint of any person injuriously affected thereby, be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees, and to a further penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for each day during which any such failure continues after the first day on which such penalty is incurred.

Penalty for obstructing promoters in the exercise of their power.

30. If any person wilfully obstructs any person acting under the authority of the promoters in the lawful exercise of their powers in setting out or making, laying down, repairing or renewing a tramway, or injures or destroys any mark made for the purpose of setting out the lines of the tramway, he shall for every offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees, and shall also be liable to pay such damages as may be awarded in respect of such injury by any competent court.

Penalty for interfering with tramway.

31. If any person without lawful excuse (the proof whereof shall lie on him) wilfully does any of the following things, namely—interferes with, removes or alters any part of a tramway of the promoters, or of the works connected therewith; does or causes to be done anything in such a manner as to obstruct any carriage using the tramways; or knowingly aids or assists in the doing of such thing, he shall for every such offence be liable (in addition to any proceedings by way of criminal charge or otherwise to which he may be subject) to a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for avoiding payment of proper fare.

32. If any person travelling or having travelled in any carriage of the promoters avoids or attempts to avoid payment of his fare, or if any person having paid his fare for a certain distance knowingly and wilfully proceeds in any such carriage beyond such distance and does not pay the additional fare for the additional distance, or attempts to avoid payment thereof, or if any person knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare to quit such carriage, every such person shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten rupees.

Servant of promoters may arrest persons avoiding payment of fare.

33. It shall be lawful for any servant of the promoters, and all persons called in by him for his assistance, to arrest and take to the nearest police-station any person who shall be discovered either in or after committing or attempting to commit any such offence as in the last preceding section mentioned, and whose name and residence is refused by him, and is unknown to such servant or person, and the police officer in charge of the said police-station, on receiving a complaint that an offence under this Act has been committed, shall adopt such legal measures as may be necessary to cause the said person to be taken before a Magistrate with the least possible delay.

Carriage of dangerous or offensive goods.

34. No person shall be entitled to carry or to require to be carried on any tramway any goods which may be of a dangerous or offensive nature, and if any person send by any tramway any such goods without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing to the book-keeper or other servant of the promoters with whom the same are left at the time of such sending, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for every such offence, and it shall be lawful for the promoters to refuse to take any parcel that they may suspect to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, or to require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact.

Penalty for breach of bye-laws.

35. Any person offending against any bye-law made under the provisions of the last preceding section shall forfeit for every offence any sum not exceeding twenty rupees to be imposed in such bye-laws as a penalty for such offence.

PART V.

Miscellaneous.

Difference between the promoters and local authority, &c.

36. If any difference arises between the promoters or lessees on the one hand and any local authority, or any gas or water company, or any company, body or person to whom any railways, roads, drains, culverts, bridges, sewers, pipes, fences, wires or apparatus for telegraphic or any other purposes may belong, or in whom the charge thereof may be vested, or any other company on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by them or him, or on their or his behalf, or by the promoters or lessees by virtue of this Act in relation to any tramway or work, or in relation to any work or proceeding of the local authority, body, company or person, or with respect to the propriety of or mode of execution of any work relating to any tramway, or with respect to the amount of any compensation to be made by or to the promoters or lessees, or in the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the local authority, body, company or person concerned, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by or comprised in this Act, the matter in difference shall (unless otherwise specially provided by this Act) be settled by an Engineer or other fit person nominated as referee by the Local Government on the application of either party, and the expenses of the reference shall be borne and paid as the referee directs.

Promoters to be responsible for all damages.

37. The promoters shall be answerable for all accidents, damages, and injuries happening through their act or default, or through the act or default of any person in their employment by reason or in consequence of any of their works or carriages, and in all cases where the promoters are not the local authority they shall save harmless the local authorities and their respective officers and servants from all damages and costs in respect of such accidents, damages, and injuries.

Power for the local authority or police to regulate traffic on roads.

38. Nothing in this Act shall limit the powers of the local authority or the police to regulate the passage of any traffic along or across any road along or across which any tramways are laid down, and such local authority or police may exercise their authority as well on as off the tramway, and with respect as well to the traffic of the promoters as to the traffic of other persons.

The local authority shall not be liable to pay to the promoters any compensation for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable exercise of such authority.

Reservation of power over roads.

39. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to prevent the local authority or any corporate body or persons in the exercise of the powers conferred upon them under any law for the time being in force, from opening, breaking up, widening, altering, diverting or improving any of the roads, bridges, drains or culverts traversed by the tramways for the purposes for which they may now lawfully open, break up, widen, alter, divert or improve the same: Provided—

(1) that they shall cause as little detriment or inconvenience to the promoters as circumstances admit;

(2) that they may (if absolutely necessary, but not otherwise) order the temporary stoppage of traffic on the tramways or any of them on giving twenty-four hours' previous notice in writing to the promoters;

(3) that before they commence any work, whereby the traffic on the tramway will be interrupted, they shall (except in cases of urgency, in which cases no notice shall be necessary) give to the promoters notice of their intention to commence such work, specifying the time at which they will begin to do so; such notice to be given eighteen hours at least before the commencement of the work;

(4) that in the event of their so interfering with or stopping the running of any tramway under this section, an abatement proportioned to the length of road over which and time during which running is stopped, shall be made from the rent (if any) reserved and payable by the promoters;

(5) that any alteration of the position of any of the tramways, or the making good of any injury or damage that may be occasioned thereto by reason of such widening, alteration or improvement, shall be executed by the promoters at the expense of the local authority.

Discontinuance of tramways.

Tramways to be removed in certain cases.

40. If at any time after the opening of any tramway for traffic, the promoters discontinue the working of such tramway or of any part thereof for the space of three calendar months (such discontinuance not being occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of such promoters, for which purpose the want of sufficient funds shall not be considered a circumstance beyond their control), and such discontinuance is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, the Local Government if it think fit may by order declare that the powers of the promoters in respect of such tramway or the part thereof so discontinued, shall from the date of such order be at an end, and thereupon the said powers of the promoters shall cease, and determine unless the same are purchased by the local authority in manner by this Act provided. Where such order has been made the Engineer or other officer appointed on that behalf by the Local Government may at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of such order remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and the promoters shall pay to such Engineer or officer the cost of such removal and of the making good of the road by such Engineer or officer. Such cost to be certified by such Engineer or officer whose certificate shall be final and conclusive. And if the promoters fail to pay the amount so certified within one calendar month after delivery to them of such certificate or a copy thereof, such Engineer or officer may without any previous notice to the promoters (but without prejudice to any other remedy which he may have for the recovery of the amount) sell and dispose of the materials of the tramway or part of the tramway removed, either by public auction or private sale, and for such sum or sums and to such person or persons as such Engineer or officer may think fit; and may out of the proceeds of such sale make and reimburse himself the amount of cost certified as aforesaid and of the costs of sale, and the balance (if any) of the proceeds of the sale shall be paid over by the said Engineer or officer to the promoters.

Insolvency of Promoters.

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoters.

41. If at any time after the opening of any tramway it appears to the local authority, or to the Magistrate of the district in which such tramway is situate, that the promoters of such tramway are insolvents, so that they are unable to maintain such tramway, or work the same with advantage to the public, the Local Government, upon a representation to that effect made by such Magistrate or local autho ity, may direct an enquiry by a referee into the truth of the representation, and if the referee shall find that the promoters are such insolvents as aforesaid, the Local Government may by order declare that the powers of the promoters shall at the expiration of six calendar months from the making of the order be at an end, and the powers of the promoters shall cease and determine at the expiration of the said period unless the same are purchased by the local authority in manner by this Act provided, and thereupon the Engineer or other officer appointed on that behalf by the Local Government may remove the tramway in like manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the costs of such removal, and to the same remedy for the recovery of such costs in every respect as in cases of removal under the next preceding section.

Purchase of tramways.

Local authority to have right of purchasing tramway after 21 years.

42. The local authority shall have the right of purchasing the tramways with the plant, buildings, stores, rolling-stock, and everything connected therewith upon the expiration of twenty-one years from the date of the order authorising the construction of such tramway upon declaring its intention so to do in writing not less than six months before the expiration of the said twenty-one years, and shall have a renewed right of purchase at the end of every seven years after the expiration of the said twenty-one years upon similar notice being given, and the value to be placed upon the tramways shall be calculated in such manner that every hundred rupees of capital invested in the tramway at the time of purchase shall be taken as equal to twenty-five times the average of the annual net profits per hundred rupees divided by the promoters during the seven years immediately preceding the purchase.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PROPOSALS have been received by the Government of Bengal from local authorities for the construction of tramways at Howrah, Patna and elsewhere, and it is necessary in order to give effect to these and any similar proprosals which may be received hereafter to pass an Act which shall invest the Government of Bengal and local authorities or other promoters with the necessary legal powers to sanction and undertake the construction of tramways, the breaking up of streets and roads for the purpose of laying rails, the running of tramcars, the levying of tolls and charges, the framing of rules and bye-laws, and the performing of all such other acts as are necessary for the efficient making and working of tramways with due regard to the public safety and convenience.

The only Act on the subject of tramways in force in Bengal is Act I of 1880 of the Bengal Council, which is a special one for Calcutta, and is so framed that its provisions cannot by an extending enactment be satisfactorily applied to other municipalities or places. It has therefore been decided to draft a general Act which will apply to all local authorities whether in municipalities or in rural districts in whom the charge of roads is vested. The draft Act embodies in part the provisions of the English Tramways Act of 1873, and in part those of the Calcutta Tramways Act of 1880. It prescribes the procedure to be adopted by promoters of tramways to obtain sanction to their schemes, the powers and rights in respect of the use of roads, and the manner of construction and working of tramways reserved to the Local Government, the local authority, the public and the promoters respectively, the penalties for offences and other general conditions which experience has shown to be advisable to impose on promoters of tramway schemes.

AMENDMENT OF THE EXCISE ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS moved that the further report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Bengal Excise Act, 1878, be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. He said that three of the sections to which reference was made in the report of the Select Committee were sections in regard to which amendments had been placed on the notice paper, and therefore he would reserve his remarks upon these sections until he had heard what the Hon. Mover of those amendments had to say. He would therefore only refer at present to the amendments made by the Committee in those sections mentioned in the report which were uncontested. A definition of licensed vendor or manufacturer had been inserted in order to make it clear that the words referred only to persons under the Bengal Excise Act, and not to vendors or manufacturers who might have obtained licenses from other Governments in other Provinces. Then with regard to the section giving the Government power to lay down rules for the importation and bonding of exciseable articles manufactured in British India beyond the limits of the territory to which the Act extended, he had explained at the last meeting of the Council the reasons which made legislation necessary, and the Council would find that the section was a very simple one, and merely gave the power which the legal advisers of Government had declared to be indispensable. The Committee had also provided in sections 29 and 30 that notice of the recall or of the surrender of a license must be in writing, which seemed reasonable and proper. And the amendment in section 61 was in accordance with the Northern India Act of 1881 and the judicial decisions which had been passed to the effect that the penalty attached to unauthorized possession did not extend to such possession by any person merely as a carrier or warehouseman. The only other alterations made by the Committee were verbal amendments in sections 53 and 60 of the Act.

The motion was agreed to, and on the motion of MR. REYNOLDS, the clauses of the Bill were considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said the first of the amendments which he had to move had reference to the definition of tari. It was taken from the Northern India Excise Act of 1881. Tari was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree. The amendment of which he had given notice was to insert after the word "tree" the words "except fresh date-juice," but since coming to the Council Chamber, it was suggested by his hon. friend opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) that it would be better to insert the word "unfermented" before the word "sap." The definition would then run as follows:—"Tari means the unfermented sap of any kind of palm-tree." He mentioned the proposed alteration of his amendment to the Hon. Mover, who had no objection to it. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL therefore adopted it. He had explained to the Council at a previous sitting why the fresh juice of the date-tree should not be treated as an exciseable article. The fresh date-juice, on which he laid particular stress, was used as an article of food or drink, and had no intoxicating effect whatever. On this point he had since consulted a friend of his, Baboo Kanye Lall Dey, Rai Bahadoor, who was a well known chemist, and he put him certain questions to which he obtained the following replies:—

Question.	Answer.
1. Is fresh palm or date-juice intoxicating?	1. No.
2. When does vinous fermentation of date-juice commence after it is taken from the tree?	2. Date-juice fresh drawn from the tree, if kept in a clean earthen pot and exposed to the sun will begin to ferment after 10 hours; if mixed with little rice or flour and similarly exposed it will begin to ferment within about two hours; the vinous fermentation will commence much quicker if date-juice is kept in an used pot?

With regard to palm-juice, his friend referred him to a paper of his own on the use of intoxicating stimulants, in which he remarked that when drunk fresh from the tree at day-break or candle-light, the juice of the palm was quite innocuous. He added—"It is a cool and refreshing drink, often recommended for its diuretic properties to those labouring under urinary diseases."

Now the question which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted was whether it would be quite consistent with the policy of the Bill to tax the fresh date-juice or the fresh palm-juice when it had no intoxicating effect. As he had pointed out at a previous sitting, the object of the law was to check the consumption of intoxicating drinks and drugs, but the use of the fresh date or palm-juice was not open to that objection, and consequently he did not think it would be consistent with the acknowledged principle of the excise law to bring them under taxation. He had also then taken occasion to refer to the letter of the Government of India vetoing the Abkari Bill of the Bombay Council which proposed to tax the mhowa flower on precisely the same reasons that had been used for the inclusion of fresh palm and date-juice in the Bill before the Council. His Excellency the Viceroy was of opinion that, "except in the districts of Tanna and Colaba, the use of the mhowa flower as food is sufficient to constitute a strong objection to the policy of the proposed law."

For the same reasons BABOO KRISTODAS PAL contended that the excise law ought not to be extended to the fresh palm or date-juice. It might be urged that practically it would be difficult to make a distinction between unfermented and fermented date or palm-juice. But he observed that the Excise Department already made a distinction in the issue of licenses for the sale of unfermented date-juice and fermented tari. The form of license ran to this effect—

"Be it known to all concerned that the person abovenamed is hereby authorized by the undersigned, Collector of the abovenamed district, to sell fresh tari under the provisions of section 36, Act VII of 1878, during the months of from 6th November 1882 to 31st March 1883. This license does not authorize the holder to sell tari in its fermented state. By doing so without taking out a separate license the holder will render himself liable to the penalty prescribed by Act VII of 1878 for selling fermented liquors without a license"

It would be thus seen that the Excise Department had practically drawn a broad distinction between fermented and unfermented tari—he should not say "tari," because that was a contradiction in terms. In unfermented state the date-juice was not tari, but was known as khajur rus, and was used by the people as such. The distinction made in the form of the license was clear enough, and there would therefore be no practical difficulty in exempting the fresh juice from the scope of the excise law. He need hardly point out that there were many articles of food which by special preparation might be converted into spirituous liquor. He might instance rice, potatoes, sugarcane juice, and the milk of the cocoanut, which he believed was converted into liquor in Bombay. But he had never heard that such articles when used for food were brought under taxation for excise purposes: as articles of food they ought to be exempted from the operation of the excise law.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he could not accept this amendment, and he thought he could show good reasons why the Council ought not to agree to it. In the first place the amendment was, he would not say, of a revolutionary, but at any rate of an unprecedented character. From the speech of the Hon. Mover, and from the paper from the British Indian Association which had been circulated to the Council, it might be thought that this was the first time it had been proposed to impose restrictions on the sale of unfermented tari or date-juice, but so far from this being the case, the fact was that the amendment was in direct contravention of the uniform current of excise legislation for the last seventy years. MR. REYNOLDS had not thought it necessary to go further back than Regulation X of 1813; but in that Regulation he found it declared that tari, whether fresh or fermented, must not be sold without a license from the Collector. Passing on to Act XXI of 1856, which was for a long time the abkaree law for Upper India, the wording there was the same as that used afterwards in the substituted Act X of 1871, which enacted that "all tari, both fresh and fermented, is included in the expression fermented liquors." In the Act of 1881, the present Excise Act for Northern India, the word "tari" was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree, and it was subjected to excise control. The words of the Bombay Act V of 1878 were very wide indeed. There "toddy" was defined to mean juice drawn from a cocoanut, brab, date, or any kind of palm tree, whether in its fermented or unfermented state; and section 14 of that Act provided that no toddy should be drawn from any tree except under license from the Collector. MR. REYNOLDS thought that all this showed what had been the regular course of legislation not only in Bengal so far as it could be traced back, but also in the North-Western Provinces and in Bombay. This, therefore, was his first objection to the amendment: that it was opposed to the experience and practice of a long course of years.

Secondly, he felt obliged to object to the amendment on account of the danger to the revenue which it involved. It was true that the revenue from unfermented tari was very inconsiderable—only Rs. 23,000; but the whole excise revenue derived from tari was about 6½ lakhs of rupees, and to release unfermented tari from all excise control would very seriously endanger the receipts from the taxation of tari. The revenue from unfermented tari was mostly derived from the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, and it was from those parts of the province that complaints had been received as to the restrictions put upon the use of unfermented tari. In those divisions there was hardly any revenue from fermented tari; but in the Patna Division, from which no complaints had been received, the receipts from fermented tari were above 4 lakhs of rupees. He could not consent to endanger this revenue by excluding unfermented tari from the operation of the law. What the Government required in the case of unfermented tari was not so much the power of taxation as the power of control, and this power MR. REYNOLDS was not prepared to surrender.

These were two arguments against the amendment, but there was a further reason still. MR. REYNOLDS thought the Hon. Mover of the amendment could not fully have considered the injury which his proposal was likely to do to a cause which no doubt the Hon. Gentlemen had much at heart—the cause of temperance. The object of the excise policy of Government was the repression of drunkenness; and, this being so, MR. REYNOLDS did not see how the Government could possibly abandon its control over the sale, possession, and consumption of a liquor, which became, by a brief and natural process, a highly intoxicating beverage. The Hon. Member had given the Council some account of unfermented tari and of the time it took to ferment. MR. REYNOLDS had consulted the Chemical Examiner on this point, and that gentleman had informed him that chemically there was no difference between the sap of the palm and of the date; that the time they took to ferment varied according to temperature and atmospheric conditions, but that generally speaking, from six to eight hours might be taken as the average time of fermentation. MR. REYNOLDS did not think it would be consistent with the principles of excise legislation to surrender all control over a beverage which possessed such qualities. In the letter from the British Indian Association, he saw it stated that potatoes were largely used in Ireland for the illicit manufacture of rum, but that no one thought fit to make potatoes an exciseable commodity on that account. That rum was made from potatoes in Ireland would be news to most of the Council, but probably the writer of the letter meant whisky. Anyhow, MR. REYNOLDS could not but think that the gentlemen of the British Indian Association must have a poor idea of the intelligence of that Council if they thought that a transparent fallacy of this kind could be palmed off upon it for an argument. Where was the analogy or resemblance between a substance that could be converted into spirit only by an elaborate process of distillation, and the sap of a tree which, by merely standing a few hours, without anything being done to it, became intoxicating? If it were the fact that by the operation of natural causes a basket of potatoes would turn within six hours into a gallon of whisky, there might have been some ground for the argument brought forward, but the facts being as they were, it was almost an insult to the understanding of Hon. Members to ask them to accept the two cases as parallel. He thought that, for these reasons, the Council ought not to agree to this amendment.

He wished to add that he did not see that the amendment, even if it were carried, would give any relief which could not be given under the present law. In the first place, in the memorial from the Eastern Bengal Districts, it was alleged that vexatious interference was exercised with unfermented tari, and that this operated as an obstruction to the manufacture of sugar. But section 62 excluded from the operation of the Act tari when supplied or used for the manufacture of goor or molasses: so that no alteration of the law was required in the interests of the sugar-industry. Then, section 14 went further still and allowed the local Government to suspend all the provisions of the Act relating to tari in any district in which the consumption of fermented tari was inconsiderable.

As fermented tari was very little used in those districts in which complaints had been made, this section of the Act gave the Government power to redress any grievance which might exist without the dangerous interference with the principles of excise legislation which would be involved in accepting this amendment and releasing tari altogether from excise control.

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF said that he supported this amendment, namely, that tari should be defined as meaning the "fermented" sap of any kind of palm tree, and the reasons for which he supported it were these: He submitted that this definition of "tari" was in effect the same as that which was found in the Imperial Council's Act XXII of 1881 for the North-Western Provinces; for in that Act he found that in section 3, clause (e), tari was first defined as meaning the sap of any kind of palm-tree. That would at first sight include unfermented as well as fermented tari, but clause (f) of the same section provided that "fermented liquor means malt liquor, wine, pachwai, and fermented tari, and in any provisions of this Act shall, if the Local Government, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, so directs, include any other fermented liquor, and also tari, though it may not have perceptibly begun to ferment." This was in effect the definition now proposed by the amendment, because, under the Act of 1881, what was taxed was not tari, but "fermented liquor," and until the Local Government had taken action in the matter, unfermented tari was not, by virtue of anything expressly contained in the Act, included within "fermented liquor." That being the state of the law in the North-Western Provinces, the next thing was to consider how the law had stood before the Act of 1881 was passed, whether that Act had simply declared the then existing law, or whether there was any change made in that law by the Act of 1881, and if the existing law was altered by the Act of 1881, whether this Council would not also be justified in making a similar change in the law as it stood at present for Lower Bengal. The Act which preceded Act XXII of 1881 was Act X of 1871, and in that Act it was provided by section 16 that "all the provisions relating to the sale or possession of fermented liquors apply to the sale or possession of tari, whether in a fermented state or otherwise, and all tari, both fresh and fermented, is included in the expression 'fermented liquors.'"

It is thus quite clear that, like the Act of the Bengal Council under consideration, the Act which preceded Act XXII of 1881 in unmistakable terms included both fresh and fermented tari in the definition of "fermented liquors." His contention was that the Act now under consideration, although it was in the same terms as the above section of Act X of 1871, should be amended as far as the question of tari was concerned, so as to make it in conformity with the Act of 1881. He thought also that the sum total of the reasons bearing on this question rather pointed to the conclusion that the Council should adopt the proposed definition, which he supported the more readily and with greater confidence, now that it was found that it was similar to that adopted for the North-Western Provinces, by which unfermented tari was excluded from the definition of "fermented liquors."

He thought that there was nothing peculiar in the law of Bengal why the proposed definition should not be adopted; but on the other hand, if the law of Bengal were to be compared with that of the North-Western Provinces, the circumstances would be found more clearly in favour of the amendment. The short history of the law was this. The first Regulation on the point was Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and from that Regulation it was only necessary for him to read the preamble and one or two sections. The preamble was as follows:—

"The immoderate use of spirituous liquors and intoxicating drugs having become prevalent amongst many of the lower orders of the people, from the very inconsiderable price at which they were manufactured and sold, and the proceedings of the criminal courts having evinced that the robberies and other disorders committed in the country were in a great measure ascribable to the want of proper restrictions on the manufacture and vend of such liquors and drugs, the Governor-General in Council, with a view to prevent the perpetration of crimes, and at the same time to augment the public revenue, passed certain rules on the 6th of April 1790 and subsequent dates. Those rules are now re-enacted with modifications."

Then section 12 of that Regulation made this provision—

"A tax shall be levied on toddy at the rate of twenty-five per cent. on the amount of the rents specified on the pottahs granted by the proprietors of the toddy-trees to the pausees, or extractors of the toddy."

and section 13 provided against any attempt on behalf of the proprietors of toddy-trees to defraud the Government.

That was the beginning of the law on the subject, and the Council would be pleased to observe that there was no tax on the sale of tari, but a tax of 25 per cent. was levied on the amount of the rents specified in the pottahs granted by the proprietors of the toddy-trees. This Regulation, which was at first intended only for Bengal and Behar, was extended to Benares by Regulation XLVII of 1795; so that he found that from 1795 at least the law for Benares was the same as that for Bengal and Behar.

Then Regulation VI of 1800 was passed, and that Regulation was to have operation throughout Bengal, Behar, Orissa and Benares, and section 9 of the Regulation made the following provision:—

"The following amended form of license, after the expiration of the licenses now in force for the manufacture and vend of spirituous liquors (including toddy or tari in its fermented state) is to be adopted in lieu of that prescribed by section 10, Regulation XXXIV of 1793."

So that by this Regulation of 1800 it was clear that it was the fermented tari, when sold, that was the subject of taxation. He was no doubt aware that there was a provision bearing on the present question in section 11, which ran as follows:—

"The several provisions contained in this and the former Regulations respecting the sale of spirituous liquors are hereby declared applicable, with an exception to the rate of duty, to toddy or tari, viz. the juice or taur, khajur and narecal trees, whenever the same may be sold in a fermented state or, though not in a state of fermentation, by any other person than the passees or extractors of the toddy who pay the tax of twenty-five per cent. on the rents of the tari-trees prescribed by sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, which are still to be considered in full force."

The consequence of this Regulation was that the passees could sell unfermented tari without paying any fresh tax; and that any other person who intended to sell tari, whether in a state of fermentation or otherwise, was obliged to take out a license.

This was followed by Regulation I of 1805, which was passed exclusively for Behar and Benares, and the Council would see the reasons which led to the inclusion within its provisions of all tari, fresh or fermented. That Regulation was a Regulation "for commuting the tax at present levied on taur, khajur and narecal trees in the provinces of Behar and Benares to a tax on the sale of the tari, whether in a fermented or unfermented state," and the preamble of that Regulation declared that—

"Whereas section 11, Regulation VI of 1800 established rules for levying a duty on the juice of the taur, khajur, and narecal trees when sold in a fermented state, or when sold in an unfermented state, by any other persons than the passees or extractors of tari; and whereas in consequence of the rapid fermentation of tari when extracted from the trees, it has been found impracticable to distinguish with precision between the sale of the liquor in a fermented and unfermented state, so as to prevent the sale of it in the former state without the regular license required to be taken out by all persons vending tari in a fermented state; and whereas great inconvenience has been experienced in respect to the police of the country, in the provinces of Behar and Benares, from the sale of tari in a fermented state by the passees or extractors not paying the license duties, and whereas it has been ascertained that in the above provinces tari in an unfermented state is little used, and that consequently no material inconvenience can be experienced by the inhabitants from subjecting the sale of it in every state to the payment of the license duty prescribed by section 11, Regulation VI of 1800, for the sale of tari in a fermented state."

The Council would be pleased to observe that this was the first Regulation by which fresh tari was taxed, and the Council would also be pleased to observe that the Regulation was not to have any operation in Bengal; that it was passed for Behar and Benares on the express ground that no material inconvenience would be experienced from the inclusion of fresh tari; that the inconvenience of distinguishing between fresh and fermented tari was not the only ground for the passing of this Regulation; and that notwithstanding all the inconvenience that Regulation would not have been passed, if after enquiries that were made it had not been "ascertained" that in Behar and Benares tari in an unfermented state was little used, and that consequently no material inconvenience could be experienced by the inhabitants from subjecting the sale of it in every state to the payment of license duty.

Section 2 of this Regulation enacted—

"That sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and section 11, Regulation VI of 1800, as far as the latter section exempts the extractors of tari from the payment of a license duty on the sale of the liquor in an unfermented state, are hereby rescinded in the provinces of Behar and Benares."

and section 6 provided that the rules prescribed in sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and in section 2, Regulation VI of 1800 should still remain in force within the provinces of Bengal and Orissa; so that he found that the law for Behar and Benares was altered by changing the definition of tari so as to include tari in an unfermented state earlier than the alteration took place in Bengal, which was some time later, as he would presently show.

Regulation I of 1808 was followed by Regulation X of 1813, by which all the previous Regulations were swept away, and tari, whether in a fermented or unfermented state was subjected to a license by section 15. From 1808 up to 1881 in the North-Western Provinces, and from 1813 up to the present time in Bengal, the law had been the same, namely, it included fermented and fresh tari within the definition of exciseable articles. This Regulation was followed in Bengal by Act XXI of 1856, which was called the Bengal Abkari Act, and in that Act also fermented liquor included both fresh and fermented tari. Then followed Bengal Act VII of 1878, now under consideration, which adopted the previous definition and included both fresh and fermented tari. This was the legislation in Bengal. For the North-Western Provinces he found that by Act X of 1864, and Act XXVIII of 1864, the Bengal Abkari Act XXI of 1856 was extended to the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab. Those Acts were repealed by Act X of 1871, and by that Act tari, whether fresh or fermented, was included within the definition of "fermented liquors." This, as had already been shown was repealed by Act XXII of 1881, and so far as the law at present stood, subject to any notification by the Local Government, fresh tari was not within the definition of fermented liquor in the North-Western Provinces, and that, MOULVIE MAHOMED YUSUF submitted, was the definition this Council should adopt.

Again, the object of all legislation for the taxation of drinks which might be intoxicating in their effect on the human system was the prevention of the spread of drunkenness by making the drink more costly. It was not merely for fiscal purposes that the Excise law was to be enacted. Accordingly, the preamble to Regulation XXXIV of 1793, cited above, professed to lay down certain rules "with a view to prevent the perpetration of crimes and at the same time to augment public revenue." And section 19, Regulation VI of 1800 also purported to lay down certain rules "with a view to check the immoderate use of spirituous liquors, including toddy in its fermented state, by enhancing the price to the consumer, as well as to give the Magistrate a more immediate and efficient control, and to render the tax as much as possible conducive to the general purposes of the police;" but a harmless drink such as the khajur ras, which was in no way intoxicating, but which was a mere article of food, could not come within the scope or operation of the Excise law, and should not be classified with exciseable articles.

But it might be objected that to adopt this definition would be to introduce uncertainty in the law, the uncertainty arising from the easy stage of transition by which the harmless khajur ras became an intoxicating liquor; but without using other arguments against that objection, his principal answer to that objection was that, if it applied to Bengal, it also applied to the North-Western Provinces, where it was not apparently considered to be of sufficient force to prevail upon the Legislature to retain the definition of Act X of 1871.

All considerations based on uncertainty, inconvenience, and the like, must have occurred to the Supreme Council when the Act of 1881 was before them, and he had looked into the Proceedings of the Council for reasons which led the Legislature to change the law from what it was in Act X of 1871 to the form which it took in the Act of 1881: but no reasons were expressly assigned for the alteration. He could only find that it was on the 13th April 1881 that leave was asked to introduce the Bill: that on the 20th April 1881 the Bill itself was introduced in the Council with the provision as to tari now under consideration as in the latter Act, and the report of the Select Committee, of which His Honor was a member, was presented on the 5th of October and considered on the 26th of October 1881 without any allusion to the change in the wording of the definitions of "tari" and "fermented liquors" now under consideration. The Bill was also passed on the 26th October 1881. He was therefore not in a position to state the reasons which led to the change, although he was quite sure that the matter was considered in all its bearings and from all points of view. He thought that perhaps the thing was quite obvious, and therefore it was not considered necessary to give any reason, the points being too clear to admit of any doubt. But whatever was the reason, there was the law in its present shape in the Act of 1881, and he submitted that, in that respect, the Act of the Bengal Council should be made to conform to the Imperial Act of 1881.

The HON. MR. ALLEN had only six words to say. Reference had been made in the papers circulated from the British Indian Association to potatoes in Ireland, from which we are told rum is manufactured. But the proper reference would have been to malt, from which most of the spirituous and fermented liquor in England is made, and there was no subject in regard to which the excise exercised a more rigid control than malt As to the innocent character of fresh tari, we must suppose that, let chemists say what they may, in practice there was no such thing. He had lived in districts where the khajur ras was largely consumed, and he found that whenever his servants drank it during the day, they returned muddled in the evening and with bad headaches in the morning.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER said he wished to make a few remarks directly on the speech of the Hon. Member who spoke last but one. Every one knew how dangerous a thing it was to quote an imperfect extract. In the first place he must protest against what the Hon. Member said at the end of his speech. At the beginning of his statement he read the preamble of an old regulation, in which it was said that the object of the taxation was first to stop drunkenness, and secondly to increase the public revenue. And at the end of his speech he went back to that preamble and argued that fresh tari should not be brought under excise control because it did not create drunkenness, and because in that preamble the object of abkari legislation was said to be to put a stop to drunkenness; and here the Hon. Member omitted all mention of the secondary object mentioned in that preamble, viz. to raise revenue.

The position now taken was that, although it might be undesirable in itself to interfere with tari while actually fresh, yet that, owing to the fact of it so speedily becoming a liquor causing drunkenness, it was absolutely necessary, for the effective operation of the measures taken for checking the consumption of spirituous liquors by taxing them, that some restrictions should be put on the possession of fresh tari, and that it should be brought under excise control.

Then MR. DAMPIER proceeded to the second point. As he understood the Hon. Member, his argument rested in a great degree on this, that the Northern India Excise Act of 1881 of the Imperial Council deliberately excluded the fresh juice from the list of articles brought under excise control, although it had been included among such articles by the previous legislation in force up to that time. The Hon. Member had said that it was true that in section 3 clause (e) of the Act of 1882, tari was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree, but that the very next clause (f) drew the teeth out of the last definition, for it provided that fermented liquor meant "malt liquor, wine, pachwai and fermented tari." This second clause (f) the Hon. Member said really withdrew unfermented tari from the definition in the preceding clause. The Hon. Member could scarcely wish this Council to accept the first sentence of this clause without looking at the rest of the clause. The clause ran on to say that "in any provision of this Act, if the local Government, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, so directs, fermented liquor shall include any other fermented liquor and also tari, though it may not perceptibly have begun to ferment." Therefore, the real argument to be founded on these two clauses was that in the Act of 1881 the Imperial Legislature deliberately recognised the policy of the previous Acts by which fresh tari was brought within the control of excise administration for excise purposes, and this was the direct opposite of the argument which the Hon. Member had attempted to draw from these clauses.

The HON. HURBANS SAHAI said he was of opinion that the definitions contained in clauses (e) and (f) which had been referred to should be adopted, because, as far as Behar was concerned at least, he thought the law should be the same as that for the North-Western Provinces.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS rose to order, and pointed out that there was no such motion before the Council.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT ruled that the Hon. Member was out of order in speaking of a question which was not before the Council.

The HON. HURBANS SAHAI said that in that case he would content himself by supporting the adoption of clause (e).

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF remarked, in explanation of what had fallen from the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Dampier), that he had read all the words of definition (f) up to the end, and he had argued that even if the Local Government did not include tari as a kind of fermented liquor, still the effect of clause (e), taken in connection with clause (f), was to include tari, whether fermented or unfermented, unless the Local Government thought proper to exclude fresh tari.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER asked whether it was or was not the gist of the Hon. Member's argument that the Act of 1881 deliberately and intentionally reversed the policy of the Legislature in bringing tari within excise control.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said his hon. friend opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) had partly anticipated him in answering the legal objections which had been taken by the Hon. Mover of the Bill to this amendment, and he would not therefore again traverse the ground which his hon. friend had gone over in giving the history of legislation on the subject. He thought it was abundantly clear, from what had fallen from his hon. friend, that the primary object of legislation ninety years ago was to check the spread of the use of intoxicating drugs and drinks. The secondary object was of course revenue; but the primary object was sought to be attained by combining the fiscal and moral functions of the Government. The best way of preventing the immoderate use of intoxicating articles was to impose an excise tax on their manufacture and sale. It would be superfluous to argue this point when it had been repeatedly declared by Government that revenue was not the object of excise legislation, but the discouragement of the use of intoxicating drugs and drinks and the prevention of crime. As to the revenue part of the question, he considered it quite subsidiary to the great moral question involved in excise legislation. In commenting on the amendment, the Hon. Mover had been pleased to charge him with being revolutionary, because he had ventured to propose an amendment which was not quite in accordance with past legislation on the subject, and he called the proposal unprecedented. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was quite willing to plead guilty to the soft impeachment. If it was revolutionary to declare that the Legislature should not tax articles of food or drink, he would not object to being called "revolutionary." He did maintain that nature had given the fresh juice and man should not tax it. In these days of progressive administration, neither the Government nor the Legislature clung to the traditions of the past. The Government now-a-days looked ahead; it was progressive; and how many measures had been of late propounded or passed which tended to shew the progressive spirit in legislation and executive administration. In that very Council at the last meeting the Hon. Mover had himself applied for leave to introduce a Bill, the object of which was to give an onward push to the political aspirations of the people, and could it be said that his hon. friend was "revolutionary," because he was made the messenger of that progressive manifesto? He proceeded in accordance with the spirit of the age, with the modern spirit of legislation and administration, and in the same spirit BABOO KRISTODAS PAL asked, if in past legislation innocent drinks were considered exciseable articles, and if on examination it was found that they were not fit subjects for excise duty, surely he, sitting in this Council, had a right to rise to the occasion and interrogate the Council whether they should follow the legislation of the past, merely because it was past legislation.

In referring to some of the Acts to which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had adverted in moving his amendment, his hon. friend called attention to the Bombay Toddy Act, and he said that under that Act the milk of the cocoanut was included as an exciseable article. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL knew that, when the milk of the cocoanut was converted into intoxicating liquor, it was treated as an exciseable article, but he was not aware that the fresh milk of the cocoanut was taxed in Bombay as fresh date-juice was taxed in Bengal. Then his hon. friend spoke of the serious sacrifice of revenue which would be involved by the exemption of fresh date-juice; but what was the amount of revenue derived from fresh date-juice—according to his own statement the sum of Rs. 23,000! But it was remarked that the revenue from fermented tari was 6½ lakhs, and if the fresh juice was exempted the revenue from tari would be endangered. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL did not understand by what process of reasoning his hon. friend had come to that conclusion. Probably he thought a distinction could not practically be made between fermented and unfermented tari, and therefore there would be a loss of revenue. BABOO KRISTODAS Pal had read to the Council the form of license granted for the sale of fresh date-juice, and that form made a broad distinction between the fermented and unfermented article. And if that was practically done now, why could not the same distinction be made hereafter, should the Legislature exempt fresh tari or date-juice from the scope of the excise law? Therefore the bogey of loss of revenue from fresh tari was simply chimerical. It was said that it was only in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions that fresh date-juice was licensed for excise purposes to any large extent. But BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had heard complaints on the subject from the 24-Pergunnahs, and he might mention that criminal prosecutions were instituted in large numbers in the 24-Pergunnahs, and after a great deal of remonstrance those prosecutions were stopped; but whether such complaints were more frequent in the 24-Pergunnahs or in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions was quite immaterial. The real point was whether it was consistent with the principles of excise legislation to tax articles of food or drink which were not intoxicating in their effects, and that was the point which he submitted for the consideration of the Council.

[The HON. MR. DAMPIER remarked that the effect of the amendment would be not only to exempt fresh tari from taxation, but from excise supervision as well.]

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL continued—Supervision was exercised by the licensing system. But what supervision was necessary over articles of food or drink? Was any supervision exercised over the sale of rice because it was converted by a special preparation into rum? Why should fresh date-juice be singled out as the article which should be brought within the cognizance of the Excise Department for purposes of supervision? It might be said that it got fermented in ten or twelve hours, it then became tari, and when it became tari it was fully within the cognizance of the Excise Department; but when it was fresh and was drunk as an innocent beverage, it should not be brought within the control of the Excise Department, because it was not then an exciseable article. His hon. friend was pleased to appeal to the cause of temperance against the amendment, but BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could not perceive the force of that appeal. Khujur rus was innocuous, and taken in any quantity did not produce intoxication. He could not therefore understand how he sacrificed the cause of temperance by urging its exemption from the Act, and he did not think that the interests of temperance would suffer in the least degree from such exemption. Then his hon. friend said much would not be gained practically by the amendment, because after all there were provisions in the Act which enabled the Government to exclude certain parts of the country from the operation of the law as regards tari. He would remind the Council here of an incident which took place in 1878 when the Hon. Member passed the Bill of 1878 through the Council. He found on reference to the proceedings of the Council, held on the 13th April 1878, that he had raised this very question when the clauses of the Bill were under consideration by the Council. Then, however, he did not in his proposal include the fresh date-juice, for he was not then aware that the Board of Revenue was going to include by a circular fresh date-juice under the name of tari. Therefore he had then only referred to fresh palm-juice; and the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill was pleased to say that "there was no intention to interfere vexatiously with the production and use of fresh tari."

It would thus be seen that the same answer was given in 1878 which his hon. friends now gave in 1882. But what had been the history of the action of the Excise Department in the working of the law. He had quoted on the last occasion the Board's circular which declared fresh date-juice to be included in the term tari; he had also quoted the memorial of the East Bengal Landholders' Association complaining bitterly of the hardships, injustice, and annoyance caused on this account in those districts; he had also read an extract from the report of the Board of Revenue confirming in a manner the statement that unfermented date-juice had been largely taxed in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions. That had been practically the working of the discretion on which his hon. friend relied in 1878 in reply to the objection taken on that occasion. The other day the hon. and learned legal member of the Government of India in moving for the amendment of the rules of business urged that not only the Legislative Bills, but also the rules issued under them, should be published beforehand for general information in order to elicit public criticism, the inference being that there should be as little room for discretionary legislation as possible. Following the spirit of the remark of the hon. and learned law member he (BABOO KRISTODAS PAL) submitted that the taxation of fresh date-juice should not be left to the discretion of the Board of Revenue, but that it should be settled definitely in the Act of the Legislature. For these reasons he contended that this amendment should be passed.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he had a few observations to offer before putting the motion to the vote. The difficulty of attempting to introduce the smallest amendments into any existing law was well exemplified by the proceedings of to-day. The Excise law of Bengal was considered so short a time back as 1878; it was a consolidating measure and brought together all past legislation into one Act. In the present Bill the original intention was limited to the addition of a single section of the law for the purpose of giving power to lay down rules for regulating the importation and bonding of liquor manufactured in any part of British India beyond the limits of the territory to which the Act extended; but in the course of the discussion of this simple object the Bill had grown from a Bill of one section into a Bill of fifteen or twenty sections. Thus, in enlarging the scope of the Bill, the Council found themselves committed to the discussion again of all the old questions which it was supposed had been long ago disposed of—questions of policy and principle, and amongst them the one raised to-day, whether tari in an unfermented state should or should not be exempted from taxation. Now it was certain that the decision on this point went even much further back than 1878. There were two subjects which should be considered in dealing with excise matters: the first was to check the spread of intoxication; and secondly, to secure what was in all countries a legitimate source of revenue. On both these considerations he thought the amendment was one which should be opposed. The Hon Mover of the amendment had pressed on the Council the point which had been met by the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill that this measure was similar to one passed by the Bombay Legislature, which had been recently vetoed by His Excellency the Viceroy, and the argument he urged was that the Council might as well tax rice or potatoes or any other article of harmless food in the same way as it was now proposed to tax unfermented tari. The answer to that was very simple. In the Bombay case the mowha was a fruit used by the people as food. It required some careful artificial process of manufacture to convert it into an intoxicating liquor, and the same might be said of rice and potatoes and other such products. But, upon the showing of the Hon. Member himself, tari could not be enumerated in the same category, for tari or date juice by a natural process in a very short period of time was transferred into a strong intoxicant, and the Council might be quite certain under the circumstances that the result of excluding unfermented tari from the excise regulations would be that all over the country the Government would not only lose its control over the improper use of the article, and thus tend to increase drunkenness, but would also lose its revenue from fermented tari, because the whole produce of the palm and date trees would be simply kept and allowed to turn into fermented liquor, and this could neither be prevented by the Excise Officer nor brought under taxation by the Collector. His Honor was ready to admit that he was not above considerations of revenue in this matter. Practically and actually as regards the consumption of unfermented tari, its exemption might involve a very small loss, but if it was once exempted on the ground proposed, the whole revenue derived from tari would be imperilled. There was naturally an impatience of taxation in the hearts of most people, and perhaps nowhere more so than in India. The Government was taken to task for keeping on the license-tax because it brought in no large and increasing revenue; the stamp law was objected to as arbitrary and excessive; and so with regard to excise on spirituous liquors and other kinds of taxation, the parties who were affected by them in different ways wished the taxes which affected them to be taken off. It was clear that if all effective sources of revenue were to be abandoned, administration would be impossible, especially in days when greater demands were being made upon Government for reforms and improvements of all kinds. Here, even if the proposal for exemption was made now for the first time, it could not be entertained, because it would seriously jeopardise the public revenue; but really in the present case the Council was dealing with a question which, as was shown by the Hon. Member on the left (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) went so far back as 1813. Whatever the principle might have been prior to that time it was hardly possible to be certain without very minute examination, but certainly from 1813 up to this date tari in an unfermented condition had always been included within the purview of excise taxation. The Hon. Member traced the law down to 1881, when the Government of India passed the amending Act re-enacting the Excise law of the North-Western Provinces. On that he made his stand, and asked and urged the Council to adopt the definition of tari given there, which, as the Hon. Member on the right (Mr. Dampier) had shown did really not exclude unfermented tari. It seemed to His Honor that if the Council did really wish to re-consider the question from the point of view of what was the best form of definition, that which prevailed under the last Act of the Government of India, or that which governed excise administration in Bengal passed in 1878, remembering that tari, both fresh and unfermented, had always been the subject of taxation for the last seventy years, there was really no ground for a change in the law as it at present stood in these provinces. The difference would be just this, that while the Government of India made it possible for the local Government to exclude tari in an unfermented state when it was not considered advisable to subject it to duty, the protection here given was by section 14 of the Act of 1878, which enabled the revenue authorities to suspend the operation of the law by excluding all tari where its consumption even in a fermented state was inconsiderable. The remedy for any grievous abuse was in the hands of the chief revenue officers and would be rightly exercised.

On these grounds—on the ground that it was not open to the objection which was taken to the Bombay legislation as taxing an innocent beverage, an objection which His Honor thought did not apply to tari; and on the ground that there was no just reason for going back from the policy of seventy years, and excluding unfermented tari from liability to duty—he felt bound to oppose this amendment.

The question was then put and negatived on the following division :—

Ayes 4.	Noes 7.
The Hon. Hurbans Sahai.	The Hon. Mr. Caithness.
The Hon. Mahomed Yusuf.	The Hon. Mr. Allen.
The Hon. Bhudeb Mookerjee.	Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor.
The Hon. Kristodas Pal.	The Hon. Mr. Macaulay.
	The Hon. Mr. Reynolds.
	The Hon. Mr. Dampier.
	The Hon. the President.

The Hon. Kristodas Pal moved that in section 3, paragraph 2, line 2, the words "for the manufacture of spirituous liquors" be inserted after the word "still." He said that as the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill seemed disposed to accept this amendment he need not adduce any arguments in support of it.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he accepted the principle of the amendment, but he had reason to complain of some of the language which had been used in connection with the question Any one would think, from the letter of the British Indian Association, that this was the first time it was ever proposed to make the possession of an unlicensed still an offence. If the Council would turn to section 39 of the existing law, they would see that the necessity for inserting section 3 of this amending Bill was really nothing more than a matter of drafting, and that it made no difference whatever in the law. Section 39 of Act VII of 1878 empowered excise officers to arrest persons having in their possession unlicensed stills and to seize the stills. There was, however, no provision in the Act declaring the possession of an unlicensed still illegal; and section 3 of the Bill was therefore inserted. He did not, however, object to the amendment.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said in explanation that his object in proposing this amendment was simply to prevent any misconception which might arise. He quite agreed with the Hon. Mover that it was a mere question of drafting.

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF said that according to the ordinary principles of the construction of Statutes this section of the Bill would be read as if the words now proposed to be inserted were already in the section, because the object of the Excise Act was to prevent unlawful dealing with exciseable articles; and the words "possession of a still" occurring in section 10A must evidently mean the possession of a still contrary to the object and intention of the Act. But inasmuch as the object of the amendment was to make that expressly clear which was so by implication, and to state clearly the intention of the law by introducing certain words in the section, he supported the amendment.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL moved that in section 4, paragraph 2, the words "imported by sea" be omitted; and also that paragraph 4 of the same section be left out. He said that this question had been raised in Select Committee in amending the Bill. It might be in the recollection of hon. members that when the Bill was re-committed, it was suggested that the law should declare specifically the quantity for the retail sale of spirituous liquors, giving power to the Board of Revenue to increase that quantity if they thought it proper. In Committee it was proposed that the quantity for the retail sale of country liquors should be reduced from twelve bottles to one bottle, retaining, however, the existing quantity for the sale of imported liquors. He considered it his duty in Committee to object to this alteration, and his reasons for doing so were, firstly, that no satisfactory reason had been given shewing why the quantity for the retail sale of country spirits should be reduced, and whether the existing rule had led to any abuse; and secondly, that by making what he could not but consider an invidious distinction between imported and country liquor, the Excise Department would practically encourage the consumption of imported liquor. As far as he understood the Hon. Mover, he intended to consult the Board of Revenue on the subject, and he believed he adhered to the amendment after consulting the Board. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought it was due to the Council that when a material alteration of this kind was proposed, the reasons for it should be fully laid before it. He for one, whether in Council or in Committee, had not been made acquainted with the reasons which had led to the proposed alteration. The only reason assigned was that formerly the limit of one seer was fixed for the retail sale of country spirits. But it was not explained why the limit of one quart bottle was raised to twelve bottles in the law of 1878, and why it was now considered necessary to revert to the old limit of one seer. Perhaps it might be urged that the quantity was fixed according to the custom of the trade, that those who purchased imported liquor bought by the dozen, and those who used country spirits bought it by the bottle. That might be the reason which had led to the alteration proposed, but he submitted that if that was the reason, surely it could not have been absent from the mind of the Hon. Member who introduced the original Bill in 1873, because the Act of 1878 dated its origin from 1873. It was introduced when Sir George Campbell was Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and afterwards the charge of the Bill was taken over by his hon. friend on the left (Mr. Dampier). BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted that when the Legislature in passing the law in 1878 made a material alteration by raising the limit for the retail sale of country liquor from one to twelve bottles, he thought they must have had good and sufficient reasons for making the alteration, and he had not heard of any new circumstances or reasons which necessitated a return to the old rule. He had referred to the custom of the trade as probably affording the reason for the change now proposed, but he submitted that that was not the invariable custom. He learned that in Calcutta, for instance, country liquor was frequently sold by the dozen like imported liquor. In the mofussil, it was true, it was largely sold by the bottle, but he was informed that in many instances, three, four, five, six, and even a dozen and two dozen bottles were purchased at a time; and, particularly when punchayets were held, large purchases were made. He believed it was also becoming the practice in many parts of the country to purchase more than one bottle for home consumption, so that it could not be strictly accurate to say that country liquor was purchased by the bottle, and therefore the proposed limitation of retail sale to one bottle. He repeated that he should like to know the reason why the Board in 1878 recommended the increase of the limit for the retail sale of country spirits from one to twelve quart bottles

He hoped he might be permitted to say that he was an advocate of temperance, and that any measure which might conduce to the suppression of intoxication and drunkenness would have his hearty support. If the proposal had been that the maximum quantity for retail sale should be reduced all round, he would most readily and willingly give his support to it. By all means let the limit be reduced, if considered necessary in the interests of temperance; but if, as had been shewn clearly in some of the Government resolutions, country liquor was less deleterious than the imported liquor sold in mofussil shops, he held that any impediment to the consumption of country liquor in preference to imported liquor would be most detrimental to the interests of the community. He feared that if the limit for the retail sale of country spirits was reduced, the consumption of imported liquors of the kind he had indicated would be necessarily encouraged. He did not know if he was quite right in raising the question of free trade policy in connection with the subject, but if the consumption of imported spirits was encouraged or facilitated to the prejudice of country liquor, it would be in a manner protecting the importation of the foreign article, and such a course would be opposed to the acknowledged free trade policy of the Government. He found, on referring to the Statement of objects and reasons, that one of the objects of the Bill was to meet the legal objection taken at the High Court as to the power of the Board to regulate the quantities for retail sale. But it was not urged in that statement that the quantity for the retail sale of country liquor should be reduced. Evidently the idea was an afterthought; and as he had already said, not being acquainted with the real reasons which had led to the alteration, he could only answer his hon. friend in anticipation of what he might have to say. He hoped the reasons he had adduced would satisfy the Council that no case has been made out for the alteration which had been made in the Bill.

The HON. MR. ALLEN said: Sir, I was one of the Select Committee, and I dare to defend this invidious distinction. But for the previous experience I have had of the sort of objections which commend themselves to the mind of the Hon. Member who moved the amendment, I should be exceedingly surprised at his action on the present occasion. From the manner in which this amendment has been brought forward, one would suppose that the Bill before the Council is now introducing an important practical change; but this is not the case. The limit of twelve seers for sale of country spirits in the former Act is rather a theoretical limit than a practical one, as the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill will doubtless fully explain. As a fact, I believe nowhere are twelve seers of country spirits allowed to be sold retail, and the only effect of the present amendment, if accepted throughout the provinces, must be to afford increased facilities for unlicensed vend of country spirits, with a very probable increase of mofussil drunkenness. We have lately read in the vernacular press ad nauseam of the terrible demoralization that has attended the abolition of the sudder distillery system, because, forsooth, the various secret agencies for the surreptitious sale of country spirits have been brought to the surface and made to contribute their quota to the general revenues. I cannot for a moment suppose that the Hon. Mover of the amendment has the least desire to increase this demoralisation: on the contrary he has professed himself to be an ardent advocate of temperance. But then he has a horror of "invidious distinctions." He would probably defend himself by saying with Brutus "not that I loved sobriety less, but I loved equality more." Now I would observe that equality is not always equity. In arithmetic, if we have two different numerators, and put the same denominator under both, we shall get fractions of very different values. Let any one place a five maunds load on the back of a Bengalee coolie and on a Chinese porter, the results will be somewhat different: nature will in this case prove pretty clearly that equality was not equity. Before, therefore, the amendment before the Council could be justified on the ground of twelve seers being the limit for retail sale of imported spirits, the mover was bound to shew that the circumstances under which imported liquor and country spirits are consumed are identical. Now I contend that there is not the slightest analogy or similarity between the two traffics. The persons by whom the trade in the two different kinds of spirits is carried on differ toto cœlo; the consumers are altogether different, and the circumstances under which they purchase and consume the liquor differ also. The drinking public of Bengal consist of two classes at the extreme poles of the social scale—one the so-called advanced and enlightened Baboo, who with a greater or less knowledge of the English language unfortunately too often imbibe a taste for imported liquors; on the other hand the consumers of country liquor are that unclassifiable residuum which is even beyond the pale of the indigenous vernacular schools. The gulf between the two classes is simply impassable. I have heard of Baboos—I have known Baboos who took to champagne and ice. I have heard of those who loved brown sherry, and of numerous others who took to a variety of drinks, but I never heard of any with the least tincture of English education who came so low as country spirits. On the other hand, it is exceedingly unlikely that those who consume country spirits would take to imported liquor. In Calcutta there might perhaps be an amalgamation of the two classes, but in the mofussil those who consume country spirits will continue to do so, whether the limit of retail sale be one seer or twelve seers. The essence of the distinction between the consumers of the two classes of spirits consists in this, that those who drink country spirits drink it on the premises where it is sold, as any one can see who goes a few miles from Calcutta and pays a visit to the first sooree's shop he comes across. Country spirits are, to quote the expression of the Hon. Mover of the amendment, essentially the poor man's luxury.

On hât days one may see a dozen or twenty peasants, palki bearers, dhobees, or such like in front of the sooree's shop in a circle, each man sitting on his heels in what may be called the national attitude. The sooree goes round with an earthen kulsi of liquor under his left arm, a two or three chittack measure in his right hand, and as he passes round he pours down the throat of each of his customers the small measure full of spirits. Will the Hon. Member pretend to say that it would be right to allow that spirit vendor to pour down those innocent throats twelve seers of country spirits? On a recent occasion, when a somewhat similar question was before the House of Commons, an Hon. Member laid it down as an indisputable principle that every man has a natural right to as much liquor as he can carry—and more. I accept the criterion. Judged by it, our Bill infringes no natural right. The Hon. Mover of the amendment will himself admit that one seer of country spirits is as much as any of his clients can carry—and more. The inference under such circumstances necessarily arises that the rules provided for the retail sale of country spirits should be such as are laid down for a sale under a license to drink on the premises, and must be different from those which would be applicable to such places as the Great Eastern Hotel, Bissonath Law and Company, and similar places for the sale of imported liquors. To say that an invidious distinction has been made because different rules are provided for a totally different state of circumstances argues, I venture to submit, a very warped judgment. It has been said that in reading a man finds in a book exactly what his mind brings to its perusal, and probably the same is true of a Bill.

The invidious distinction which the Hon. Mover of the amendment finds in the rules laid down in this Bill therefore is only the objective presentiment of the invidious distinction which already exists subjectively in his own mind. Having passed through its focus, the external image is necessarily an inverted reproduction of the original. I trust, Sir, the Council will lend no countenance to this morbid sensitiveness, this perverted ingenuity—the curse of Young Bengal, whose main support is derived from the perpetual discovering of "invidious distinction."

The HON'BLE MAHOMED YUSUF said that in this instance he was unable to support the amendment, although his reasons were not exactly the same with those which had just been given to the Council. He based his opinion on what had passed in the Select Committee, of which he was a member. It was true that no allusion was made in the statement of objects and reasons accompanying the Bill to the point now under consideration. But that was for obvious reasons, for this point was mooted for consideration subsequently. After the Bill had been referred to the Select Committee, a question was raised whether the power which the Board of Revenue possessed under section 15 of the Act of increasing and decreasing the quantities specified under that section should be continued in the same form in which it stood under the section. He had suggested to the Select Committee that the Board should only have the power of increasing the quantities, because otherwise great uncertainty would prevail; whereas if the power given to the Board were only one-sided, that is to say, if the Board were only to be entrusted with the power of increasing certain quantities specified in the Act, the public would have something in the Act by which they could guide themselves. He took an instance and supposed that if four seers of tari were specified in the section and the Board desired to raise the quantity under the power reserved to them from four to six seers, a person who was in possession of only four seers was sure against a criminal prosecution in consequence of the provisions of the Act itself; but if he were to have five seers of tari in his possession, he would still be protected by the rules of the Board, although he had gone beyond the quantity specified in the Act. And thus there would be no criminal prosecution until the limit of six seers was exceeded.

Therefore, in order to be on the safe side, a person had only to limit himself to the quantity specified in the Act, and he was more than sure against a criminal prosecution, which he could not be if the Board possessed the double-sided power of both increasing and decreasing the quantities specified in the section. By his suggestion, therefore, the result was that if a person conformed to the law he was safe But by the language of the law as it stood, a person was not sure even if he conformed to the law. The suggestion had therefore been adopted by the Select Committee.

But at the same time he had thought it proper in the Select Committee that the quantity specified in the section should be revised, and he was of that opinion because the different laws on this subject all specified lesser quantities than that which was stated in the Bengal Excise Act. In the Imperial Council's Act of 1881, the quantities specified were for foreign fermented liquors 12 bottles, and for country spirits one seer. It appeared to him that the quantities specified in the Bengal Excise Act might as well be altered and revised as proposed by the Hon. Mover of the Bill.

The HON. MR. MACAULAY said that he was not aware, till he entered the Council Chamber, that it was intended that the discussion on the amendments on the paper should proceed that day. He was under the impression that it would be postponed on technical grounds until the next meeting of the Council. Any difficulty, however, which he might thus experience was removed by the copiousness of the opportunities for reply which the speech of his hon. friend, the mover of the amendment, had afforded, by the number of the false issues he had raised and the number of the irrelevant considerations to which he had appealed. His hon. friend had fallen into a remarkable series of errors—errors of fact and errors of principle. The former had been chiefly exhibited in his treatment of the history of the question. He had discovered an inconsistency betwen the action of the Legislature in 1878 and the action which it was proposed to take now, because the law of 1878 fixed the retail limit for country spirits at 12 quart bottles, whereas it was now proposed to fix it at one seer. But in truth there was no inconsistency at all; for the simple reason that the limit fixed in 1878 was intended as a maximum, while the limit now proposed was intended as a minimum. The limit fixed in the Act of 1878 was in fact never reached. Before that Act was passed, the retail rate was everywhere one seer. As soon as the Act was passed the Board of Revenue, under their order of 6th April 1878, raised it in most districts to six quart bottles, but in certain districts or parts of districts, chiefly on the frontier, the old limit of one seer was maintained because it was considered necessary. There was certainly no competition in these districts between country and imported spirits. He found from the returns that there was only one retail license for the sale of imported liquors in Pooree, four in Julpigoree, two in Mozufferpore, four in Durbhunga, four in Chumparun and so on. He had not heard any attempt to shew that this limit was other than a proper one for the districts in which it was in force. But there was high legal authority for thinking that the rule under which it was maintained was not in accordance with the law as strictly interpreted. The obvious course therefore was to fix it as the minimum, leaving the Board to raise it where this course might be desirable. The limit being permissive, the Board would certainly not introduce it where it had hitherto been found unsuitable, and accordingly the picture of repression which the Hon. Member had drawn was one which would exist only in his own imagination and in the archives of this Council. The position would remain precisely as it was at present. The answer, therefore, to this part of the Hon. Gentleman's argument was, first, that we must lay down some minimum if we wished to act legally; second, that one seer had been found to be the proper limit for certain districts, and must therefore be taken as the minimum; third, that the existing limits would not be interfered with in these districts or in any other district. The Hon. Gentleman had also made several mistakes of principle, of which one had been fully disposed of by his hon. friend Mr. Allen. It was impossible to pretend to make uniform rules for liquors which differed in the customs of trade, in the habits of consumers, in the conditions of manufacture, of custody, of sale, of transport; in fact in practically every characteristic except the single common property of intoxicating effect. He need say nothing further on this point. There was, however, another error of his hon. friend which seemed to him very remarkable. They had been told that unless the retail limit was reduced for imported liquors there would be an invidious distinction in their favour, that they would be protected, and that a premium would be held out to them. He had never before heard that we protected an article, and held out a premium to it, by taxing it. The whole argument of his hon. friend on this point rested upon the theory that articles can be purchased more cheaply by retail than by wholesale. His hon. friend assumed that if the limit of 12 quart bottles for imported liquors were reduced the price would be increased. He here missed the rationale of the difference between retail licenses and wholesale licenses. The wholesale vendor was supposed to sell only to vendors who would again sell to consumers. As a matter of fact it would be impossible to fix any limit which would secure that every wholesale license covered only wholesale transactions, and every retail purchase was covered by a retail license. Individuals would purchase large quantities for their personal consumption, but if we endeavoured to raise the retail limit so as to include them, we should be compelling wholesale vendors to take out retail licenses to cover still more numerous genuine wholesale transactions. The Hon. Gentleman had overlooked the simple fact that all liquor purchased by retail pays two licenses, and is consequently more costly than liquor purchased by wholesale. The effect therefore of reducing the limit for European liquors from 12 quart bottles to say 6, would be to make all liquor purchased in quantities varying from 7 to 12 quart bottles cheaper than it now was. In fact, if we did not go so low as to harass retail vendors, so as to compel them to take out wholesale licenses as well, the nearer we went to general wholesale the cheaper we should make the liquor. The proposal of the Hon. Member would have precisely the opposite effect to that which he contemplated. His whole argument in support of the amendment appeared to rest on no ground of fact, principle or economy.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER said the Hon Mover of the amendment made some remarks to which he should, as a Member of the Board of Revenue and particularly with reference to the personal allusion to himself as connected with the passing of the former Bill, be expected to give an answer. The Hon. Member wished to know why in the last Act the maximum quantity for the retail sale of country spirits was altered. MR. DAMPIER had no recollection himself of having taken a part in any of the discussions on that point, and having just looked through the proceedings of the Council, he found that in 1878 he took charge of the Bill, after it had been reported upon by the Select Committee, with the view of carrying it formally through the Council, except in regard to two points; one of them being on the question of the inspection of druggists' shops, and the other prohibiting the institution of suits in the Small Cause Court for liquor drank in hotels on the model of the English "Tippling Act." He did not take part in any other question in connection with the passing of the Excise Act of 1878, and he was, therefore, not able to give any answer to the question why the maximum retail quantity of country liquor was altered.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he thought sufficient reasons for this section had been given in the report of the Select Committee, and in the speech of the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Macaulay), but he might perhaps be allowed to add a few remarks on the subject. The effect of the amendment would be to raise the limit both of country spirits and of imported liquors equally to twelve seers, that being the minimum quantity from which no reduction would be allowed. The Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Macaulay) had explained the practical reasons which existed against the amendment, because the limit of one seer was and still continued the limit in several districts as regards country spirits. When the Bill in its original form came before the Select Committee, MR. REYNOLDS understood, and he believed all the Members of the Select Committee understood, that the principle that the Board should have power only in the direction of raising the limit had been definitely accepted. If that principle was accepted there was no doubt that the quantity specified in the section must be the minimum quantity practically in use. He found on consulting the Board of Revenue that the quantity of one seer was actually the limit in certain districts, and that there were practical reasons why that limit should not be raised. That was the reason why the Bill reduced the quantity of country spirits from two gallons to one seer. But then it was said, why not reduce the limit for the sale of imported liquors to the same minimum? The simple reason was that, for imported liquors, there was no object in making any change. The quantity of two gallons had always been the rule, and there was no reason for altering it. As for what was said to be the invidious distinction made between one kind of liquor and another, it was not as if this principle was new to legislation The Northern India Excise Act of 1881, which had been held up as a model to the Council, as did the previous Act of 1871, made the same distinction. So that the change was not proposed to be made by the Bill, but by the amendment of his hon. friend, and MR. REYNOLDS must decidedly object to it.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said in reply that he thanked the Hon. Members who had spoken for vouchsafing to him some of the information which he had asked for, but he must confess that he had not yet received full information. The Hon. Member on the left (Mr. Dampier) had explained why he was unable to give the Council the reasons which led the Legislature to raise the old limit of one seer to twelve quart bottles by the Act of 1878.

[The HON. MR. MACAULAY explained that the limit given in the Act was a maximum; the intention was to give the Board power to reduce the limit as circumstances required.]

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL continued—Whatever the intention was it was not expressed in the Act, and according to a well known legal maxim the intention of the Legislature could only be gathered from the context of the law; and here the law was very clear that the limit for the retail sale of country spirits was fixed at twelve seers. But he would not quarrel about this point. He had already said that the non-official members of the Council would be exceedingly obliged if, when Bills were laid before the Council, they were put in possession of all the information which might help them in studying those Bills. Up to this moment they did not know the reasons which had rendered the alteration of the law necessary, for if he had known the reasons he might not have put forward the amendment, or urged it in the way he had done.

With reference to what fell from the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Allen), he had been pleased to read him a homily for which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL felt thankful to him. His hon. friend said that equality was not always equity, and that imported and country spirits could not always be placed on the same footing. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL fully admitted that the consumption of imported and country liquor by the natives of the country would have different effects, and it was because he was inclined to think that the provision in this Bill might tend to encourage the consumption of imported liquor, which he considered would be more injurious than the use of country liquor, that he was of opinion that factitious encouragement should not be offered to the former. His hon. friend described at some length the circumstances which led to different action on this question. He took the enlightened "Baboo" as he called the educated native, at one end of the social ladder, and the rustic cultivator at the other end, and said that the enlightened Baboo drank imported spirits and the rustic labourer imbibed country liquor. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could not say how far his friend's experience extended, but as a native of the country, he could say that his countrymen in the mofussil did not very largely consume imported spirits. In Calcutta it might be different; but he was told only the other day by no less than five Deputy Collectors that the consumption of country liquor was extending among educated and wealthy natives in the mofussil.

Nothing could be more disastrous to the health and morals of the people than the spread of a taste for deleterious imported liquor, particularly among the rural population. He was disposed to think that the use of country liquor was much less harmful than that of imported spirits; but he was not prepared to admit that the enlightened "Baboos" in the mofussil consumed only imported spirits. And if they did, what did the argument lead to? It meant that the Council should encourage the consumption of the more harmful article by lowering the retail sale of the less harmful!

He was of opinion that the Government should discourage as much as possible the consumption of intoxicating spirits by the people of this country, but if a line was to be drawn, it ought to be drawn in favour of that which was less injurious. Some of their greatest and wealthiest men had died victims to drink craving, and the manifest duty of Government was therefore to discourage it as much as possible.

Then he was told that the custom amongst the people here was to drink on the premises or in the shop, and therefore the limit of one bottle would not be inconvenient to them. But he rather believed that if one man drank at the premises of the vendor, 10 or 20 drank at home; therefore he did not think that the custom alluded to ought to govern the lowering of the quantity for retail sale. His hon. friend had presented to them a glowing picture of 20 or 30 rustic people gathered together on the premises of a liquor vendor, who went round with a pot of liquor in his hands pouring country liquor down the throats of those innocent men, and asked the Council to imagine what would be the result if the limit for retail sale was raised to twelve bottles. But BABOO KRISTODAS PAL would ask whether the mischievous effects which his hon. friend depicted would be lessened or decreased if the liquor vendor were to pour deleterious imported spirits down the throats of these innocent men?

He raised the question between imported and country spirits not from "morbid sensitiveness" or "perverted ingenuity," but from a desire to discourage as much as possible the consumption of imported liquor which he considered was more injurious than otherwise. He alluded to the bad and nasty Radha Bazar stuff, which was sold in native shops under the name of imported spirits—not what European gentlemen generally drank.

Then his hon. friend on the other side (Mr. Macaulay) had made a very important revelation. He said that the statement of facts and the enunciation of principle made by BABOO KRISTODAS PAL were equally wrong, and in correcting his mistake the hon. gentleman said that the limit of twelve bottles laid down in 1878 was in practice never observed; that it was six seers in Dacca and other places, and one seer in others; and that the Board had fixed the limit with reference to the circumstances of each place. So legislation was one thing and executive action another. There was also another argument put forward by the Hon. Member which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL did not clearly understand. Did he mean that the minimum limit would not materially affect the consumption of country liquor, because the retail vendor generally held two licenses, that was to say, one for retail sale and another for wholesale. As far as BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was aware that was not the fact. As for the economic argument advanced by the Hon. Gentlemen, viz. that the distinction made in the retail sale of imported and country liquor would not be attended with protectionism, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could only say that he did not appreciate the force of this argument. He thought it was obvious that if there were two similar articles for sale, and if the tariff encouraged the sale of the one to the prejudice of the other, the result would necessarily be the protection of the favoured article.

Holding this view, he thought it was undesirable that any distinction should be made between the sale of country and imported spirits.

The amendment was then put to the vote and negatived on the following division:—

ROAD TRAMWAYS.

COLONEL THE HON. S. T. TREVOR, in moving for leave to introduce a Bill to authorize the making, and to regulate the working of, tramways in Bengal, said:—

"Sir,—I rise to move for leave to bring in a Bill to authorize the making and regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal. It is fortunate for me, Sir, that in the speech with which you opened this session of the Council you explained so fully the circumstances which had led to the necessity for introducing this Bill; otherwise, in my inexperience of the legislative work of this Council, I should have felt—as indeed I still feel—great anxiety and diffidence as to my ability to be an adequate exponent of the measure. The way has now, however, been so far cleared before me that this Council has already been made aware of the reasons which render legislation on this subject necessary, and in the few supplementary remarks I have to make, I need only trespass on the patience of Hon. Members at very short length.

The only Act on the subject of tramways in force in Bengal is Act I of 1880 of this Council. It applies only to Calcutta and its suburbs, and under its operation this city has been provided with the net-work of tramways with which Hon. Members are all familiar. I fear I shall be not far wrong in saying that one effect of that familiarity has been to implant in the minds of many people, and, perhaps, even of some Hon. Members here present, a lurking belief that the tramways are not altogether an unmixed good. For my own part I must confess that whenever I have had occasion—and that not seldom—to look somewhat ruefully at the havoc played with the wheels and tyres of my carriage, I have felt disposed to bless tramways with only a very faint blessing. But these are sublunary considerations which I trust Hon. Members will banish from their minds in considering the Bill which I am asking leave to introduce. Everything has another side, and it will be my endeavour, to the best of my ability, to present the other side of the tramway question to your consideration.

The first and, perhaps, the most important feature of that other side is the financial success which so generally attends well-managed schemes of tramway. Indeed, I believe the best antidote to the grievance I have just alluded to about damaged wheels and tyres would be the possession of some shares in the Tramway Company which might happen to be the cause of offence. At least I judge so from my experience on what used to be called the Darjeeling Tramway. If ever you saw any passenger cheerfully or stoically enduring all the incidental discomforts of a ride on that tram, while every one else was giving vent to the fiercest grumbling, you might be sure he was a shareholder whose equanimity was due to the recollection of the premium at which his shares were quoted.

The published report of the Calcutta Tramways Company for 1881, which I have here, shows that the dividends of that year were an average of 7½ per cent., and I believe I am justified in saying that the current year's working promises to show not less favourable results. And this is only the second year of working. Moreover the tramway is entirely a private enterprise, without any guarantee or subsidy from Government; not only so, but it pays a rent to the Corporation of Rs. 2,000 to Rs. 3,000 per mile per annum for the use of the roadway occupied by it.

Another feature of the tramway is the boon that it is to the poorer classes of the community. In 1881, the first year of working, when the lines were only partially completed, the number of passengers carried was 3,267,559. In the present or second year of working, the number of passengers has increased to 5,941,874, or very nearly six millions, and the receipts from these amounted to about 4½ lakhs of rupees. The number of passengers next year, estimated by the traffic of the present time, will be 6¾ millions. The average distance a passenger is carried is 1¼ mile, and the average fare received from each passenger is five pice, of which, roughly speaking, about four pice covers the gross expenditure of the tramway, and one pice remains as net profit. Hon. Members have no doubt occasionally had their attention drawn to that remarkable vehicle, a third class ticca gharry. The authorized fare payable for the use of one is three annas for the first mile and two annas for each succeeding mile. Therefore, if four people club together to charter one, as they often do, each of them would have to pay five pice, or the same fare for which he could perform a similar journey in a tram car. I have never undergone the experience of a joint-stock journey of this sort in a third class ticca, but I have no hesitation in saying that I would go in a tram-car by preference if I had the choice.

Not only is the tramway appreciated as a boon by natives, but it is largely patronized also by Europeans; and experience has proved one rather interesting fact, which is that Europeans show as much disinclination to waste a pice as natives do. When the tramway was first started, the seats were arranged in two classes, those in front being made more comfortable with cushions, and charged at a higher rate. Soon, however, it was found that very few people patronised these first class seats, and that Europeans as well as natives all went to the second class. The result was an inconvenient one, for the tram-cars had to run too heavy behind and too light in front, and the experiment was abandoned. Now there is only one class.

If, then, the establishment of tramways is appreciated as a boon by natives and the poorer classes generally, and if it is found that they can be constructed and worked as profitably here, in India, as in other parts of the world, it will also be found that India, with its huge populations, affords a large field for their development. That development will, I believe, take the form not only of a multiplication of projects, but also of an adaptation of the mechanical nature of this means of conveyance to the peculiar circumstances and wants of this country. In Calcutta the tramway is contrived after European models, but already, I think, we can see differences which not only the climate, but the habits of the natives of this country render inevitable. If this is the case in Calcutta, where the community, the streets, the character of the traffic, are all in a great measure Europeanised, and where there is a public opinion always ready to criticise faults, how much greater will be the departure from preconceived models when tramways are constructed in towns or rural tracts in the mofussil, where roads may be narrow and unmetalled, and where public opinion is not wont to express itself very frequently or forcibly.

Where money is to be made, and where the wants of the poorer classes of the native community are recognized and appreciated, we may be sure that schemes will be set afloat by native speculators to supply those wants in their own humbler fashion, but still in imitation of the more substantial European prototypes. We may already see on the Hooghly many little steamers plying with their decks covered with seething crowds of native passengers, and managed in a primitive fashion that would be pronounced to be absolutely and hopelessly impossible by the Captain of a Peninsular and Oriental or British India Steamer. Yet these things pay, and no doubt give great satisfaction to the classes who patronise them. So it requires no prophetic vision to foresee that, as time goes on, we may have combinations started wherever there is a prospect of profit, for the establishment of cheap communications by means of inexpensive tramways adapted to the wants of the people of this country. No one can tell how different they may be from our present ideas of what a workmanlike and well-managed tramway should be. For all I can tell, there may be as much difference between a London or a Calcutta tramcar and the future tram-car of indigenous development, as there is between a Pickford's van and a bullock gharry, or between a London omnibus and a third class ticca Of course, speaking as an Engineer, I may say that true economy and success are inseparable from solidity of construction and efficiency of management as we conceive them to be. The process of evolution with us, therefore, is always in the direction of additional strength and solidity. But there is nothing more absolutely certain than that there are ways of managing and doing things in India very different from any that are dreamed of in our philosophy.

I trust Hon. Members will not imagine from the remarks I have made that a new era is to be at once opened in the matter of cheap communication by anything that is contained in the Bill which I am asking leave to introduce. That Bill is merely intended to convey legal powers to Municipalities and other local authorities to promote the construction and working of tramways in their respective jurisdictions. All I wish to indicate by my remarks is that there may be many ways in which the powers thus granted may hereafter fructify, and that it is advisable to bear this in mind in framing the wording of the Act so as not to limit its applicability too closely to any particular form of tramway that has hitherto been present to our minds.

I need not detain the Council by describing the structure or provisions of the Bill in detail, as that will be better done when the Bill is in the hands of Hon Members.

I now beg to move for leave to introduce the Bill.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday the 6th January 1883.

Saturday, the 6th January 1883.

Present:

BENGAL MUNICIPALITIES.

The Hon. Mr. Reynolds introduced the Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to Municipalities, and moved that it be read in Council.

He said:—"I wish to preface what I have to say by asking the indulgence of the Council for any defects which may be apparent in the form or wording of the Bill The Bill has been prepared under some pressure, in consequence of the numerous holidays which have intervened since leave was given to bring in the Bill; and the Council are also aware that legislation in this Council is conducted under some difficulties in consequence of our not having the assistance of a trained professional draftsman. The arrangement of the Bill is not altogether what I should have wished to make it, and probably some repetitions will be found in the wording of the sections; but to have recast the Bill would have involved considerable delay; and the Government was anxious that the Bill should be placed before the Council and the public on as early a date as possible, with a view to obtaining an expression of opinion on its substantive provisions.

I think I need not detain the Council with any remarks on the preliminary sections, or upon Part I of the Bill. The sections of Part II which relate to the constitution of Municipalities have been drawn in accordance with the outline which I sketched when I asked for leave to introduce the Bill. It will be seen that the limitation of the elective system, under the proviso appended to section 16 of the present Act, is omitted, and section 17, which refers to the appointment of ex-officio Commissioners, has been struck out. Two-thirds of the Commissioners in every Municipality, unless the Lieutenant-Governor shall specially direct otherwise, will be elected by the rate-payers. The Chairman will be either appointed by Government or elected by the Commissioners, and both the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman will hold office for three years. The alterations in the rest of this Part are of no great importance.

In Part III, which refers to the Municipal Fund, I would ask the attention of the Council to section 64, which corresponds to section 66 of the present Act. The Act directs that the Municipal estimates shall be transmitted to the Magistrate of the district, and shall be forwarded by him to the Commissioner of the division. In the Bill it is declared that the estimates are to be sent to such controlling authority as the Government may direct. Instead of using this circumlocution, I should have liked to say at once that the estimates were to be sent to the Local Government Board. I should be glad to see a Central Board established in Calcutta, with controlling and supervising powers over both Municipalities and Local Boards; such a Board would not only usefully supply the place of the Magistrate and the Commissioner, but it would relieve the Government of many matters of detail. Many of the functions and duties which this Bill assigns to the Lieutenant-Governor might very suitably be delegated to the Local Government Board. I hope the establishment of such a Board will before long be an accomplished fact, but in the meanwhile it would have been premature to make any direct reference to it in drafting the Bill. The wording of the section and of some subsequent sections which speak of "the controlling authority," can, if necessary, be altered when the Bill is in Select Committee.

Part IV deals with the somewhat thorny question of Municipal taxation; and here it will be found that the taxes which may be generally imposed on Municipalities are strictly limited to those taxes which may be levied by the present law. No general power of extending taxation is given by the Bill; the additional rates referred to in section 75 are confined to those Municipalities to which special provisions of the Bill may have been extended at the request of the Commissioners themselves. It is neither desirable nor likely that these provisions will be had recourse to very largely, but as the Bill is intended to meet the wants of all classes of Municipalities it is necessary that it should provide for the requirements of the wealthiest and most advanced cities as well as of the humbler towns. With the general adoption of the elective system, there need be no apprehension that the powers thus given will be abused.

Part V does not materially differ from Part VI of the present Act, and Part VI in substance corresponds to Part VII of the Act. It would, in my opinion, be an advantage if both these parts were greatly curtailed. They are full of minute directions and matters of detail which would find a more suitable place in bye-laws than in the body of the Act. But this is a matter which can most properly be considered in Select Committee: and I have thought it best to adhere, provisionally at least, to the general form of the existing law.

Part VII of the Bill is drafted with little more than verbal alterations upon the chapter of the Calcutta Municipal Act which relates to the water-supply. Part VIII of the Bill, with refers to lighting with gas, is similarly taken from the Howrah Lighting Act of 1873. Part IX is almost entirely a reproduction of the present Bengal Act VI of 1878. That Act can only be extended to Municipalities of the first class: but as no distinction is made in the Bill between different classes of Municipalities, Part IX can be applied to any Municipality to which the Commissioners may ask to have it extended.

The three remaining Parts of the Bill are based upon the present Municipal law.

Such, Sir, is a summary of the measure which I have the honour to lay before the Council. It is an honest attempt on the part of the Government to redeem the pledge which has been given, that the management of local affairs shall be left, as far as possible, in the hands of the people themselves. The extension of the elective system will ensure (as far as such a thing can be ensured by legislation) that the Municipal Commissioners will be gentlemen who are willing to give their attention to local matters, and who are recognized by their fellow citizens as the best guardians of local interest. Only those who fulfil the former of these conditions will seek for election: only those who fulfil the latter will obtain it. I am not one of those who anticipate that there will be any difficulty in finding properly qualified persons ready to offer themselves as candidates. The public mind has been deeply stirred on the subject, and the first elections, at any rate, under the new system are sure to excite abundant interest. But if this is the case, it may confidently be expected that the interest will not fall off in future years. In proportion as the Commissioners find that they have real powers and responsibilities entrusted to them, the honour of a seat at the Municipal Board will more and more become an object of healthy and legitimate ambition."

His Honor the President said he was not aware whether any Hon. Member of Council wished to speak on the Bill at its present stage; but if it was the wish of Hon. Members, and considering that there had not been time enough to master the details as presented in the Bill now before them, it would be quite easy to defer reference to the Select Committee to next week, when they might have an opportunity of expressing their views. But if there was no intention of discussing the details until the Bill had passed through Select Committee, it might now at once be so committed.

The Hon Mahomed Yusuf said he thought the discussion on the Bill had better take place after it had been reported upon.

His Honor the President said he also wished to make a suggestion that, in addition to the reference to Select Committee, some action might be taken for giving it circulation, and he thought that a copy of the Bill as introduced should be forwarded to all Chairmen of Municipalities in view to the expression of any remarks they might wish to make while the Bill was under discussion in Select Committee. Discussion in Select Committee would not be delayed thereby, because, His Honor supposed, it would take fully two months before the report of the Select Committee was made on it. This would give an opportunity to any local bodies to bring forward their objections, or concurrence, or remarks or suggestions in connection with the Bill, which he thought was a desirable matter.

ROAD TRAMWAYS.

Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor introduced the Bill to authorise the making and to regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal, and moved that it be read in Council.

He said:—"Sir, I beg to move that the Bill to authorise the making and to regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal be read in Council. The original draft of this Bill was sent on the 30th September last to all Commissioners of Divisions and to the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta with a circular asking for an expression of opinion on the provisions of the Bill; and in reply to it we have received several valuable criticisms and suggestions of amendment. These have been carefully considered, and the first draft has been altered and modified in several respects. The Bill is divided into five parts. The first of these prescribes the procedure to be followed by local authorities and other promoters in bringing forward and obtaining sanction to their projects. The term "local authority" includes the Commissioners of any Municipality, whether appointed or elected, as well as any Board, Committee, Council, Department, or person vested with the power to make or maintain roads; and any local authority or other promoters with the consent of a local authority may apply in the usual manner for the sanction of the Local Government to any proposed scheme of tramway, that is by submitting a memorial descriptive of the undertaking accompanied by plans and estimates of the works, a copy of the agreement proposed to be entered into, and a copy of the resolutions and proceedings of the local authority in which their approval of the intention to make the application is formally recorded. The Bill requires that this resolution should be passed at a special meeting of the members constituting the local authority, of which at least one month's previous notice has been given. The notice must require that all objections to the proposed scheme be filed before the date fixed for the meeting, and the meeting must be attended by at least two-thirds of the numbers constituting the local authority. These provisions are considered necessary in order to ensure that all tramway schemes shall be approved by a proper majority of the representatives of the rate-payers before the revenues at the disposal of local authorities can be committed to such schemes or concessions be granted by them to other promoters. Sections 6 to 9 of the Bill describe how the sanctioning order of the Local Government is to be given and published, and how it may be revoked or amended, and Hon. Members may observe that large powers are reserved to the Local Government to fix all details of each scheme according to the nature of the application, and the facts and circumstances of each case, as it thinks fit. This, I think, is absolutely necessary, for it would be very inexpedient, even it were possible, to lay down any hard-and-fast rules by which all agreements to be made hereafter between promoters and local authorities should be stereotyped on one uniform pattern, whether as to the nature of the concessions to be granted, or the sort of tramway to be built. Sections 10 and 11 give the necessary powers to local authorities to use the moneys at their disposal for the purposes of tramways, and to credit the income that may be derived from them.

"Part II of the Bill deals with the details of the construction of tramways, granting the necessary powers for breaking up roads for the purpose of laying or repairing rails, and prescribing rules for dividing this so as to inconvenience the public and obstruct traffic as little as possible. Sections 17 and 18 are framed to protect the rights of the public to the free and unrestricted use of roads on which tramways may be laid for ordinary traffic, i.e. with carriages not having flange wheels or wheels suitable for running actually on the tramway rails. But this right is limited to public roads, and does not extend to new roadways, embankments or earthworks that may be constructed or acquired by promoters for the exclusive use of their tramways.

"Part III deals with the question of the powers necessary to enable local authorities or promoters to run carriages on their tramways, to fix rates, and to levy fares and charges. Powers are granted to local authorities as well as promoters to make bye-laws of the usual kind for regulating the rate of speed and other details of traffic and for preventing disturbances, the commission of nuisances, the entry of persons suffering from infectious diseases, and so on. Section 2 reserves to promoters the exclusive right to the use of their tramways for carriages specially adopted for running on them.

"Part IV deals with the subject of penalties and offences. The several clauses are drawn with very little variation from the Calcutta Tramways Act, and there is no need for me to take up the time of the Council in describing them in detail.

"Part V contains new clauses which deal with miscellaneous matters. Clause 36 provides for the settlement of any difference that may arise between promoters and the local authority or other persons or companies affected by the operations of the promoters, by the arbitration of an Engineer or other fit person to be nominated by the Local Government as reference on the application of either party to the disputes. This clause is adopted for the English Tramways Act, and as it was included in the draft Bill, I have left it for further consideration by the Special Committee. But in the Calcutta Tramways Act there is no arbitration clause in the Act itself, though there is one in the agreement between the Corporation and the grantees which is appended to the Act as a schedule. In this, provision is made for the appointment of an arbitrator by each party, and of an umpire by the arbitrators in case the latter do not agree. I think the Bill should certainly contain an arbitration clause, but it is a question which can be further considered in Special Committee whether the form of it had better be that of a referee to be nominated by Government, or of joint arbitrators to be nominated by the parties to the dispute. Clause 38 reserves power to local authorities and the police to regulate traffic on roads on which tramways may be laid, and clause 39 reserves to all persons having the necessary authority to execute work on such roads, powers to continue to execute such work, with the usual provisos for causing as little detriment as possible to the interests of the promoters of the tramway. Clause 4 provides for the removal of tramways in the event of discontinuance, clause 41 for the proceedings to be taken in case of insolvency of promoters, and clause 42 for the purchase of tramways by local authorities at the end of twenty-one years and at succeeding periods of seven years afterwards. In the original draft of the Bill this purchase clause included the terms on which the purchase should be effected as contained in the Calcutta Tramways Act. I intended in the revised draft to omit any specification of the terms of purchase, as it seems more expedient to leave these to be settled by agreement between local authorities and promoters before sanctioning any scheme of tramway. I find, however, that through inadvertence the Bill, as now presented to the Council, contains a specification of the terms of purchase, though not the same terms as in the original draft. This is a point to which I shall ask attention when the Bill is considered in Special Committee. I need not detain this Council by describing the Bill at any greater length. I now beg to move that it be read in Council."

The motion was put and agreed to.

He also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the HON. MESSRS. REYNOLDS, ALLEN, BHUDEB MOOKERJEE, MAHOMED YUSUF, HURBANS SHAHAI, and the MOVER, with instructions to report in six weeks.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Bengal Act V of 1870. This was but a small measure, and he need only trouble the Council with a few words on it. The Port Commissioners had applied to the Government for sanction to certain plans and estimates for the construction of a tea warehouse which they proprose to erect at Armenian ghât. The scheme had been under consideration and discussion for the last six years, and the Chamber of Commerce and a considerable majority of firms interested in the tea trade were in favour of the proposals being sanctioned. He thought it was apparent that it would be a great convenience to the traffic to have a central warehouse in a suitable position like Armenian ghât, close to the banks of the river, from which chests of tea might be easily shipped without being exposed to unnecessary handling and risk of breakage to which they were at present subject. He thought also that this warehouse would tend to relieve the streets of Calcutta of some portion of the cart traffic.

But, as the Council was no doubt aware, under the present practice of the trade the greater part of the tea shipped from Calcutta was sold previous to shipment. Whether that was a practice which was advantageous to the Indian tea-grower, it was not for MR. REYNOLDS to say: but it was undoubtedly the existing practice, and so long as this practice prevailed, the convenience of the tea warehouse would be neutralized, or at least greatly diminished, unless accommodation were provided in the warehouse itself for the sampling and selling of tea previous to shipment. The Government, however, was advised that, under the law as it stood at present, it was not open to the Port Commissioners to erect a warehouse which should have for one of its objects the provision of facilities for the sampling and selling of tea. Section 39 of the Calcutta Port Commissioners' Act empowered the Port Commissioners to construct warehouses and sheds for conveying, receiving, and storing goods and merchandise landed or to be shipped. The object of the present Bill was somewhat to extend this power, and to give the Port Commissioners authority also to provide accommodation in such warehouses for the sampling and sale of such goods and merchandize.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 13th instant.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION IN MADRAS, 1883.

No. 1119, dated Ootacamund, the 17th October 1882.

From—The Secretary to the Government of Fort St. George,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I AM directed by the Right Hon'ble the Governor in Council to state, for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, that it is proposed to hold an Agricultural Exhibition in Madras in February next, and to forward for circulation five copies of the Prize List and Regulations relating thereto.

2. The Right Hon'ble the Governor in Council will be greatly obliged by the co-operation of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in furtherance of the objects of the Exhibition.

3. The Honorary Secretary to the Exhibition Committee will be glad to furnish any detailed information on the subject which may be required, and I am to request that, with the permission of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, he may be informed directly of the name of some officer with whom he may place himself in communication on the subject.

REGULATIONS.

1. The Exhibition will be opened on Thursday, February 15th, 1883. Live-stock will be exhibited till the evening of Saturday, February 17th. The remainder of the exhibits will continue on view on Monday and Tuesday, February 19th and 20th. The Exhibition will be closed during Sunday, February 18th.

2. The site of the Exhibition will be announced hereafter.

3. The admission charges will be as follows:—Payment of Re. 1 will entitle the ticket-holder to admission at any time. Entrance on the first day will be limited to the Re. 1 ticket-holders. Payment of ½ Re. will entitle the ticket-holder, to admission from the morning of the second day. Up to 9 A.M. on the second day, entrance will be limited to the above two classes of ticket-holders. After which hour, and during the remainder of the Exhibition, admission will be FREE.

4. All care-takers of live-stock, and such other care-takers as may be admitted by the Show-yard Committee, shall be allowed free admission at any time.

5. All exhibits will be placed under cover.

6. Arrangements for trials of implements and machinery, and for a ploughing match, will be made by the Show-yard Committee.

7. Competition is unrestricted, except where otherwise specified.

8. Decisions of Judges in the case of live-stock will be based on fixed scales of points. The Judges will be divided into sections of not less than three.

9. The essays sent in for competition for prizes as notified in the prize list will be submitted to the decision of competent Judges.

10. Arrangements will be made by the Committee for the reception of dead-stock exhibits from Monday 12th to Wednesday 14th February inclusive. All live-stock must be on the ground by 4 P.M. on the evening of Wednesday, February 14th.

11. Vegetable and dairy produce, likely to deteriorate, must be delivered on the ground before 6 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, February 15th.

12. The age of all live-stock (classified by age) will be calculated from the 1st January in the year of birth, unless the required notice states the exact age.

13. The stock, produce, or article to be exhibited must be intimated to the Secretary by a separate notice for each class of exhibits in the printed forms which will be supplied by him. No stock, produce, or article will be admitted without an admission order signed by the Secretary.

14. The notice will specify the name of the exhibit, the section, class and division in which it is to be entered, the name of the exhibitor, and the village, taluk and district in which he resides, &c. This notice must be lodged with the Secretary on or before January 15th, 1883.

15. The authorities in charge of the Exhibition cannot undertake the care and feeding of live-stock, but will only arrange that supplies of fodder may be purchased within the Exhibition grounds. It is therefore requested that no exhibits may be consigned to the Secretary when they are being forwarded to the Exhibition.

16. All stock and exhibits of all kinds must be removed within twenty-four hours after the close of the Exhibition. Exhibits remaining after that time will be disposed of as the Exhibition authorities see fit.

17. The prizes will be paid at the close of the Exhibition. In addition to the money prize, each winner of a prize will be entitled to a certificate.

18. No exhibit of any description will be allowed to leave the Exhibition grounds until the close of the Exhibition, excepting in very exceptional cases and only by permission of the Secretary.

19. Every reasonable care will be taken of the exhibits while in the Exhibition grounds, but no responsibility will be accepted by the Committee. The regulations laid down for ensuring the safety of exhibits will be strictly enforced.

20. The Essays must be lodged with the Secretary at the least ten days before the day on which the Exhibition is to be opened.

21. Government Institutions, or Institutions receiving aid from Government, will not compete, but will exhibit only.

22. The arrangements of the Exhibition will be conducted by the Committee; all persons entering the Exhibition grounds will be subject to their orders.

23. One servant or care-taker only, for each lot, will be admitted, and he must continue in charge of his lot. Bulls must be secured by a ring or screw in the nose with a chain or rope attached, or otherwise properly secured, or they cannot be admitted. Cows and heifers must have halters on their heads. The competing stock shall be distinguished by numbers only, and the owner's name shall not be made known until the prizes are awarded.

34. No marks which might indicate the ownership of stock, produce, or articles exhibited for prizes will be permitted.

25. No diseased animals can be admitted, and should any animal manifest symptoms of disease during the Exhibition, it will be immediately removed from the premises.

26. No application for space for exhibits can be received after January 15th, 1883.

27. Exhibitors will have to pay every expense of transit, delivery, fixing, and removing their exhibits, and they must either personally or by their agents superintend the reception and removal of their exhibits; in default whereof, the Committee reserves to itself the right of doing whatever may be considered necessary at the expense of the exhibitor.

28. The Committee are not responsible for warehousing packing-cases, which must be at once removed from the buildings at the expense of the exhibitors.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2° lower; and finally, the thermometer, which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 1 OF 1883.

Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877.

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely :—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted :—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

S. C. BAYLEY.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 1 OF 1883.

A Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely:—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted:—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

(4) "master" includes every person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being command or charge of a ship; and, in reference to any boat belonging to a ship, means the master of the ship; and, in reference to any other boat, includes every person having for the time being command or charge of that boat: [ib.]

(5) "factory" means a place licensed under this Act for the manufacture of an explosive: [New.]

(6) "magazine" means a place licensed under this Act for the keeping of an explosive, and includes any ship or other vessel licensed for that purpose: [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 108.]

(7) "registered place" means a place registered under this Act for keeping an explosive: [New.]

(8) "warehouseman" includes all persons owning or managing any warehouse, store, wharf or other place in which goods are deposited: [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 108.]

(9) "carrier" includes all persons carrying goods or passengers for hire by land or water: [ib.]

(10) "port" means any port, or any part of a navigable river or channel, in which the Indian Ports Act, 1875, is for the time being in force: [New.] XII of 1875.

(11) "railway" means any railway, whether it is used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods or not, and includes— [Cf. Act IV of 1879, s. 3.]

(a) a railway under construction;

(b) all lands within the fences or other boundary-marks prescribed under section 52 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879; IV of 1879.

(c) all lines of rail, sidings or branches worked over for the purposes of, or in connection with, a railway;

(d) all stations, offices, warehouses, fixed machinery and other works constructed for the purposes of, or in connection with, a railway; and

(e) all vessels and rafts used for the purpose of carrying on the traffic of a railway:

(12) "railway-administration" means, in the case of a railway worked by Government or a [Cf. Act IV of 1879, s. 3]

Native State, the manager of the railway, and, in the case of a railway worked by a company or private individual, the company or individual:

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 108.] (13) "wharf" includes any quay, landing-place, siding or other place at which goods are landed, loaded or unloaded:

[ib.] (14) "carriage" includes any carriage, waggon, cart, truck, vehicle or other means of conveying goods or passengers by land, in whatever manner the same may be propelled:

[ib.] (15) "ship" includes every description of vessel used in sea-navigation, whether propelled by oars or otherwise:

[ib.] (16) "boat" means every vessel, not a ship as above defined, which is used in navigation in any inland water or any port, whether propelled by oars or otherwise:

[New.] Cf. Act VIII of 1881, s. 3.] (17) "import" means to bring into British India by sea or land:

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 108.] (18) "prescribed" means prescribed from time to time by notification of the Governor General in Council:

[ib.] (19) the expression "safety-cartridges" means cartridges for small arms of which the case can be extracted from the small arm after firing, and which are so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges:

[New.] (20) "Magistrate" means, in the Presidency-towns, a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere, a Magistrate of the first class, and includes also any Magistrate whom the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may, by notification, appoint to discharge in any local area the functions of a Magistrate under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL LAW AS TO MANUFACTURE AND KEEPING OF EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 4.] Prohibition of manufacture of explosives except at factory.

8. The manufacture of an explosive shall not, nor shall any process of that manufacture, be carried on except at a factory for that explosive:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply—

(a) to the making of a small quantity of an explosive for the purpose of chemical experiment and not for practical use or for sale; or

(b) to the making of any part of an explosive where that part is not itself an explosive and no explosive is used in making it.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 5.] Prohibition of keeping of explosives except in factory, magazine or registered place.

9. An explosive shall not be kept except—

(a) in the factory in which it is manufactured, or

(b) in a magazine for that explosive, or

(c) in a place registered under this Act for keeping that explosive:

Provided that this section shall not apply—

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (4).] (a) to a person keeping for his private use, and not for sale, an explosive to an amount not exceeding in the same place the prescribed amount, or

(b) to the keeping of an explosive by a carrier or other person for the purpose of conveyance, when the explosive is being conveyed or kept in accordance with the rules under this Act with respect to the conveyance of explosives.

CHAPTER III.

FACTORIES, MAGAZINES AND REGISTERED PLACES.

(A).—Licensing and Regulation of Factories.

Power of Local Government to make rules as to licensing and regulation of factories.

10. (1) The Local Government may make rules as to the licensing and regulation of places as factories for the manufacture of explosives. [Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 10, & 18 &

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the authority by which licenses may be granted;

(b) the fees to be charged for licenses, and the other sums (if any) to be paid for expenses by applicants for licenses;

(c) the manner in which applications for licenses are to be made, and the matters to be specified in such applications;

(d) the form in which, and the conditions on and subject to which, licenses are to be granted;

(e) the period for which licenses are to remain in force;

(f) the renewal of licenses and the fee to be paid for their renewal;

(g) the alteration of the terms of licenses by the grant of amending licenses, and the fee to be paid for an amending license;

(h) the devolution and determination of licenses;

(i) the situation, construction, materials and fittings of factories;

(l) the manner of carrying out repairs in factories; and

(m) the restricting of the employment of persons under the age of sixteen years in factories or in certain parts thereof.

17. 11. The occupier of a magazine or registered place shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a factory-license by reason that, in connection with the magazine or place, he fills, for sale or otherwise, any cartridge for small arms with the explosive for the keeping of which the magazine or place is licensed or registered: provided that he observes such rules as the Local Government may make in this behalf.

Provision in favour of occupiers of magazines and registered places making cartridges.

17. 12. The occupier of a magazine shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a factory-license by reason that, in connection with the magazine, he, by filling cartridges, making charges, drying, sifting, fitting or otherwise, adapts or prepares the explosive for the keeping of which the magazine is licensed, for use exclusively in his mine or quarry, or in some excavation or work carried on by him or under his control: provided that he observes such rules as the Local Government may make in this behalf.

Provision in favour of occupiers of magazines adapting or preparing explosives for use in their own mines or quarries.

(B).—Licensing and Regulation of Magazines.

13. (1). The Local Government may make rules as to the licensing and regulation of places as magazines for the keeping of explosives.

Power of Local Government to make rules as to licensing and regulation of magazines.

(2) Rules under this section may, among other matters, provide for all or any of the matters for which rules under clauses (a) to (i), both inclusive, and clauses (k) to (m), both inclusive, of section ten may provide in the case of factories.

(C).—Registration and Regulation of Registered Places.

14. (1) The Local Government may make rules as to the registration and regulation of places for the keeping of explosives.

Power of Local Government to make rules as to registration and regulation of registered places.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the manner in which places may be registered, the period for which registration is to be valid, and the manner in which registration may be renewed;

(b) the fees to be paid for registration and renewal of registration;

(d) the descriptions of explosives which may be kept together in the same registered place, and the conditions and restrictions subject to which they may be so kept.

(D).—Supplemental Provisions.

15. (1) Every occupier of a factory or magazine shall make special rules for the regulation of the persons managing or employed in or about his factory or magazine, with a view to secure the observance therein of this Act and the rules under this Act, and the safety and proper discipline of those persons and the safety of the public. [38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 11 and 19.]

Duty of occupier to make special rules for regulation of workmen in his factory or magazine.

(2) The occupier may, and, if required by the Local Government, shall, make rules, repealing, altering or adding to any special rules made under this section.

(3) Any rule under this section may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(4) A rule made under this section shall not take effect until it has been confirmed by the Local Government and notified to the persons managing or employed in or about the factory or magazine in such manner as the Local Government from time to time directs.

CHAPTER IV.

SALE OF EXPLOSIVES.

16. An explosive shall not be hawked, sold or exposed for sale on any highway, street, public thoroughfare or other public place. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 30.]

Sale of explosives on highways or public places prohibited.

17. An explosive shall not be sold to any child apparently under the age of thirteen years. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 31.]

Sale of explosives to children prohibited.

18. Every explosive, exceeding in amount the prescribed amount, shall, when publicly sold or exposed for sale, be in a substantial case, bag, canister or other receptacle, made and closed so as to prevent the explosive from escaping, and (except when the explosive is sold to any person employed by or on the property occupied by the vendor for immediate use in the service of the vendor or on that property) the outermost receptacle containing the explosive shall have affixed in conspicuous characters, by means of a brand or securely attached label or other mark, the name of the explosive, with the addition of the word "explosive." [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 32 and s. 40 (8).]

Explosives to be sold in cases, closed and labelled.

CHAPTER V.

CONVEYANCE OF EXPLOSIVES.

19. The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the packing of explosives for conveyance, and may by those [38 Vic., 17 s. 33.] c.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules as to packing of explosives.

rules provide for the nature of the packages, cases, bags, canisters or other receptacles in which an explosive is to be contained.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 34.]

Power of Local Government to make rules regulating the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in ports.

20. (1) The Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within any port.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

[Sub-section 1.] [cf. Act XII of 1875, s. 7 (o).]

(a) the notice to be given in the case of ships and boats having any explosive on board within the port;

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 34, sub-section 2.]

(b) the navigation and place of mooring of those ships and boats;

[Sub-section 3.]

(c) subject to the rules as to packing made under section nineteen, the mode of stowing and keeping an explosive on board any such ship or boat, and of giving notice, by brands, labels or otherwise, of the nature of the package containing the explosive;

[Sub-section 4.]

(d) the description, construction, fitting-up and licensing of the ships, boats or carriages to be used for the conveyance of an explosive, and the licensing and dress of the persons having charge thereof;

[Sub-section 5.]

(e) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or any articles or substances, or in passenger-ships, boats, trains or carriages, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

[Sub-section 6.]

(f) the prohibition, in cases where the loading or unloading of an explosive within the limits of the port appears to be specially dangerous to the public, of loading or unloading within those limits, and the fixing of the times and places at which an explosive is to be loaded or unloaded, and the quantity to be loaded or unloaded, or conveyed at one time or in one ship, boat or carriage;

[Sub-section 7.]

(g) the mode of, and the precautions to be observed in, conveying an explosive, and in the loading or unloading any ship, boat or carriage conveying an explosive, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during the conveyance, loading or unloading;

[Cf. Act XII of 1875, s. 7, cl. (o), ss. 28, 29, 30, 31 and 33.]

(h) the fixing the cases in which an explosive is to be taken out of a ship for the purpose of being deposited, the places in which the explosive so taken out is to be deposited, the appointing of an officer to receive the explosive, and the manner in which, and the conditions on and subject to which, the explosive is to be deposited in and removed from those places

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 34, sub-section 8.]

(i) the times at which lights or fires are to be allowed or not allowed on board the ships or boats having an explosive on board, or at which a Police-officer or other person authorized in this behalf by the conservator of the port is to be on board them;

[Sub-section 9.]

(j) the publication and supply to the public of copies of these rules;

[Sub-section 10.]

(k) the enforcing the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act both by the officers of the port and also by other persons when within the limits of the port; and

[Sub-section 11.]

(l) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger.

Power on breach of rule to require ship, boat, carriage or explosive to be dealt with in conformity with rule.

21. (1) In the event of any breach of a rule under section twenty, in the case of any ship, boat, carriage or explosive, whether there has or has not been any conviction for the breach, the conservator of the port or other officer named in the rules, or any person acting under the orders of the conservator, may cause the ship, boat, carriage or explosive, at the expense of the owner thereof, to be removed to such place or otherwise dealt with in such manner as may be in conformity with the rule.

(2) All expenses incurred in the removal may be recovered in like manner as a fine under this Act.

Duty of railway-administration to make rules regulating the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives on its railway.

22. (1) Every railway-administration shall make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives on its railway. [Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 35.]

(2) The railway-administration may, and, if required by the Governor General in Council, shall, make rules repealing, altering or adding to any rules made under this section.

(3) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

[Sub section 1.]

(a) the notice to be given of the intention to send an explosive for conveyance on the railway;

[Sub-section 2.]

(b) subject to the rules as to packing made under section nineteen, the mode of stowing and keeping an explosive for conveyance, and of giving notice by brand, labels or otherwise of the nature of the package containing the explosive;

[Sub-section 3.]

(c) the description and construction of carriages, ships or boats to be used in the conveyance of an explosive;

[Sub-section 4.]

(d) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or with any articles or substances or in passenger-trains, carriages, ships or boats, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

(e) the places and times at which an explosive is to be loaded or unloaded, and the quantity to be loaded or unloaded or conveyed at one time or in one carriage, ship or boat;

(f) the precautions to be observed in conveying an explosive and in loading and unloading the carriages, ships or boats used in the conveyance of an explosive, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during that conveyance, loading and unloading;

(g) the enforcing the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act by its servants and agents, and also by other persons when on the railway; and

(h) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules for the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in certain cases.

23. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in any case in which rules made under section twenty or section twenty-two do not apply.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the description and construction of the carriages to be used in the conveyance of an explosive;

(b) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or with any articles or substances, or in passenger-carriages, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

(d) the precautions to be observed in conveying an explosive and in loading and unloading the carriages used in that conveyance, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during that conveyance, loading and unloading;

(e) the publication and supply to the public of copies of these rules; and

(f) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger.

(3) For the purpose of any mode of conveyance which is not a conveyance by land, this section shall be construed as if ship and boat were included in the term "carriage".

Penalties which may be annexed to breach of rules under sections 20, 22 and 23.

24. The authority making any rule under section twenty, section twenty-two or section twenty-three may annex to any breach or attempt to commit a breach of the rule the following penalties, which may be imposed on such persons and graduated in such manner as may be deemed just, according to the gravity of the offence, and according as it may be a first, second or other subsequent offence, that is to say:—a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each breach and to one hundred rupees for each day during which the breach continues, and forfeiture of all or any part of the explosive in respect of which, or being in the carriage, ship or boat, or train of carriages, ships or boats, as the case may be, in respect of which, the breach of the rule has taken place. [Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 34, 35 & 37.]

CHAPTER VI.

IMPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES.

Importation of certain explosives prohibited except under license.

25. Dynamite or gun-cotton or any explosive (other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks and any prescribed explosive) shall not be imported except under a license, and in the manner and to the extent permitted by that license. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9).]

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules as to such importation.

26. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the grant of licenses required under section twenty-five. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9) (b).]

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the officers by whom, the form in which, and the terms and conditions as to the composition and quality of the explosive, the unloading, landing, transhipment, delivery and conveyance thereof, and the protection of the public from danger, on and subject to which licenses may be granted;

(b) the period for which licenses are to continue in force and the persons for whom licenses are to be available; and

(c) the fees to be paid for licenses.

Powers of Customs officers.

CHAPTER VII.

SPECIALLY DANGEROUS EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 43: Cf. Act XI of 1878, s. 10.]

Power of Governor General in Council to prohibit the manufacture, keeping, importation, conveyance and sale of specially dangerous explosives.

28. (1) Notwithstanding anything in this Act or in the rules under this Act, the Governor General in Council may, by notification—

(a) regulate or prohibit, either altogether or except under a license, and to the extent and in the manner permitted by that license, the manufacture, keeping, importation, conveyance and sale, or any of them, of any explosive which is of so dangerous a character that, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, it is expedient for the public safety to issue such a notification; and

(b) cancel any notification under this section.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 43.]

(2) The officers of sea customs at every port shall have the same power with respect to any explosive with regard to which a notification has been issued under this section and the ship containing the explosive as they have for the time being with respect to any article the importation of which is prohibited or regulated by the law relating to sea customs and the ship containing the same; and the enactments for the time being in force relating to sea customs or any such article or ship shall apply accordingly.

CHAPTER VIII.

GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 53: Cf. Act XV of 1881, s. 3.]

Appointment and duties of Government Inspectors.

29. (1) The Local Government may, in its discretion, by notification appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be Inspectors for the purposes of this Act, and suspend or remove any person so appointed.

(2) The persons so appointed shall, within such local area as the Local Government may from time to time direct, exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed by this Act and the rules under this Act on an Inspector.

(3) Every such Inspector (in this Act referred to as a Government Inspector) shall be deemed a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and shall be officially subordinate to such authority as the Local Government may, from time to time, indicate in this behalf.

XLV of 1860.

(4) The Local Government may make rules assigning and regulating the duties of Government Inspectors under this Act.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 55.]

Powers of Government Inspectors.

30. (1) A Government Inspector shall, within the local area for which he is appointed, make such examinations and enquiries as may be necessary to ascertain whether this Act and the rules under this Act are complied with, and may for that purpose—

(a) enter, inspect and examine any factory or magazine and every part thereof, at all times by day and night, but so as not to unnecessarily impede or obstruct the work in the factory or magazine, and make enquiries as to the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act, and as to all matters and things relating to the safety of the public or of the persons employed in or about the factory or magazine;

(c) require the occupier of any factory, magazine or registered place which he is entitled under this section to enter, or any person employed by the occupier therein, to give him samples of any explosive or ingredients of an explosive therein, or of any substance therein, the keeping of which is restricted or regulated by or under this Act or the rules under this Act, or of any substance therein which he believes to be an explosive, or such ingredients or substance.

(2) The occupier of every factory, magazine or registered place referred to in this section, his agents and servants, shall furnish the means required by the Inspector as necessary for any entry, inspection, examination or inquiry under this section.

[38 Vic., c. 56.]

Notice by Government Inspector to remedy dangerous practice.

31. (1) If in any matter (not provided for by any express provision of this Act or of the rules under this Act) a Government Inspector finds that any factory or magazine, or any part thereof, or any thing or practice therein or connected therewith, is unnecessarily dangerous or defective, so as in his opinion to tend to endanger the public safety or the bodily safety of any person, the Inspector may require the occupier of the factory or magazine to remedy the same.

(2) Where the occupier objects to comply with a requisition under this section, he may, within one month from the date of the requisition, apply to any Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the factory or magazine is, for a decision in the matter; and the decision of the Magistrate shall be final.

(3) If the occupier does not apply to a Magistrate as provided by sub-section (2), he shall be bound to comply with the requisition of the Inspector.

(4) No person shall be precluded by any contract from doing such acts as may be necessary to comply with a requisition or decision under this section, and no person shall be liable under any contract to any penalty or forfeiture for doing any such act if he gave notice of the contract to the Inspector at or before the time at which the Inspector made the requisition, or to the Magistrate before his decision was given.

Inspection in ports and of ships.

32. (1) The Local Government may, by notification, order any person acting as an Inspector or otherwise for the purpose of the Acts relating to merchant shipping for the time being in force to inquire into the observance of this Act or the rules under this Act in any port or in the case of any ship, and generally to act in that port and with respect to ships as a Government Inspector under this Act.

(2) Each person so ordered shall, while the order is in force, have for that purpose the same powers and authorities as he has under the Acts in pursuance of which he was originally appointed Inspector, and also the powers and authorities of a Government Inspector under this Act and the rules for the time being in force under it.

(3) The Local Government may revoke any order under this section.

Inspection of wharf, carriage, ship or boat with explosives in transit.

33. Any Government Inspector, or any officer who may by name or in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, may, if he has reasonable cause to suppose an explosive to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance on or in the wharf, carriage, ship or boat of any carrier, or of the occupier of any factory or magazine or of the importer of any explosive, enter, inspect and examine at any time the wharf, carriage, ship or boat for the purpose of ascertaining whether the provisions of this Act or the rules under this Act with respect to the conveyance, loading, unloading and importation of an explosive are complied with, but so as not to unnecessarily obstruct the work or business of the carrier, occupier or importer.

Notice to be given of accidents.

(a) any accident by explosion or by fire attended with loss of human life or serious injury to person or property, or

(b) any such accident of a description usually attended with such loss or injury, or

(c) any accident of any other description which may be prescribed in this behalf, the occupier of the factory, magazine or registered place, or the master of the ship or boat, or the person in charge of the carriage, as the case may be, shall forthwith give notice thereof to the nearest Magistrate.

Inquiry into accidents.

35. (1) If in any such case an inquiry into the cause of the accident appears to the Magistrate to whom notice has been given under section thirty-four to be necessary, the Magistrate may either himself make the inquiry or direct a Government Inspector or a Magistrate subordinate to himself to make the inquiry. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 66.]

(2) Any Magistrate or Government Inspector making an inquiry under this section shall, for the purposes of conducting the inquiry, have all the powers which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence under the Code of Criminal Procedure. X of 1882.

(C).—Power of Search.

Power of Government Inspector and certain other officers to search for explosives.

36. (1) Where any Government Inspector, or any officer who may by name or in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, has reasonable cause to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive in any place (whether a building or not, or a carriage, boat or ship), or that any explosive is in that place in contravention of this Act or of the rules under this Act, or that the provisions of this Act or of those rules are not duly observed in that place, the Inspector or officer may, on producing, if demanded, in the case of an Inspector, a copy of the notification appointing him, and, in the case of any other officer, of the order authorizing him, enter at any time, and, if need be, by force, that place and every part thereof, and examine the place, and search for explosives therein, and take samples of any explosive or ingredient of any explosive therein, or of any substance reasonably supposed to be an explosive or an ingredient of an explosive which may be found therein. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 73.] [Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 14.]

(2) All searches under this section shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. [Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 16.] X of 1882.

(3) When any officer other than a Government Inspector enters and searches as by this section provided, he shall within forty-eight hours make a full report of all the particulars of the entry and search to his immediate official superior. [Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 21: 38 Vic., c. 36, s. 73, last para.]

Power of Government Inspector and certain officers to stop, enter, inspect and examine carriages or boats in case of emergency.

37. (1) If any Government Inspector or any officer of any of the Departments of Excise, Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a peon or constable, has reasonable cause to suppose that any offence against this Act or the rules under this Act is being committed in respect of any carriage (not being on a railway) or any boat conveying, loading or unloading any explosive, and that the case is one of emergency, and that delay will be likely to endanger life, he may stop and enter, inspect and examine the carriage or boat, and by detention or removal thereof or otherwise take such precautions as may be reasonably necessary for removing the danger, in like [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 35, paragraph 3.] manner as if the explosive were liable to forfeiture.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 75, para 4.] (2) Every such officer shall, for the purposes of this section, have the same powers and be in the same position as if he were an officer authorized by the Local Government under section thirty-six to search for explosives.

(D).—Power of Seizure and Detention.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 74.] Seizure and detention of explosives liable to forfeiture.

38. Where any Government Inspector, or any officer authorized as provided by section thirty-six, has reasonable cause to believe that any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance found by him is liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, he may seize and detain the same until a Magistrate has determined whether the same is or is not liable to be forfeited.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 74.] Power of Local Government to make rules to regulate seizure and detention of explosives.

39. The Local Government may make rules to regulate the seizure and detention of any explosive or ingredient of any explosive or substance under section thirty-eight, and may by those rules empower the Government Inspector or officer seizing the explosive or ingredient or substance—

(a) to require the occupier of the place in which it was seized (whether a building or not, or a carriage, boat or ship) to detain it in that place or in any place under the control of the occupier; or

(b) to remove it in such manner and to such place as will in the opinion of the Government Inspector or officer least endanger the public safety, and there to detain it; or

(c) in any case which appears to the Government Inspector or officer to be urgent and fraught with serious public danger, to take a sample of it and cause the rest of it to be destroyed or otherwise rendered harmless.

Cl. (2). Proceedings before Magistrate to be commenced as soon as practicable.

40. The proceedings before a Magistrate for determining whether an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance is or is not liable to forfeiture shall be commenced as soon as practicable after the seizure.

Cl. (3) Power to seize receptacles.

41. The receptacles containing an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance may be seized, detained and removed in like manner as the contents thereof.

Cl. (4). Power to use ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which explosives are seized.

42. The Government Inspector or officer seizing an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance may use for the purposes of the removal and detention thereof any ship, boat or carriage in which it was seized, and any tug, tender, engine, tackle, beasts and accoutrements belonging to, or drawing or provided for drawing, that ship, boat or carriage, and shall pay to the owner a reasonable compensation for the use, to be determined in case of dispute by a Magistrate, and to be recovered in like manner as a fine under this Act.

(E).—Samples.

[38 Vic., c. s. 76.] Payment for samples of explosives.

43. When a Government Inspector or other officer in pursuance of this Act or the rules under this Act takes samples of any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance, he shall pay for or tender payment for those samples to such amount as he considers to be the market-value thereof; and the occupier of the place in which, or the owner of the bulk from which, the sample was taken may recover any excess of the real value over the money so paid or tendered, and any amount so tendered, from the Inspector or other officer taking the sample, as a debt, in the Small Cause Court, or, if there is no Small Cause Court, in the Civil Court having jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IX.

PENALTIES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

[38 Vic., c. s. 4.] Penalty for illegal manufacture of explosives.

44. If an explosive is manufactured in contravention of section eight, or of a notification under section twenty-eight—

(a) the explosive and all the ingredients of the explosive, which may be found either in or about the place at which the explosive is manufactured, or in the possession, or under the control, of any person convicted under this section, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the person manufacturing the explosive shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees for each day on which he so manufactures.

[38 Vic., c. s. 5.] Penalty for illegal keeping of explosives.

45. If any explosive is kept in contravention of section nine, or of a notification under section twenty-eight—

(a) all the explosives found in the place at which the explosive is kept shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the occupier of that place, and also any person guilty of keeping the explosive, shall each be punished with fine which may extend to one rupee for each pound of the explosive so kept.

[38 Vic. c. s. 10; but s. 9 as to amount of penalty.] Penalty for breach of rules for regulation of factories.

46. In the event of a breach in any factory of any of the rules under section ten for the regulation of factories—

(a) the explosive or ingredients thereof with respect to which, or being in any building or machine with respect to which, the breach is committed, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the occupier shall be punished with fine which may extend in the case of a first breach to five hundred rupees, and in the case of any subsequent breach to one thousand rupees, and to five hundred rupees in addition for each day during which the breach continues.

7, 47. In the event of a breach in any magazine of the rules for the regulation of magazines under section thirteen, or of any rules under section eleven or section twelve—

Penalty for breach of rules for regulation of magazines.

(a) the explosive with respect to which, or being in the magazine when, the breach is committed, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the occupier shall be punished with fine which may extend in the case of a first breach to one hundred rupees, and in the case of any subsequent breach to one hundred rupees in addition for each day during which the breach continues.

7, 48. In the event of a breach in any registered place of the rules for the regulation of registered places under section fourteen, or of any rules under section eleven—

Penalty for breach of rules for regulation of registered places.

(a) the explosive with respect to which, or being in any house, building, place, safe or receptacle with respect to which, the breach is committed, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the occupier shall be punished with fine which may extend to one rupee for each pound of the explosive with respect to which, or being at the place in which, the breach was committed.

7, 49. If any explosive is hawked, sold or exposed for sale in contravention of section sixteen or section eighteen—

Penalty for illegal sale of explosives in public places.

(a) the explosive which is so exposed for sale, and any explosive found in the possession of any person convicted under this section, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the person hawking or selling the explosive, or exposing it for sale, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

17, 50. Whoever sells an explosive in contravention of section seventeen shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for selling explosives to children.

51. If the name of the explosive affixed to the outermost receptacle containing an explosive is materially false, the person selling the explosive or exposing it for sale shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for affixing false name to receptacle containing explosives.

c. 52. In the event of a breach of any rules as to the packing of explosives under section nineteen—

Penalty for breach of rules as to packing of explosives.

(a) the explosive with respect to which the breach is committed shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the person guilty of the breach shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

53. Whoever resists the conservator, or other officer named in the rules under section twenty, or any person acting under the orders of the conservator, when causing any ship, boat, carriage or explosive to be removed under section twenty-one, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both. [17 & 18 Vic., c. 7, s. 40 (9), (e): Cf. Indian Penal Code, s. 186.]

Penalty for obstructing conservator or other person.

54. In the event of a breach of the provisions of section twenty-five with respect to the importation of an explosive, or of the provisions of a license to import an explosive granted under section twenty-six— [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9) (d).]

Penalty for breach of provisions as to importation of an explosive or of the provisions of an importation-license.

(a) the explosive with respect to which, or being in any ship or boat with respect to which, the breach is committed, shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the owner and master of the ship or boat, and the licensee or person to whom the explosive is delivered, shall each be liable to a fine which may extend in the case of a first offence to one thousand rupees, and in the case of any subsequent offence to two thousand rupees.

55. If any explosive is imported or sold in contravention of a notification under section twenty-eight— [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 43.]

Penalty for importing or selling specially dangerous explosives in contravention of notification.

(a) the explosive shall be liable to be forfeited;

(b) the owner and master of the ship in which the explosive is imported shall each be punished with fine which may extend to five rupees for every pound of the explosive brought in the ship; and

(c) the person selling and the person buying the explosive shall each be punished with fine which may extend to five rupees for each pound of the explosive sold.

56. If any explosive is conveyed in contravention of a notification under section twenty-eight—

Penalty for conveying specially dangerous explosives in contravention of notification.

(a) the explosive shall be liable to be forfeited; and

(b) the master of the ship or boat or the person in charge of the carriage in which the explosive is conveyed, as the case may be, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five rupees for each pound of the explosive so conveyed.

57. Any Government Inspector or officer authorized under section thirty-three or section thirty six, or referred to in section [Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 18.]

Penalty for vexatious entries, searches and seizures.

thirty-seven, who—

(a) without reasonable ground of suspicion enters or searches, or causes to be entered or searched, any building, carriage, boat or ship, or

(b) vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the property of any person on the pretence of seizing or searching for any explosive or other thing liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77.]

Penalty on, and removal of, trespassers.

58. Whoever enters without permission or otherwise trespasses on any factory or magazine, or the land immediately adjoining thereto which is occupied by the occupier of that factory or magazine, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and may be forthwith removed from the factory, magazine or land by any Police-officer, or by the occupier of the factory or magazine, or by any agent or servant of, or other person authorized by, the occupier.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77, para. 2.]

Penalty on persons committing act tending to cause explosion or fire in or about factories or magazines.

59. Whoever, other than the occupier of, or a person employed in or about, a factory or magazine is found committing any act which tends to cause explosion or fire in or about a factory or magazine shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77, para. 3.]

Occupier to put up notices warning persons of liability under last two sections.

60. The occupier of every factory or magazine shall put up in some conspicuous place or places a notice or notices warning all persons of their liability to penalties under the last two foregoing sections; but the absence of a notice or notices shall not exempt a person from punishment under those sections.

[38 Vic., c. 17 s. 97, proviso.]

Penalty for trespass, &c., on Government manufactory or store.

61. Whoever enters without permission, or otherwise trespasses on, any place in the occupation of the Government where any explosive is manufactured or stored, or the land immediately adjoining thereto in the occupation of the Government, or of the officer or person in charge of that place, and any person found committing any act tending to cause explosion or fire in or about any such place, shall be liable to the like penalty, and may be removed and arrested in like manner, as if the place were a factory or magazine to which this Act applies.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 78.]

Power to arrest without warrant persons committing dangerous offences.

62. Whoever is found committing any act for which he is punishable under this Act or the rules under this Act, and which tends to cause explosion or fire in or about any factory, magazine, railway or port, or any carriage, ship or boat, may be apprehended without a warrant by a Police-officer, or by the occupier of, or the agent or servant of, or other person authorized by the occupier of, that factory or magazine, or by any agent or servant of, or other person authorized by, the railway-administration or conservator of the port, and be removed from the place where he is arrested, and conveyed as soon as conveniently may be before a Magistrate.

[38 Vic., 17, s. 82.]

Penalty for pulling down, injuring or defacing notices.

63. Whoever without due authority pulls down, injures or defaces any notice, copy of rules or document when affixed in pursuance of this Act or of the rules under this Act, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

[38 Vic., 17, s. 87.]

Exemption of occupier, &c., from penalty on proof of offence having been committed by another person.

64. (1) Where any offence under this Act or the rules under this Act, for which the occupier of any factory, magazine or registered place is liable to a penalty or forfeiture, has in fact been committed by some other person, that other person shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(2) Where any occupier is liable under this Act or the rules under this Act to a penalty or forfeiture for an offence committed by some other person, the occupier shall be exempt from the penalty or forfeiture on proving that he had supplied proper means and issued proper orders for the observance, and used due diligence to enforce the observance, of this Act and the rules under this Act, and that the offence in question was actually committed by some other person without his connivance, and, if the actual offender is alive, that he has taken all practicable means in his power to prosecute the offender to conviction.

[38 Vic., c. s. 87, para.

[38 Vic., c. s. 87, para.

(4) Where any offence under this Act for which any warehouseman, or carrier, or the owner or master of any ship, boat or carriage is liable to a penalty or forfeiture, has in fact been committed by some other person, this section shall apply in like manner as if the warehouseman, carrier, owner or master were such an occupier as in this section mentioned.

[38 Vic., c. s. 88.]

Exemption of carrier or owner or master of ship where consignor, &c., is in fault.

65. Where a carrier, or an owner or master of a ship or boat, is prevented from complying with this Act or the rules under this Act by the wilful act, neglect or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive, or other person, or by the improper refusal of the consignee or other person to accept delivery of the explosive, the consignor, consignee or other person, who is guilty of that wilful act, neglect, default or refusal shall be liable to the same penalty to which the carrier, owner or master is liable for a breach of this Act or those rules; and his conviction shall exempt the carrier, owner or master from any penalty or forfeiture under this Act or those rules.

[Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 96.]

Provisions as to forfeiture.

66. (1) In any case in which any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance is liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, the convicting Magistrate may direct the whole or any part of the explosive, ingredient or substance, together with the receptacles containing the explosive, ingredient or substance to be forfeited.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 89, para. 2.]

(2) Where any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance is alleged to be liable under this Act or the rules under this Act to be forfeited, proceedings may be instituted in the Court of any Magistrate, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the explosive, ingredient or substance is, against the owner of the explosive, ingredient or substance, for the purpose only of enforcing the forfeiture; and, where the owner is unknown or cannot be found, the Magistrate may cause a notice to be published in such manner as he thinks fit stating that, unless cause is shown to the contrary at the time and place named in the notice, the explosive, ingredient or substance will be forfeited; and if cause is not so shown, the Magistrate, after hearing the owner or any person on his behalf (if present), may order all or any part of the explosive, ingredient or substance to be forfeited.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 89, para. 1.]

(3) Where a Court before whom a person is convicted of an offence against this Act or the rules under this Act has power to order a forfeiture of any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance owned by, or found in the possession or under the control of, that person, the Court may, if it thinks fit, in lieu of ordering a forfeiture of that explosive, ingredient or substance, sentence that person, in addition to any other punishment, to a fine which may extend to such sum as appears to the Court to be the value of the explosive, ingredient or substance.

38 Vic., c. 17, s. 95.] Cf. Act XII of 1875, s. 16.]

Distress of ship or boat.

67. Where the owner or master of a ship or boat is adjudged to pay a fine for an offence committed with or in relation to that ship or boat, the Court may, in addition to any other power it may have for the purpose of compelling payment of the fine, direct it to be levied by distress and sale of the ship or boat, and the tackle, apparel and furniture thereof, or so much thereof as is necessary.

CHAPTER X.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 72.]

Provision of magazine by municipal committee.

68. (1) When any municipal committee satisfies the Local Government that the erection of a magazine by the committee either within or without the limits of the municipality would conduce to the safety of the public within the limits of the municipality, and would not be injurious to the public without those limits, the Local Government may grant to that municipal committee a license under this Act for a magazine.

(2) The municipal committee may, for the purpose of any license under this section, acquire any land or right over land, or appropriate any land or right belonging to it, and acquire or build a magazine, and may maintain and manage the magazine, and may charge for the use by persons of the magazine such reasonable sums as it may, from time to time, with the approval of the Local Government, fix.

(3) The amount of all sums charged, and the amount of all expenditure incurred, for the purposes of this section by any municipal committee shall respectively be credited to, and paid from, the municipal fund. [Cf. Act XIII of 1880, s. 23.]

(4) When any land is required by a municipal committee for the purposes of this section, if the municipal committee cannot agree with the owner for the purchase thereof, the Local Government may, on the request of the municipal committee, proceed to acquire it under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870; and, on payment by the municipal committee of the compensation awarded under that Act, the land shall vest in it for the purposes of this section. [Cf. Act XV of 1879, s. 13: Act XV of 1873, s. 39.] X of 1870

(5) In this section "municipal committee" includes a municipal corporation or a body of municipal commissioners constituted by or under the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force. [Cf. Act XI of 1881, s. 2.]

Provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuzes for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives.

69. (1) A person shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a license or to register any premises for the keeping of percussion-caps, or safety-fuzes for blasting, or fog-signals kept by any railway-administration for use on the railway of that railway-administration, or any prescribed explosive. [38 Vic., 17, s. 50.]

(2) It shall not be obligatory on a railway-administration making rules under section twenty-two to make any rules with respect to the conveyance, loading, unloading or keeping of any explosive to which this section applies.

(3) The Governor General in Council may, by notification, exempt any explosive to which this section applies, or any description thereof, from any other of the provisions of this Act or from any of the rules under this Act, or may declare that a license shall be required for the keeping of any explosive to which this section applies, or any description thereof, or that rules shall be made with respect to the loading, unloading, conveyance or keeping thereof.

Exemption of safety-cartridges for private use.

70. Nothing in this Act or in the rules under this Act shall apply to the filling or conveying for private use, and not for sale, of any safety-cartridges to the amount allowed by this Act or those rules to be kept for private use. [38 Vic., 17, s. 41.]

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 100.]

Saving for owner or master of ship, carrier and others in case of emergency.

71. Nothing in this Act or the rules under this Act shall render liable to any penalty or forfeiture the owner or master of any ship or boat, or any carrier or warehouseman, or the person having charge of any carriage, for any act done in breach of this Act or those rules, if he proves that, by reason of stress of weather, inevitable accident or other emergency, the doing of that act was under the circumstances necessary and proper.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 102.]

Saving as to liability under other law.

72. Nothing in this Act or the rules under this Act shall—

(b) prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or those rules, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or those rules: provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

[New: Cf. Act VIII of 1878, s. 198: Act XI of 1878, s. 33.]

Notice and limitation of proceedings.

73. No proceeding other than a suit shall be commenced against any person for anything done in pursuance or in alleged pursuance of this Act or of the rules under this Act until at least one month's previous notice in writing of the intended proceeding and of the cause thereof has been given to him, nor after the expiration of three months from the accrual of that cause.

[38 Vic., c. 17 s. 104.]

Extension of definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances.

74. The Governor General in Council may, by notification, declare that any substance which appears to the Governor General in Council to be specially dangerous to life or property, by reason either of its explosive properties, or of any process in the manufacture thereof being liable to explosion, shall be deemed to be an explosive within the meaning of this Act and of the rules under this Act; and the provisions of this Act and of those rules (subject to such exceptions, limitations and restrictions as may be specified in the notification) shall accordingly extend to that substance in like manner as if it were included in the term "explosive" in this Act.

Procedure for making, publication and confirmation of rules.

75. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act other than section fifteen or section twenty-nine, shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Governor General in Council, in such manner as may in his opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and in the case of rules made by any other authority, in the prescribed manner.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act by a Local Government or railway-administration shall not take effect until it is confirmed by the Governor General in Council.

(6) Every rule made under this Act by a Local Government and confirmed by the Governor General in Council shall be published in the local official Gazette.

(7) Every rule made under this Act by a railway-administration and confirmed by the Governor General in Council, and every rule made under this Act by the Governor General in Council, shall be published in the Gazette of India.

(8) The publication in the local official Gazette, or, as the case may be, in the Gazette of India, of a rule purporting to be made under this Act, shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made, and, if it requires confirmation, that it has been duly confirmed.

(9) All powers to make rules conferred on any authority by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Issue and publication of notifications.

76. (1) Save as provided in section four, all powers to issue notifications conferred by this Act on the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

(2) A notification issued by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government under this Act shall not take effect until it has been published in the Gazette of India or the local official Gazette, as the case may be.

THE SCHEDULE.

V of 1879 ...	The Jute Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act, 1879.	In section twenty-one, the words "or manufacture."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The object of this Bill is to provide a comprehensive law regulating the manufacture, keeping, sale, conveyance and importation of explosives throughout British India. The matter was first brought to the notice of the Government in connection with an application made by the agents of Nobel's Explosives Company, Limited, for permission to import dynamite manufactured by the Company. The Government of Bombay, to whom the application was made, referred the question to a Committee, which reported that the expediency of allowing the importation into that Presidency of dynamite and other preparations of nitro-glycerine was doubtful. The Government of Bombay forwarded a copy of this report to the Government of India with a request that the importation of preparations of nitro-glycerine might be prohibited until further notice by a notification under the Sea Customs Act. Before complying with this request the Government of India thought it well to consult the Governments of Madras and Bengal. In reply, both Governments expressed an opinion that the importation of these explosives should not be forbidden. The Government of Bengal further submitted a draft set of rules to regulate the importation, package, transport and storage of dynamite and similar substances, together with a report which had been prepared by a Committee appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to consider the entire subject. This Committee, while recommending that the draft rules should be published as rules under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, suggested the enactment of a comprehensive Imperial Act of a similar nature to the English Explosives Act, 1875 (38 Vic., c. 17), which would in a convenient and compendious Code deal with the subject of explosives in its entirety and furnish the public, as well as Government officials, with an easy means of ascertaining their duties, responsibilities and powers respecting articles which by their inflammable, explosive or dangerous nature imperil the public safety.

2. It appears to the Government of India that it would be an abuse of the powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act, 1878, to make rules of the nature of those submitted by the Bengal Committee under that Act. There are, no doubt, powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act which might, at first sight, seem to authorise the making of such rules; but the object to which such rules are directed is altogether different from that of the Act. The object of the Arms Act was to enable the Government more effectually to prevent arms and ammunition (which term under section 4 includes gun-cotton, dynamite, lithofracteur and other fulminating substances) from getting into the hands of persons who would make a bad use of them. In other words, the main object of that Act was to restrict the possession of arms and ammunition. But the main object of the rules prepared by the Bengal Committee is not restrictive. Their object is to protect the public against the dangerous nature of the explosives to which they relate by regulating all dealings with those explosives. If they are restrictive, it is only so far as is necessary to carry out their protective object. Under these circumstances, it appears to the Government that the proposed rules could not properly be published under the Indian Arms Act, 1878.

3. Nor does it appear that there is any other enactment, as the law at present stands, under which rules of the nature of those prepared by the Bengal Committee can be issued. Under he existing law, the only enactments relating to this subject are to be found in various fragmentary provisions, dealing with gunpowder and fireworks only, which are in force in the Presidency-towns and in certain municipalities and ports. It appears to the Government that it is unsatisfactory that the law should be in this state at a time when dynamite and other compounds of nitro-glycerine are rapidly taking the place of gunpowder in all works where blasting in necessary. Already these explosives have been used to a considerable extent in connection with various works undertaken both by the Government and by private enterprize throughout India; and it is only natural to suppose that, as their superiority to gunpowder becomes more widely known, their use will increase.

4. Under these circumstances, the suggestion of the Committee that an Act drawn on the model of the English Explosives Act, 1875, and dealing comprehensively with the whole subject of explosives, should be added to the Indian Statute-book, recommends itself to the Government of India, as being the only satisfactory method of treating the subject. Accordingly the present Bill has been prepared. It embodies such of the provisions of the English Act as are in the opinion of the Government necessary in this country. In addition to the omission from the Bill of certain provisions of the English Act, the Bill further differs from that Act in that, in accordance with the well-recognized principle of Indian legislation, it confers power on the Local Governments to provide by means of rules, adapted to the varying local circumstances of the provinces under their administration, for many points for which there are specific provisions in the body of the English Act.

5. The Bill is divided into ten chapters.

Chapter I (Preliminary) contains the usual preliminary matter. Section 2 saves from the Act the manufacture, packing, sale, conveyance or importation of explosives by the Government, and section 3 saves the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878. Under section 4, the Act will not come into force until after the publication of a notification by the Governor General in Council; but, in order to prevent the inconvenience which would arise if the Act were brought into force before the notifications, rules, orders and appointments necessary for its efficient working had been made, sub-section (2) gives power to make these at any time after the passing of the Act, though they are not to take effect until the Act comes into force. By section 5 and the schedule are repealed the enactments which at present deal with the subject-matter of the Bill, with the exception of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, and the provisions to be found in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876. The provisions of the former Act relating to explosives have been left unrepealed for the reasons which have led the Government of India to decide that the rules framed by the Bengal Committee cannot be passed under it, namely, because the objects of the Act and of the Bill are different. The provisions of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876, have not been repealed because, considering the peculiar nature of that settlement, it seems inconvenient to interfere with any of the rules which are at present contained in that Regulation. Though the proposed Act will extend to the Andamans, its provisions will be practically a dead-letter in those islands.

6. Chapter II lays down the general law as to the manufacture and keeping of explosives prescribing the places at which an explosive may be manufactured or kept. It is to be read subject to certain exceptions in the Supplemental Chapter (X).

7. Chapter III deals with the licensing and regulation of factories and magazines, and the registration and regulation of registered places, and confers power on the Local Government to make rules on all necessary matters. A factory under the Act is a place licensed for the manufacture of an explosive; a magazine is a place licensed for the keeping of an explosive; and a registered place is a place registered for the keeping of an explosive. Magazines differ from registered places in that the former are places devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives and the receptacles for or tools or implements for work connected with the keeping of explosives, whilst the latter are places, e.g., general stores or shops, not devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives but in which explosives may be kept. Sections 11 and 12 enact certain provisions in favour of the occupiers of magazines and registered places; the former section enabling the occupiers of magazines and registered places to make cartridges without taking out a factory-license, and the latter enabling the occupiers of magazines to adapt or prepare explosives for use in their own mines or quarries without any such license. Section 15 imposes on the occupier of a factory or magazine the duty of making special rules for the regulation of the workmen in his factory or magazine.

8. Chapter IV relates to the sale of explosives. Section 16 prohibits explosives being hawked, sold or exposed for sale on highways or public places; section 17 prohibits the sale of an explosive to a child under 13; and section 18 prescribes the manner in which an explosive exposed for sale or sold is to be packed and labelled.

9. Chapter V treats of matters relating to the conveyance of explosives. Under section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules as to the packing of explosives for conveyance. Under section 20, the Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within a port; and section 21 confers certain powers on the Conservator or other officer named in such rules in the event of their breach. Under section 22, Railway-administrations are directed to make rules for their own railways respectively. Under section 23, the Governor General in Council is empowered to make rules in any case in which rules under section 20 or section 22 do not apply. By section 24 the authority making rules under sections 20, 22 and 23 respectively is empowered to annex to a breach of any rule, or attempt to commit a breach of any rule, a penalty which may consist of a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each breach and to one hundred rupees for each day during which the breach continues, and of forfeiture of all or any part of the explosive in respect of which the breach is committed.

10. Chapter VI regulates the importation of explosives other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks, and any prescribed explosive, and prohibits their importation except under a license. The Governor General in Council is given power (section 26) to regulate all matters connected with the grant of such licenses, and the officers of sea-customs are given similar power (section 27) with regard to these explosives as they have with regard to any article on the importation of which restrictions are for the time being imposed by the law relating to sea customs.

11. Chapter VII confers special powers on the Governor General in Council to regulate or prohibit all dealings with any explosive which in the opinion of the Governor General in Council is specially dangerous to the public safety; and the officers of sea customs are given like powers with regard to any such explosive as they are given under section 27 with regard to the importation of the explosives referred to in section 25.

12. Chapter VIII (Government supervision) first provides for matters relating to inspection. The Local Government is empowered (section 29) to appoint Government Inspectors, and to make rules to assign and regulate their duties. Section 30 defines the general power of these officers as to entry, inspection, and examination of factories, magazines and registered places, and the taking of samples from the occupiers. Section 31 empowers the Government Inspector to require the occupier of any factory or magazine to remedy anything connected with his factory or magazine which is in the opinion of the Inspector unnecessarily dangerous or defective, and provides for a reference to the nearest Magistrate when the occupier objects to comply with the inspector's requisition. Section 32 deals with inspection in ports and of ships, and section 33 provides for the inspection of a wharf, carriage, ship or boat on or in which an explosive is reasonably supposed by a Government Inspector or other officer to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance.

The chapter secondly provides (section 34) for the giving of notice of accidents arising from explosion or fire occurring in or about or in connection with any factory, magazine or registered place, or any carriage, ship or boat either conveying an explosive or on or from which an explosive is being loaded or unloaded, and (section 35) for inquiry into the cause of such accidents when necessary.

Thirdly, the chapter deals with power of search. It empowers (section 36) Government Inspectors and officers authorised by the Local Government to enter and search all places where they have reason to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive, or that any explosive is in contravention of the Act, or that the provisions of the Act are not duly observed. Such searches are to be made in accordance with the Code of Criminal Procedure, and when made by any officer other than a Government Inspector are to be reported by him to his official superior within 48 hours. Section 37 gives special power to Government Inspectors and other officers to stop carriages or boats in case of emergency.

Fourthly, the chapter treats of seizure and detention of explosives. Section 38 authorizes the seizure and detention of any explosive liable to forfeiture, and section 39 gives the Local Government power to make rules to regulate such seizure and detention. Section 40 declares that the proceedings before a Magistrate with regard to any such seizure shall be commenced as soon as possible. Section 41 gives power to seize the receptacle in which the explosive was found, and section 42 to use the ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which the explosive was seized.

Lastly, the chapter (section 43) provides for the payment for samples of explosives taken by Government Inspectors or other officers under the Act.

13. Chapter IX deals with the penalties and legal proceedings.

The penalties for breaches of the provisions of the Act and the rules made under it are restricted to forfeitures and fines, and the only instance in which the Act prescribes imprisonment as a punishment is (section 53) that of resistance to a public officer.

14. With regard to legal proceedings, section 64 provides for the exemption of an occupier of a factory, magazine or registered place, and of a warehouseman, carrier or owner or master of a ship, boat, or carriage from penalty on proof of another being the real offender. Under section 65, a carrier or owner or master of a ship or boat is exempted from penalty when he is prevented from complying with the law by the act or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive or some other person and the consignor or consignee or other person is convicted (as it is provided he may be) under the Act.

Section 66 confers a general power on Magistrates to order forfeiture in all cases in which explosives are liable to be forfeited, and provides that proceedings may be taken for the purpose only of inflicting a forfeiture. The same section empowers the Court to inflict an additional fine in lieu of forfeiture of the explosive; and section 67 provides for levy of a fine imposed on the owner or master of a ship by distress of the ship.

15. Chapter X (Supplemental) provides for several miscellaneous matters. Section 68 empowers Municipal Committees to provide magazines for the use of the public; section 69 enacts certain provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuses for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives. Section 69 exempts railway-administrations from the obligation to make rules with regard to such explosives, and empowers the Governor General in Council to exempt such explosives altogether from the Act. By section 70 the filling and conveying for private use, and not for sale, of safety-cartridges are excepted from the application of the Act. Section 71 exempts the owner or master of a ship and a carrier or warehouseman or any person in charge of a carriage from punishment when an act is done by him in breach of the provisions of the Act in a case of emergency. Section 72 contains the usual provision saving liability to civil suit or prosecution under other laws. Section 73 deals with notice and limitation of proceedings. Section 74 empowers the Governor General in Council to extend the definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances; and sections 75 and 76 treat of general matters connected with the issue and publication of notifications and rules. Under section 75, proposed rules must be published as drafts before they are finally made, and the authority that makes the rules is directed to receive and consider any criticisms or suggestions which may be made by persons interested.

CALCUTTA INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1883-84.

Calcutta, the 16th Januray 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter, dated the 18th December 1882, from Mr. Jules Joubert, forwarding a prospectus of an International Exhibition which he proposes to hold in Calcutta in December, January, and February 1883-84, and asking the sanction and support of the Government of Bengal in his undertaking.

A letter No. 2921—240 Mis. (F.), dated the 22nd idem, to Mr. Joubert, conveying the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor to the project, and sanctioning the holding of the Exhibition.

A letter No. 2922—241 Mis. (F.) of the same date, to the Government of India forwarding a copy of the correspondence inviting the co-operation of the Government of India, and suggesting that other Local Governments should be asked to assist in securing the adequate representation at the Exhibition of the natural products and manufactures of all parts of India.

A letter No. 318Ex.—16-11, dated the 28th idem, stating that the Government of India will be pleased to aid the Exhibition in the manner proposed.

From the papers cited in the preamble, and published in full as an Appendix to this Resolution, it will be seen that Mr. Jules Joubert, the promoter of the recent International Exhibition in New Zealand, proposes, with the sanction of the Government, to hold a similar Exhibition in Calcutta during the next cold season. The Lieutenant-Governor having considered the proposal has had much satisfaction in granting his sanction and support to the undertaking, which is likely, in Mr. Rivers Thompson's opinion, to have a very important effect in developing and promoting the commercial prosperity of India. The good which resulted to the Australian and other Colonies from recent Exhibitions is well known, and there is every reason to believe that a similar undertaking will do much to attract the attention of foreign countries to the great natural wealth of India, and to the opportunities for profitable trade which the country presents. Mr. Joubert, whose services have been warmly acknowledged by the heads of various Colonial Governments, has had much experience of International Exhibitions in various parts of the world, and the Lieutenant-Governor has confidence in Mr. Joubert's ability to bring the undertaking in India to a successful issue. The Government of India has consented to give its support to the objects of the Exhibition, and to invite the co-operation of all Local Governments and Administrations in the furtherance of those objects. There is thus every probability that the collection of Indian articles will be as complete as possible, and it is hoped that exhibitors from England and the Colonies, as well as from foreign countries, will come forward with large collections of the products of foreign industries, especially of the kinds which are likely to find a ready sale in this country. New branches of trade may thus be opened out, and an impetus given, by force of example, to manufactures suited to India.

2. The Exhibition, which will be opened on the 4th of next December, will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Viceroy, and the Lieutenant-Governor has nominated a General and an Executive Committee for the promotion of its objects. The General Committee will, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts, be composed of the Chief Officers of the Supreme Government and of all Local Governments and Administrations, the great Feudatory Chiefs and Nobles of India, and the leading officials and private individuals, both European and Native, of various Provinces. The duties of this Committee will be, for the most part, honorary, but it will be in the power of its members to render great assistance by the exercise of their personal influence in promoting the interests of the undertaking. The time which has elapsed since the scheme was first broached has not been sufficient to allow of the nomination of any but the Bengal members of the Committee, of whom a provisional list is given below :—

The Lieutenant-Governor has received the assurance of the Government of India that all Local Governments and Administrations will be advised to form local Committees to co-operate with that in Calcutta in securing an adequate representation at the Exhibition of all articles of Indian growth and manufacture.

3. It is proposed that the Exhibition should be held partly in the Indian Museum, of which a portion will be set free for the purpose, and partly in large annexes. Arrangements have been made by the Public Works Department of this Government for the immediate construction of those annexes in the space adjoining the Museum in Chowringhee, which was formerly occupied by the offices of the Bengal Secretariat. Information regarding the details of the Exhibition will be found in the prospectus published with this Resolution, and any additional information which may be required can be obtained on application to the Executive Committee to the address of the Hon'ble Colonel S. T. Trevor, R.E., Bengal Secretariat, Calcutta.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. S. BAYLEY,

Offg. Under-Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

PROVISIONAL REGULATIONS FOR EXHIBITORS.

1. The introduction of dangerous substances is strictly prohibited.

2. Packages intended for the Exhibition must bear the printed official labels, which will be furnished to the exhibitors, and must be consigned as directed.

3. No sketch, copy, or reproduction of any exhibit may be taken without the special permission of the Exhibitor and the Committee. The right of permitting general views is, however, reserved by the Committee.

4. An official catalogue will be published.

5. Every facility will be afforded to Exhibitors and their agents in connection with the transport, display, sale and care of their exhibits.

6. The utmost precautions will be taken to preserve exhibits from injury and to guard the buildings. No responsibility can be undertaken for damage or loss. Exhibitors should make their own arrangements for effecting insurances.

7. The arrangements with reference to machinery in motion will form the subject of special regulations.

8. Subject to official confirmation, agents can be appointed by Exhibitors.

9. Exhibitors must defray all charges for space, packing, forwarding, receiving, unpacking, and repacking of goods, and all other incidental charges.

10. All arrangements for the display of exhibits, including special constructions, stands, cases, tables, shelves, and the mounting of machinery and apparatus must be carried out by the Exhibitors at their own cost and in accordance with plans officially approved.

11. Articles remaining unsold at the close of the Exhibition must be removed within 30 days; after that time they will be removed and stored at the risk and expense of the owner.

12. Exhibitors must conform to all rules and regulations.

13. Applications for space with full particulars of the intended exhibit must be made at the office of the Secretary or official agent, before the 1st of August 1883. Necessary forms and all information may be obtained of the Secretary or any of the official agents.

14. The ordinary charge for space will be two shillings for each of the first twenty square feet and one shilling for every additional square foot; but Exhibitors desiring a frontage to any main avenue for their cases can obtain it on payment of an additional five shillings per foot of such frontage irrespective of depth. A passage of from two to three feet will be left round each case where desired, and Exhibitors desirous of having spaces against the wall should mention the fact at the time of application. All applications must be accompanied by payment of the full amount for the space required.

15. The general reception of articles in the Exhibition buildings will commence on or before the 1st of October and cease one week before the opening, after which date no exhibits can be received and all vacant spaces become forfeited.

16. Gold, silver, or bronze medals and certificates will be awarded to Exhibitors; a Special Jury will be appointed for this purpose.

17. The Exhibition will be constituted a bonded warehouse, where dutiable exhibits can remain without payment of duty until they are sold. Calcutta is a free port, except as regards spirits, wines and liquors, cider and other fermented liquors, ale, beer, and porter, salt, opium, arms and ammunition.

18. Articles may be sold during the currency of the Exhibition, but cannot be removed without the special permission oft he Committee.

19. An entrance card (not transferable) will be delivered gratis to every Exhibitor.

20. It is intended to keep the Exhibition open daily from 7 A.M. to 6 P.M. and from 8 P.M. to 11 P.M., from on or about the 4th of December 1883 until its close, on or about 1st of March following.

Dated Calcutta, the 18th December 1882.

From—JULES JOUBERT, ESQ.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you a copy of the schedule of the International Exhibition which I propose to hold in this city in December, January, and February 1883-84, provided I can obtain the sanction of the Government.

Although I have already applied to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, I nevertheless shall deem it a favour if you will kindly now lay the matter officially before him.

In this schedule you will see the scope of the Exhibition, which I intend to be similar to those I have had the honour to promote and carry out satisfactorily to all concerned in the Australasian Colonies.

England, America, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Japan, China, and Australia were fully represented, and I have every reason to believe all the abovenamed countries will make a good display in India.

What I have to crave from the Government of India is that which was granted to me elsewhere, viz. the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General as well as that of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The official nomination of a Local Committee in whose hands will rest the revision of the jurors' awards, as well as the task of procuring a display of Indian exhibits of sufficient importance to compete with those of the foreign countries represented at this general gathering.

With a view to reduce the great outlay I should be involved in, had I to put up buildings suitable for so large an Exhibition, it has been suggested that I should apply for such portion of the Indian Museum as could be spared by the Trustees as well as for the use of surrounding ground and out-buildings lately handed over by Government to the said Trustees. In addition to these I propose adding at my own expense temporary buildings of iron, wood, and glass which will enable me to house and properly display the exhibits and connect the various nations represented, thus forming with the interesting collections now in the Museum a "tout ensemble" which will be both effective and in good harmony.

The success of an undertaking of this kind depends in a great measure upon the moral support of Government. I need hardly call your attention to the immense benefit International Exhibitions have conferred on the countries where they have been held, nor will I lay particular stress on the special advantages that will accrue to Bengal and Calcutta, more particularly by the introduction of a number of intelligent representatives from all nations who, whilst here, must necessarily be struck with the immense undeveloped industries and resources of this empire.

In conclusion, I trust that the official letters which the Governors of the Australasian Colonies have addressed to His Excellency the Viceroy, relating to my connection with the Exhibitions held there, will be deemed a sufficient guarantee for the ultimate issue of the undertaking I now contemplate; and I hope that the Government will grant the requests contained in this letter.

No. 2921-240 Mis.(F), dated Calcutta, the 22nd December 1882.

From— A. P. MACDONNELL, ESQ., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Revenue Dept.
To—JULES JOUBERT, ESQ.

IN acknowledging the receipt of your letter dated the 18th instant (with enclosure), the Lieutenant-Governor desires me to say that he approves and sanctions your proposal to hold an International Exhibition in Calcutta in the cold weather of 1883-84. A General Committee will be appointed by Government in Calcutta, as well as local Committees for the collection, at the head-quarters of each division, of specimens illustrative of the arts and manufactures of the country. The Government of India will be asked to assist this Government, as far as possible, in carrying out the objects of the Exhibition.

No. 2922—241Mis. (F), dated Calcutta, the 22nd December 1882.

From—A. P. MacDonnell, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Dept.

From Jules Joubert, Esq., dated the 18th December 1882.
To Jules Joubert, Esq., No. 2921—240Mis. (F), dated the 22nd December 1882.

I am directed to submit, for the consideration and orders of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, a copy of the correspondence noted on the margin, regarding a proposal to hold an International Exhibition in Calcutta in the cold weather of 1883-84. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to invite the co-operation of the Government of India in carrying the project to a successful issue, and to suggest that, with the approval of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, all Local Governments and Administrations may be invited to assist in securing the adequate representation at the Exibition of the natural products and manufactures of all parts of India.

No. 318Ex—16-11, dated Calcutta, the 28th December 1882.

From—T. W. Holderness, Esq., Offg. Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I am desired to acknowledge your No. 2922—241Mis.(F.), dated 22nd December 1882, and to state that the Government of India will be pleased to assist the Government of Bengal in the manner proposed by advising the Local Governments and Administrations in India to co-operate in the International Exhibition to be opened at Calcutta on the 4th of December 1883.

2. I am to observe that the prospectus filed with Mr. Joubert's letter does not appear to be complete, and am to suggest that, before it is officially issued, it should be revised in consultation with this Department.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

≡ fog, ◬ dew, o overcast, g gloomy, d drizzling rain.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, INDIA,
The 15th January 1883.

HENRY F. BLANFORD,
Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of India.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Eastern Bengal Railway for the four weeks ended 21st October 1882.

Report on Goods Traffic for the four weeks ended 21*st October* 1882.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY COMPANY, TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, SEALDAH TERMINUS.
No. W 37-56, dated Calcutta, the 20th December 1882.

From—W. INNES, Esq., Traffic Superintendent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company,

To—The Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company.

I BEG to forward the usual comparative statement of traffic for the four weeks ended the 21st October last, from which it will be seen that the gross weight carried over the railway during that period was 15,53,671 maunds, or 5 per cent. over the figures for the corresponding period of 1881.

The principal fluctuations are as under—

Increases.

Coal and coke ... ... 6,096 Mds.

The explanation given in last report is applicable to the present, viz. improvement in traffic to Sealdah for mills in the vicinity, and also traffic forwarded to the Northern Bengal State and Darjeeling Himalyan Railways.

Cotton, manufactured ... ... 13,140 Mds.

On reference to last report, it will be observed that the decrease then recorded is more than made good in the period under review. This is explained by a considerable improvement in the market during the month referred to Dyeing materials ... ... 4,679 Mds.

Notwithstanding low prices in the market, the demand for export has been brisk.

Gunny-bags ... ... 6,329 "

The impetus given to the traffic in this staple by the low price of the raw material, and by the brisk demand for export, is very marked.

Grain and pulse ... ... 13,422 Mds.

This increase is due to 13,000 maunds of rice sent from Port Canning, Calcutta and South-Eastern State Railway to Chitpore which previously had been taken up the river by boat.

Hides and skins ... ... 4,619 Mds.

This increase is due to an active demand in the Calcutta bazar, stimulated by the low rates for freight to Europe.

Jute ... ...

On reference to the statement, it will be seen that the increase in "screwed" jute is counterbalanced by a decrease in "unscrewed" jute. This is due to the much larger portion of screwed jute sent from Naraingunge at this season.

Miscellaneous ... ... 16,900 Mds.

This increase is in upward traffic and is made up of the various commodities which do not come under special headings.

Salt ... ... 9,089 Mds.

This important staple continues to improve, traffic to all stations sharing in the improvement.

Seeds ... ... 3,305 Mds.

It is feared that this increase will be only temporary.

Previous statements will show that the traffic in this staple had been declining for a considerable time, and the explanation given was that the cultivation of seed appeared to be giving place to more remunerative crops

Tobacco ... ... 10,136 Mds.

This large increase of 53 per cent. points to the fact that this staple is being drawn to the line by the low rates now in force.

Decreases.

Metals and manufactures of ... ... 9,658 Mds.

This decrease is in upward traffic, and is due to a considerable quantity of this material having been forwarded to the Northern Bengal State Railway for the Kownia and Durla extension during the corresponding period of 1881.

Sugar ... ... 3,315 Mds.

This decrease is attributable to a dull market, there being no demand for export.

[First Publication.]

NOTIFICATION.

The 23rd January 1883.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to issue the following rules under section 8 of Act XVI of 1881, with a view to the prevention of obstructions in the fairways leading to the ports of False Point, Balasore, and Chittagong respectively :—

1. No person shall, without permission of the Port Officer, do any of the following acts in a fairway leading to any of the said ports :—

(a) Fix any apparatus or part of any apparatus for fishing.
(b) Lay pieces of wood as floats.
(c) Spread or fix fishing nets.
(d) Raise an embankment.
(e) Cast or throw ballast or rubbish.
(f) Sink, strand, or abandon a vessel.
(g) Throw in or abandon any tree or trees, log of wood, spar, or any other thing which would be likely to form into a snag, or to cause an accumulation of silt, or in any way to alter the conformation of the bottom of the fairway.

2. The owner or master of a vessel desiring to cast or throw ballast or rubbish in a fairway leading to any of the said ports, may apply to the Port Officer for permission to do so, and he shall not, if the permission is granted, cast or throw the ballast or rubbish except at a place selected by the Port Officer for the purpose.

3. Any person desiring to place any apparatus for fishing stake, or spread any net, or to use any float, or to raise any embankment in a fairway leading to any of the said ports, may appply to the Port Officer for permission to do so. On receipt of such application, the Port Officer shall examine the site fixed upon by the applicant, and if satisfied that the placing of fishing apparatus, or the doing of any other act for permission to do which application has been made, will not cause or be likely to cause obstruction or danger to navigation, he shall report the matter to the Collector for orders, and the Collector, if similarly satisfied, shall grant permission. It shall be in the discretion of the Collector at any time to withdraw such permission, and to call upon the owner to remove the apparatus nets, floats or embankments within a reasonable time, and on failure on the part of the owner to do so, to remove them at the cost of the owner.

4. In the port of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this notification on the Port Officer shall be exercised and performed by the Collector of Customs.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

GENERAL LETTER No. 1.

Dated Calcutta, the 5th January 1883.

From—C. A. WILKINS, Esq., Officiating Registrar, High Court,
To—All Criminal Judicial Officers in Bengal.

I AM directed to invite your attention to the accompanying copy of a letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 1362, dated the 17th November 1882, and to request that you will be good enough to comply, as far as possible, with the wishes of Government in fixing dates for the hearing of any criminal cases in which Mohammedan parties or witnesses are concerned.

2. Instances will, of course, occur in which either the first or an adjourned hearing of a criminal case must necessarily be held on a holiday, whether or not such holiday be one specially set apart for the Mohammedan community. But the Court trust that you will continue so to arrange the dates of hearing of all classes of cases as to secure the convenience of parties and witnesses in a manner compatible, on the one hand, with the due administration of justice, and on the other with the due observance of religious festivals and other ceremonials.

From E. N. BAKER, Esq., Officiating Under-Secretary to the Governmen: of Bengal, Financial Department, to the Registrar of the High Court,—No. 1362, dated Calcutta, the 17*th November* 1882.

A REPRESENTATION having been made to Government that the opening of criminal courts on the Mohammedan holidays mentioned in the margin inflicts hardship on members of the Mohammedan community who are obliged to attend Court on those days, I am directed to request that the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court may be moved to instruct all criminal courts subordinate to them to fix cases in which Mohammedan suitors or witnesses are concerned, so that they may not come on for hearing on any of the days referred to.

GENERAL LETTER No. 1.

Dated Calcutta, the 15th January 1883.

From—C. A. WILKINS, Officiating Registrar, High Court,
To—All District Judges in Bengal and Assam.

I AM directed to request that you will, in your Annual Report on the Administration of Civil Justice for 1882, submit a statement of the status and profession of the persons whose applications under Chapter XX of Act XIV of 1882, or of the corresponding chapter of Act X of 1877, were on the files during that year (vide column 20 of Annual Statement 7, Part I, printed at page 178 of the Civil Rules and Orders).

HIGH COURT,—Original Side.

Dated 12th January 1883.

MR. F. J. FERGUSSON, the Official Trustee of Bengal, having obtained twelve months leave of absence with effect from the 15th instant, the Honorable the Chief Justice has under section 7 of Act XVII of 1864, appointed Mr. A. B. Miller, Barrister-at-Law, to officiate as Official Trustee during the absence of Mr. Fergusson, on leave, or until further order; the duties of Official Trustee to be performed by Mr. Miller in addition to his own duties as Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court.

R. BELCHAMBERS, Registrar.

Sheriff's Office, the 10th January 1883.

NOTICE is hereby given that the First Criminal Sessions of the year 1883 of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, for the Town of Calcutta and Factory of Fort William and the places subordinate thereto, will be holden at the Court House, in the Town of Calcutta, on Wednesday, the Seventh day of February next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and so on from day to day until the said Sessions be over. And it is hereby proclaimed that all persons who will prosecute any of the prisoners to be brought up for trial at the said Sessions be present then and there to prosecute.

Insert the following as Rules 1 A and 1 B :—

1 A.—Officers in the Survey of India of rank not lower than that of Assistant Surveyor shall cease to be in employment on attaining the age of fifty-five years, unless specially permitted by the Secretary of State, in the interests of the public service, to remain in the Department for a further definite period.

1 B.—After the age of fifty-five years a Civil Engineer, in the Public Works Department, or a Civilian in the Accounts Branch of that Department, shall not be appointed either substantively or in an officiating capacity to a grade other than that to which he may be attached at the time, nor permitted to continue in any grade, whether substantively or in an officiating capacity, to which he has been attached for five years and upwards, unless in any special case sanctioned by the Secretary of State. Nor can such an officer claim to retain any office for a longer period than may have been specially fixed by the Government of India (or Madras or Bombay, as the case may be) at the time of his appointment to the office.

Rules 6 and 7.

Substitute the following for the Rules and the Note under Rule 6 :—

6 (a).—After the age of fifty-five years no Military or Naval Officer shall be appointed to a new office in civil employment, whether substantive or officiating, nor, except in special cases sanctioned by the Secretary of State, shall he be permitted to retain any such office which he has held for five years and upwards. Provided that a military officer employed in the Public Works Department cannot claim to retain any such office for a longer period than may have been specially fixed by the Government of India (or Madras or Bombay, as the case may be) at the time of his appointment to the office.

[NOTE.—This rule should be strictly enforced, unless the retirement of any officer should be considered by the Government under which he is serving to be injurious to the public interest. (Secretary of State, No. 106, dated 30th August 1873.)]

6 (b).—The undermentioned officers cease to be in civil employment on attaining the age of fifty-five years :—

(i) Military Officers in the Survey of India, unless specially permitted by the Secretary of State, in the interests of the public service, to remain in the Department for a further definite period;

(ii) Brigade Surgeons or Surgeons-Major, who entered the service on or after the 13th January 1860; and

(iii) All Warrant Officers, except Warrant Medical Officers who on being reported to be qualified after examination as to fitness, shall be retained for a further period of three years.

PART IV.

Bill of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th January 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon in a fortnight:—

A Bill to amend "the Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870."

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the "Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870." It is enacted as follows:—

Section 21 repealed.

1. Section twenty-one of Bengal Act IV of 1880 is repealed.

Substitution of clause (2) of Bengal Act V of 1870.

2. For clause (2) of section thirty-nine of Bengal Act V of 1870, the following shall be substituted, that is to say:

"Tramways, warehouses, sheds, engines, and other appliances for conveying, receiving, and storing goods and merchandize landed or to be shipped or carried, and accommodation for the sampling and selling of such goods and merchandize; such tramways, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to be worked by locomotive engines, or other motive power drawing or propelling carriages and wagons for the conveyance of goods therein."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Port Commissioners have applied to the Government for sanction to construct a warehouse at Armenian Ghât to facilitate the storage and shipment of tea. The scheme has been under discussion for more than six years, and the Chamber of Commerce and a majority of the mercantile firms interested in the tea trade are in favour of sanction being given to the proposals. There is a manifest advantage in having a tea warehouse in a central situation on the river bank, from which the chests could be shipped without incurring the unnecessary handling and risk of breakage to which they are at present subjected. The construction of the warehouse would also tend to relieve the streets of a part of the cart traffic.

At present, however, the greater part of the tea shipped from Calcutta is sold previous to shipment, and, so long as this practice prevails, the convenience afforded by the projected warehouse would be neutralized, or at least greatly diminished, unless accommodation were provided in the warehouse itself for the sampling and sale of tea. The Government, however, are advised that the law as it stands does not authorize the Port Commissioners to construct a warehouse which has for one of its objects the provision of facilities for the sampling and sale of goods. By section 39, Act V (B.C.) of 1870, the Commissioners are empowered to construct warehouses and sheds for receiving and storing goods and merchandize landed or to be shipped. The present Bill extends these powers, and authorizes the Port Commissioners also to provide accommodation in such warehouses for the sampling and sale of such goods and merchandize.

CALCUTTA,
The 6th January 1883.

C. H. REILY,
Offg. Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Legislative Dept.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th January 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon in three weeks :—

A Bill for the general control of Coolies in Hill Municipalities.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the registration and better control of coolies in Hill Municipalities: It is enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1 This Act shall be called the Hill Coolies Act, 1883.

Interpretation.

2. For the purposes of this Act the terms hereinafter mentioned shall, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, have the meanings hereinafter assigned to them.

"Coolie."

"Coolie" shall mean any person included within the classes of persons specified in the order published by Local Government under section four of this Act.

"Hill Municipality."

"Hill Municipality" shall mean any municipality constituted under Act of 1883 or other Act for the time being in force for the regulation of municipalities which the Local Government shall declare by a notification published in the Calcutta Gazette to be a Hill Municipality under this Act.

Commissioners may pass a resolution recommending extension.

3. Whenever it shall appear desirable to the Commissioners of any Hill Municipality that coolies working for hire in the municipality should be registered under this Act, they may at a meeting pass a resolution to that effect, and shall frame a list specifying the classes of persons to which it is desired by the Commissioners that the provisions of this Act should apply, and shall forward such list, together with a copy of such resolution, for the consideration and sanction of the Local Government.

On such recommendation Local Government may extend provisions of Part.

4. The Local Government may thereupon order that all or any of the provisions contained in this Act shall be in force in such municipality. Such order shall specify the classes of persons to which and the date from which the said provisions shall respectively apply, and shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette. Such order shall operate to extend the provisions of this Act to such municipality according to its tenor.

The Local Government may at any time cancel or modify an order made under this section.

Publication of order.

5. The Commissioners shall, within fifteen days of such publication, cause a copy of the same to be deposited in the office of the Commissioners, and a copy shall be posted up in a conspicuous position at such office, and in such other places as the Commissioners may direct; and a public proclamation of such order shall be made throughout such municipality by beat of drum.

Orders of registering officer to be subject to control of Commissioners.

6. The Commissioners at a meeting shall, for the purposes of this Act, appoint a registering officer, and may, with the sanction of the Local Government, remove such registering officer and appoint another in his place. Every matter or thing done by the registering officer under or by virtue of this Act, shall be subject to the order, disposition, and control of the Commissioners.

Registration of coolies.

7. Every coolie personally working for gain as such coolie within the limits of such municipality shall be annually registered by the registering officer appointed under the last preceding section, who shall keep a register in which he shall enter the name and residence of every such coolie:

Provided always that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any coolie who is hired beyond the limits of the municipality for a period of time not exceeding three hours, but who performs a portion of the work imposed by such hiring within such limits.

Period of registration.

8. The year of registration shall commence on the first day of January of each year, and every registration made on any date within that year shall be in force to the thirty-first day of December next following and no longer.

The registering officer shall at the time of registration deliver a license to every coolie registered as aforesaid, and such license shall be in force for the year of registration and no longer.

Details of license.

9. Every license granted by the registering officer shall specify the number of the license, and the name and place of abode, and age of the coolie to whom such license is granted, and shall further state whether such coolie is licensed to work as—

(a) a monthly or other servant for a fixed period of time exceeding twenty-four hours, or

(b) a coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period of time not exceeding twenty-four hours.

Every license shall bear date on the day on which the same shall be granted.

Penalty for not giving notice of change of residence.

10. Whenever any coolie registered under this Act shall change his residence, he shall give notice thereof to the registering officer, specifying in such notice his new residence, and every such coolie who shall change his residence and shall neglect for one week to give such notice, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. five.

Alteration to be made in register.

The registering officer on receiving the notice specified in this section shall make the necessary alteration in the register.

Particulars of license to be entered in book.

11. The particulars of every license which shall be granted under the provisions of this Act shall be entered in books to be kept for that purpose at the office of the said registering officer, and every person applying shall at all reasonable times be furnished with a certified copy of such particulars on payment of a fee of eight annas.

Licensed coolie to wear badge.

12. The registering officer shall, at the time of granting the license to any coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period of time not exceeding twenty-four hours, deliver a metal badge, upon which shall be marked or engraved a number corresponding with the number of such license. Every coolie to whom such badge is delivered shall at all times, while waiting for hire, or during the performance of his duties as such coolie, or while attending before any Magistrate, carry such badge exposed to view.

Penalty for omitting to wear badge.

13. Whenever any coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period not exceeding twenty-four hours shall omit to wear such badge exposed to view as aforesaid, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. five.

Rates of hire to be made and published.

14. The Commissioners at a meeting may, with the consent of the Local Government, make and publish an order specifying the rates of hire in respect of all coolies registered under the provisions of this Act, and such rates may from time to time be varied with the like sanction. The rates specified in such order shall in the case of coolies empowered to work by the job, or for any period not exceeding twenty-four hours include rates calculated according to distance as well as by time:

Provided that the list of rates calculated according to distance shall include rates in respect of such places situate beyond the limits of the municipality as shall be specified in a notification to that effect published by the Local Government in the Calcutta Gazette.

A table of the rates of hire legibly written or printed in the English, Urdu, and Bengali languages shall be affixed in some conspicuous place within the limits of the municipality, and a copy of the same, or such portion thereof as may be deemed sufficient, shall be given to every coolie at the time of registration

Coolie entitled to payment according to rates fixed, subject to special agreements for lower rates.

15. Every coolie shall be entitled to receive payment for his hiring in accordance with the rates specified in the order mentioned in the last preceding section:

Provided that nothing in this Act contained shall prevent any such coolie from being bound by any contract into which he may enter to receive payment at a rate lower than that fixed by such order.

Registration of coolies when engaged as monthly servants.

16. Any coolie engaged as a monthly servant, or for some other fixed period of time exceeding twenty-four hours, who shall be proved to the satisfaction of the registering officer to have deserted from such employment without reasonable cause during the period of his engagement; or to have been guilty of misconduct during such period of time;

or to have wrongfully prevented or endeavoured to prevent any other coolie from accepting employment under such person, shall be liable to have his license withdrawn or suspended for such period as the registering officer may direct.

Penalty for certain offences committed by registered coolies.

17. Every coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period not exceeding twenty-four hours, who shall, without reasonable excuse, refuse to accept hire within the limits of such municipality at the rate fixed for such hiring; or who shall desert from his hiring before being discharged therefrom; or who shall demand more than the proper rate fixed for such hiring; or who shall be drunk or make use of insulting or abusive language during the period of, or while waiting for, such hiring; or who shall wrongfully prevent, or endeavour to prevent, any other coolie from being hired;

or who shall refuse to carry any load he may be legally called upon to carry;

or who shall fail to produce his table of rates when required to do so, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. ten, or in default of payment to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one month.

Penalty for being unlicensed or lending license to another.

18. Any coolie who shall work as such without being duly registered or licensed, and any coolie who, having a license in force, shall transfer or lend the same, or allow the same to be used by any other person, shall be liable upon conviction in respect of any one of such offences, to a penalty not exceeding Rs. ten, or in default of payment to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one month.

Coolie entitled to have new badge on loss or obliteration of former one.

19. Whenever the writing on any badge shall become obliterated or defaced, so that the same shall not be distinctly legible, and also whenever any badge shall be proved, to the satisfaction of the registering officer, to have been lost or mislaid, the coolie to whom the license relating to any such badge shall have been granted, shall deliver such badge (if he shall have the same in his possession), and shall produce such license to the registering officer, and such coolie shall then be entitled to have a new badge delivered to him upon payment of such sum of money, not exceeding one rupee, as the registering officer shall from time to time appoint.

Penalty for neglecting to deliver up badge, ending badge, &c.

20. Upon the expiration or other determination of any license granted to a coolie under this Act, such coolie shall deliver such license, and in the case of a coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period of time not exceeding twenty-four hours, the badge relating thereto, to the said registering officer; and every such coolie who, after such expiration or determination as aforesaid, shall wilfully neglect for three days to deliver the same to the said officer; and also every coolie who shall use, or wear, or detain any badge which shall have ceased to be in force, or other than such as shall have been delivered to him under the provisions of this Act, and every coolie to whom any badge shall have been delivered as aforesaid, who shall lend such badge to any other person, and every person who shall wear or use the badge of any other coolie, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty of Rs. five, or in default of payment to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one week. It shall be lawful for the registering officer, or for any person employed by him for that purpose under the authority obtained as prescribed by section twenty-nine of this Act, to prosecute any coolie so neglecting to deliver up his license or badge at any period within twelve calendar months after the expiration of the license.

Penalty for using or having a counterfeit badge.

21. Every coolie or other person who shall, for the purpose of deception, use or wear, or have any badge resembling any badge granted under the authority of this Act, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. ten, or in default of payment to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one month. And it shall be lawful for any police officer, or any person employed for that purpose by the registering officer, to seize and take away any such badge, or any badge used for the purpose of deception as aforesaid, wheresoever the same may be found, and to deliver the same to the registering officer.

Penalty for not depositing lost or unclaimed property.

22. Every coolie empowered to work by the job, or for any period of time not exceeding twenty-four hours, who shall be in possession of any lost or unclaimed property, shall within twenty-four hours carry such property, if not sooner claimed by the owner thereof, to the nearest police-station, and shall there deposit and leave the same with the inspector or other officer on duty, and any such coolie making default herein, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. five, or in default of payment to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one week.

Penalty for second and subsequent offences.

23. Whenever any coolie, after having been previously convicted of an offence under this Act, or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, shall be again convicted of an offence under the Act or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, he may be liable, in addition to the penalty attached to such offence, to imprisonment, rigorous or simple, not exceeding one month, and the like punishment of imprisonment not exceeding one month may be inflicted in addition to the punishment which may be inflicted for a first offence upon every subsequent conviction after the second.

Conviction to be endorsed on coolie's license: Penalty for failing to produce.

24. Whenever any coolie shall be summoned to appear before any Magistrate to answer any charge preferred against him under this Act, or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, he shall carry with him his license, and produce the same if required so to do; and any coolie who shall on such requisition fail to produce such license, shall for every such offence be liable to a fine not exceeding five rupees. It shall be lawful for any Magistrate, on conviction of any coolie of any offence under this Act, or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, to endorse on such license the nature of the offence, the date of the conviction, and the amount of the penalty inflicted.

Revocation or suspension of coolie's license on his conviction of any offence.

25. It shall be lawful for any Magistrate before whom any coolie shall be convicted of any offence, whether under this Act or under any other law in force, to revoke the license of such coolie, or to suspend the same for such time as the Magistrate shall think proper, and for that purpose to require the coolie, or any other person in whose possession such license and the badge (if any) thereto belonging shall then be, to deliver up the same; and every coolie or other person who, being so required, shall refuse or neglect to deliver up such license and such badge, or either of them, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten rupees, so often as he shall be so required and refuse or neglect as aforesaid: and the Magistrate shall immediately send every license and every badge delivered up to him under this section to the registering officer, who shall cancel such license if it has been revoked by the Magistrate, or, if it has been suspended, shall, at the end of the time for which it shall have been suspended, re-deliver such license with the badge (if it shall have come into the possession of the registering officer) to the coolie to whom it was granted.

Penalty for refusing to pay legal fare.

26. If any person who shall have hired any coolie shall refuse to pay such coolie, or any authorized agent on his behalf, the proper sum payable for such hiring, it shall be lawful for any Magistrate having jurisdiction in such case to order payment of such sum and also such compensation as shall seem reasonable, and in default of payment such sum and compensation may be recovered in the same way as fines are recoverable under Act of 1883, or other Act for the time being in force for the regulation of municipalities.

Registrar's table of distances to be conclusive proof.

27. In case of disputes as to the rate to be calculated according to distance, any table or book signed by the registering officer shall, on proof of such signature, be taken to be conclusive evidence of all distances therein stated to have been ascertained by the said officer.

Power to make bye-laws.

28. It shall be lawful for the Commissioners at a meeting to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to the confirmation hereinafter mentioned for the following purposes—

For the management of all matters connected with the registration and license of coolies.

For regulating the conduct of coolies registered under this Act.

To fix fines and penalties for offences committed against such bye-laws.

And generally for the purposes of this Act:

Provided that no bye-law shall be repugnant to any law in force, and that no fine for any one offence committed against a bye-law shall exceed Rs. five.

Such bye-laws shall be subject to the sanction of the Local Government, and shall be published as the Local Government directs, and shall have the force of law at such time after such publication as the Local Government directs.

Jurisdiction.

29. Offences punishable under this Act, or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, shall be triable by any Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place where the offence is committed, but such Magistrate shall be subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure as to the amount of fine or imprisonment he may inflict:

Provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any of the offences punishable under section sixteen of this Act.

Disposal of fines.

30. All penalties and fines to be levied under this Act shall be placed to the credit o the Municipal Fund.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to regulate the conditions under which coolies may work for hire and be hired in Hill Municipalities where their labour supplies the only form of locomotive power ordinarily available. Numerous complaints have been made by residents of Darjeeling of the misconduct and extortionate charges of dandy men and other coolies, and it has been decided to bring them under a law similar to the law for the regulation of Hackney Carriages and Palankeens, by which on the one hand their charges will be limited to a certain tariff and provision will be made for the punishment of misconduct, and on the other they will be secured the payment of such hire as they may earn. It is not proposed to interfere with coolies hired as regular servants for periods exceeding twenty-four hours, beyond requiring them to take out a license and providing that the license may be suspended or withdrawn on proof of misconduct.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 1 OF 1883.

A Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877.

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely:—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted:—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 108.] (18) "prescribed" means prescribed from time to time by notification of the Governor General in Council:

[ib.] (19) the expression "safety-cartridges" means cartridges for small arms of which the case can be extracted from the small arm after firing, and which are so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges:

[New.] (20) "Magistrate" means, in the Presidency-towns, a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere, a Magistrate of the first class, and includes also any Magistrate whom the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may, by notification, appoint to discharge in any local area the functions of a Magistrate under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

GENERAL LAW AS TO MANUFACTURE AND KEEPING OF EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 4.] Prohibition of manufacture of explosives except at factory.

8. The manufacture of an explosive shall not, nor shall any process of that manufacture, be carried on except at a factory for that explosive:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply—

(a) to the making of a small quantity of an explosive for the purpose of chemical experiment and not for practical use or for sale; or

(b) to the making of any part of an explosive where that part is not itself an explosive and no explosive is used in making it.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 5.] Prohibition of keeping of explosives except in factory, magazine or registered place.

9. An explosive shall not be kept except—

(a) in the factory in which it is manufactured, or

(b) in a magazine for that explosive, or

(c) in a place registered under this Act for keeping that explosive:

Provided that this section shall not apply—

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (4).] (a) to a person keeping for his private use, and not for sale, an explosive to an amount not exceeding in the same place the prescribed amount, or

(b) to the keeping of an explosive by a carrier or other person for the purpose of conveyance, when the explosive is being conveyed or kept in accordance with the rules under this Act with respect to the conveyance of explosives.

CHAPTER III.

FACTORIES, MAGAZINES AND REGISTERED PLACES.

(A).—Licensing and Regulation of Factories.

Power of Local Government to make rules as to licensing and regulation of factories.

10. (1) The Local Government may make rules as to the licensing and regulation of places as factories for the manufacture of explosives. [Cf. 38 Vic., 17, ss. 6 10, & ss 1 13 & 26.]

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the authority by which licenses may be granted;

(b) the fees to be charged for licenses, and the other sums (if any) to be paid for expenses by applicants for licenses;

(c) the manner in which applications for licenses are to be made, and the matters to be specified in such applications;

(d) the form in which, and the conditions on and subject to which, licenses are to be granted;

(e) the period for which licenses are to remain in force;

(f) the renewal of licenses and the fee to be paid for their renewal;

(g) the alteration of the terms of licenses by the grant of amending licenses, and the fee to be paid for an amending license;

(h) the devolution and determination of licenses;

(i) the situation, construction, materials and fittings of factories;

(l) the manner of carrying out repairs in factories; and

(m) the restricting of the employment of persons under the age of sixteen years in factories or in certain parts thereof.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 46.]

Provision in favour of occupiers of magazines and registered places making cartridges.

11. The occupier of a magazine or registered place shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a factory-license by reason that, in connection with the magazine or place, he fills, for sale or otherwise, any cartridge for small arms with the explosive for the keeping of which the magazine or place is licensed or registered: provided that he observes such rules as the Local Government may make in this behalf.

[38 Vic., c. 17,

Provision in favour of occupiers of magazines adapting or preparing explosives for use in their own mines or quarries.

12. The occupier of a magazine shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a factory-license by reason that, in connection with the magazine, he, by filling cartridges, making charges, drying, sifting, fitting or otherwise, adapts or prepares the explosive for the keeping of which the magazine is licensed, for use exclusively in his mine or quarry, or in some excavation or work carried on by him or under his control: provided that he observes such rules as the Local Government may make in this behalf.

(B).—Licensing and Regulation of Magazines.

[38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 5 to 19 (relating to magazines).]

Power of Local Government to make rules as to licensing and regulation of magazines.

13. (1). The Local Government may make rules as to the licensing and regulation of places as magazines for the keeping of explosives.

(2) Rules under this section may, among other matters, provide for all or any of the matters for which rules under clauses (a) to (i), both inclusive, and clauses (k) to (m), both inclusive, of section ten may provide in the case of factories.

(C).—Registration and Regulation of Registered Places.

[38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 21 and 22.]

Power of Local Government to make rules as to registration and regulation of registered places.

14. (1) The Local Government may make rules as to the registration and regulation of places for the keeping of explosives.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the manner in which places may be registered, the period for which registration is to be valid, and the manner in which registration may be renewed;

(b) the fees to be paid for registration and renewal of registration;

(d) the descriptions of explosives which may be kept together in the same registered place, and the conditions and restrictions subject to which they may be so kept.

(D).—Supplemental Provisions.

[38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 11 and 19.]

Duty of occupier to make special rules for regulation of workmen in his factory or magazine.

15. (1) Every occupier of a factory or magazine shall make special rules for the regulation of the persons managing or employed in or about his factory or magazine, with a view to secure the observance therein of this Act and the rules under this Act, and the safety and proper discipline of those persons and the safety of the public.

(2) The occupier may, and, if required by the Local Government, shall, make rules, repealing, altering or adding to any special rules made under this section.

(3) Any rule under this section may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(4) A rule made under this section shall not take effect until it has been confirmed by the Local Government and notified to the persons managing or employed in or about the factory or magazine in such manner as the Local Government from time to time directs.

CHAPTER IV.

SALE OF EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 30.]

Sale of explosives on highways or public places prohibited.

16. An explosive shall not be hawked, sold or exposed for sale on any highway, street, public thoroughfare or other public place.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 31.]

Sale of explosives to children prohibited.

17. An explosive shall not be sold to any child apparently under the age of thirteen years.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 32 and s. 40 (8).]

Explosives to be sold in cases, closed and labelled.

18. Every explosive, exceeding in amount the prescribed amount, shall, when publicly sold or exposed for sale, be in a substantial case, bag, canister or other receptacle, made and closed so as to prevent the explosive from escaping, and (except when the explosive is sold to any person employed by or on the property occupied by the vendor for immediate use in the service of the vendor or on that property) the outermost receptacle containing the explosive shall have affixed in conspicuous characters, by means of a brand or securely attached label or other mark, the name of the explosive, with the addition of the word "explosive."

CHAPTER V.

CONVEYANCE OF EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 33.]

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules as to packing of explosives.

19. The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the packing of explosives for conveyance, and may by those rules provide for the nature of the packages, cases, bags, canisters or other receptacles in which an explosive is to be contained.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 34.]

Power of Local Government to make rules regulating the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in ports.

20. (1) The Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within any port.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

[Sub-section 1.] [cf. Act XII of 1875, s. 7 (o).]

(a) the notice to be given in the case of ships and boats having any explosive on board within the port;

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 34, sub-section 2.]

(b) the navigation and place of mooring of those ships and boats;

[Sub-section 3.]

(c) subject to the rules as to packing made under section nineteen, the mode of stowing and keeping an explosive on board any such ship or boat, and of giving notice, by brands, labels or otherwise, of the nature of the package containing the explosive;

[Sub-section 4.]

(d) the description, construction, fitting-up and licensing of the ships, boats or carriages to be used for the conveyance of an explosive, and the licensing and dress of the persons having charge thereof;

[Sub-section 5.]

(e) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or any articles or substances, or in passenger-ships, boats, trains or carriages, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

[Sub-section 6.]

(f) the prohibition, in cases where the loading or unloading of an explosive within the limits of the port appears to be specially dangerous to the public, of loading or unloading within those limits, and the fixing of the times and places at which an explosive is to be loaded or unloaded, and the quantity to be loaded or unloaded, or conveyed at one time or in one ship, boat or carriage;

[Sub-section 7.]

(g) the mode of, and the precautions to be observed in, conveying an explosive, and in the loading or unloading any ship, boat or carriage conveying an explosive, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during the conveyance, loading or unloading;

[Cf. Act XII of 1875, s. 7, cl. (o), ss. 28, 29, 30, 31 and 33.]

(h) the fixing the cases in which an explosive is to be taken out of a ship for the purpose of being deposited, the places in which the explosive so taken out is to be deposited, the appointing of an officer to receive the explosive, and the manner in which, and the conditions on and subject to which, the explosive is to be deposited in and removed from those places

(i) the times at which lights or fires are to be allowed or not allowed on board the ships or boats having an explosive on board, or at which a Police-officer or other person authorized in this behalf by the conservator of the port is to be on board them; [38 Vic., 17, s. 34, section 8.]

(j) the publication and supply to the public of copies of these rules; [Sub-section 9.]

(k) the enforcing the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act both by the officers of the port and also by other persons when within the limits of the port; and [Sub-section 10.]

(l) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger. [Sub-section 11.]

Power on breach of rule to require ship, boat, carriage or explosive to be dealt with in conformity with rule.

21. (1) In the event of any breach of a rule under section twenty, in the case of any ship, boat, carriage or explosive, whether there has or has not been any conviction for the breach, the conservator of the port or other officer named in the rules, or any person acting under the orders of the conservator, may cause the ship, boat, carriage or explosive, at the expense of the owner thereof, to be removed to such place or otherwise dealt with in such manner as may be in conformity with the rule.

(2) All expenses incurred in the removal may be recovered in like manner as a fine under this Act.

Duty of railway-administration to make rules regulating the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives on its railway.

22. (1) Every railway-administration shall make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives on its railway. [Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 35.]

(2) The railway-administration may, and, if required by the Governor General in Council, shall, make rules repealing, altering or adding to any rules made under this section.

(3) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the notice to be given of the intention to send an explosive for conveyance on the railway; [Sub-section 1.]

(b) subject to the rules as to packing made under section nineteen, the mode of stowing and keeping an explosive for conveyance, and of giving notice by brand, labels or otherwise of the nature of the package containing the explosive; [Sub-section 2.]

(c) the description and construction of carriages, ships or boats to be used in the conveyance of an explosive; [Sub-section 3.]

(d) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or with any articles or substances or in passenger- [Sub-section 4.]

trains, carriages, ships or boats, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

Sub-section (e) the places and times at which an explosive is to be loaded or unloaded, and the quantity to be loaded or unloaded or conveyed at one time or in one carriage, ship or boat;

Sub-section (f) the precautions to be observed in conveying an explosive and in loading and unloading the carriages, ships or boats used in the conveyance of an explosive, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during that conveyance, loading and unloading;

Sub-section (g) the enforcing the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act by its servants and agents, and also by other persons when on the railway; and

Sub-section (h) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger.

[Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 37.]

23. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in any case in which rules made under section twenty or section twenty-two do not apply.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules for the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives in certain cases.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

Sub-section (a) the description and construction of the carriages to be used in the conveyance of an explosive;

Sub-section (b) the prohibition of the conveyance of one explosive with another explosive or with any articles or substances, or in passenger-carriages, or the subjection of that conveyance to conditions and restrictions;

Sub-section (c) the places and times at which an explosive is to be loaded or unloaded, and the quantity to be loaded or unloaded, or conveyed at one time and in one carriage;

Sub-section (d) the precautions to be observed in conveying an explosive and in loading and unloading the carriages used in that conveyance, and the time during which the explosive may be kept during that conveyance, loading and unloading;

Sub-section (e) the publication and supply to the public of copies of these rules; and

Sub-section (f) generally the protection, whether by means similar to those above-mentioned or not, of persons or property from danger.

(3) For the purpose of any mode of conveyance which is not a conveyance by land, this section shall be construed as if ship and boat were included in the term "carriage".

[Cf. 38 Vic., c. 17, ss. 34, 35 & 37.]

Penalties which may be annexed to breach of rules under sections 20, 22 and 23.

CHAPTER VI.

IMPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9).]

25. Dynamite or gun-cotton or any explosive (other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks and any prescribed explosive) shall not be imported except under a license, and in the manner and to the extent permitted by that license.

Importation of certain explosives prohibited except under license.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9) (b).]

26. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the grant of licenses required under section twenty-five.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules as to such importation.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following among other matters, that is to say:—

(a) the officers by whom, the form in which, and the terms and conditions as to the composition and quality of the explosive, the unloading, landing, transhipment, delivery and conveyance thereof, and the protection of the public from danger, on and subject to which licenses may be granted;

(b) the period for which licenses are to continue in force and the persons for whom licenses are to be available; and

(c) the fees to be paid for licenses.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 40 (9) (e).]

27. The officers of sea customs at every port shall have the same power with respect to any explosive to which section twenty-five applies and the ship containing that explosive as they have for the time being with respect to any article on the importation of which restrictions are imposed by the law relating to sea customs and the ship containing the same; and the enactments for the time being in force relating to sea customs or any such article or ship shall apply accordingly.

Powers of Customs officers.

CHAPTER VII.

SPECIALLY DANGEROUS EXPLOSIVES.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 43: Cf. Act XI of 1878, s. 10.]

Power of Governor General in Council to prohibit the manufacture, keeping, importation, conveyance and sale of specially dangerous explosives.

28. (1) Notwithstanding anything in this Act or in the rules under this Act, the Governor General in Council may, by notification—

(a) regulate or prohibit, either altogether or except under a license, and to the extent and in the manner permitted by that license, the manufacture, keeping, importation, conveyance and sale, or any of them, of any explosive which is of so dangerous a character that, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, it is expedient for the public safety to issue such a notification; and

(b) cancel any notification under this section.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 43.]

(2) The officers of sea customs at every port shall have the same power with respect to any explosive with regard to which a notification has been issued under this section and the ship containing the explosive as they have for the time being with respect to any article the importation of which is prohibited or regulated by the law relating to sea customs and the ship containing the same; and the enactments for the time being in force relating to sea customs or any such article or ship shall apply accordingly.

CHAPTER VIII.

GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 53: Cf. Act XV of 1881, s. 3.]

Appointment and duties of Government Inspectors.

29. (1) The Local Government may, in its discretion, by notification appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be Inspectors for the purposes of this Act, and suspend or remove any person so appointed.

(2) The persons so appointed shall, within such local area as the Local Government may from time to time direct, exercise the powers and perform the duties conferred and imposed by this Act and the rules under this Act on an Inspector.

(3) Every such Inspector (in this Act referred to as a Government Inspector) shall be deemed a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and shall be officially subordinate to such authority as the Local Government may, from time to time, indicate in this behalf.

XLV of 1860.

(4) The Local Government may make rules assigning and regulating the duties of Government Inspectors under this Act.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 55.]

Powers of Government Inspectors.

30. (1) A Government Inspector shall, within the local area for which he is appointed, make such examinations and enquiries as may be necessary to ascertain whether this Act and the rules under this Act are complied with, and may for that purpose—

(a) enter, inspect and examine any factory or magazine and every part thereof, at all times by day and night, but so as not to unnecessarily impede or obstruct the work in the factory or magazine, and make enquiries as to the observance of this Act and the rules under this Act, and as to all matters and things relating to the safety of the public or of the persons employed in or about the factory or magazine;

(c) require the occupier of any factory, magazine or registered place which he is entitled under this section to enter, or any person employed by the occupier therein, to give him samples of any explosive or ingredients of an explosive therein, or of any substance therein, the keeping of which is restricted or regulated by or under this Act or the rules under this Act, or of any substance therein which he believes to be an explosive, or such ingredients or substance.

(2) The occupier of every factory, magazine or registered place referred to in this section, his agents and servants, shall furnish the means required by the Inspector as necessary for any entry, inspection, examination or inquiry under this section.

[38 Vic., c. 56.]

Notice by Government Inspector to remedy dangerous practice.

31. (1) If in any matter (not provided for by any express provision of this Act or of the rules under this Act) a Government Inspector finds that any factory or magazine, or any part thereof, or any thing or practice therein or connected therewith, is unnecessarily dangerous or defective, so as in his opinion to tend to endanger the public safety or the bodily safety of any person, the Inspector may require the occupier of the factory or magazine to remedy the same.

(2) Where the occupier objects to comply with a requisition under this section, he may, within one month from the date of the requisition, apply to any Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the factory or magazine is, for a decision in the matter; and the decision of the Magistrate shall be final.

(3) If the occupier does not apply to a Magistrate as provided by sub-section (2), he shall be bound to comply with the requisition of the Inspector.

(4) No person shall be precluded by any contract from doing such acts as may be necessary to comply with a requisition or decision under this section, and no person shall be liable under any contract to any penalty or forfeiture for doing any such act if he gave notice of the contract to the Inspector at or before the time at which the Inspector made the requisition, or to the Magistrate before his decision was given.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 38 (b).]

Inspection in ports and of ships.

32. (1) The Local Government may, by notification, order any person acting as an Inspector or otherwise for the purpose of the Acts relating to merchant shipping for the time being in force to inquire into the observance of this Act or the rules under this Act in any port or in the case of any ship, and generally to act in that port and with respect to ships as a Government Inspector under this Act.

(2) Each person so ordered shall, while the order is in force, have for that purpose the same powers and authorities as he has under the Acts in pursuance of which he was originally appointed Inspector, and also the powers and authorities of a Government Inspector under this Act and the rules for the time being in force under it.

(3) The Local Government may revoke any order under this section.

[38 Vic., c. 17,

Inspection of wharf, carriage, ship or boat with explosives in transit.

33. Any Government Inspector, or any officer who may by name or in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, may, if he has reasonable cause to suppose an explosive to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance on or in the wharf, carriage, ship or boat of any carrier, or of the occupier of any factory or magazine or of the importer of any explosive, enter, inspect and examine at any time the wharf, carriage, ship or boat for the purpose of ascertaining whether the provisions of this Act or the rules under this Act with respect to the conveyance, loading, unloading and importation of an explosive are complied with, but so as not to unnecessarily obstruct the work or business of the carrier, occupier or importer.

(B).—Accidents.

[38 Vic., c. 17, Act IV of s. 6.]

Notice to be given of accidents.

(a) any accident by explosion or by fire attended with loss of human life or serious injury to person or property, or

(b) any such accident of a description usually attended with such loss or injury, or

(c) any accident of any other description which may be prescribed in this behalf, the occupier of the factory, magazine or registered place, or the master of the ship or boat, or the person in charge of the carriage, as the case may be, shall forthwith give notice thereof to the nearest Magistrate.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 66.]

Inquiry into accidents.

35. (1) If in any such case an inquiry into the cause of the accident appears to the Magistrate to whom notice has been given under section thirty-four to be necessary, the Magistrate may either himself make the inquiry or direct a Government Inspector or a Magistrate subordinate to himself to make the inquiry.

(2) Any Magistrate or Government Inspector making an inquiry under this section shall, for the purposes of conducting the inquiry, have all the powers which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence under the Code of Criminal Procedure. X of 1882.

(C).—Power of Search.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 73.] [Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 14.]

Power of Government Inspector and certain other officers to search for explosives.

36. (1) Where any Government Inspector, or any officer who may by name or in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, has reasonable cause to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive in any place (whether a building or not, or a carriage, boat or ship), or that any explosive is in that place in contravention of this Act or of the rules under this Act, or that the provisions of this Act or of those rules are not duly observed in that place, the Inspector or officer may, on producing, if demanded, in the case of an Inspector, a copy of the notification appointing him, and, in the case of any other officer, of the order authorizing him, enter at any time, and, if need be, by force, that place and every part thereof, and examine the place, and search for explosives therein, and take samples of any explosive or ingredient of any explosive therein, or of any substance reasonably supposed to be an explosive or an ingredient of an explosive which may be found therein.

[Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 16.]

(2) All searches under this section shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. X of 1882.

[Cf. Act I of 1878, s. 21: 38 Vic., c. 38, s. 73, last para.]

(3) When any officer other than a Government Inspector enters and searches as by this section provided, he shall within forty-eight hours make a full report of all the particulars of the entry and search to his immediate official superior.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 35, paragraph 3.]

Power of Government Inspector and certain officers to stop, enter, inspect and examine carriages or boats in case of emergency.

37. (1) If any Government Inspector or any officer of any of the Departments of Excise, Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a peon or constable, has reasonable cause to suppose that any offence against this Act or the rules under this Act is being committed in respect of any carriage (not being on a railway) or any boat conveying, loading or unloading any explosive, and that the case is one of emergency, and that delay will be likely to endanger life, he may stop and enter, inspect and examine the carriage or boat, and by detention or removal thereof or otherwise take such precautions as may be reasonably necessary for removing the danger, in like manner as if the explosive were liable to forfeiture.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 75, para 4.]

(2) Every such officer shall, for the purposes of this section, have the same powers and be in the same position as if he were an officer authorized by the Local Government under section thirty-six to search for explosives.

(D).—Power of Seizure and Detention.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 74.]

Seizure and detention of explosives liable to forfeiture.

38. Where any Government Inspector, or any officer authorized as provided by section thirty-six, has reasonable cause to believe that any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance found by him is liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, he may seize and detain the same until a Magistrate has determined whether the same is or is not liable to be forfeited.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 74.]

Power of Local Government to make rules to regulate seizure and detention of explosives.

39. The Local Government may make rules to regulate the seizure and detention of any explosive or ingredient of any explosive or substance under section thirty-eight, and may by those rules empower the Government Inspector or officer seizing the explosive or ingredient or substance—

(a) to require the occupier of the place in which it was seized (whether a building or not, or a carriage, boat or ship) to detain it in that place or in any place under the control of the occupier; or

(b) to remove it in such manner and to such place as will in the opinion of the Government Inspector or officer least endanger the public safety, and there to detain it; or

(c) in any case which appears to the Government Inspector or officer to be urgent and fraught with serious public danger, to take a sample of it and cause the rest of it to be destroyed or otherwise rendered harmless.

Cl. (2).

Proceedings before Magistrate to be commenced as soon as practicable.

40. The proceedings before a Magistrate for determining whether an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance is or is not liable to forfeiture shall be commenced as soon as practicable after the seizure.

Cl. (3).]

Power to seize receptacles.

41. The receptacles containing an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance may be seized, detained and removed in like manner as the contents thereof.

Cl. (4).]

Power to use ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which explosives are seized.

42. The Government Inspector or officer seizing an explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance may use for the purposes of the removal and detention thereof any ship, boat or carriage in which it was seized, and any tug, tender, engine, tackle, beasts and accoutrements belonging to, or drawing or provided for drawing, that ship, boat or carriage, and shall pay to the owner a reasonable compensation for the use, to be determined in case of dispute by a Magistrate, and to be recovered in like manner as a fine under this Act.

(E).—Samples.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 76.]

Payment for samples of explosives.

43. When a Government Inspector or other officer in pursuance of this Act or the rules under this Act takes samples of any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or substance, he shall pay for or tender payment for those samples to such amount as he considers to be the market-value thereof; and the occupier of the place in which, or the owner of the bulk from which, the sample was taken may recover any excess of the real value over the money so paid or tendered, and any amount so tendered, from the Inspector or other officer taking the sample, as a debt, in the Small Cause Court, or, if there is no Small Cause Court, in the Civil Court having jurisdiction.

thirty-seven, who—

(b) vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the property of any person on the pretence of seizing or searching for any explosive or other thing liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77.]

Penalty on, and removal of, trespassers.

58. Whoever enters without permission or otherwise trespasses on any factory or magazine, or the land immediately adjoining thereto which is occupied by the occupier of that factory or magazine, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and may be forthwith removed from the factory, magazine or land by any Police-officer, or by the occupier of the factory or magazine, or by any agent or servant of, or other person authorized by, the occupier.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77, para. 2.]

Penalty on persons committing act tending to cause explosion or fire in or about factories or magazines.

59. Whoever, other than the occupier of, or a person employed in or about, a factory or magazine is found committing any act which tends to cause explosion or fire in or about a factory or magazine shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 77, para. 3.]

Occupier to put up notices warning persons of liability under last two sections.

60. The occupier of every factory or magazine shall put up in some conspicuous place or places a notice or notices warning all persons of their liability to penalties under the last two foregoing sections; but the absence of a notice or notices shall not exempt a person from punishment under those sections.

[38 Vic., c. 17 s. 97, proviso.]

Penalty for trespass, &c., on Government manufactory or store.

61. Whoever enters without permission, or otherwise trespasses on, any place in the occupation of the Government where any explosive is manufactured or stored, or the land immediately adjoining thereto in the occupation of the Government, or of the officer or person in charge of that place, and any person found committing any act tending to cause explosion or fire in or about any such place, shall be liable to the like penalty, and may be removed and arrested in like manner, as if the place were a factory or magazine to which this Act applies.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 78.]

Power to arrest without warrant persons committing dangerous offences.

62. Whoever is found committing any act for which he is punishable under this Act or the rules under this Act, and which tends to cause explosion or fire in or about any factory, magazine, railway or port, or any carriage, ship or boat, may be apprehended without a warrant by a Police-officer, or by the occupier of, or the agent or servant of, or other person authorized by the occupier of, that factory or magazine, or by any agent or servant of, or other person authorized by, the railway-administration or conservator of the port, and be removed from the place where he is arrested, and conveyed as soon as conveniently may be before a Magistrate.

[38 Vic., 17, s. 82.]

Penalty for pulling down, injuring or defacing notices.

63. Whoever without due authority pulls down, injures or defaces any notice, copy of rules or document when affixed in pursuance of this Act or of the rules under this Act, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

[38 Vic., 17, s. 87.]

Exemption of occupier, &c., from penalty on proof of offence having been committed by another person.

64. (1) Where any offence under this Act or the rules under this Act, for which the occupier of any factory, magazine or registered place is liable to a penalty or forfeiture, has in fact been committed by some other person, that other person shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(2) Where any occupier is liable under this Act or the rules under this Act to a penalty or forfeiture for an offence committed by some other person, the occupier shall be exempt from the penalty or forfeiture on proving that he had supplied proper means and issued proper orders for the observance, and used due diligence to enforce the observance, of this Act and the rules under this Act, and that the offence in question was actually committed by some other person without his connivance, and, if the actual offender is alive, that he has taken all practicable means in his power to prosecute the offender to conviction.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 87, para.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 87, para.

(4) Where any offence under this Act for which any warehouseman, or carrier, or the owner or master of any ship, boat or carriage is liable to a penalty or forfeiture, has in fact been committed by some other person, this section shall apply in like manner as if the warehouseman, carrier, owner or master were such an occupier as in this section mentioned.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 88.]

Exemption of carrier or owner or master of ship where consignor, &c., is in fault.

65. Where a carrier, or an owner or master of a ship or boat, is prevented from complying with this Act or the rules under this Act by the wilful act, neglect or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive, or other person, or by the improper refusal of the consignee or other person to accept delivery of the explosive, the consignor, consignee or other person, who is guilty of that wilful act, neglect, default or refusal shall be liable to the same penalty to which the carrier, owner or master is liable for a breach of this Act or those rules; and his conviction shall exempt the carrier, owner or master from any penalty or forfeiture under this Act or those rules.

38 Vic., 7, s. 96] Provisions as to forfeiture.

66. (1) In any case in which any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance is liable to be forfeited under this Act or the rules under this Act, the convicting Magistrate may direct the whole or any part of the explosive, ingredient or substance, together with the receptacles containing the explosive, ingredient or substance to be forfeited.

Vic., c. 17, para. 2.] (2) Where any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance is alleged to be liable under this Act or the rules under this Act to be forfeited, proceedings may be instituted in the Court of any Magistrate, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the explosive, ingredient or substance is, against the owner of the explosive, ingredient or substance, for the purpose only of enforcing the forfeiture; and, where the owner is unknown or cannot be found, the Magistrate may cause a notice to be published in such manner as he thinks fit stating that, unless cause is shown to the contrary at the time and place named in the notice, the explosive, ingredient or substance will be forfeited; and if cause is not so shown, the Magistrate, after hearing the owner or any person on his behalf (if present), may order all or any part of the explosive, ingredient or substance to be forfeited.

Vic., c. 17, para. 1.] (3) Where a Court before whom a person is convicted of an offence against this Act or the rules under this Act has power to order a forfeiture of any explosive or ingredient of an explosive or any substance owned by, or found in the possession or under the control of, that person, the Court may, if it thinks fit, in lieu of ordering a forfeiture of that explosive, ingredient or substance, sentence that person, in addition to any other punishment, to a fine which may extend to such sum as appears to the Court to be the value of the explosive, ingredient or substance.

Vic., c. 17,] Act XI 875, s. Distress of ship or boat.

67. Where the owner or master of a ship or boat is adjudged to pay a fine for an offence committed with or in relation to that ship or boat, the Court may, in addition to any other power it may have for the purpose of compelling payment of the fine, direct it to be levied by distress and sale of the ship or boat, and the tackle, apparel and furniture thereof, or so much thereof as is necessary.

CHAPTER X.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Vic., c. 72.] Provision of magazine by municipal committee.

68. (1) When any municipal committee satisfies the Local Government that the erection of a magazine by the committee either within or without the limits of the municipality would conduce to the safety of the public within the limits of the municipality, and would not be injurious to the public without those limits, the Local Government may grant to that municipal committee a license under this Act for a magazine.

(2) The municipal committee may, for the purpose of any license under this section, acquire any land or right over land, or appropriate any land or right belonging to it, and acquire or build a magazine, and may maintain and manage the magazine, and may charge for the use by persons of the magazine such reasonable sums as it may, from time to time, with the approval of the Local Government, fix.

(3) The amount of all sums charged, and the amount of all expenditure incurred, for the purposes of this section by any municipal committee shall respectively be credited to, and paid from, the municipal fund. [Cf. Act XIII of 1880, s. 23.]

(4) When any land is required by a municipal committee for the purposes of this section, if the municipal committee cannot agree with the owner for the purchase thereof, the Local Government may, on the request of the municipal committee, proceed to acquire it under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870; and, on payment by the municipal committee of the compensation awarded under that Act, the land shall vest in it for the purposes of this section. [Cf. Act XV of 1879, s. 13: Act XV of 1878, s. 39.] X of 1870.

(5) In this section "municipal committee" includes a municipal corporation or a body of municipal commissioners constituted by or under the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force. [Cf. Act XI of 1881, s. 2.]

Provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuzes for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives.

69. (1) A person shall not be required by this Act or the rules under this Act to take out a license or to register any premises for the keeping of percussion-caps, or safety-fuzes for blasting, or fog-signals kept by any railway-administration for use on the railway of that railway-administration, or any prescribed explosive. [38 Vic., c. 17, s. 50.]

(2) It shall not be obligatory on a railway-administration making rules under section twenty-two to make any rules with respect to the conveyance, loading, unloading or keeping of any explosive to which this section applies.

(3) The Governor General in Council may, by notification, exempt any explosive to which this section applies, or any description thereof, from any other of the provisions of this Act or from any of the rules under this Act, or may declare that a license shall be required for the keeping of any explosive to which this section applies, or any description thereof, or that rules shall be made with respect to the loading, unloading, conveyance or keeping thereof.

Exemption of safety-cartridges for private use.

70. Nothing in this Act or in the rules under this Act shall apply to the filling or conveying for private use, and not for sale, of any safety-cartridges to the amount allowed by this Act or those rules to be kept for private use. 38 Vic., c. 17, s. 41.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 100.]

Saving for owner or master of ship, carrier and others in case of emergency.

71. Nothing in this Act or the rules under this Act shall render liable to any penalty or forfeiture the owner or master of any ship or boat, or any carrier or warehouseman, or the person having charge of any carriage, for any act done in breach of this Act or those rules, if he proves that, by reason of stress of weather, inevitable accident or other emergency, the doing of that act was under the circumstances necessary and proper.

[38 Vic., c. 17, s. 102.]

Saving as to liability under other law.

72. Nothing in this Act or the rules under this Act shall—

(b) prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other law for any act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or those rules, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or those rules: provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

[New: Cf. Act VIII of 1878, s. 198: Act XI of 1878, s. 33.]

Notice and limitation of proceedings.

73. No proceeding other than a suit shall be commenced against any person for anything done in pursuance or in alleged pursuance of this Act or of the rules under this Act until at least one month's previous notice in writing of the intended proceeding and of the cause thereof has been given to him, nor after the expiration of three months from the accrual of that cause.

[38 Vic., c. 17 s. 104.]

Extension of definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances.

74. The Governor General in Council may, by notification, declare that any substance which appears to the Governor General in Council to be specially dangerous to life or property, by reason either of its explosive properties, or of any process in the manufacture thereof being liable to explosion, shall be deemed to be an explosive within the meaning of this Act and of the rules under this Act; and the provisions of this Act and of those rules (subject to such exceptions, limitations and restrictions as may be specified in the notification) shall accordingly extend to that substance in like manner as if it were included in the term "explosive" in this Act.

Procedure for making, publication and confirmation of rules.

75. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act other than section fifteen or section twenty-nine, shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Governor General in Council, in such manner as may in his opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and in the case of rules made by any other authority, in the prescribed manner.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) A rule made under this Act by a Local Government or railway-administration shall not take effect until it is confirmed by the Governor General in Council.

(6) Every rule made under this Act by a Local Government and confirmed by the Governor General in Council shall be published in the local official Gazette.

(7) Every rule made under this Act by a railway-administration and confirmed by the Governor General in Council, and every rule made under this Act by the Governor General in Council, shall be published in the Gazette of India.

(8) The publication in the local official Gazette, or, as the case may be, in the Gazette of India, of a rule purporting to be made under this Act, shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made, and, if it requires confirmation, that it has been duly confirmed.

(9) All powers to make rules conferred on any authority by this Act may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Issue and publication of notifications.

76. (1) Save as provided in section four, all powers to issue notifications conferred by this Act on the Governor General in Council or the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

(2) A notification issued by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government under this Act shall not take effect until it has been published in the Gazette of India or the local official Gazette, as the case may be.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The object of this Bill is to provide a comprehensive law regulating the manufacture, keeping, sale, conveyance and importation of explosives throughout British India. The matter was first brought to the notice of the Government in connection with an application made by the agents of Nobel's Explosives Company, Limited, for permission to import dynamite manufactured by the Company. The Government of Bombay, to whom the application was made, referred the question to a Committee, which reported that the expediency of allowing the importation into that Presidency of dynamite and other preparations of nitro-glycerine was doubtful. The Government of Bombay forwarded a copy of this report to the Government of India with a request that the importation of preparations of nitro-glycerine might be prohibited until further notice by a notification under the Sea Customs Act. Before complying with this request the Government of India thought it well to consult the Governments of Madras and Bengal. In reply, both Governments expressed an opinion that the importation of these explosives should not be forbidden. The Government of Bengal further submitted a draft set of rules to regulate the importation, package, transport and storage of dynamite and similar substances, together with a report which had been prepared by a Committee appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to consider the entire subject. This Committee, while recommending that the draft rules should be published as rules under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, suggested the enactment of a comprehensive Imperial Act of a similar nature to the English Explosives Act, 1875 (38 Vic., c. 17), which would in a convenient and compendious Code deal with the subject of explosives in its entirety and furnish the public, as well as Government officials, with an easy means of ascertaining their duties, responsibilities and powers respecting articles which by their inflammable, explosive or dangerous nature imperil the public safety.

2. It appears to the Government of India that it would be an abuse of the powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act, 1878, to make rules of the nature of those submitted by the Bengal Committee under that Act. There are, no doubt, powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act which might, at first sight, seem to authorise the making of such rules; but the object to which such rules are directed is altogether different from that of the Act. The object of the Arms Act was to enable the Government more effectually to prevent arms and ammunition (which term under section 4 includes gun-cotton, dynamite, lithofracteur and other fulminating substances) from getting into the hands of persons who would make a bad use of them. In other words, the main object of that Act was to restrict the possession of arms and ammunition. But the main object of the rules prepared by the Bengal Committee is not restrictive. Their object is to protect the public against the dangerous nature of the explosives to which they relate by regulating all dealings with those explosives. If they are restrictive, it is only so far as is necessary to carry out their protective object. Under these circumstances, it appears to the Government that the proposed rules could not properly be published under the Indian Arms Act, 1878.

3. Nor does it appear that there is any other enactment, as the law at present stands, under which rules of the nature of those prepared by the Bengal Committee can be issued. Under the existing law, the only enactments relating to this subject are to be found in various fragmentary provisions, dealing with gunpowder and fireworks only, which are in force in the Presidency-towns and in certain municipalities and ports. It appears to the Government that it is unsatisfactory that the law should be in this state at a time when dynamite and other compounds of nitro-glycerine are rapidly taking the place of gunpowder in all works where blasting in necessary. Already these explosives have been used to a considerable extent in connection with various works undertaken both by the Government and by private enterprize throughout India; and it is only natural to suppose that, as their superiority to gunpowder becomes more widely known, their use will increase.

4. Under these circumstances, the suggestion of the Committee that an Act drawn on the model of the English Explosives Act, 1875, and dealing comprehensively with the whole subject of explosives, should be added to the Indian Statute-book, recommends itself to the Government of India, as being the only satisfactory method of treating the subject. Accordingly the present Bill has been prepared. It embodies such of the provisions of the English Act as are in the opinion of the Government necessary in this country. In addition to the omission from the Bill of certain provisions of the English Act, the Bill further differs from that Act in that, in accordance with the well-recognized principle of Indian legislation, it confers power on the Local Governments to provide by means of rules, adapted to the varying local circumstances of the provinces under their administration, for many points for which there are specific provisions in the body of the English Act.

5. The Bill is divided into ten chapters.

Chapter I (Preliminary) contains the usual preliminary matter. Section 2 saves from the Act the manufacture, packing, sale, conveyance or importation of explosives by the Government, and section 3 saves the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878. Under section 4, the Act will not come into force until after the publication of a notification by the Governor General in Council; but, in order to prevent the inconvenience which would arise if the Act were brought into force before the notifications, rules, orders and appointments necessary for its efficient working had been made, sub-section (2) gives power to make these at any time after the passing of the Act, though they are not to take effect until the Act comes into force. By section 5 and the schedule are repealed the enactments which at present deal with the subject-matter of the Bill, with the exception of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, and the provisions to be found in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876. The provisions of the former Act relating to explosives have been left unrepealed for the reasons which have led the Government of India to decide that the rules framed by the Bengal Committee cannot be passed under it, namely, because the objects of the Act and of the Bill are different. The provisions of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876, have not been repealed because, considering the peculiar nature of that settlement, it seems inconvenient to interfere with any of the rules which are at present contained in that Regulation. Though the proposed Act will extend to the Andamans, its provisions will be practically a dead-letter in those islands.

6. Chapter II lays down the general law as to the manufacture and keeping of explosives prescribing the places at which an explosive may be manufactured or kept. It is to be read subject to certain exceptions in the Supplemental Chapter (X).

7. Chapter III deals with the licensing and regulation of factories and magazines, and the registration and regulation of registered places, and confers power on the Local Government to make rules on all necessary matters. A factory under the Act is a place licensed for the manufacture of an explosive; a magazine is a place licensed for the keeping of an explosive; and a registered place is a place registered for the keeping of an explosive. Magazines differ from registered places in that the former are places devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives and the receptacles for or tools or implements for work connected with the keeping of explosives, whilst the latter are places, e.g., general stores or shops, not devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives but in which explosives may be kept. Sections 11 and 12 enact certain provisions in favour of the occupiers of magazines and registered places; the former section enabling the occupiers of magazines and registered places to make cartridges without taking out a factory-license, and the latter enabling the occupiers of magazines to adapt or prepare explosives for use in their own mines or quarries without any such license. Section 15 imposes on the occupier of a factory or magazine the duty of making special rules for the regulation of the workmen in his factory or magazine.

8. Chapter IV relates to the sale of explosives. Section 16 prohibits explosives being hawked, sold or exposed for sale on highways or public places; section 17 prohibits the sale of an explosive to a child under 13; and section 18 prescribes the manner in which an explosive exposed for sale or sold is to be packed and labelled.

9. Chapter V treats of matters relating to the conveyance of explosives. Under section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules as to the packing of explosives for conveyance. Under section 20, the Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within a port; and section 21 confers certain powers on the Conservator or other officer named in such rules in the event of their breach. Under section 22, Railway-administrations are directed to make rules for their own railways respectively. Under section 23, the Governor General in Council is empowered to make rules in any case in which rules under section 20 or section 22 do not apply. By section 24 the authority making rules under sections 20, 22 and 23 respectively is empowered to annex to a breach of any rule, or attempt to commit a breach of any rule, a penalty which may consist of a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each breach and to one hundred rupees for each day during which the breach continues, and of forfeiture of all or any part of the explosive in respect of which the breach is committed.

10. Chapter VI regulates the importation of explosives other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks, and any prescribed explosive, and prohibits their importation except under a license. The Governor General in Council is given power (section 26) to regulate all matters connected with the grant of such licenses, and the officers of sea-customs are given similar power (section 27) with regard to these explosives as they have with regard to any article on the importation of which restrictions are for the time being imposed by the law relating to sea customs.

11. Chapter VII confers special powers on the Governor General in Council to regulate or prohibit all dealings with any explosive which in the opinion of the Governor General in Council is specially dangerous to the public safety; and the officers of sea customs are given like powers with regard to any such explosive as they are given under section 27 with regard to the importation of the explosives referred to in section 25.

12. Chapter VIII (Government supervision) first provides for matters relating to inspection. The Local Government is empowered (section 29) to appoint Government Inspectors, and to make rules to assign and regulate their duties. Section 30 defines the general power of these officers as to entry, inspection, and examination of factories, magazines and registered places, and the taking of samples from the occupiers. Section 31 empowers the Government Inspector to require the occupier of any factory or magazine to remedy anything connected with his factory or magazine which is in the opinion of the Inspector unnecessarily dangerous or defective, and provides for a reference to the nearest Magistrate when the occupier objects to comply with the inspector's requisition. Section 32 deals with inspection in ports and of ships, and section 33 provides for the inspection of a wharf, carriage, ship or boat on or in which an explosive is reasonably supposed by a Government Inspector or other officer to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance.

The chapter secondly provides (section 34) for the giving of notice of accidents arising from explosion or fire occurring in or about or in connection with any factory, magazine or registered place, or any carriage, ship or boat either conveying an explosive or on or from which an explosive is being loaded or unloaded, and (section 35) for inquiry into the cause of such accidents when necessary.

Thirdly, the chapter deals with power of search. It empowers (section 36) Government Inspectors and officers authorised by the Local Government to enter and search all places where they have reason to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive, or that any explosive is in contravention of the Act, or that the provisions of the Act are not duly observed. Such searches are to be made in accordance with the Code of Criminal Procedure, and when made by any officer other than a Government Inspector are to be reported by him to his official superior within 48 hours. Section 37 gives special power to Government Inspectors and other officers to stop carriages or boats in case of emergency.

Fourthly, the chapter treats of seizure and detention of explosives. Section 38 authorizes the seizure and detention of any explosive liable to forfeiture, and section 39 gives the Local Government power to make rules to regulate such seizure and detention. Section 40 declares that the proceedings before a Magistrate with regard to any such seizure shall be commenced as soon as possible. Section 41 gives power to seize the receptacle in which the explosive was found, and section 42 to use the ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which the explosive was seized.

Lastly, the chapter (section 43) provides for the payment for samples of explosives taken by Government Inspectors or other officers under the Act.

13. Chapter IX deals with the penalties and legal proceedings.

The penalties for breaches of the provisions of the Act and the rules made under it are restricted to forfeitures and fines, and the only instance in which the Act prescribes imprisonment as a punishment is (section 53) that of resistance to a public officer.

14. With regard to legal proceedings, section 64 provides for the exemption of an occupier of a factory, magazine or registered place, and of a warehouseman, carrier or owner or master of a ship, boat, or carriage from penalty on proof of another being the real offender. Under section 65, a carrier or owner or master of a ship or boat is exempted from penalty when he is prevented from complying with the law by the act or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive or some other person and the consignor or consignee or other person is convicted (as it is provided he may be) under the Act.

Section 66 confers a general power on Magistrates to order forfeiture in all cases in which explosives are liable to be forfeited, and provides that proceedings may be taken for the purpose only of inflicting a forfeiture. The same section empowers the Court to inflict an additional fine in lieu of forfeiture of the explosive; and section 67 provides for levy of a fine imposed on the owner or master of a ship by distress of the ship.

15. Chapter X (Supplemental) provides for several miscellaneous matters. Section 68 empowers Municipal Committees to provide magazines for the use of the public; section 69 enacts certain provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuses for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives. Section 69 exempts railway-administrations from the obligation to make rules with regard to such explosives, and empowers the Governor General in Council to exempt such explosives altogether from the Act. By section 70 the filling and conveying for private use, and not for sale, of safety-cartridges are excepted from the application of the Act. Section 71 exempts the owner or master of a ship and a carrier or warehouseman or any person in charge of a carriage from punishment when an act is done by him in breach of the provisions of the Act in a case of emergency. Section 72 contains the usual provision saving liability to civil suit or prosecution under other laws. Section 73 deals with notice and limitation of proceedings. Section 74 empowers the Governor General in Council to extend the definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances; and sections 75 and 76 treat of general matters connected with the issue and publication of notifications and rules. Under section 75, proposed rules must be published as drafts before they are finally made, and the authority that makes the rules is directed to receive and consider any criticisms or suggestions which may be made by persons interested.

AMENDMENT OF THE EXCISE ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS moved that the Bill to amend the Bengal Excise Act, 1878, be passed.

The HON. AMEER ALI said he proposed to vote among the dissentients on this motion, and he therefore begged His Honor the President's permission to say a few words in explanation of his vote. He had the honour of being a member of the Select Committee on this Bill, but his absence from India prevented him from taking part in the deliberations of that body, or assisting the Committee with any suggestions. But having read the reports of the debates which had taken place in Council, he found that he agreed in the main with the remarks of RAI KRISTODAS PAL and the hon. member opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf). Therefore he did not think it would be right by giving his vote in favour of the passing of the Bill to pledge himself to the taxation of the fresh tari of the palm or date-tree. He merely said this to explain how he was obliged to vote.

The motion was put and carried, and the Bill passed.

EXTENSION OF LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

THE HON'BLE MR. MACAULAY said:—"I have the honour to move for leave to introduce a Bill for the extension of Local Self-Government in these Provinces. As, from various causes which I need not specify, there has been considerable delay in the preparation of the Bill, and as the Council will not again assemble for a fortnight, it will probably be expected that I should at this stage give a general exposition of its provisions. Before I proceed to do so, it may be convenient if I lay before the Council a brief sketch of the circumstances which have attended the initiation and development of this measure. When Lord Mayo's Government determined upon the adoption of a scheme of financial decentralization in 1870, it recognized, as the ultimate outcome of its action, something beyond a mere division of financial control between the Imperial and Local Governments. It declared that the full meaning and integrity of the measure comprehended the development of Self-Government, the strengthening of Municipal institutions, and a larger association of Natives and Europeans in the administration of affairs. It recognized that the practical adoption of these principles could only be gradual, that difficulties would be felt, and that disappointments and partial failures would occur; but it expressed Lord Mayo's generous conviction that, the object in view being the instruction of many peoples and races in a good system of administration, the Local Governments and all their subordinates would enlist the active assistance, or, at all events, the sympathy of many classes who had till then taken little or no part in the work of social and material advancement. This declaration of policy was followed in Bengal by the organization, under Sir George Campbell, of District Committees for the administration of the road cess, of District School Committees for the control of education, and of a system of Benches on which Honorary Magistrates were associated with the stipendiary officers. Subsequently, the laws relating to Municipalities were amended and enlarged under Sir Richard Temple's Government, and an elective constitution was introduced into Calcutta, and, later on, into three Municipalities in the interior. In 1877 a further step was taken in financial decentralization, and the Local Governments were allowed a share in the development of important branches of the revenue, as they had been allowed in 1870 an interest in the control of expenditure. I need not detain the Council by enlarging upon the eminent success of this further measure of decentralization in the hands of Sir Ashley Eden. Nor need I enter into a detailed explanation of the causes which have operated to dwarf the effect of the elective provisions contained in Sir Richard Temple's General Municipal Bill. It will be sufficient for me to say that a provision which was intended simply as a check on the indiscriminate extension of the elective system to places to which it might be unsuited has operated practically to exclude from that system all the large and advanced Municipalities to which it was intended to apply. This and other defects will be fully remedied in the Bill which has been introduced by my Hon'ble friend Mr. Reynolds. Experience has amply justified Lord Mayo's anticipations. Difficulties have been encountered; disappointments and failures have occurred. That decentralization would prove fiscally successful in the hands of such a man as Sir Ashley Eden, with broad and liberal views of financial administration, with keen insight and great power of forecast, was naturally to be expected. But from a variety of causes, arising from the constitution of the local bodies, the degree of power and responsibility entrusted to them, the extent of the funds to be administered, and other conditions which need not be detailed, there can be no doubt that the advance made in the development of Self-Government has been comparatively small. It was reserved to the present Government of India to grasp the opportunity of the expiry of the provincial contracts of 1877 to reaffirm the principles laid down by Lord Mayo, to determine upon a further practical development of his intentions, and to appeal to the Provincial Governments to revise the system of control so as to loosen the trammels which have hitherto hindered the administrative education, and marred the utility, of the Local Bodies. And that appeal will not be in vain. The twelve years that have elapsed since Lord Mayo's Resolution was issued, if they have witnessed no large strides in Self-Government itself, have seen a great increase in the material prosperity of Bengal, and a great advance in the development of wealth, the opening of communications, and the dissemination of knowledge. The material is undoubtedly ready for the undertaking. Nor will this Government or its officers be found wanting. Sir Ashley Eden, in laying the original scheme before the Commissioners of Division, directed me to declare to them that it must be accepted as the settled policy of Government to develope among the local bodies a genuine and intelligent interest in the management of local affairs, and he appealed to all the officers of his Government for loyal co-operation in giving to this policy the fullest effect compatible with the interests of the province. In pursuance of these principles, he afterwards took the earliest opportunity of relieving Municipalities in the interior of the charges for Police, and thus made available a large sum for expenditure on local improvements. You, sir, have determined that Local Self-Government shall have free scope and liberal countenance in Bengal. You have decided to place that policy upon a thoroughly sound basis resting upon a wise recognition of the importance of the movement, and utilizing the many forces that are available for the attainment of the great end before us. As the Council will observe from the scheme which I am about to lay before it, the policy will receive at your hands no hesitating encouragement, no half-hearted support. And your efforts will be seconded by the District Officers of Bengal. It has been a familiar cry among a certain class of writers during the past few months that the Commissioners and District Officers must resist the policy of Local Self-Government as tending to diminish their power and lower their prestige. The members of the Civil Service have been depicted as enemies of liberty and progress, greedy graspers at petty power, selfish and narrow-minded opponents of all that is generous and liberal in policy. Sir, the Civil Servants of Bengal need no apologist in me. Their works are too well known, their solicitude for the good of the people among whom they pass their lives too deep and true, to require that they should be defended at my hands. Differences of opinion on questions of policy must always be expected; and it would be strange indeed if such differences were not elicited in the discussion of such a question as this. But the great majority of the officers of this Administration have distinctly announced their hearty concurrence in the policy of this measure, and have recognized that, far from lowering their prestige or diminishing their power, it will, if properly initiated and developed, place that prestige upon a higher footing, and open that power to broader and nobler aims. The papers which I shall have the honour of laying before the Council will leave no doubt that your officers will co-operate heartily in the advancement of this great measure, as they have always co-operated in any measure that promises to contribute to the enlightenment and welfare of their fellow-subjects.

The three main points to be considered in framing a scheme of Local Self-Government are the constitution of the local bodies, the control to be exercised over them, and the work to be entrusted to them. A guiding principle to be observed in the consideration of the first point is obviously the utilization to the utmost of existing and well-established institutions,—the construction of our edifice as far as possible with existing materials. The District Committees cannot be said to be well-established. As a rule they have been failures, and as an agency for the management of local affairs by the people themselves, they can never be very efficient. Our districts are so large that, if the District Committee meets at short intervals, it can only be occasionally attended by members who do not reside at or in the immediate vicinity of the head-quarters station, while, if it meets at long intervals, it loses its character of a working body. In either case the work will either be neglected altogether, or be carried on by members who can as a rule have little knowledge of the wants of the outlying tracts. It has therefore been determined that the area under a Local Board, to be called the Local Government Circle, though if members are available, it may be smaller, should not as a rule be larger, than the area of a sub-division. These Local Boards will be practically new bodies, but we cannot go lower for our Chief Board if we wish to utilize the intelligence of the educated inhabitants and to give them duties and responsibilities sufficiently important and sufficiently large to engage their attention and enlist their sympathies. Nor can we go higher, by creating District Boards, without impairing the importance and utility of these Local Boards, through which we hope that the measure will take root in the country, and in the working and direction of which we hope to utilize and develope the enthusiasm and energies of its best intelligence. We can, however, provide them with useful auxiliaries among the people. We can frame for them a sound basis and an executive agency out of the material of village Committees to which the people have already become to some extent accustomed. In the conjunction of these two bodies, the Local Board administering the Local Government Circle, and the Union Committee administering a Union of villages, we hope to combine and make mutually supporting two great elements of success which we undoubtedly have at hand. The first of these is the political enthusiasm of the educated classes. This has been exaggerated by some: it has certainly been unduly depreciated by others. That such enthusiasm exists, and exists in a genuine and active form, must be plain to any one who has watched the proceedings of the past few months, and who has conversed with educated men from the interior. Among the great mass of the rural population, on the other hand, there is no enthusiasm whatever on the subject of Local Self-Government as a general question. The Bengali villager takes a keen interest in the affairs of his own village and its immediate neighbourhood, but he knows and cares nothing about politics or representation, and he has no idea of giving his time to the management of the affairs of other people. But, if he has no political enthusiasm, he can be made to serve the enthusiasm of others, while looking only to that which interests himself. He will readily contribute to the formation of an efficient village executive, as officers who have sought to utilize his services on village works have always found. He it is who really possesses local knowledge and local interest within his own narrow sphere. The educated man whom we hope to see upon the Local Board will have need of such an executive agency. He is willing to give up his time to the direction of local affairs; but it is impossible that he could be acquainted with the wants of more than a small section of the area to be administered by the Board on which he sits. He will be the administrative head, but he will require executive hands. In representative Committees of the villagers, we shall have the material for a great part of that executive power in which the Local Boards will at first be to some extent deficient. What we require to establish is a touch between the educated member of the Local Board with political enthusiasm, but without much local knowledge or interest, and the member of the village Union Committee with local knowledge and interest, but without political enthusiasm. That touch can, I think, be established. At first the members of the Union Committee will not look beyond their Unions. But they will form a corps d'elite, and as such will provide the constituency to elect the members of the Local Board to represent the tract to which their Unions belong. As the intelligent Union Committee man gradually sees the advantages of a seat on the Local Board, as his field of interest becomes gradually extended and he begins to realize a desire for larger duties and responsibilities with larger power, he will seek election to the Local Board, while the Local Board will gradually gain by such accessions the practical knowledge which it may lack at first.

It seems to me of the first importance that the Union Committee should be made thoroughly representative and be fostered and utilized to the fullest extent. If the members are chosen by the people themselves, and sufficiently large interests and responsibilities are entrusted to them, the Committee will bring home to every villager the fact that he has a voice in the management of affairs which concern him, and if the best men can be induced to serve upon it an ever stronger and stronger link will be established between the people and the distant Local Board, which at first they will barely comprehend. It is not intended that the Union Committees should be formed by a coalition of chowkidari punchayets. Whether they can hereafter be entrusted with any control over the village police is a question which need not now be discussed. The subject is under enquiry by a Special Commission and Government must reserve its decision in the matter. I may only say that the expression "Union," which is to be eliminated from the Municipal Act, should also be eliminated from the Chowkidari Act where it is used to represent a smaller area than that which is proposed as the lowest Self-government unit. It is proposed to take as that unit the area that would ordinarily be served by a pound. This may be a large village or a group of villages. Its radius would ordinarily be about two miles. The strength of each Committee would be 5, 7 or 9 as might be determined in the order constituting each. The duties of Union Committees will be referred to presently when I am dealing with the question of the work to be entrusted to the Local Bodies, but I may say here that the policy will be to give them an improvable revenue to devote to Union purposes, and that they will be entrusted with the management of the local pound and the expenditure of its revenue. These Union Committees should be elected by the villagers themselves, not by formal methods, but by such simple processes as may be familiar to them. It will be advisable to provide for the necessary elasticity by leaving the details of the method of election in different places to be settled by rules under the Act. In exceptional cases, where factions run high and there would be a danger of one section of the community being oppressed by another, it would be necessary to nominate some or all of the members. But these instances would be of rare occurrence, and in the great majority of the cases the Union Committee should be elected by the people of the Union. It is proposed to fix the franchise so as to exclude only the most ignorant classes who have no stake in the Union and no interest in its improvement. I am convinced that in this organization we shall have the foundation of a great and successful system of Local Self-government If the Union Committee is entrusted with real powers and responsibilities it will become an object of interest to the villagers, its proceedings will be watched and criticised, and the power of control which each voter possesses will gradually be understood. We shall in fact give to the people Local Self-government in the form in which they will be able to appreciate it, in the management of their own pound, their own schools and their own roads. At the same time we shall be making them contribute unconsciously, and in the pursuit of a different object, to a broader system of Local Self-government which individually they would be unable to understand.

This brings me to the question of the constitution of the Local Boards. It is proposed that, as a rule, each thanna should be represented by two elected members. The chief portion of the elective body would be the Committees of the Unions in the thanna. Apart from the question of an educational franchise, to which I will presently allude, the right of voting for the election of members of the Local Boards should be restricted to the Union Committees,—to the men, that is, who have been chosen by the villagers themselves to manage their affairs. If we attempt scrutin de liste, if we ask the cultivators at large to vote for the members for a thanna instead of concentrating their attention on their own villages, we shall be courting failure. I venture to think that such opposition as is ordinarily offered to the extension of the elective system in Bengal proceeds upon a totally incorrect assumption. We are told that the people will abuse their powers and will return a set of irresponsible demagogues who will neglect the work and discredit the system and will ultimately have to be set aside by Government. In my humble opinion,—an opinion which rests upon the evidence of facts and upon the views of some of the most experienced officers of the province,—the danger is, not that election would be abused, but that it would not be used. We have to guard, not against a revolution, but against a collapse; not against an unhealthy exuberance in the plant we seek to rear, but against its death from inanition. A perfect system of election has a double value. It acts at once as a stimulus and as a check on the elected ; it enlarges the interest and promotes the self-reliance of the elector. Under such a system the elected member has a sense both of independence and of responsibility to which the nominated member is a stranger. He knows that he has little to fear if he does his duty, and he will seek to discharge his trust efficiently under penalty of having it withdrawn from him. But unless the electors take an interest in the elections, the members might as well be selected by nomination, by lot, by the day of the week on which they were born, or by any other haphazard process. If the electors do not feel that by their votes they indirectly affirm their interest in the management of affairs through the representatives of their choice, they might as well abstain from voting, and they will have no more share in Self-government, as represented by the proceedings of the elected body, than they have in the motion of the planets. If they have such an interest, election is the only means by which they can give it effect. Now the villagers have a keen interest in all work that affects their village and its surroundings, and they may therefore be trusted to use their knowledge and interest in electing the Committee to do that work. But we must always keep in mind the important condition to which I have already adverted—that the people at large are devoid of enthusiasm in the matter of Local Self-government as a general question—and recognize that it would be idle to expect them to vote for the election of a Board to control a whole sub-division. If we are to have election we must have election, as regards the larger areas, by a select body only. It has been proposed that this body should be formed by the Magistrate of the District by his own nomination. I should like to ask any district officer in Bengal if he could nominate 150 or 200 men in each of his sub-divisions, who in his opinion would be the best representatives of the people. His reply would be that the great proportion of his nominees would be the nominees of the police, and that he could not guarantee that they would be even approximately the best men. The system which the Bill proposes, however, will give us a representative body chosen for their own ends by the people themselves. In the Union Committee, we shall have a compact body of the most intelligent men, who will gradually acquire and transmit a feeling of interest in the constitution of the larger body. I do not overlook the probability that by reserving the ordinary franchise to the Union Committees, we may exclude men in the larger villages who, though intelligent, have no seat on the Union Committee. They may be much wealthier and much more intelligent than others who, because they belong to the Committee of a smaller Union, are entitled to vote. It would be impossible, however, so to frame the rules as to admit them without extending the franchise to very many others who would make no attempt to employ it. Moreover it should be our policy to strengthen the Union Committees, and through them the Local Board, by making it an object with the most intelligent villagers to join them. If the Union is very populous and advanced, the villagers can apply to have it erected into a Municipality. Besides the Union Committees, it is proposed to give the right of voting for the election of members for the thanna to all persons residing within the Local Government circle or any Municipality contiguous to it, who are holders of University degrees or diplomas, who are pleaders or mookhtears, or who hold salaries of not less than Rs. 50 a month, and who are themselves entitled to vote for the election of the Committee of any Union in the thanna, or belong to a joint undivided family of which one of the members is so entitled. It appears to me that the recognition of an educational qualification with some guarantee of local interest is very important. It must be realized that, though the Union Committees will do good work and will interest the people in Local Self-Government so far as their own villages are concerned, the success of the measure in its broader aspects will rest with the educated classes. It will be an important advantage to bring together the two elements—the educated man and the working Union Committee man—in the exercise of the franchise. Those who oppose an educational qualification as such appear to me to look only at one side of the question. It is no doubt very important that we should guard against handing over the administration of local affairs to a number of needy adventurers who can talk, but who will not work; and if there were any danger of this, a heavy responsibility would rest with those who advocated such a scheme. But there is too much of a tendency to object to education on general grounds as if its very possession were a danger, and it could not be combined with local interest,—to look upon it in fact as a positive disqualification, when in reality we can look for no real success without it. Local interest should certainly be an indispensable qualification. A pleader, we will say, from Dacca residing in the Municipality of Burdwan could have no claim to vote for members, or himself be a member, of a Local Board in the district. He has an interest in the Municipality as a rate-payer, and is entitled to a voice in its management, but he has no concern outside it. But I would ask on what ground it could be said that a pleader at the head-quarters of a sub-division or district, whose father or brother held land in a thanna in the Local Government circle, should be disqualified for voting for the election of the members for the thanna, or for being himself a member? I would even ask what more fitting representative the thanna could have? With the safeguard of a certain amount of local interest, the concurrence of the educated classes will be essential to the success of the measure as a whole. We shall use their political enthusiasm to leaven the mass of comparative indifference and ignorance with which we shall have to deal.

Now as regards the qualifications of candidates. Every person qualified to vote for the election of members should himself be qualified for candidature. And in order not to exclude small zemindars and men of substance, who, though they might not wish to serve on Union Committees, would be quite willing to stand for election to the Local Board, it is proposed to add a separate qualification of the payment in the district of, say, Rs. 100 Road and Public Works Cess or of Rs. 50 license-tax or proof of income from any source amounting to Rs. 2,000 per annum. I am now merely giving a sketch of the measure, and it will of course be understood that all details will be fully considered in Select Committee. No one should be qualified for election who does not reside within the limits of the Local Government circle or within a Municipality contiguous to it.

It is proposed that Government should have power to nominate one-third of the members of the Local Board. It is unnecessary for me to point out to the Council the necessity for this provision. It corresponds with the English practice of making Justices of the Peace, who are of course nominated ex-officio guardians of Unions. At any rate it will be essential to make such a provision at the outset of our measure. If this power is not reserved, important classes may be left unrepresented, and the Boards may be deprived of the services of men of wealth and intelligence, Native and European, who are unwilling to undergo the ordeal of an election, and of men of businesslike habits and executive experience, whose absence may be fatal to their successful working. At the same time it might be provided that there should be no ex-officio members, and that not more than one-fourth of the total number of members should be nominated by Government from among its own servants. Thus if a Local Government circle consisted of four thannas, there would ordinarily be twelve members of whom Government would nominate four, of whom again not more than three would be Government servants. This number would of course be exclusive of any Government servants chosen by the electors.

The remarks which I have made on the subject of election apply only to thannas in which it is possible to introduce the system of Unions to a considerable extent. If one-half of the area of a thanna is under Union Committees, there will be a sufficiently large elective body. Where this is not the case the members for the thanna must all be nominated. If we cannot get men fit to manage Unions, we cannot get men fit to elect members of Local Boards.

It is proposed that every Local Board should be allowed to elect its own Chairman and Vice-Chairman, subject to the approval of Government. Every person so elected would, upon the confirmation of his election, become a member of the Board. It is hoped that the Boards will in as many cases as possible elect one of their own body, and it will be the policy of Government to encourage them to the utmost to do so; but it is considered unreasonable to debar them from electing an official who may not have been nominated to the Board by Government, if they feel, as many may feel at the outset, that the affairs of the Board cannot be satisfactorily conducted without the aid of his experience and knowledge. It is hoped that such instances will gradually become less and less numerous. Efforts will be made to guard, so far as existing circumstances will permit, against the dearth of competent non-officials. If there are no competent men in the circle it can be enlarged. The scheme will be perfectly elastic in this respect. If a sub-division is very backward it can be linked on to one more advanced, and the two will then constitute one Local Government circle, with its head-quarters at such place as Government may direct. It will be the desire of Government that non-official Chairmen should be elected wherever this is possible, and I think most District and Sub-Divisional Officers recognise that, if they have an intelligent Board to deal with, they will have a much stronger and more dignified position if they have no place at all upon it Some persons argue that the Magistrate will lose his power and prestige if he is not the Chairman of every Board in his jurisdiction. I am not speaking now of the control that must be maintained for the protection of the public interests and the maintenance of efficiency. I am speaking of the individual power and prestige of the Magistrate himself. In one sense, no doubt, it is quite true that he would have more power and prestige if we made him Chairman of every Board. It is true in the sense that the King of Dahomey has more power and prestige in Dahomey than the Prime Minister of England has in the British Dominions. But it is not true in the sense that the man who by his counsel and advice and the force of his character and the influence that is begotten of confidence and respect, guides thinking men forward in the path of progress and exacts from them, not unreasoning assent, but intelligent and willing concurrence and co-operation, has more real power and prestige than the individual who has only to express his will that it may be blindly obeyed. Notwithstanding the terrible revelations with which we have recently been favoured regarding the sanity of the members of the Indian Civil Service, I venture to think that we may flatter ourselves that they still retain a sufficient glimmering of reason to enable them to choose between the Prime Minister of England and the King of Dahomey.

I now come to the second point,—the control to be exercised over the local bodies. This control has two objects, a direct one and an indirect one. The first is the protection of the public interests by the efficient performance of the duties entrusted to the bodies. The second is the maintenance of a standard of administrative education. The first object requires no further notice. It is sufficiently obvious. The second simply means that Local Self-government can only be successful if the people both do the work and do it well. We must ensure that there be no collapse and no serious loss of efficiency in the Administration. If this is allowed to occur the public will suffer, the officers of Government will not be relieved of the work that they have now to do, and the local bodies will not learn to take the position which we desire to assign to them. Efficient control must therefore be maintained. I have already in my remarks on the internal direction of the Boards somewhat anticipated this part of the subject, and argued that control should not be maintained from within. I venture to differ from an opinion which I have this morning seen expressed in a London newspaper, that if Government ceases to govern entirely through its own agents and governs partly through parish vestries and Local Boards it will take an irrevocable step towards an anarchy which will utterly destroy the fabric of the British Empire in India. I think we need not be seriously disturbed by the cloud-giant conjured up by this temperate and well-informed writer. I venture to hope that British rule may still be maintained, even though the roads, schools and dispensaries of our sub divisions are managed by non-official agency, and that the members of our Local Boards will not insist on turning us out of the country. Internal control of the Local Boards, therefore, not being indispensable for the preservation of the Empire, the question is what form of external control will be most suitable. That form will be best which will secure the three results to which we look forward—the political education of the people, the relief of the regular Administration by the enlistment of gratuitous agency, and the maintenance of efficiency. In other provinces it is proposed to employ partly local and partly divisional control. It has been held that this system would not be suitable to Bengal. There can be no question that it would fully secure the third object—the maintenance of efficiency,—but it is considered that it would militate against the first and second objects, the political education of the people and the relief of the regular Administration. The influence of the Magistrate and the Commissioner would undoubtedly be exercised for the promotion of efficiency, but it is felt that it would involve too much of that primary interference in detail which is so likely to discourage and repel non-official agency, while the duty of supervision and control to be performed by the Magistrate, the Commissioner and the Government would be so heavy that there would be a large increase rather than a decrease in the work they have now to do. This duty, it is to be observed, will be more and more onerous as the scheme receives its full development. It is very probable that in other provinces, the third and essential object could not otherwise be secured, and that large powers of local interference must be reserved: in such places, however, progress will not be rapid, and the many great questions of superior control which must accompany the operation of the Bengal scheme will not arise. In Bengal it is felt that efficiency of administration can be secured under a more liberal scheme; it is felt that we can afford to look less to control as a safeguard against failure than to reasonable liberty, tempered by control, as an instrument of education. It will of course be necessary that the Magistrate should have the power (though he will probably never have to use it) of suspending the action of the Board when, for reasons to be recorded, he believes it to be imminently dangerous to the public health or the public peace, and, in order that he may be kept fully acquainted with their action, that he should be furnished with copies of their proceedings and permitted access to their works. But all power of interference beyond this and all control over the initiative action of the Boards, it is proposed to vest in a Central Board, which will deal, not only with all the Local Boards, but also with all the Municipalities, in the Province. That Board will consist of a Chairman and two members, the former a specially selected officer of Government, the latter non-official native gentlemen of education and influence. The functions of the Central Board will be similar to those exercised by the Local Government Board of England. It will have full power to compel Local Boards and Municipalities to perform duties they may be found to have neglected and to suspend work which may be found to be wasteful or mischievous. It will deal with their estimates, sanction their bye-laws and rules of procedure, supervise elections, and in fact perform all the functions of Government which may be extended to it. Those functions will chiefly relate to guidance and the control and supervision of details. Government must of course retain the direction of general policy, and there will be many questions of which it alone can be the arbiter. It is not overlooked that this will really be a new department for the control of Local Bodies generally, and that in some respects there will only be a shifting of labour and expense from one set of shoulders to another. But it must be recognized that if the extension of Local Self-government is ultimately to relieve our officers of much work that they now have to do, or would hereafter have to do, it can only be by the creation of a special department to deal with the questions involved. I think it may fairly be claimed that the system will secure all three of the objects already alluded to. It will give reasonable liberty to the Local Bodies, it will relieve the regular Administration of much present and more prospective work, and it will secure that the management of local affairs is efficiently conducted. The Board will be in close and constant correspondence with the local officers, who will be able to represent to it their views and give it the benefit of their advice and their local experience. With the Local Bodies it will correspond direct. It will have inspectors for special purposes, and its members will themselves make tours of inspection. It will be able to secure such uniformity as may be desirable, to apply experience gained in one part of the country for the benefit of another, and to gather up and utilize various agencies which are now imperfectly employed. In regard to Sanitation and the allied questions, it is expected that the Central Board will be able to secure improvements which have hitherto been found unattainable.

As I have detained the Council so long with an exposition of what is proposed in regard to the constitution and control of Local Bodies, I shall merely indicate generally the departments to be entrusted to them, leaving most of the details under this head to be explained hereafter. There is not much to add to the list given in the letter from the Government of Bengal to the Government of India, dated 8th April last, which has already been published. The policy will be to give Local Bodies the construction and maintenance of roads (District and Provincial), and of such buildings as they may be willing to deal with through their subordinate engineering staff under the general control of the Government District Engineer, the management of all hospitals and dispensaries and the administration generally of medical relief, the management of zillah schools through Joint-Committees formed partly of representatives of the Municipalities in which the schools may be situated, the control of middle schools, and of primary schools,—of all educational institutions, in fact, except colleges, attached collegiate schools, normal schools, with attached model schools, medical schools, surveying schools, madrassahs and schools for Europeans and Eurasians,—the management of all camping grounds and staging bungalows, the control of Ferries, of Pounds, of Sanitation, of Vital Statistics, of Vaccination, where the licensed agency is employed, of Drainage schemes in certain cases under Act VI of 1880, of the administration of relief in times of scarcity (special grants being made in exceptional cases), and various miscellaneous duties which I need not now specify. It is not proposed to make the collection of the License Tax any part of the duty of Local Bodies. It would be no gain to them to be made responsible for the collection if they had no share in the outturn, and the fact that a large portion of the tax is levied in Municipalities renders it impossible to make any such arrangement.

The Union Committee will, as I have already said, be entrusted with the management and the expenditure of the income of the Union Pound. They will, under the control of the Local Board, manage the primary schools of the Union, and they will, as a rule, form the Managing Committee of any aided or middle vernacular school in the Union. They will appoint and pay the gurus of the patshalas, and they will be the medium for the transmission to them of rewards granted by the Local Boards. They will have the management of all village roads, and, separately or as members of Joint Committees appointed by the Local Board, of such lengths of district or provincial roads as may be entrusted to them by the Local Board. They will be responsible for the accurate registration of vital statistics and for the execution of small measures of sanitation, drainage and water-supply affecting the Union. In regard to these works they will act under the general control of the Local Board and will be bound to carry out its orders, subject to the right of appealing to the Central Board. Powers will be given to them to compel private persons to take such action with their tanks, land and other property as the Union Committee, of its own motion or by order of the Local Board, may direct.

The Local Board will deal, subject to the direction of the Central Board, with the control, directly or through the Union Committees, of the various branches of the Administration which I have just enumerated. Where the regular staff of Government vaccinators has given place to licensed vaccinators, the Local Board will be entrusted with the management of this branch, in regard to which their general and social influence will be specially useful. The Inspector of Vaccination will also be their Sanitary Inspector. It is proposed that Government should maintain a District Engineer at the head-quarters of each district who would be the Inspector of all Local Works within its limits. He would be the Consulting Engineer of all Local Boards who could not afford to employ Engineers, or "Surveyors," of their own, with the necessary qualifications, that is, he would prepare all projects for roads and bridges which might be beyond the powers of the Surveyor. He would generally supervise the works of all Boards and give them the benefit of his advice. He would also prepare all designs for public buildings and the like and estimates for their repairs, and, where the system was complete, would make them over, when sanctioned, to the Local Board, which would execute them through its Surveyor and his establishment, and thus, as it were, act as contractor to Government, securing the ordinary allowance on account of establishment for the maintenance of its staff.

The funds of the Local Board will consist, first of the proceeds of the Road Cess levied in the circle unless the Central Board should direct that, in consequence of the general importance of any work in any other circle, a portion should be contributed to its funds. The Union Committees will be entitled to the income from their pounds: where there is no Union the income will of course go direct to the Local Board. Even in Unions, however, the Local Board will be able to participate in the increase of income which will undoubtedly take place by reducing their grants to the Union for roads and schools. It will be the desire of Government to make over the existing pound revenue, with no corresponding deduction, or with as little deduction as possible, from the general grants to be made to the Boards, as the position of the finances may allow. In no case will Government seek to participate in the development of this revenue, and that it will very largely develope under the management of the villagers themselves no officer of mofussil experience will deny. Figures which have been kindly supplied to me by my friend, the Honorable Mr. Thomas of the Madras Civil Service, show that in Madras the pound system has been largely developed with the most satisfactory fiscal results. The large revenue to be gained by careful management of this branch will be at the disposal of the Local Bodies for local improvements. Ferries will be transferred to the Local Boards, and they will enjoy all the increase of revenue that may be derived from them. The general services to be made over to the Local Boards will be covered by fixed grants representing existing, or recent average, expenditure, and these will not be revised except in the event of any change in the method of administration. It may even be hoped that Government will be able to pursue the policy which Sir Ashley Eden was able to adopt, of making annual additions to the grant for primary education So long as the service is performed the fixed grant will remain, with the proviso that funds are not diverted from one object, such as primary education, to another, without express sanction or in accordance with such rules as may be laid down.

Such is an outline of the scheme which it is my privilege to lay before this Council. That scheme is animated by no niggardly spirit of restriction; it is influenced by no repugnance to the admission of the non-official classes to a share in the administration. It is based upon the principle that the first duty of a Government, and the surest safeguard of its prosperity, is the progress and enlightenment of its people. Its object is not to sever, but to bring into closer and more cordial relations, the official and non-official classes, and to cause them to work together, with mutual confidence and respect, for the welfare of this great Empire. But the Legislature can only provide the instrument and the machinery: they must be worked by other hands. Whether this measure is to succeed and to form the stable basis of larger liberties, or is to be discredited and to lapse into the old system under another name, will depend upon the moderation, the energy and the public spirit of those for whose advancement it is devised. A weighty responsibility will now rest upon the educated men of Bengal. They are the natural leaders of their countrymen, and if they will recognize that the foundation of all progress is work, and by the exercise of industry and prudence secure to themselves, and impart to those below them, a sound administrative training, then this measure, limited though it be, may lead to great results. If they overlook these principles, and seek to attain the end without practising the means, if they neglect the trust that devolves upon them, and aim directly at political objects instead of laying the foundation of progress by the efficient administration of local affairs, then will the liberal policy of Government be defeated. I for one am sanguine that they will not be wanting in their duty to themselves and their countrymen, but that by the use they make of this measure, they will show that they are worthy of the opportunity afforded them, and that they are capable of teaching the peoples of India to work soberly and patiently towards the gradual development of the great destiny that awaits them."

His Honor the President said that he had intended at one time to have taken this opportunity, though it was only the preliminary stage of asking for leave to introduce the Bill, to say a few words of his own on this large question of the extension of Local Self-government in these provinces, because it had been for the last six months one which had been very closely brought under his consideration in official reports and in numerous communications which he had received from non-official gentlemen on the question, and the very varied criticisms which it had received from the public press. But he thought, as the speech of the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill had placed before the Council in a very full and lucid way the general outlines of the scheme which the Government contemplated in respect of this measure, that he would reserve any remarks which he might wish to offer till the next occasion when the Bill framed on the basis of the Hon. Member's speech had been laid before them. It had been resolved that all the official papers shewing the communications which had passed between Commissioners, Collectors, and the Government should be published and made available for the use of the Council and of all others who might desire to refer to them. It would there be seen that a great variety of views and opinions had been recorded upon the subject, and much information and instruction on the details of the question would be in the hands of Hon. Members.

The Council would adjourn after this meeting for a fortnight, and he hoped that in the interval the draft of the Bill would be got ready for submission to the Council. His Honor's present object in making these few remarks was to express the hope that, upon a consideration of the statement contained in the speech of the Hon. Mover, Hon'ble Members would be prepared, on the presentation of the Bill, to state their views as to the general principles which the Government advocated in the introduction of a measure of immense importance to the country.

The motion was put and agreed to.

REGULATION OF THE CONTROL OF COOLIES IN HILL MUNICIPALITIES.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay introduced the Bill for the general control of coolies in Hill Municipalities, and moved that the Bill be read in Council. He said that he did not think it necessary to detain the Council at any great length in the exposition of this measure. It would be better perhaps that that should be done after the Bill had passed through Select Committee. He would only point out that the essential principle of the Bill was that a distinction should be made between ordinary servants and persons who lent themselves out on hire for short periods For the latter the provisions of the Bill would be very much the same as those for the regulation of hackney carriages and palankeens; that was to say, if they were guilty of misconduct or wrongfully prevented other coolies from accepting employment, or if they deserted from their hiring before being discharged, or demanded more than the proper rate for their hire, or were drunk during employment, or made use of insulting or abusive language during their engagement, and so forth, they would be liable to various penalties; and they would be required to wear a badge and take out special licenses. With regard to servants engaged for periods of more than twenty-four hours, as regular servants, it was very undesirable to interfere more than was necessary between master and servant. The only important provision regarding these servants was that they would have to take out licenses from the Municipality, and that in case of misconduct their licenses would be withdrawn. They would be liable to no other penalty under the law.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon. Mr. Reynolds, the Hon. Mr. Allen, Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor, the Hon. Bhudeb Mookerjee, and the Mover, with instructions to report thereon in three weeks.

The Hon. Mahomed Yusuf said that before this Bill was referred to the Select Committee he had one or two observations to make with reference to some portions of the Bill, the principle of which had his full support and co-operation. There were four points which must principally be kept in view in the consideration of the Bill in its present stage. The first was with reference to the class of persons on whom the Bill would operate and the places at which it would operate; the second consisted of the rules and bye-laws which were to govern those persons; the third related to the rates of remuneration which those persons were to receive; and the fourth was regarding the punishments to be provided for breach of the rules. On these four points he had to make some observations. With reference to the first point, viz. the class of persons on whom the Bill would operate, he had doubts whether the Bill contained the necessary provisions; the class had not at all been clearly defined in the Bill. At present that class of persons was unknown, and it was to be left to the Executive Government to define who they were. The Select Committee would of course consider whether it was necessary that this matter should stand as it was, or whether it required any amendment.

With reference to the second point, although no doubt there was the presumption of law that everybody was supposed to know the law, still that presumption was so weak amongst the persons on whom the Bill would operate, that he submitted that the greatest possible publicity should be given to the Bill, and no pains should be spared to make its provisions known to those whom it would affect. And in making this observation he was aware of the provisions of section 5, which provided for a public proclamation to make the provisions of the Bill intelligible to the coolies concerned. But it would be a question whether or not in addition to this the coolies should not have provided for them rules and bye laws written in the vernacular, setting out what their duties were, so that they might inform themselves of their duties by having the same read to them by any of their brethren or by anybody else, and have no excuse left to them.

With reference to the third point, the rates to be paid, he ventured to think that the provisions of the Bill were far from satisfactory: the rates had been left to be settled by the Municipal Commissioners, and the license was to be for one year. He thought, however, in calculating the rates that some certainty must be introduced, and they should be regulated according to the rise and fall in the prices in the market, and for this purpose it would be a point for consideration whether the rates should not be revised every month, or in some other mode as might be thought proper.

With reference to the fourth point, the amount of punishment, he made his observation with some degree of diffidence. He did not understand that he represented any class of persons in that Council, but he was at liberty to express his views, and those views were these:—The punishment which was prescribed in this Bill was by way of fine, and those fines, which were by no means slight, considering the position of the offenders, were often met with in connection with the provisions of the Bill. Of course he did not here contend for the traditionary mode of punishment, which was thirty abuses and twenty shoes; but it would have to be borne in mind whether or not in fixing the amount of fine the result would be to fix an amount which would not have the effect of visiting on the wives and children of the offenders the consequences of the breach of the law and to make the coolies incur debts which might not make them hesitate at adopting any means to discharge the same. These points of course would be considered in Select Committee when it would be seen what form the Bill would take. But he had thought it his duty to make the observations at the present stage in order that they might be considered by the Select Committee for what they were worth.

The Hon. Mr. Dampier said that, before this Bill was referred to a Select Committee, he wished to draw attention to the definitions. They gave very broad powers to the Executive Government. A Hill Municipality might mean practically any municipality in Bengal which the Lieutenant-Governor chose to say was a Hill Municipality. Then who were the coolies to whom the provisions of the Bill might be extended?—"any person included within "the classes of persons specified in an order published by the Local Govern-"ment under section 4." That was to say, putting an extreme case, that it was left to the Executive Government to declare that any person working for hire within any municipality in Bengal might be brought under the Act.

The Hon. the Advocate-General said that he agreed with his hon. friend to the right (Mr. Dampier) that there should be a definition in the Bill which should not be left in such doubt and uncertainty as the term "holding" was left in another Act, in which a holding was defined as anything which the Magistrate chose to declare a holding. Another point was that the rates of hire should be fixed by the Act. He thought that the persons upon whom the Act was to operate should have a right to be heard—a right to represent to the Council or to the Lieutenant-Governor by memorial their views on the subject.

But if the power to fix the rates was left to executive authority, those whom the rates would affect would be subject to their operation without having had the right to urge their objections (if any) to their sufficiency or propriety.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said that the observations which had been made seemed to him to have very great force, because personally he should be very sorry to accept the responsibility either of defining what a hill coolie was or of taking other executive action in a matter which should properly and rightly be defined by law. Therefore, he hoped that the remarks which had been made would receive the careful attention of the Select Committee before the Bill was brought up for final consideration.

The motion was agreed to and the Bill referred to a Select Committee.

AMENDMENT OF THE CALCUTTA PORT IMPROVEMENT ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS introduced the Bill to amend Bengal Act V of 1870, and moved that it be read in Council. He said that he had explained the object and purport of this Bill on the occasion when he applied for leave to introduce it, and as the Bill had since been prepared and circulated to Hon. Members, he found little or nothing to add to what he had then said. The second clause of section 39 of Act V of 1870 had been already amended by section 21 of Act IV of 1880. The present Bill, for the sake of clearness and convenience, proposed the repeal of that section, and reproduced the words with the amendments which it was intended to make in the clause. In reality the words proposed to be added to the Act were merely twelve in number, which were as follows—"and accommodation for the sampling and selling of such goods and merchandise." The rest of the words which were contained in the second section of the Bill were already in the existing law. This measure was a very short and simple one, and if the Council accepted the principle of it, he did not think he would detain them with any further remarks.

The motion was put and agreed to.

He also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon. Mr. Allen, the Hon. Mr. Caithness, and the Mover, with instructions to report in a fortnight.

The motion was put and agreed to.

PROPOSED ESTABLISHMENT OF A VETERINARY SCHOOL IN BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT--MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 22nd January 1883.

RESOLUTION.

REPORTS of severe outbreaks of cattle-disease have for many years past reached the Government from various parts of these provinces, and the question of preventing or mitigating these visitations has from time to time received much attention. The matter was brought into special prominence in 1868 and 1869, and a Commission was appointed by the Supreme Government to enquire generally into Indian cattle-plagues, and to report on the measures which might be adopted to check their ravages. The Commissioners in their report, submitted in 1871, suggested various precautions to prevent the spread of disease on the appearance of epidemics, but laid stress particularly on the need of a skilled agency for the treatment of cattle, and recommended the establishment of a school for the special object of imparting instruction in veterinary science, and training a class of natives for service among the people, whether as Government officers or as private practitioners.

2. The want of a staff of natives possessed of a fair knowledge of veterinary treatment has been repeatedly felt in Bengal in connection with outbreaks of cattle-disease. Efforts have been made in past years to convey instruction to the people in these matters; and the officials have, on the occurrence of epidemics, generally enjoined on owners of cattle and endeavoured to enforce, as far as practicable, the observance of such precautions as were likely to check the spread of contagion. These measures, however, though productive of some good, have been attended with no lasting success. Permanent improvement in the treatment of cattle can apparently be attained only through the agency of a body of native veterinarians, constantly working among the people, and ready in times of epidemic to undertake the introduction and supervision of both preventive and curative measures in the localities affected.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor is therefore of opinion that the question of opening a veterinary school in Calcutta should now be definitely taken up and settled by the Government, and he has decided to refer it, in the first instance, for enquiry and report to a Committee of gentlemen specially qualified to deal with the subject. The following gentlemen are appointed members of the Committee:—

PRESIDENT.

Surgeon-Major K. McLeod, M.D.

MEMBERS.

Inspecting Veterinary Surgeon J. H. B. Hallen, Indian Veterinary Department, General Superintendent of Horse breeding operations in India.

Dr. T. Greenhill, M.R.C.V.S.

4. The students to be provided for should be of the same class as those now trained in the vernacular medical schools, but Mr. Rivers Thompson would himself prefer the establishment of a separate institution instead of a branch attached to the Sealdah Medical School. The Committee should report on the cost of such an institution, the staff to be employed, and generally on the instruction to be given. The question of the best site for the school might also be considered by the Committee. It seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that, for practical observation and treatment, Ballygunge or some suburban site would be preferable to Calcutta itself.

5. The Committee will be good enough to assemble as soon as possible, and to submit their report for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor before the end of the present cold season.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SEPARATION OF BALI FROM HOWRAH, AND ITS FORMATION INTO A SEPARATE MUNICIPALITY.

No. 186, dated Calcutta, the 22nd January 1883.

From—COLMAN MACAULAY, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

WITH reference to the correspondence ending with your letter No. 470, dated the 6th ultimo, I am directed to forward herewith, for your information, copy of a notice published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 10th instant, declaring the Lieutenant-Governor's intention to separate the town of Bali from the Howrah Municipality and constitute it a second class Municipality, with effect from the 1st April next. I am to request you to be good enough to cause the notice to be published locally in the vernacular, and to report after a month whether any objections have been raised to the proposed formation of the Municipality.

2. I am also to request that you will nominate 12 gentlemen for appointment as Commissioners of the Municipality. In this matter you should endeavour, as far as possible, to consult the wishes of the people and to nominate persons of the class from which representatives would probably be chosen if the elective system were introduced into the Municipality. As the general question of qualification for the franchise and for candidature will have to be settled under the new law, the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it worth while to extend the elective system to the Municipality under the existing statute. It is his desire, however, to appoint, as far as may be possible, a representative Board of Commissioners, and it is also his intention to authorize the Commissioners to nominate their own Chairman.

3. I am to add that the Lieutenant-Governor will be prepared to relieve the town of the payment of police charges, provided the Commissioners agree to join hereafter with the Howrah Municipality in a scheme for water-supply, if called upon by the Lieutenant-Governor, and upon such terms as he may approve. Final orders on this point will be issued when the Government has been informed that the Commissioners have passed a resolution accepting this condition.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different District of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 20th January 1883.

No.	District, and date of return.		Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

C. W. ODLING,
Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

Dated 18th January 1883.

Report of fluctuation of traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the month of December 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of December 1882 aggregated maunds 3,49,889 as compared with maund 3,35,220 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 3,35,137 carried during the previous month, showing an increase of maunds 14,669 and maunds 14,752 respectively.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Coal ... ... Mds. 3,277

Large quantities of coal have been sent forward to the Mozufferpore extension during the month for Messrs. Burn & Co.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 25,931

This increase is mainly due to a demand having sprung up during the month for shipment to London.

Hides and Horns ... ... Mds. 4,216

The demand for "Durbhanga" still continues, and as prices have been in favour of despatchers, they have been taking advantage of the opportunity.

Indigo ... ... Mds. 1,546

As anticipated in last month's traffic report, the short despatches of previous months are now being made good.

Iron ... ... Mds. 2,035

This being the slack season in the indigo industries, all the petty repairs to factories are carried out at this time, and most of the iron carried is to meet the demand for this purpose.

Lime and kunker ... ... Mds. 4,127

This increase is from Belaspur and is due to contracts having been made for the supply of lime for the civil buildings at Durbhanga.

Railway materials ... ... Mds. 18,119

The increase under this head has been explained in last month's report.

Saltpetre ... ... Mds. 5,841

Although no very large quantity of this staple has changed hands at the port, the rates ruling have been favorable to despatchers hence the increased weight carried.

Tobacco ... ... Mds. 2,959

As explained in previous reports, the crop now on the ground is unusually good, and holders of old stocks are anxious to sell.

DECREASE.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 7,440

The heavy despatches of last month rather overstocked the local markets.

Salt ... ... Mds. 8,035

The stocks held by merchants in the district are sufficient to meet requirements, and the prices ruling in Calcutta are not such as to induce speculative purchases.

G. M. DRURY, Traffic Superintendent.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Patna-Gya State Railway for the month of December 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of December 1882 aggregated maunds 1,91,056 as compared with maunds 1,85,524 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 1,09,794 carried during the previous month, showing an increase of maunds 5,532 and maunds 81,262 respectively.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of special notice:—

INCREASE.

Salt ... ... Mds. 3,797

The increase under this head is due to short despatches last month.

Stones and stone-ballast ... ... Mds. 24,332

This is due to increased demand by Patna Municipality.

DECREASE.

Coal ... ... Mds. 5,015

The heavy despatches last month more than met requirements

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 9,981

The falling off in this traffic was explained in last month's report.

Jaggree ... ... Mds. 4,507

This staple is being withheld on account of the unfavourable prices ruling.

INCREASE.

	Mds.
Railway materials	1,796
This increase is due to railway materials carried for the extension.
Firewood	19,434
This increase is due to greater demands at the selling stations.
Wooloo	580
This increase is due to favourable market.
Rice	2,530
This increase is due to the rice from the mills at Canning and from Basrah Hat.
Sundries	1,420
This increase is due to the repairs of the rice mills at Canning and for Sonarpur-Diamond Harbour Extension.

DECREASE.

Building materials	2,445
This decrease is due to works for the extension coming to a close.
Coal	8,799
This decrease is due to coal being less required for the extension and the rice mills at Canning.
Hay	4,120
This decrease is due to unfavourable market.
Straw	1,261
This decrease is due to unfavourable market.
Paddy	211
This decrease is due to less demand.

Increase. Mds.

Cotton 742

The increase is due to a large quantity having been imported for ensuing cold season.

Grain 12 035

The increase is due to good crop in this part of the country.

Decrease.

Coal 6,751

This is due to Executive Engineer's bringing in larger quantity last year.

Sugar and Jaggree 882

The decrease is due to low rate and last year's stock not being exhausted.

Salt 1,264

This decrease is due to previous stock not yet exhausted.

Sundries 2,674

This is due to some abnormal traffic taking the rail last year for want of sufficient water in the river.

Seeds of all sorts 1,081

The decrease is due probably to seeds for Nuddea district passing vid Howrah and Bhudreshur in consequence of East Indian Railway reduced monsoon rate from Cawnpore.

(e) Cast or throw ballast or rubbish.
(f) Sink, strand, or abandon a vessel.
(g) Throw in or abandon any tree or trees, log of wood, spar, or any other thing which would be likely to form into a snag, or to cause an accumulation of silt, or in any way to alter the conformation of the bottom of the fairway.

2. The owner or master of a vessel desiring to cast or throw ballast or rubbish in a fairway leading to any of the said ports, may apply to the Port Officer for permission to do so, and he shall not, if the permission is granted, cast or throw the ballast or rubbish except at a place selected by the Port Officer for the purpose.

3. Any person desiring to place any apparatus for fishing stake, or spread any net, or to use any float, or to raise any embankment in a fairway leading to any of the said ports, may appply to the Port Officer for permission to do so. On receipt of such application, the Port Officer shall examine the site fixed upon by the applicant, and if satisfied that the placing of fishing apparatus, or the doing of any other act for permission to do which application has been made, will not cause or be likely to cause obstruction or danger to navigation, he shall report the matter to the Collector for orders, and the Collector, if similarly satisfied, shall grant permission. It shall be in the discretion of the Collector at any time to withdraw such permission, and to call upon the owner to remove the apparatus nets, floats or embankments within a reasonable time, and on failure on the part of the owner to do so, to remove them at the cost of the owner.

4. In the port of the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this notification on the Port Officer shall be exercised and performed by the Collector of Customs.
